Shooters of Bailiff In Belleville Jail; Victim Near Death

Abraham and Lemuel Robinson Placed Under Arrest Following Affray Near Eldorado—Officer St. Charles Hovers Between Life and Death.

BROTHERS HAVE REPUTATION AS BEING LAW TO THEMSELVES

Shot from ambush while attempting to seize cattle for taxes on the Robinson farm at Eldorado at noon yesterday, Charles St. Charles is today hovering between life and death. Lemuel Robinson and Abraham Robinson, brothers, were arrested last night by a posse under command of Inspector E. C. Gurnett of the Belleville Provincial Police post, and taken to Belleville.

St. Charles is bailiff and village constable of Madoc, sixty miles northeast of Peterborough, and was acting under a warrant issued by the Township of Madoc following non-payment of taxes on a section of land on which Robinson cattle have been pastured. He had made two previous visits to the farm, but a few days ago was ordered off the premises, and yesterday returned with the support of Constable Edward Hill and two boys, Lewis and Shorkey, to drive the cattle.

After the cattle had been rounded up without more than verbal protest from the Robinson brothers, Lemuel approached the constables with the proposal that they wait while he brought Rev. A. Reading, Anglican minister at Bannockburn, to negotiate with them. To this Constable St. Charles assented, stipulating that they would not wait more than an hour. Lemuel went away from the farm, and the officers stood guard over the cattle. As they stood there, a shot was fired from behind a hill, four hundred feet away, but the bullet did not come near them. Another bullet passed close to St. Charles' head, and when the hour was up the officers and boys started to drive off the cattle. It was when they were at the gate that the shot was fired which injured St. Charles, the bullet striking him in the back, below the shoulder blade, and passing through his chest, to emerge just below his heart, after severing a large artery, setting up an internal hemorrhage. Constable Hill, assisted by Lemuel, who returned almost immediately, conveyed the wounded man to the home of Dr. R. A. Thompson, a few miles away, and, in the doctor's absence, a call was sent to Dr. S. Eagleson, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, at Madoc, 12 miles away. Both doctors arrived on the scene almost together, and succeeded in halting the hemorrhage, but not until serious loss of blood had weakened the 73-year-old victim, who also suffered greatly from collapse. He was a stout man, but not rugged, and neither Dr. Thompson nor Dr. Eagleson held out any hope for his recovery.

Crown attorney B. C. Donan yesterday evening took an ante-mortem statement from St. Charles in which the constable told the stame story that Constable Hill had previously given the medical men. There was no battle both men agree the shots being fired from ambush without warning. St. Charles has known the Robinson family for 49 years, and outside of his official duties, has always been on good terms with them.

The Robinsons, reputedly wealthy, are known throughout the district as outlaws, recognizing no law but their own. Some years ago one of the brothers shot Constable McKinnon of Belleville, and both were lodged in Belleville jail. They escaped from there, and were not again taken from their farm. Three years ago, St. Charles went with George Pope, now hotel proprietor, to seize cattle under a similar warrant. On that occasion, Mr. Pope says, an altercation took place which he thought but for his intervention would have resulted in bodily harm to the constable.

Eliza Robinson, sister of the accused men and their housekeeper, refused to comment on the events of the day. The brothers were arrested while threshing in the yard of their farm.

Charles St. Charles, Jr., son of the wounded man, was not present at the time of the shooting, but was rushed to the side of his fast-sinking father yesterday afternoon with his sister, Mrs. Dan Barry. He had nothing to say last night about the affray.

Strange Reputation.

The Robinsons have the strange reputation of being opposed to all taxes, and have even refused to obtain a license for the car which they drive openly without Government sanction. The farm which they work at Lot 22, 1st Concession of Madoc Township, is particularly fertile, and they have the local repute of being very well-to-do. Both brothers are of fine physique, and the sister is also a large woman.

The two boys who were helping to round up the cattle were found safely at the Chambers' home. They disappeared in the excitement yesterday after helping move the wounded man to Dr. Thompson's, playing the part, Mr. Hill said, of heroes.

Constable St. Charles' temperature was this morning reported down, and the physicians are more hopeful of his recovery.

Once All-American Star Arrested On Check Charge

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16 (A.P.). — Allen Schellenberger, former All-American football star, Princeton University graduate and Missouri University student and assistant coach, was arrested here last night on a charge of issuing worthless cheques.

Police charge that the former athlete followed newspaper advertisements and proffered worthless cheques for goods, which he then sold or pawned.

Schellenberger attended the University of Missouri in 1907, then went to Princeton, where he made the All-American eleven in 1909 and 1910.

DEFENCE COSTS ARE DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Premier Bruce, of Australia, Suggests Greater Distribution of Expense.

NOT PASSED ON.

Premier King Thanks Officers of Forces For Information.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(By Cable from George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Premier Mackenzie King, in his statement at the plenary sitting of the Imperial Conference when the question of defence was up for consideration, it is understood, contented himself chiefly with expressing an appreciation of the material submitted to the conference by the British fighting services.

Before the conference opened Premier S. M. Bruce of Australia, announced his intention of raising the question of greater distribution of the cost of empire defence among the different Dominions. It is understood that this phase of the problem was mentioned at the plenary conference, but the matter was not passed upon. The question is regarded as very much in the air yet. There are reports of efforts being m ade to evolve a general sceme of empire defence instead of individual efforts in connection with defence by each Dominion.

PRELATE LIKELY TO RESIGN SOON

Archbishop of Canterbury Finds His Health and Strength Failing.

78 YEARS OLD.

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Referring to recent reports that the Most Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, was about to resign, the Daily Express to-day says an official announcement of his retirement is expected, at the latest, early in the new year.

The eminent prelate is still ill, the Daily Express adds, and it is understood that he himself feels that his strength is not sufficient for him to continue much longer his arduous duties. The Archbishop is 78 years old.

MAYOR F. J. M'ARTHUR, COBOURG, SUCCEEDS MAJOR J. F. B. BELFORD AS CONSERVATIVES' CANDIDATE

Belford's Resignation Received and Accepted at Second Nomination.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

McArthur Declares Himself Supporter of Ferguson Policy.

(Examiner Special Correspondence)

WARKWORTH, Nov. 16.—The standard of the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson in Northumberland was transferred from the yielding hands of Major James F. B. Belford to the receptive grasp of Mayor Fred J. McArthur, of Cobourg, at the Conservative convention here yesterday, the party's second convocation within a week. If there were present any prohibitionist Conservatives, like those who at the former meeting declared their primary allegiance to the Ontario Temperance Act in precedence to their political attachment, and announced that they could walk no farther with their leader in his liquor policy, they were content with silence.

Not one discordant note jangled the sweet harmony of the proceedings from the chairman's prelude to the last hurrah. Major Belford was conspicuously absent, the letter conveying his resignation was read and accepted, resolutions endorsing the Ferguson policy went through with a whoop of approval, and not so much as an echo of the opposition it encountered last Tuesday. Col. Fred. D. Boggs, who was again unsuccessful in his appeal for the convention honors, moved that the nomination of Mayor McArthur be unanimous. Dr. Wilson, of Hastings, seconded it, and then the final flare of cheers for Ferguson, McArthur and Sam Nesbitt, ex-M.P., the party's philosopher and guide.

Belford's Letter.

The Examiner's several despatches from Cobourg last week intimating the probability of Major Belford's resignation were verified by his letter to W. R. Wilmott, Secretary of the association, as follows:

Codrington,
Nov. 12, 1926.

In order that there may be no dissension in the Conservative party, which can be attributed to me, I beg to withdraw my name as the candidate of the party at the approaching Provincial election.

I wish to thank my friends for their loyal and hearty support, and to assure them that any services, such as they are, will be always at the disposal of the party and gladly used in its best interests.

Faithfully yours,
J. F. B. BELFORD.

Such was the passing of the man who, Sam Nesbitt said, has more natural ability as a political campaign speaker than any other between Toronto and Kingston. Since certain modifications of the Government's policy had been announced, Mr. Nesbitt continued, he understood that Major Belford had found himself more in accord with it and that he intended to speak in Prince Edward County against Hon. Mr. Raney.

"I regret extremely that Belford is resigning," said Mr. Nesbitt. "He has a God-given talent, which few men possess, in his ability on the platform, and I don't believe there is a man his equal between Toronto and Kingston in discussing public questions. If at any time I can do anything to assist Belford to a position he is fitted to fill I am prepared to do that. I'll be glad to sign any document that will place him in a better financial position next year than he is this year. I'm very sorry he didn't come out here as a supporter of Howard Ferguson."

Names Proposed.

George Drewry, of Brighton, was appointed chairman, and the following names were submitted for the party's nomination: Harry B. Phillips, Brighton; Mayor F. J. McArthur, Cobourg; Dr. Wilson, Hastings; Col. F. D. Boggs, Cobourg; Dr. J. J. Kerr, Cobourg; Reeve Harry McGuire, Cobourg; Sam

Women's Association Of Murray St. Baptist Church

Will Hold a Tea and Sale of Fancy Articles, Candy and Home-made Cooking, Friday Afternoon and Evening.

The Women's Association of Murray Street Baptist Church are having a Sale of Fancy Work, Candy and Home-made Cooking on Friday afternoon and evening, at the home of Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, 592 Weller Street.

The intention was to hold this tea and sale of fancy work to-day, Tuesday afternoon and evening, but it has been changed to Friday, the 19th, as above stated.

Inadvertently the advertisement appeared giving the date as Tuesday, and it is possible there may be some disappointment to those who will call at the home of Mrs. Breyfogle, and find that it has been postponed.

The correct date is Friday afternoon and evening, November 19th—a tea, sale of fancy work, candy and home-made cooking.

OLD MASTERS

NEVER love unless you can
Bear with all the faults of man!
Men sometimes will jealous be
Though but little cause they see,
And hand the head of discontent,
And speak what straight they will repent.

MEN, that but one Saint adore,
Make a show of love to more;
Beauty must be scorn'd in none,
Though but truly served in one:
For what is courtship but disguise?
True hearts may have dissembling eyes.

MEN, when their affairs require,
Must awhile themselves retire;
Sometimes hunt, and sometimes hawk,
And not ever sit and talk:
If these and such-like you can bear,
Then like, and love, and never fear!

Chicago Has More Killings Less Thefts and Liquor Cases

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 16.—(United News.) — Thirteen more murders and fifty-two more cases of manslaughter have occurred in Chicago during the first ten months of 1926 than in the corresponding period last year, according to a crime report made public Monday.

A total of 136 murders have been recorded against 123 in 1925 while manslaughter cases have increased from 112 to 164, the report states. Traffic violations, the same report shows, have jumped from 99,412 to 109,997, while robberies decreased from 2,330 to 2,191 and liquor violations from 6,119 to 5,250.

ACCEPTANCE OF PROPOSALS IS ALMOST CERTAIN

Probably be Wednesday Before Full Results of Voting Known.

SECRETARY ILL.

Settlement Still Holds Valuable Guarantees for the Miners.

LONDON, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Acceptance of the Government's peace proposals by the striking miners is almost certain, although it will probably be Wednesday before the full results of the district voting are known. Already the executive council of the South Wales Miners' Federation, controlling one of the biggest coal fields, has agreed to the terms.

Various other districts are busy deliberating and arranging to take votes. The South Wales miners, numbering about 250,000, have been looked upon as the "die hards," and now that they have given in, the likelihood is that other districts will follow suit immediately.

The settlement, although not so good as the miners might have obtained earlier in the stoppage, still holds valuable guarantees for them. It preserves the minimum wage and subsistence allowances, and if faithfully observed by the mine owners will in a larger number of cases make certain the wages paid last April, provided the men work seven and a half or eight hours.

The Government proposals are intended to maintain a sort of general standard of wages where the working hours number more than seven and also to insure that the miners shall benefit by prosperous conditions in the mining industry. It is reported that in the bill the Government is preparing for the setting up of a national tribunal for six months. There will be a clause providing that in the event of any mine owner refusing to accept the ruling of the tribunal on the wages agreement in any district he will not be permitted to operate eight hours a day.

Although the miners have reason to be disappointed over the outcome of their bitter struggle, lasting from May 1, there has been surprisingly little recrimination. Among the general public the tendency is not to blame the miners, but their leadership, and the word all around now seems to be "Make the best of a bad job."

The illness of A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, who has labored indefatigably in the interests of the miners, is no surprise. It was known that during the later stages of the fight he was struggling valiantly against strain and impaired health.

Prohibition Union Will Give Support To G. A. Gillespie

Reasons for Supporting O. T. A. Are Given by Many Speakers at Convention Held Last Night in the G. W. V. A. Hall.

MEMBERS OF TWO PARTIES ANNOUNCE ALLEGIANCE TO ACT

(By C.J.B.)

"The whole trouble is that the much abused O.T.A. is working too well."

"What is Howard Ferguson promising the people of Ontario? He certainly doesn't know, and nobody else does."

"Government control of liquor is liquor control of government."

"Government control has not proved a success in any other province, and gives no promise of being a success here."

"Instead of strengthening the O.T.A. he strengthened the beer."

"Do you want to build the highways of the province out of the blood money of the coming generation?"

These were some of the points stressed by various speakers at the convention of the Peterborough City Prohibition Union last night in the G.W.V.A. hall. Citizens claiming connection with both Liberal and Conservative parties were present and announced their accord with a resolution endorsing the candidature of and promising support to George A. Gillespie, the Liberal nominee, culminating with a unanimous standing vote. The resolution was moved by Dr. M. A. Morrison, a past president of the Peterborough Conservative Association and seconded by Mrs. Edwards, one of the leaders in women's temperance work. It was supported by many other speakers, and read as follows:

"Resolved — That this Convention, representing the Peterboro Prohibition Union and opponents of the Ferguson Liquor Policy, hereby endorse the candidature of Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie and assure him of our earnest and enthusiastic support.

"Mr. Gillespie's status as a citizen, his conduct in public office, his executive ability, his special interest in our young people as shown by ten years'

Chef Overcome In Fire Thought Smoke His Own

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16 Gavi Leonardo, 32, night chef of the Gallo Restaurant, 1705 Chestnut Street, was overcome by smoke from a fire which started in the basement of the restaurant shortly after 6 a.m. yesterday. Early morning traffic was halted for an hour as firemen from five engine companies and two truck companies battled the blaze.

Leonard was busy preparing food when he smelled smoke.

"I could smell it for some time," he said, "but I thought it was from the cooking."

Patrolman Lawless found Leonardo in the rear of the place in a state of collapse.

A dense pall of smoke that hung over the section brought a large crowd. It was this smoke that hampered firemen from finding the origin of the fire.

THE WEATHER.

There was another heavy downpour last night, and which continued most of the day. Up to the noon-hour an inch and a third (1.35) had fallen. While we hear much from politicians and temperance orators as to the merits of wetness and dryness, we feel sure that both sides have had more than sufficient rain during the last few weeks, and would welcome a return to "bone-dry" conditions for a change.—W.P.

Campaign Bulletin

NOV. 16 | PETERBOROUGH | No. 3

In Manitoba—"Conditions Are Disgraceful"

THEY have "Government control" of the liquor traffic in Manitoba. But there is no "control" about it. It is Government "sale," and that is an entirely different matter.

Describing conditions in Winnipeg to a staff representative of the Toronto Star, who visited Manitoba in order to get the facts, Major Allen, of the Salvation Army, who has charge of all the Army's Police Court work in Winnipeg, said:

"There is no control about it. Conditions are disgraceful. They were not nearly so bad in this neighbourhood when we had the open bar. There must be at least a thousand bootleggers in Winnipeg. They are all around us. See that place over there? I had it raided five or six times. And there's another, and that is another. And that, too."

YOUNG PEOPLE DRINKING

The Major said that persons of moderate views who had voted for Government control in the hope that it would curtail drinking by young people at social gatherings and the carrying of flasks on hips had been badly sold. Winnipeg and St. Boniface had a multitude of places where young girls were being taken and ruined—as many as thirty cars at a time had been seen lined up outside some of them.

When told that many conscientious voters in Ontario were wondering whether to give Government control a trial, Major Allen was shocked.

"Tell them," he said, "to hang on to what they have. They would be making the greatest mistake of their lives if they dropped the O.T.A.

BREWERIES AND DISTILLERIES INCREASING

There were never more than six breweries in Manitoba before the liquor control (?) act came into force; now there are eight. There was never a distillery in that province until the liquor control (?) act came into force; now there are two. Every brewery in the province has been convicted within the last month. They have paid fines totalling $15,000 during the current calendar year.

One bootlegger is know to have bought as much as $3,000 worth of liquor from the Liquor Commission in two days.

OFFICER KILLED; DRIVER IN CELLS

Second Officer Hurt in London Accident Not Expected To Live.

CAR COLLISION.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Lieut. Arthur K. Stanley, whose family lives in Montreal, is dead, Capt. Claude L. Wood of the Royal Canadian Regiment is suffering from probably fatal injuries, and William L. Patterson of Toronto is under arrest as a result of a motor accident here shortly after midnight. At the hospital this morning it was stated that the condition of Captain Wood is grave.

Both officers were riding in an automobile driven by Patterson when it was struck by a car driven by Paul De Markey, of London, at the intersection of Dundas and Waterloo Streets. De Markey was not held by the authorities.

IN POLICE COURT.

CCarged with keeping a disorderly house at 29 New Chamberlain street North Monaghan, a woman was this morning sentenced to six months in the Mercer Reformatory.

Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker, who made the arrest, told how he and County Constable Frank Pratt had kept the house under their observation for some time and of seeing men frequenting the place. He had had many complaints from neighbors and also from the Reeve of North Monaghan, he said.

In his evidence, County Constable Pratt corroborated the evidence of Provincial Constable Maker, adding that the most serious complaint he had was from the North Monaghan Council, who passed a resolution at a special meeting held recently, declaring that they wanted the place cleaned up.

In passing sentence His Worship declared: "From the evidence submitted to me there is only one conclusion I can come to and that is you have been guilty of the charge. You have given considerable trouble to the police on other occasions. In sentencing you to six months at the Mercer Reformatory I am hopeful that you will turn over a new leaf."

A young married woman, aged 22, mother of four children, the eldest five and the youngest a babe in arms, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, on a charge of neglecting her family.

When first arraigned the accused pleaded not guilty but later decided that she would change her plea to guilty.

Joseph Wearong, for the Children's Aid Society, told the court that the case had not been brought up with the idea of persecuting this woman, or any other woman, to force parents to look after their children to the best of their ability. He was not, he said, looking for punishment or penalty but simply want to ensure that the children would be properly looked after in future. The conditions in the home, he declared, had been described to him by Adjutant Amy Wood, the police matron, and were indescribably filthy.

No evidence was submitted by the accused.

His Worship told the accused that she had a legal responsibility and duty, not only to feed her children, but to keep them in a clean and sanitary condition. "That is the law and it is the duty of every parent," he declared. "As Mr. Wearing has said, His Worship continued, "the Children's Aid Society have no desire to persecute women, but as long as I am administering the law I will see that punishment will be inflicted.

"You have been married too young, but still you must assume the responsibility of looking after your children. With this warning I will permit you to go until called on for sentence," he said in conclusion.

To awaken interest in better electric lighting of homes in Great Britain the British Elecrical Development Association is conducting a popular contest. The citizen who arranges the best lighting system on paper is to receive either a fully-equipped electric home or 2,000 pounds sterling. A similar contest was operated in the United tSates by The Society for Electrical Development two years ago and an electric home was built for the winner, a Portland, Ore., girl.

INSTITUTE PLANS TO PUT UP BELL

Bethany Fire Warning Has Not Functioned Since 1911.

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, Nov. 16.—The November meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Jemison. Eleven ladies were present with, with Mrs. Jemison presiding.

Several committees reported satisfactorily on the tasks they were appointed to do at the last meeting.

Mrs. E. Reynolds and Miss Addie Preston were a committee appointed to see about re-erecting the fire bell which has never been re-erected since the pole on which it swung was burned fifteen years ago when a good part of the south of Front street was burned down, in the fire of November 3, 1911.

It was also decided that owing to the busy Christmas season the December meeting would be withdrawn and that for the next three months following the meeting would be held in the homes of the members and that a light lunch be served for the charge of 10 cents. The January meeting to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Jemison with Mrs. Arthur Black and Mrs. E. Reynolds assisting with the lunch. After several other items of business were attended to the meeting closed.

The Ladies of St. Pauls Church are planning to hold their annual Christmas bazaar on Saturday, November 20. On previous occasions this has been one of the events looked forward to by people of the community.

Messrs. K. D. Sisson and Elmer Rowan arrived home on Thursday evening from their duties on the jury at Cobourg.

Messrs. Bruce Ryley, Tom Staples, and Orrie Magill arrived home on Friday evening from a successful hunting trip, each bringing a deer.

The many friends of Mrs. H. H. Ryley will be pleased to learn that she has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be able to be out of the house again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rowan and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Murphy motored to Toronto on Friday afternoon to attend the Royal Winter Fair.

PROHIBITION UNION WILL GIVE SUPPORT TO G. A. GILLESPIE

presidency of the Y.M.C.A., his support of everything for the benefit and advancement of the community, stamp him as a man upon whom the citizens can depend for honest, intelligent service as their representative in the Provincial Legislature.

"Mr. Gillespie's previous record in the Legislature fulfilled in every respect the desires of the prohibitionists of this riding, and in again endorsing his candidature we call upon all who regard the sanctity of the home, the protection of the child, and the welfare of the state, to vote and work for his election as our representative for this constituency."

Thomas Barrie acted as chairman of the meeting. With him on the platform were Mrs. Edwards, and the Rev. R. T. Richards. Mr. Richards, who is one of the organizers for the Ontario Prohibition Union was the principal speaker of the evening. Rev. J. D. Richardson led in prayer after a hymn had been sung, and fifteen speakers took part in the discussion after Mr. Richards had delivered his address.

The hall was filled with men and women from the city and from North Monaghan and Smith, and frequent applause punctuated the speeches. Deep interest was shown and strict attention paid right up to the last, although the meeting, which opened sharp at eight, lasted until after 10.30.

Frequently heard among the speeches was the asesrtion that the action of Premier Ferguson in going to the country on a policy of government control was not endorsed by a large portion of the Conservative party, several of the speakers announcing their split with that party due to support of the O.T.A. The enforceability of the O.T.A. especially if prohibitionists would give the officers whole hearted support, was another main argument presented.

Mr. Barrie

In his opening remarks the chairman stated that they were there last night to organize. This was due, he said, to the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, who was the man who had made the 1924 plebiscite fight necessary, bringing it before the country largely because he was influenced by some men who perhaps wanted their liquor easily. At that time he had promised that whatever the decision was he would enforce the law, giving the people what they wanted. They had voted against Government Control, but instead of strengthening the O.T.A. Mr. Ferguson had strengthened the beer, a course directly opposite to what the people had a right to expect. He had brought out a bill after much cogitation ,and "Lo and behold in less than three days he had changed it." Mr. Barrie said that Mr. Ferguson reminded him of the old saying, "Off again, on again, away again, Flanagan."

The chairman said that the Hon. W. F. Nickle had sized up the situation pretty well when he said that it was brought about by an aggressive group of those who were in the trade or who wante' to drink. There had been no convention. Mr. Ferguson had used the Conservative party as a means to an end.

Mr. Barrie urged his hearers to return a man that could be depended upon to carry out the policy. It was not, he said a political matter, as many strong Conservative were voting with the Prohibition Union for G. A. Gillespie. Mr. Gillespie had signed the pledge sent him by the union and there was nothing to question about his candidacy. He hadn't signed it to win votes but because he believed in it.

Rev. R. T. Richards.

The Rev. R. T. Richards said it was like carrying coals to Newcastle to talk of the benefits of the O.T.A. to such an audience. The people of Ontario, he said, were facing one of the most serious questions, morally, socially, and economically, that they had had to decide in some years. He recalled the history of temperance legislation from the early struggles for local option, up to the enactment, hastened by the war, of the O. T. A.

No man or woman, he said, would deny that good had come from the act, citing the now legendary village drunkard as one thing which had been eliminated. He recalled the old days when many would be drunk at every ball game or other place where people gathered for a good time, and spoke of the fact that since 1916 the largest number arrested during the course of the Toronto Exhibition for drunkenness has never exceeded 15, reaching a low mrak in 1922 with one arrest.

The incessant agitation for the repeal of the O. T. A. came from three classes of people, said the speaker. There were the people who wanted easier access to liquor. There was the smaller but more powerful group of brewery and distillery owners, who reap enormous profits from a small investment which provided little employment. There are the people who pride themselves on personal liberty, claiming the right to do as they please in a free country. These, said the speaker, don't realize just what they meant by personal liberty, as true liberty was always linked with law. One candidate in Toronto had said he was going to try to knock the square corners off the O.T.A. by trying to get some amendments.

Due to the premier yielding to the pressure from these people, said Mr. Richards, the people of Ontario were entering on a very complicated election campaign. In 1924 the matter had been plain, two questions being submitted without any party prejudices or other influences. Now the matter has been injected into the politics of the country, and it was cutting across party lines as nothing has done before.

Speaking of the promise that there would be no liquor stores in municipalities which had voted dry under the local option laws, the speaker said that even forty or more miles would be of little account in these days of motor cars.

Not An Easy Fight.

If any persons have been lulled to sleep thinking that the fight will be an easy one, continued Mr. Richards, there will be a rude awakening. The forces opposing the O. T.A. would leave no stone unturned to secure victory, especially as the political life of one portion of a great party was at stake. The people must realize that they faced a difficult problem and call out their resources of men and money to carry the fight to a successful conclusion. The majority against government control had decreased between 1919 and 1924, showing the difficulty of the task, and the prohibitionists who didn't realize his responsibility would be the person through whom the fight would be lost.

Four reasons had been given for scrapping the O.T.A. The first of these was difficulty of enforcement. The premier had pointed out the reduction of the majority as evidence of the decline of popular opinion behind it. A man would be a fool, said the speaker, to say that the act was not being violated, but the motor vehicles act might as well be scrapped on the same grounds. He questioned if the prohibitionists had done their fair duty by helping the men appointed to enforce the law. He quoted Sir William Hearst, "You wanted the act. The temperance people of the province have apparently gone asleep and are in danger of losing all they have gained."

The prevalence of bootlegging was given as another reason for discontinuing the act. The speaker said that there was no assurance that there would be no bootlegging under government control, but that it would appear from figures and information from other provinces that bootlegging had increased.

Young People Clean.

The speaker said that he thought the young people of to-day were as clean-living as any generation which had preceded them, although the prevalence of flasks and drinking among the young is given as a reason for repealing the O.T.A. If they drink it is because their elders do it. Nobody was saying that the young people were growing wings, because they didn't want them to, but they were manly and virile.

The revenue to be received by the province was the fourth reason advanced for the repeal of the O.T.A., said the speaker, who said that $47,000,000 had been spent in liquor in Quebec to raise $4,000,000 for the province. He asked if the people wished to build their highways and lower their motor taxes out of the blood money of the younger generation. If liquor were easy to get people would spend money on it and a portion of that would go to the highways. The wealthiest province of Canada, he asserted, could afford to build highways without that.

In conclusion the speaker appealed to his hearers to give the matter most serious consideration, stating that he was sure that if they did so the verdict on Dec. 1 would be in favor of retaining the O.T.A.

A. B. Cunningham.

A call for all those present to take an active interest in the fight was sounded by A. B. Cunningham. He urged them to find out how their neighbors would vote, so that the Union might convey to the polls only the right people. He said that there was a splendid organization of men, and another of ladies, and said that the Union was fortunate in that it had a cause worthy of its candidate and a candidate worthy of the cause.

He said that he had been told by a prominent Peterborough man that a certain Toronto hotel man had said that the Ferguson policy as first enunciated had not had the beer clause in it. The hotel men had forced Mr. Ferguson to include sale by the glass, and then, when they saw this was likely to cause the defeat of the Government, had ordered him to take it out. The highest office in the province, said Mr. Cunningham, had thus been degraded into an agency for the liquor interests, a proceeding which the province would not stand for.

Mr. Cunningham said that in the last year of licensed sale of liquor there had been over a hundred committed to Peterborough jail as drunk and disorderly, while the total for the ten years since did not reach that figure.

"No doubt there will be a great many names put on of people not entitled to vote," continued the speaker, 'or of people who don't exist." He urged the prohibitionists to see that all doubtful voters were challenged by the scrutineers.

Dr. M. A. Morrison.

Speaking to his resolution, Dr. M. A. Morrison, who was introduced as a former president of the Peterboro Conservative Association, said he would give a few reasons why he was supporting Mr. Gillespie.

He said he found that he was not in sympathy with the policy enunciated by the Premier, as it represented principles and convictions opposite to his. He had held strong convictions on temperance all his life, and was not going to sacrifice them now. Another reason for supporting Mr. Gillespie was his belief in Democratic government.

Sir William Hearst had promised when the O.T.A. was put on the statute books, that the people should have an opportunity after the war of saying whether or not they wanted it retained. In 1919 a referendum was taken giving a vote of over 400,000 against government control. The Drury government, being a minority government, had had hard work enforcing the act. At a convention of the Conservative party held shortly after the victory in the 1923 election, continued Dr. Morrison, an attempt was made to get a wet plank into the party platform. This was defeated and a resolution passed deploring lawlessness, urging the enforcement of the law in accord with public opinion.

The speaker said that he would not be like the opposition, making bald statements without proof. He needn't tell his audience of the improvement in conditions in the past ten years. Any open sale, he asserted would bring back the same conditions. He quoted from the reports of social workers in Toronto, who said that the poverty caused by intemperance had been practically wiped out since the O.T.A. had come in force, only 63 families out of 2380 dealt with having drink as a contributory cause to their poverty. One of these workers was quoted as saying that she was a Conservative, a member of the party which put the O.T.A. on the statute books, and that she would support it in this election as no later stand had been taken by the party. She saw no better system offered.

The speaker said that there had been pressure soon after the Ferguson government took office and the plebiscite of 1924, had been held much against the wishes of the temperance people. They had fought and won by a majority of 34,000, and if the lists hadn't been padded the majority would have been sixty or a hundred thousand. At a convention of the party soon after Mr. Ferguson had himself opposed a wet plank for the platform of the party. Then in 1925, although he had a mandate only to strengthen the act, he had obeyed the wishes of a group of 22 members and introduced 4.4 beer. This, said the speaker, amid laughter, satisfied nobody. The fellows that drank it didn't like it, and those who didn't drink, didn't like it.

The policy now announced, said the speaker, is that of the Ferguson party, not of the Conservative party, and he said he was in good company with men like Mr. Nickle and Sir George Foster, who were opposing government control.

Mrs. Edwards.

In seconding Dr. Morrison's motion, Mrs. Edwards said that the women of Ontario were behind the men heart and soul in the effort to uphold the act. She said that the women were the ones who suffered the most from liquor, and that they felt that they had the right to speak with a strong voice for their own sake and for the sake of the children in their homes.

She said that there had been much said about the demoralization of the boys and girls, and referred to the recent Ottawa investigation into charges of drinking at Collegiate dances which had been disproved.

The boys and girls of the rest of Ontario, she submitted, were as clean living as those of Ottawa. Living in Ottawa for several years she had seen the stream of people going over to Hull for liquor and had seen the after effects, the danger to boys and girls and the ruined lives of the men.

Agitations for stricter laws against liquor in England and Belgium were also referred to by Mrs. Edwards, who expressed the hope that Ontario would stand by her guns and show the world that she was standing by the Ontario Temperance Act. The O.T.A. had brought better education for children, had saved many homes, had resulted in men working better, and in their providing better for their families.

W. H. Merrill.

That he was a Conservative yet, standing by the highest ideals of the Conservative party, was the statement of W. H. Merrill, who said that he stood for the Democracy of the party and was out to work against the autocracy of Howard Ferguson. He referred in complimentary terms to Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Sinclair. Mr. Merrill said it was not a matter of O.T.A. or government control, but of democracy. A majority should rule—even though it was a majority of one—and if there had been the smallest majority at the 1924 plebiscite in favor of government control he would have favored such a course. He said he was opposed to the autocracy of a leader who was seeking to impose his will on the party.

It had been a hard bridge to cross but on the other side he had found the going good and it would be a pleasure to mark his ballot against Howard Ferguson and his candidate. He urged the Liberals to keep their Liberalism ahead and promised the support of so many dry Conservatives that no party would try to impose a policy without a convention; if the Liberal party of Peterboro would stand together 40 per cent. of the true Conservatives of the constituency would line up behind them.

J. J. Hartley.

J. J. Hartley, to whom Mr. Merrill's closing remarks had been more particularly addressed, said that he was there as a temperance man — which he had always been—and that he would resign as president of the local Liberal party if a policy like Ferguson's had been introduced by the Liberals. He said that only a few days ago he had been arguing with a strong Liberal, who remarked on what fools people were to support the O.T.A., and said that he had replied that there were still a great many people "foolish" enough to support the act.

It had been a hard act to enforce, continued Mr. Hartley, but conditions had been greatly different since it had come into effect. Much was being said about the bad points of it, but little about its good points. Peterboro has been made a different city. He recounted the story of a woman who had anniunced her intention of voting for the O.T.A.

"Why," said her companion, "you make home brew." "Yes," she answered, "but before prohibition my husband used to be out every night. Now he stays at home with me and has his glass of beer."

This keeping of men at home, saving their money, said the speaker, was one of the good features of the act. He expressed confidence that there were enough good people in the city and the province to vote against ever bringing the liquor back.

Mr. Adams.

Another Conservative announced himself as about to vote for the Liberal candidate, in the person of Mr. Adams. He urged the people present to adopt as their slogan, "Principle before party." He expressed the belief that the O.T.A. was the most important issue of the election, as it covered and concerned everything. He expressed pleasure at being able to vote for such a candidate as Mr. Gillespie.

R. C. Braund.

R. C. Braund said that he had come to the meeting, as a Conservative and as a member of the Salvation Army, to tell how much he felt against the way Mr. Ferguson had brought in the government control measure. He said that he would support Mr. Gillespie, a man whose policy was known.

Referring to conditions before the passing of the O. T. A., Mr. Braund called to mind the numbers of drunken men who had been accustomed to attend the services of the Salvation Army of a Saturday evening, and of the fact that there were none now. As a business man he had noticed the difference in the way people paid their bills, even as little as two months after the passing of the act, and said that many who had formerly been unable to pay now owned their own homes.

Rev. Dr. Rose.

"I am here to stand back of the motion, the candidate, and the O. T.A.," said the Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D. He gave as reasons for his stand, first that those connected with the liquor trade were not standing there, second, that government control had not proved a success in any other province and gave no promise of being a success in Ontario, third, that he had no confidence in Premier Ferguson as desiring to limit the consumption of liquor in Ontario, and fourth, because of the splendid results obtained through the O.T.A.

Rev. W. S. Edgar.

Comparison between conditions in Scotlan, under the licensed sale of liquor, and in Ontario, under the O.T.A., was made by the Rev. W. S. Edgar. He said he had been in Canada four years and had yet to see an intoxicated person. The O.T.A., he granted, was not perfect, but was the best offered at present, and capable of improvement. He urged his hearers to insist on more rigid law enforcement, suggesting that some laxity was caused because men at the head of affairs, judges, magistrates and policemen, were not all sympathetic to the act, some being fond of a drop themselves. Until such men could be made to act or to resign, he said, there was no hope of enforcing the act.

Mr. Edgar said that government control of liquor was really liquor control of government. He told the story of the boy who was frightened by the skeleton in the office of the village doctor. Next day, when the boy was passing, the doctor, who was very tall and thin, called the lad, who started to run, crying, "I ken ye, even if ye have yer class on.' Mr. Edgar said that prohibitionists knew government control as simply another effort to bring back the booze, even if it had its clothes on.

Rev. David Wren.

Stting that he had been a sworn enemy, and a member of a church which was a sworn enemy of the liquor traffic, for twenty five years, the Rev. David Wren said he was heart and soul behind the O. T. A. and the candidate who stood for the maintenance of the act.

Rev. William MacDonald.

After recounting some of the conditions existing in the northern part of the province, where he said there were many foreigners, with different standards of morals and livings from those of Canadains, the Rev. William MacDonald expressed his pleasure at the differences between the prohibition gathering of last night and the tiny assemblies of the north country. He asked if the people of Ontario were going to buy off such men as the man who shot Inspector Constable by providing them with whiskey, saying that the murder was a sign of a movement to get control of the government of the province.

Rev. J. W. Gordon.

"The whole trouble is that the much abused O. T. A. works too well," said the Rev. J. W. Gordon. That, he said, was the only reason the liquor interests were working so hard against it. Mr. Ferguson's supporters didn't want a wet and dry fight and were saying that the record of the government was the main thing to consider, rather than the O.T.A., but the candidates in Peterborough had made their stand known. He asked what Mr. Ferguson was promising the people of the province, saying that nobody knew, not even Mr. Ferguson. Those who voted wet would have nothing to guide them while those who voted dry would have something definite, the O. T. A., and would know what they were voting for.

R. J. Kidd.

R. J. Kidd said that he would be neglecting his duty if he didn't give testimony. He said that if the money was spent on liquor there would be less for the merchant, and less to buy necessities for the family. He urged every person to study the matter carefully.

Mrs. Rowe.

Mrs. Rowe, vice-president of the prohibition union, said that the ladies would support the O.T.A.

Rev. J. E. Todd.

The Rev. J. E. Todd said that he was proud of the United church, although there was a black sheep at Brantford, running as a Conservative candidate. He said that he believed in the O.T.A. for what it has and would accomplish. It had not been given a fighting chance, as there had always been insinuations that it was not workable, which affected the opinions of many people, while it had had ten years to undo the habits of generations. He was proud to live in Peterborough, the only city which had given a majority for the O.T.A. in the 1924 plebiscite.

Miss Alma Blanchard sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Frances McFadden, who also provided music for a hymn and for the National Anthem.

MAYOR F. J. MCARTHUR

Nesbitt and Reeve Chas. Davidson, of Campbellford.

Only Col. Boggs and Mayor McArthur, both of them teetotallers, consented to their names going before the convention. The delegates who a week ago were regarded as Belford men seemed to swing to McArthur, who was announced the party's choice.

Mr. McArthur said in part: "I am a straight Conservative. I have the highest esteem for our leader, the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, and I endorsed his proposed Government control policy. We have been under the O. T. A. for ten years and I cannot commend it. I regard Mr. Ferguson's policy as an improved temperance measure, otherwise I would be against it."

Boggs Toiled Alone.

Said Col. Boggs: "If Major Belford had said he would stand behind the Ferguson policy of Government control, I would not have allowed my name go before the convention. I respect Major Belford. He has been my friend as long as I have known him, but apart from friendship I believed we should have a man who would stand behind the policy of Howard Ferguson. I wish to point out that I carried on the fight in West Northumberland when no others would consider it. I fought Sam Clarke three times, and I may say we always ended just as good friends as when we started. I fought him when no other man would tackle the job. The last time I gave him the hardest fight he ever had. I think it is only fair that this convention should give me a chance now when there is a fighting chance to win. I think it is coming to me and I ask it of you as a favor."

Dr. Wilson, of Hastings, in withdrawing his name asserted his support of Hon. Mr. Ferguson. Prohibitionist attacks were only a smoke screen trying to hide the fine record of the Ferguson Government. One of its best achievements was the wiping out of the Provincial deficit of $15,000,000 left by the Drury administration.

Harry Phillips, in withdrawing, said he stood four-square behind the "Conservative Government in Queen's Park."

All For Ferguson.

"I'm not seeking the nomination now or in future," said Sam. Nesbitt. "That's that, but I am supporting the Conservative party, and I don't care who the man is. The very fact that he gets a nomination from the Conservative party is prima facie evidence that he must be an able man, or he wouldn't be there. I have been asked whether I would support him if he was wrong. Sure I would, because although he might be wrong once in a hundred times he'd be right the other ninety-nine, and because of the ninety-nine I'd support him."

Mr. Nesbitt referred to some of the accomplishments of the Ferguson Government, including the travelling schools for children along the north shore of Lake Superior.

He proclaimed his attitude toward the O.T.A. by saying, "I want to be left alone to what I like as long as I am not interfering with anybody's rights. No legislation can make a woman stop bobbing her hair, or make men wear high hats, or say what he shall eat or drink. That is what you call sumptuary legislation and you simply can't enforce it.

"I believe the strongest supporters of the temperance cause in Ontario were Mowat, Ross, Whitney and Ferguson, and one of its worst friends was Sir William Hearst. Mowat and Ross knew what they could not do and they had sense enough not to try it. Laurier was a friend of temperance. He knew he couldn't enforce the liquor law that was voted on, and which was defeated in Quebec, and he didn't put it on the statute books. One of the men who was strongest for the O.T.A. was George Gooderham, the distiller. I know that as a fact. The O.T.A. was brought down as a war measure. Everybody threw up their hands for it. With the end of the war it was supposed to be withdrawn, but a clause was slipped in so that it could be revoked only by a plebiscite."

Mr. Nesbitt lauded Sir James Whitney's advancement of true temperance legislation. In the last plebiscite the vote was 585,000 to 550,000. "In other words, as it were, 58 people were assuming to tell 55 what they should do. You put a barrel of whiskey out on the road and put your 58 people around it and what will the 55 do? They won't be long getting to it. Whitney thought 60 to 40—the two-thirds vote—was necessary. Lucas, Raney and Nickle couldn't enforce the O.T.A., and you can't enforce any sumptuary Act that tries to tell you what you should wear, or drink, or eat."

Mr. Nesbitt said Ferguson was going to be returned, anyway, and Northumberland should have a representative on the Government side of the House. In another reference he said: "Boggs and McArthur are teetotallers. That's their business. I have no quarrel with them, but if I want to take a drink that's my business."

Reeve Davidson said he thought the west part of the riding should have the honor of providing the candidate. He said briefly that he was brought up in a hotel, but never took a drink in his life. He considered himself a practical temperance man, and was staunch'y behind the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

Resolutions Adopted.

The following resolutions were adopted unanimously:

Moved by Rev. T. W. Goodwill, Cobourg, seconded by Miss M. Mulholland, Grafton:

That this convention place itself on record as condemning the personal abuse of the Hon. Howard Ferguson through the press and on public platforms, and believe the Hon. Mr. Ferguson is entitled to and should receive the co-operation of all the members of all churches, temperance and social societies in his attempt to solve the problem of the use and control of intoxicating liquors.

Sir James Whitney proved himself the best friend of the temperance cause in Ontario, and notwithstanding needless opposition, Sir James Whitney lived to receive resolutions of approval from social, religious and temperance organizations, and we hope and trust that the present policy of the Hon. Howard Ferguson will also prove to be true temperance and that Mr. Ferguson will in the future be called as true a friend and exponent of temperance principles as Sir James Whitney of Canada, Father Mathews of Ireland and John B. Gough of the United States.

Moved by F. M. Field, K.C., Cobourg, seconded by H. B. Phillips, Brighton:

That this convention has the greatest confidence in the Hon. Howard Ferguson and his Cabinet, and believe their proposed temperance legislation of Government control of intoxicating liquors is in the best interests of the province, and that the Ontario system will eventually be adopted by all provinces under Government control.

HAS SEVEN CALVES.

LONDON, O., Nov. 16.—A cow that has produced seven calves is believed to hold a record. The animal is the property of Ottie Ervin, a farmer of near London. The cow had twins three times.

IN BEARD-GROWING CONTEST

ABOVE are shown five contestants in a unique competition now under way in the Northern Ontario town of Timmins. The contest, which is to decide the best growth of whiskers ends on December 17th. PETERBORO COUNTY WINS.

It is difficult to keep Peterboro County folks down.

They are always bobbing up somewhere when honours are to be won and distinction is to be gained.

The latest illustration of this is furnished by William Thompson, of Indian River, whose exhibit of honey has been awarded first prize in the Colonial Exhibit at the recent Exhibition at the Crystal Palace, London, England, in competition with honey from various parts of the Empire.

Mr. Thompson's exhibit was first judged at the Ontario Agricultural College where Ontario honey was inspected with a view to selecting specimens considered worthy of representing this Province in England.

The good work of the Ontario judges in choosing Mr. Thompson's honey has been shown by the fact that the Crystal Palace judges awarded the exhibit first prize.

To win such a competition is an achievement of which Mr. Thompson may well be proud, and upon which he deserves the congratulations of the whole district.

His triumph is a Peterboro County triumph as well as an individual one.

AT ANY MOMENT.

The death of a father and three children in a level-crossing accident in Renfrew County on Sunday is another tragic warning to motorists.

The crossing where this latest fatality took place is described as a dangerous one as buildings prevent a clear view of the tracks.

There are many such crossings in the country; undoubtedly they should be protected when conditions are as dangerous as they are said to be in this particular case.

But while they are in their present condition every driver should supply his own protection by making sure no train is approaching before he drives across the rails.

There is too much left to chance—too great a tendency on the part of motorists to trust to luck that a train will not happen to reach the crossing at the same time as their car.

If every person who drives an automobile would accept as a simple fact the truth that a train may come along any track at any minute and approach every level crossing with that fact firmly fixed in his mind, there would be an end to these shocking newspaper stories of whole families wiped out at grade crossings.

A moment's delay at such points is cheap insurance when death may come roaring down the rails at any moment.

THE MUNICIPAL FIELD.

With the Provincial campaign occupying the attention of the voters, there is as yet no sign of interest in municipal politics and no evidence that other aspirants for municipal honours are going to follow the example of Messrs. Fred. Hills and B. L. Barns in announcing their candidature at this stage of the game as seeking election to the Utilities Commission.

No sign of opposition to the return of Mayor Holloway for a second term as chief magistrate has as yet developed.

The usual custom in Peterboro has been to allow a second year in the Mayor's chair without a contest, and while this, of course, can be departed from, and has been on several occasions, there has been nothing from any quarter so far to indicate that Mayor Holloway would be opposed should he be willing to stand for office again.

There is usually little activity in the field of municipal politics until the last week or ten days, and with a Provincial campaign to engage the interest of the people, it is not expected that this year's civic campaign will differ greatly from those of other years.

It might be better perhaps if it did.

An earlier announcement from candidates and a little longer time to discuss municipal issues might lead to good results.

ANGEL CAKE AND PIE ARE U.S. EARMARKS.

American orators are fond of dilating on the unity of the people of the United States, their great achievement in welding into one entity people of many races and origins, the development of a nation of common aims and aspirations. And it has been a matter of common opinion among visitors that in the United States the characteristics of individuality found in Europe and elsewhere are strikingly absent and that views and ideas find little variation, says The St. Catharines Standard.

Both may find fresh opportunity for expression in the conclusion reached from replies to questionnaires sent out by the American Gas Association to determine the most popular national dishes. These showed pie and angel cake to hold the two premier places. The former might have been generally expected to be a close contender for first honors, but the latter was rather a "dark horse." Perhaps it is an indication of the spread of luxury in the United States. One would hardly expect it to be a chief source of epicurean joy in a new and virile people eagerly occupied in business. Baked beans and corn, the food of hungry people, were once assumed to be the favorites, but they have been outdistanced.

It is not so much in the choice of the most popular foods that the results of the questionnaire are most interesting, however. A summary of the replies showed a seeming lack of dishes with great sectional and state popularity which is regarded as significant in indicating the nationalization of the American food taste. That is the important point. Just as the United States has become a great political entity so now its people are acquiring common tastes in food which will make them more an entity than ever before. How this will affect them nationally is difficult to foresee. Whether it will increase their patriotism—for which food is frequently a rallying point abroad today, especially in the matter of pie—or tend to greater equality of opportunity at home is not clear.

GOD BLESS OUR ENEMIES.

It is not very often that we hear from the policemen his views on the attitude assumed by people in regard to the conduct of affairs in the city, but the Canadian Police Bulletin has just published a racy account of some of the insistent demands of people. It says:

"Quiet people, who might be happy if they lived in a cemetery, want their neighbors summoned to court for keeping children who think they own the street and can torment citizens with their hoydenish shrieks. Folks who delight in pure air, complain that men who keep automobiles sought to be fined for polluting the atmosphere with gasoline. Men who work at night and sleep till noon demand that early-rising roosters, or their owners, should have their heads chopped off. People who regard dancing as an invention of the devil, ask if they can't summon neighbors to court for 'chasing the glowing hours with flying feet.' Citizens with sensitive noses, would like the manager of a nearby soap factory thrust into the city's deepest dungeon for exuding anything less aromatic than lavender. Disciples of Voltaire ask for the suppression of church bells and people who hate dogs would have the man next door, who owns the pup, fined a sum which would keep his family poor unto the third and fourth generation.

"Let him who thinks that the outside world is in love and charity with him, have a care. He may walk through life as circumspectly as a saint, and commit no greater sins than that of smoking a pipe on the verandah, yet at that moment of quiet contentment a neighbor may be planning to steal softly into a police office to see if the rigors of the law can't make him change the brand of his tobacco.

"It is disappointing to know that we are hemmed in by enemies; that the very man we chat with so freely on the road to work may be conspiring with others to invade the sanctity of our home and to strike a cruel blow at the foundations of the dwelling, and to lay waste our habitation, simply because our rooster gets up too early."

COAL.

Coal figures from Ottawa tell an interesting story. More than 9,000,000 tons were produced in Canada during the first eight months of this year. Of this amount 4,000,000 came from the Maritimes and the rest from the West. Production for the 12 months ending August 31, this year, exceeded the total of the preceding year by more than 3,000,000 tons. In this time, nevertheless, Canadian coal imports were more than 100,000 tons heavier this year than last.

One thing is very apparent and that is that Canada is using more coal. Not only has her own production gone up, but her imports have materially increased, despite last winter's shortage of anthracite. The miners' strike on the other side of the line demonstrated to thousands of householders that they could secure quite as much satisfaction from burning certain kinds of soft coal and coke as from the hard variety and the result is that many persons will keep on using the substitutes they were forced to adopt when the anthracite shortage became acute some months ago.

In this situation, it would appear, lies a really wonderful opportunity for development of the Canadian coal trade. Ontario people who have lived in the West express their complete satisfaction with Alberta coal. "It is just as satisfactory as anthracite," one man told The Border Cities Star, "and if I could get it I would not think of buying anything else. I used it for years in the West and it gave me perfect service. It burns up almost completely, furnishes plenty of heat and can be used with a minimum of trouble from the standpoint of the person who attends the furnace."

Of the greatest importance, too, is the fact that for many years Canada has been sending, annually, millions of dollars to the United States for coal. This money has been a dead loss to the Dominion except for the heat and power it purchased. It went to pay wages to American miners, to enrich American owners, to pay taxes and to buy goods from American merchants and manufacturers. Outside of a certain amount of rail haulage, Canada got nothing out of the deal at all except the coal. If arrangements could be made to keep these vast yearly sums at home the result would be a tremendous gain for our country. Canadian miners, mine owners, railways, railway employees and so on would get the money. It would be spent in this country, first by the coal users and then by all the persons connected directly or indirectly with the coal industry. Indeed, it is difficult to estimate the great advantages that would accrue.

There is coal aplenty in Canada and good coal, too. Millions of tons are available in the Province of Alberta and in Nova Scotia. The whole question is simply one of transportation and it does seem that it should be possible to work out this problem. Even if it were necessary to subsidize railway haulage to some extent, it would still be good business for Canada if the result were to keep a hundred millions annually on this side of the border instead of sending such a sum across to enrich our American cousins.

Alberta is keenly interested in this question. It means much to the prosperity of the Western Province. By the same token it would mean much to the manufacturers and business men of the East. A prosperous West guarantees a prosperous East. Give the West new business and greatly increased income and the result is felt in Ontario and Quebec almost immediately.

Canadians should use Canadian coal.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Everybody but that much mentioned individual, the bootlegger, is being interviewed in regard to the O. T. A. Why the discrimination?

No matter what the result is on December 1, remember your Christmas shopping will have to be done just the same.

It is to be feared that while the Minister of Education is busy campaigning nothing is being thought of at Queen's and Varsity but football.

If the O. T. A. shouldn't weather the storm on December 1, the next Legislature won't know what to talk about.

Another feature stamps the present election campaign as unusual. James Simpson and E. C. Drury are not candidates.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was again very quiet, there being little demand from foreign buyers at prices that could be accepted for shipment in any position. There was some demand from local and country buyers for American corn and a moderate business was done for December and January shipment from Chicago. The trade in oats was slow but the tone of the market was steady.

Owing to the further weakness in the cash wheat situation at Winnipeg, a weaker feeling developed in the local market for Spring wheat grades of flour and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel. A moderate amount of business was done for export account, but the local trade was quiet.

There was no change in the condition of the market for Winter wheat flour, prices being steady on account of the small offerings from Ontario millers and the steady demand.

The feature of the millfeed market was the weakness that developed in middlings and prices scored another decline of $1.00 per ton. The tone of the market for bran and shorts was steady under a good demand. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and steady.

The undertone to the market for fresh and storage eggs was firm under a good demand. The receipts were 138 cases.

On account of the milder weather prevailing and the liberal supplies of potatoes coming forward, a weaker feeling developed in the market and prices declined 5 to 10 cents per bag. A good trade was done. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at $1.85 to $1.90 per bag, and Quebec White stock sald at $1.65 per bag of 90 pounds.

The demand for beans continued good and the market was firm. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.75 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $3.00 per bushel.

Prices for all grades of butter were well maintained under a good demand from all sources. The receipts were 31 packages.

A moderate amount of business was done in cheese and the undertone to the market was steadier. The receipts were 2,695 boxes.

NORWOOD KEEPS ARMISTICE DAY

Service Held in Town Hall and at Memorial

SILENCE OBSERVED.

NORWOOD, Nov. 16.—Armistice Day was very fittingly observed in Norwood on Thursday. At ten fifteen in the morning a service was held in the Town Hall and was conducted by the Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton of the Anglican church. The meeting opened by singing "O! God Our Help in Ages Past" after which Rev. J. P. McLennan, pastor of the Baptist church offered prayer. The scripture reading was taken by Rev. Mr. Fenton and this was followed by an exceedingly appropriate address by Rev. R. F. Stillman of the United church.

Mr. Stillman took for the basis of his remarks Deut., 6th chapter, 12th verse, which reads, "Beware lest thou forget the Lord which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt," and also "Kipling's Recessional." The hymn of Kipling's was afterwards sung by the choir led by Prof. Edwards, organist and choir leader of the United church.

After repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison the assembly formed in line and marched to the Memorial plot, where at 11 o'clock the two minutes of silence was observed. Wreaths were placed on the memorial by friends and relatives of those who laid down their lives for King and Country. The Doxology and the National Anthem were sung and the crowd dispersed.

Among the wreaths placed on the monument was a beautiful one sent by Mrs. Vankoughnet of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, also one of poppies from the Norwood veterans.

CAVAN PEOPLE FORM SOCIETES

W.M.S. Organized at United Church—Community Club Formed.

CAVAN, Nov. 16.—The ladies of Cavan United Church met in the church on Thursday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a W. M. S.

Mrs. Rev. Howard, Millbrook, was present and addressed the ladies along this line of work and assisted in the organization.

About twenty ladies were present. The following officers were appointed:

President—Mrs. R. S. Staples.
Vice-President — Mrs. R. Matchett.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Totten.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. J. W. Perrin.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. Swain.

The society will meet on the same afternoon as the Ladies' Aid.

Organize Club.

On Wednesday evening the young people of the community met in the basement of the church to organize a club for the winter months.

Cavan Centre has had a community club organized for some time. They decided, on invitation, to join with the young people of Cavan Village and community, thus having a larger membership.

The following officers were elected:

President—Ralph Staples.
Vice-President—Leslie Pritchard.
Secretary—Muriel Matchett.
Treasurer—Gwendolyn Hunter.
Pianist—Norma Staples.

It was decided to hold a meeting every two weeks and meet alternately in Cavan Centre and Cavan.

Personals.

Miss Hazel Sluggett, Lindsay, was the week-end guest of Miss Gwen Hunter.

Mrs. R. Swain and son, David, visited Cavan friends over the week-end.

Mrs. Totten and daughter, Leafa, are visiting Mrs. Totten's mother, Mrs. Warriner, at Stouffville.

The "Hearts of Oak" Tuxis Square held a meeting on Tuesday evening and elected officers: Prator, Archie Matchett; Deputy-Prator, Merle Barker; Scriptor, Ralph Staples; Comptor, Eldred Snyder.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

A SPELLING LESSON

By Dr. Frank Crane.

The English language probably presents more difficulties in spelling than does any other.

The old-fashioned spelling bee perhaps has gone out of style, but spelling is still an accomplishment to be desired.

There is a sort of spelling instinct, or spelling consciousness, by which one is able to recognize instantly the correct or incorrect spelling of words. This probably comes most from practice.

Ernest Horn, of Iowa State University, and E. J. Ashbaugh, of Ohio State University, have prepared a list of words which, according to Dr. Horn's investigation of writing vocabulary, maintain a spelling difficulty of fifty per cent or more for eighth grade pupils.

For those who like that sort of thing some selections from this list are here made:

advisability	melancholy
ammunition	negligent
achievement	partisan
attendants	plausible
competitive	priviliged
auxiliary	reckoned
brunette	sandwich
chord	soothe
congregation	shocked
continuous	terrific

BARRACK RAIDS AGITATE IRELAND PLUNKETTS HELD

Sons of Republican Member of Dail Placed Under Arrest.

RENEWAL FEARED

DUBLIN, Ireland, Nov. 16.—(Canadian Press)—Southern Ireland is deeply agitated over Sunday night's raids on the barracks of the civic guards and belief is expressed in many quarters that they mark the inception of a new policy by the Republicans.

General O'Duffy, chief commissioner of the civic guards, was at Cavan, on the Ulster border, when news of the raids reached him. He immediately set out for Dublin by motor, arriving early yesterday morning.

Instructions were sent to the headquarters of the guards in each country to warn the outlying platoon of the situation. A sergeant in charge of the barracks at St. Luke's, a district of Cork City, was shot dead by raiders and another sergeant was shot at Hollyford, Tipperary. There were other raids in County Cork at Rylane, Carrigothill, Togher and Ballincurrig.

Several men were arrested yesterday in connection with the raid, including George and Jack Plunkett, sons of Count Plunkett, Republican member of the dail.

Purpose a Mystery

Although the purpose of the raiderse was somewhat of a mystery, one indication of what they were after was obtained at the Castle Island barracks in county Kerry, where the leader of the raiding band told a sergeant that the raiders wanted to see if the police had any "treasonable documents" dealing with the Irish Republican army.

RUSSIANS INTEND TO CLAIM JEWELS

Want Them As Indemnity For Bills Against Red Regime.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Report has it that a group of Russians here has been organized to attempt to obtain by legal process jewels of the former Imperial household in Russia which Norman C. Weiss, the jeweller of London and Paris, is bringing to the United States from Moscow to dispose of.

The Russians desire to obtain control of these jewels, which are valued at a fabulous sum, to satisfy claims against Red Russia.

These jewels run the gamut from the famous nuptial crown of Katherine the Great, which contains 1,520 diamonds, and is valued at $52,000,000, to a gewgaw in the shape of a baby's rattle of solid gold and ivory, upon which the late Czar Nicholas cut his Imperial teeth.

Rudolph Oblatt, a New York jeweller and partner of Mr. Weiss, said that there were four jewellers associated in the purchases of jewels of the former Russian Imperial household, but he declined to identify the other two members of the syndicate.

Says That Dry Agents Scattered Son's Ashes

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 16. — (Canadian Press). — Charging that prohibition agents broke into an urn containing the ashes of her eight-year-old son and scattered them on the floor while raiding her home, Mrs. Evelyn Edwards has filed suit for $30,000 damages against George A. Hammons, deputy administrator of the Federal prohibition forces for the southern district of Texas.

Armistice Day Services

AT WESTWOOD.

WESTWOOD, Nov. 16.—Armistice Day was observed in Westwood on Thursday by the pupils of the Public school, under the direction and training of the teacher, Miss May Hinton.

Shortly before eleven o'clock a.m. the scholars marched in a body to the Memorial Monument and took their places around it, each pupil carrying a flag and a bouquet of flowers. The two smallest children Mary Walsh and Orville Richardson, carried a wreath of poppies, which together with the bouquets of flowers were laid at the base of the monument at the close of the programme.

The programme was as follows:

11 o'clock silence; every one standing with heads bowed; Band music played on the Victrola; chorus by the school, "O Canada"; recitation by Leslie Sargent, "Our Flag"; recitation by Jack Graham, "There Are Many Flags"; address by Mary Brackenbridge, "The Colors of the Flag", which was as follows:

Dear Friends: This morning we are gathered to do honor to our boys who served and those who sleep in Flander's Field. They gave up home, loved ones, all, to go and fight and die for us.

"Yet they who are dead, yet speak. Day by day and year by year, we think of them as we pass this monument, which is only the symbol of our love and devotion. They gave their lives. Will they ever be forgotten? No.

"Thousands upon thousands are gathered this morning in memorial services, some with broken hearts, broken because their fathers, and husbands and sons have never returned. Others have returned broken and maimed for life. Should we forget these brave men? No! As we pass down the street in our cities could we not stop for a kind word with the man on the street who has served and has given his arms, and limbs, and eyes Do some of us not hurry by when we see the cap outstretched for a little money? Should we? Again I say no!

"Let us remember our brave nurses who served in the Great War. Can we ever forget Edith Cavell who was betrayed and shot even as a dog or can we forget the sinking of the Lusitania? These and many more terrible incidents of the war and the cruelty of the enemy come to our minds today in vivid outline.

"Did our boys die for a cause? Did they not say 'If ye break faith we shall not sleep.'

"Will we break faith? And so my friends we, who are only school children, will keep in our hearts love and reverence for those who have fought and died for us. Have we any reason to be thankful? We have homes and many comforts. And now with hearts full of Thanksgiving for another Armistice Day, a day of peace in our Empire we may say:

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow
Praise Him all creatures here below,
Praise Him above ye heavenly host
Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost."

"Truly God has been good to us."

Then followed a reading by Miss Hinton, "Heart of a Soldier"; recitation by Reta Dickson, "In Flander's Field"; selection by Victrola, "Lead Kindly Light"; address by Colonel R. E. Birdsall.

Col. Birdsall commended the teacher for her patriotic spirit and for the splendid effort she had shown in arousing the patriotism and interest of the children in the fallen heroes. He expressed the hope that all teachers throughout the Dominion would realize the importance of training the children of our land in this noble and great work.

The pupils then repeated in unison, "To bury deep the sword O God, they died"; salute, I pledge allegiance to my flag and to my King and Country; Mizpah Prayer; God Save the King.

AT WARSAW

WARSAW, Nov. 15—The school children held their Armistice Day service. At a quarter to eleven the teachers took them to the monument, but it was so cold they simply put their sprigs of green inside the plot as they marched by and lined up on the sidewalk, sheltered from the wind, and sang "The Maple Leaf.' Rev. H. B. Herrington led in prayer, which was followed by the two minutes of silence. Two of the school girls placed the Institute wreath on the monument . The children sang "O, Canada!" and marched back to the school and were accompanied by as many of the adults as could be accommodated. Sidney McCauley read "To the Death," Cora Crowe read "To the Fallen," Mr. Blakeley read the names which are on the monument Rev. H. B. Herrington gave a short address in which he explained the reasons for the service. It was in memory of the signing of the armistice at eleven o'clock on the eleventh day of November, eight years ago, by which the actual fighting ceased. It is in memory of those who died, not because they hated some one else, but because they wished to protect those things held most dear, and beause they wished to end war. He felt that the rights of all should be recognized. People should be citizens of the world and a world brotherhood should exist. He explained the League of Nations, and that there is a young people's league being formed to support the league of nations. New generations will consider rights of other nations and not be Canada first, right or wrong.

Dr. Munro said he was speaking to the better part of the community in speaking to the children. Last year, he said, selfishness was the cause of the war. People often speak of the resources of a country as its assets, but he considered the boys and girls the greatest asset. It is up to the children to make or break Canada. There are three great institutions which affect the children, besides neredity, which no one can help; these are the home, the school and the church. Their influence is in the order named. If reformatories are needed, it is a proof that one or more of these three institutions has failed. Very earnestly did he speak of integrity and admonish to lives of integrity in every way.

Ivan Clements recited "The Debt Unpayable." After singing the National Anthem the school was dismissed shortly before noon.

Several flags were floating in the village.

Mrs. A. F. Choate placed a wreath of maple leaves on the monument, also on the graves of two soldiers, Percy Drain, whose body was brought home, and of Ernest Bell who came home after being gassed and died in the hospital.

AT OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, Nov. 15.—The annual armistice service was observed in the United Church on Thursday morning. The school scholars with their teachers marched in double file and occupied the centre pews of the church, but the attendance of grown-ups and returned men was remarkably smaller than in previous years. The resident ministers, Rev. A. T. Weir of the Anglican Church and Rev. E. W. Rowland of the United Church had charge of the service. The Scripture reading, which was found in St. John 15, was read by Mr. Weir, followed by the observance of two minutes' silence with bowed heads, after which Rev. Rowland led in prayer.

The hymns used were "O God our help in ages past," "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "Abide with me," all of which were appropriate to the service.

Rev. E. W. Rowland delivered a short address. In opening, he mentioned the signing of the armistice eight years ago and the commemoration of the day since that time. We are here to honor and revere the memory of our sacred dead, who poured out the richest energy in their young lives in the cause of legislation and also to dedicate our lives afresh to the great ideals for which our heroes fought and fell, said the speaker. There are three things which we should keep in mind. First, They fought that democracy might not perish from the earth, or that this world might be safe from democracy, or in other words, that democracy might be safe for the world. Democracy means liberty, freedom and responsibility. They fought that we might have all these. Second, That righteousness and international justice might not perish from the earth. We are all agreed that Germany broke her bond and was not true to international justice when she violated the neutrality of Belgium. We must not interfere with the rights of others. Third, That God might be honored, and all that is best in life might be held high. We might nobly set our hearts toward the goal of international brotherhood. Men and women, boys and girls, are we dedicating our lives to these things for which our heroes fought and fell.

There are fifty-six countries now joined in the League of Nations, which endeavors to settle wars by civil instincts rather than by sword. Let us revere the memory of our dead who have committed their souls to God, and who are in His kind keeping, by laying upon our hearts the carrying out of these ideals. Our youth went forth, many of them never to return, and as ministers, teachers, parents, etc., we must keep before us this torch that generations following may catch it and bear it forward to the glory of God and the memory of our blessed dead.

ATHLETIC CLUB HOLDS EUCHRE

About 75 People Are Entertained at Bethany Town Hall.

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, Nov. 16.—A delightful evening was spent on Friday evening when the Athletic Association entertained about seventy-five of their friends to a progressive euchre party in the Town Hall. Seventeen tables were played, prizes were awarded the winners, Mrs R. C. Waram getting first among the ladies, and Mr. John Sisson first among the gentlemen; consolation prizes were given to Mrs. William Saunder, and Mr. Karl Smith. After the cards a pleasant hour was spent in dancing, the music being supplied by Mr. Charles Reynolds on his ukulele and Miss Jean McKinnon at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. George Price of Orono are visiting friends in the village.

Mr. Harry Lee of Toronto spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee.

Rev. A. Poulter conducted services at Bobcaygeon on Sunday so that Rev. A. C. Hie might preach anniversary services at Yelverton United church for him.

Rev. McConnachie of Springville preached in the United church on Sunday evening in the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter. His text was taken from the first verse of the 20th chapter of Proverbs, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

Find Sea Lion Stranded On Coast Of New Jersey

BRIGANTINE, N. J., Nov. 15.—(United News.)— Investigating a terrifying howl which roused them from their beds early Sunday, residents here discovered a lonely five foot sea lion stranded on the sand thirty feet from the shore.

While the animal would allow no one to approach, he snapped hungrily at bits of fish tossed by the curious. The New York city aquarium may accept him, if he can be captured.

HIAWATHA HUNTER VERY SUCCESSFUL

Daniel Muskratte's Party Succeeds in Shooting Moose.

HIAWATHA, Nov. 16.— Mr. Daniel Muskratte has returned from a hunting trip in Haliburton county. It was successful as he and the party shot a bull moose. They had a very enjoyable time. Other members of the party were Messrs. John Robinson, Gilbert Lavery, and Joseph Lundy. They motored to and from their hunting ground.

On Thanksgiving Day, Master George Paudash, Jr., with Bert Anderson as his guide, succeded in shooting his first ducks. They were a canvas back and gray whistler. Perhaps George may one day be an expert guide like other men of the village.

The Amys brothers, Rye brothers, Holyman brothers, and Mr. Allan Hyderman were here during the holiday, from Peterboro.

Mr. James Jarvis, during a few sunshiny hours of last week put a new roof on his bungalow. Mr. Pasker Anderson, who helped him in this work, has since left to spend the winter in the employ of the Gull River Lumber Company at one of their camps in Haliburton County.

Tourists and pleasure seekers often envy the work of the professional guide. Now is a time that if they were on the lake before daybreak that their minds would be changed. The other morning one of the men was out picking up decoys and they had a coating of ice on them. But still a dollar must be earned honestly somehow. It is the frosty weather that sends the ducks down to feed on the wild or black rice for which the lake is famous.

Mr. O. H. McLean and party are occupying "Without a Care" Cottage for a few days, while they are fishing and duck hunting. They are from Toronto.

Mr. William Fletcher of Peterboro and Keene was in Hiawatha on Tuesday.

Mr. Rufus Shiling was with friends over the holiday. He has returned to his work in Toronto.

Messrs. John Fitzgerald and Harry Bourrrie of Port Severn were renewing acquaintances here last Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. Ernest Broughton of St. Catharines, who while staying at the Lakeshore House was guided by William Muskratte, had fine luck.

MARMORA NEWS

MARMORA, Nov. 16.— Miss Margaret Brown of Glenarm is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson.

Mrs. E. Deacon is on a visit to Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Boyd are visiting in Toronto.

A new departure is being tried by Marmora's versatile auctioneer, F. S. Johnston. He is planning to hold a community auction sale in the yard of William Flynn on Saturday, November 20th, when he will endeavor to dispose of stock, furniture and other articles of individuals who have not enough to warrant the trouble and expense of an individual sale.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 15.—At a temperance rally held last night in the Seventh Day Adventist Church the following resolution was passed: "We, the Seventh Day Adventist Church of Kingston, do hereby pledge ourselves to God and the voters of Ontario, that we will oppose any government that purposes to bring in a platform allowing liquor to be sold in our province. And we will use our influence and power of our vote at the coming election on Dec. 1st against this new policy of the Ferguson Government, regardless of our political party."

THE TREASURE STILL BURIED IN PIRATE CACHE

Island Used as Scene of Stevenson's Tale Holds Good.

WORTH MILLIONS.

Many Expeditions Have Tried To Uncover Valuable Articles.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press). — Doubloons, pieces of eight and treasure of the Spanish Main lie buried on a South American "Treasure Island" ready for the person who is willing to dig for $50,000,000.

George Finlay Simmons, curator of ornithology of the Cleveland Museum of National History, said upon his return from the island that the treasure, taken from the Inca Indians, lies undisturbed where it was buried a century ago by two pirates on the island off the coast of Brazil.

Reminiscent of the days of Captain Kidd, the story of the treasure is replete with lore of roving bucaneers, slashing cutlasses and treasure maps.

One of the hoards, Simmons said, amounts to $40,000,000 and was buried by a Spanish pirate, Joseph Santos, who captured a ship laden with gold and silver bar, altar vestments and candelabra from the churches of Lima, Peru. More than $8,000,000 more was buried on the same island by an English pirate, who styled himself "Zulmiro," Simmons said. Records of this "prize" were kept and were in the possession of the Russian quartermaster of the ship until he died in the Far East.

Eight expeditions were made to find the treasure between 1800 and 1892, Simmons said, but most of them never reached the desolate coast of the island. Those that did found landmarks left on the map wiped out by a landslide.

"Robert Louis Stevenson used the island as the scene of "Treasure Island'," Simmons said, "but the swag found in fiction is still there in reality."

WRITERS DIFFER ON SHAW'S PRIZE

Some Approve Nobel Award While Others Are Opposed.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 16— (United Press.) — Awarding the 1925 Nobel prize for literature to George Bernard Shaw has stirred up the literary writers, and critics are hurrying to take sides in the dispute.

Brander Matthews and George Jean Nathan, representing two schools of criticism, are at odds on the question.

"I do not approve of it," said Matthews.

"It should have been given Shaw years ago," observed Nathan.

"I didn't care for Saint John, but the general tenor of his work is so high as to clearly entitle him to the prize."

English writers here are as widely split as the American critics.

Rebacca West said that she didn't believe anybody should be recognized until Thomas Hardy had been honored.

"It is a grave reflection on the manner in which the winner is selected," she said.

Cosmo Hamilton asserted that Hardy deserves the prize for having mastered the art of living other than writing. The Nobel prize as a measurement of literary greatness, he termed a "joke." He considered Rudyard Kipling the greatest after Shaw.

Before sailing for Europe John Masefield commented that Shaw was the greatest living dramatist and expressed his pleasure at the award.

Your favorite cereal is made in Canada of Canadian wheat—and it's the whole wheat, nothing added, nothing taken away. The process by which SHREDDED WHEAT is made is the most perfect process ever devised for making the whole wheat digestible. For thirty-five years it has been the favorite in millions of homes. No other process can be compared with it. The flavory shreds are full of nutriment and their crispness encourages thorough chewing—that's what makes it a wonderful food for children. Our shredding and baking retain the rich mineral salts and the vitamins—also the bran which keeps the bowels healthy and active. Eat it dry toasted with butter, or as a hot porridge or simply pour hot milk over it.

MARIE INSPECTS STEEL FURNACES

Watches Operations of Steel Mills From Observation Car.

ILLINOIS STEEL CO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press) — Shielding her face from the white heat of the furnaces behind the collar of her caracul coat, Queen Marie of Rumania tramped through the steel mills yesterday to watch iron ore and scrap iron converted into rails.

Up earlier than she had risen since she left the Pacific coast, her majesty was taken by train to the plant of the Illinois Steel Company at Gary, transferred to a glass windowed observation car which carried her to the center of the manufactory and then she went afoot to see what could not be discovered from a sheltered observation car.

Mounting the narrow stairs which carried her above the procession of red hot metal bars, she asked questions, made minute inspection of machinery, and elbowed the grimy laborers who sweated at their posts.

She dodged with exhilarated smiles the showers of sparks sent up as hot bars of iron hit troughs of water, and shrunk bad: less than members of her party when fifty ton cranes dropped near her their cargoes of glowing ingots.

When she emerged from the hot and noisy plant she found waiting several hundred employees of the mills in overalls and workmen's caps. They sent up a cheer, and she beckoned to one of them and shook his hand, while photographers shot the scene. He identified himself pridefuly as Robert Arlet.

Despite the strenuous hike through the mills and the journey on the heaving observation cars through acres of mills and tracks, the queen evidently found the experience a delightful antidote for receptions and high formality.

She hurried along through the mills with little regard for her bodyguards, digressing here and there to see more closely something that interested her. And for the royal children, Nicolas and Ileana, it was a delightful trip. They made the excursion even more thoroughly than their mother, and Ileana laughed with glee as a shower of hot sparks missed her narrowly.

THE AVERAGE MAN.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—England's strength is in her average man. That is the declaration of Major John Hay Keith (Ian Hay, the author). In a recent speech the Major declared that throughout history Great Britain seldom has been wisely led, her strength coming from the rank and file of the people. He suggested a monument to the average man.

BOARD ISSUES ULTIMATUM TO HOUSE OWNERS

Police Court Action Will Follow Unless Sanitary Conveniences Installed.

GIVEN SEVEN DAYS.

Recommended That All Citizens Be Vaccinated To Prevent Epidemic.

Drastic action was taken by the Board of Health this morning with regard to houses in this city where the final notice had been sent to the owners to have sanitary conveniences installed. If the owners do not commence work within seven days of receipt of a registered letter from the Board of Health ordering them to have the necessary equipment installed, the houses will be placarded as unfit for habitation.

The owners of these houses in question have been stalling the board for some time back and have paid no attention to the notices which were sent them. Other city property holders have complied with requests of the board and as a result over 600 homes have been so equipped in the past few years so the board thought that it was its duty this morning to make these few property holders abide by the act, as some of these houses are on the main streets of this city.

Dr. Young brought up the matter of small pox. An epidemic has occurred in North Monaghan, which is really a suburb of this city. The medical health officer there, he said was having some difficulty in carrying out the vaccination in May's school. He suggested that action be taken to prevent the same occurring in this city, but it was pointed out that it would require a by-law passed by the city council to enforce vaccination.

J. J. Turner asked why there was no vaccinating being done in the Collegiate and Normal school so as to stem the tide of an epidemic if the same should occur. The board moved that letters be sent to Principals Kenner and Walker suggesting that vaccination be general in their schools and Dr. Young said he would go to the schools and do it free.

Dr. Young, the Medical Health Officer, has warned the citizens several times lately through the press as to the need of getting vaccinated. He took exception to the statements that were being circulated that there were 300 cases of small pox in this city. As a matter of fact there are only fifteen reported, he said. As a precautionary measure to protet the citizens against a possible epidemic like the one in North Monaghan the board recomemnded that everybody be vaccinated.

A notice will also be put in the paper showing that the board is behind this' action in recommending vaccination.

E. Coughlin of 349 Euclid avenue wrote to the board asking that the water main be extended up that street. It seems that a few years ago the sewer was put in, but as there is no water the sewer has been of no use. The citizens on that street are now demanding water as they have to pay for the sewer.

A motion was adopted by the board asking the Utilities Commission to look into the matter and say on what conditions will they agree to put in the water into those properties fronted by the sewer. J. J. Turner though the matter could be cleaned up satisfactorily and for his part he would be in favor of giving a grant for this work.

In the past month there were 11 patients in Queen Mary hospital, nine with small pox and two with scarlet fever.

MADE PURCHASING TRIP.

Miss Gillespie, of the Millinery Department of the Robert Fair Company's Store, and Miss Hurley, of the Ladies' Wear Department, have returned to the city after making an extensive purchasing trip in leading fashion centres, replenishing the stocks of their respective departments.

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way—with vapors that can be inhaled.

Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like a "vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

Hunter Finds Path in Woods Not As Plain As Street

Spends Night Near Jacks Lake. Lost Because Of Storm

At least one local hunter, a prominent George Street business man, will remember his trip to the woods in search of the elusive deer.

Starting out to join the camp, the members of which had preceded him a few days before, he struck out from the village of Apsley.

A storm came up, accompanied by a high wind and rain, with the result that he found himself absolutely without any sense of direction. Being of a philosophic turn of mind he decided to make the best of a bad job and set in to make himself comfortable until he was found by the other members of the camp. After trying for some two hours to light a fire, his task being rendered difficult due to the leaves and the wood being water soaked, he finally succeeded, but was unable to keep it going for any length of time.

He resorted to his trusty rifle, and instead of using his ammunition for the purpose he had in mind when he purchased it, he used it for the purpose of bringing his friends to his rescue.

Firing thirty-five shots at various intervals during the night, without any signs that they had been heard by anyone, he finally fell asleep and woke at six o'clock the next morning, having been lost for over twelve hours. At day-break, he was able to proceed to the camp where he received a royal welcome from the rest of the club. They had expected him the previous evening but thought that on account of the storm that had broken he would delay his departure. They heard the shots during the night, but due to their camp being in a hollow, the sound of the reports gave them the impression that they were coming from the opposite side of Jack's Lake, and so did not connect them with their missing comrade.

Wheat Prices Rally After Rain In Argentine

CHICAGO, Ills., Nov. 16.—(Canadian Press.) — Reports of universal rains over Northern Argentina, where harvesting is in progress, tended to rally wheat values from an early decline here to-day. Initial weakness here was in sympathy with an unexpected downturn of wheat quotations at Liverpool.

Opening at 1-4 cent to 1 1-4 cent off, Chicago wheat prices quickly recovered to about yesterday's finish. Corn showed strength, starting unchanged to 1-8 cent higher and subsequently scoring all around gains. Oats held about steady and provisions went lower.

Featureless Session On Mine Market To-day

TORONTO Nov. 16 (Canadian Press))—This morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange was devoid of an outstanding feature. Prices generally held firm and the occasional recessions were easily equalled by moderate gains. Canadian Lorrain and Teck Hughes were conspicuously firm the former gaining 8 1-2 at 73 1-4 and Teck Hughes advancing nine cents at 505. McIntyre gained 10 at 24.00 and Castle Trethewey five at 117. Amulet eased 2 at 126, Kirkland Hunton 1 1-4 at 2) 3-4 and Noranda 10 at 18.95.

NICKLE ASKED TO RUN AS DRY IN HOME RIDING

Two Conservatives Out To Support Policy of Govber To Agree.

THREE IN FIELD.

Two Conservtaives Out To Suuport Policy of Government Control.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 16.—While no official announcement has been made, it is understood that a deputation of temperance workers in the city have waited on Hon. W. F. Nickle and asked him to stand for the "Drys" in the coming election. From what can be learned, Hon. Mr. Nickle's answer is expected either to-day or to-morrow.

There is an air of secrecy among the "Drys," but is is believed that within at least 48 hours the result will be known, and the feeling is that Mr. Nickle will run in his old stamping ground in Kingston.

A prominent Conservative made the statement here yesterday that there would be but one candidate out on the "wet policy." Both Mayor Angrove and Ald. T. A. Kidd are now in the running, and both are determined to see it through. Mayor Angrove, who did not get the Conservative convention and who is running as an independent "wet" candidate, stated this morning that he had no intention of dropping out of the contest, although he was being urged to. The general feeling here to-day is that Hon. W. F. Nickle's candidature on the "dry" ticket will be announced ien a day or so and that Kingston will have a three-cornered contest.

TIRE PRICES DOWN.

Announcement of Reduction Is Expected This Week.

TORONTO, Nov. 16. — (Canadian Press.)— Toronto manufacturers are expected to announce this week a reduction of from 12 to 20 per cent, in the price of automobile tires, following the similar reduction announced by United States companies yesterday. The reduction is attributed to a decrease in the cost of raw cotton and the manufactured cord fabric.

LOOKING FOR VOTES GOVERNED ACTIONS

Former Member of Harbor Board Says Church Watched Election Chances.

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Testifying today at the probe into the affairs of the Toronto Harbor Board, Col. W.G. MacKendrick, former Harbor Commissioner, declared that T. L. Church, M.P., while chairman of the Board, was "Always looking for votes," and that this governed his course of conduct on the Board. The investigation is being conducted by Judge Denton.

Mr. MacKendrick described Mr. Church as "A square peg in a round hole that rattled." He declared that on leaving the chair at the time of his deposition last Spring, Mr. Church described the three Commissioners as "A pack of dirty curs and I can lick any one of you."

GET DEER QUOTA IN SEVEN HOURS

Two Local Hunters Have Their Trophies Soon After Leaving City.

HUNT IN HARVEY.

Peterboro citizens claim many advantages for Peterboro as a place to live in. Among them its cleanliness, its good schools and churches, well-kept streets, lawns and houses, a fine manufacturing centre, good athletic sports, progressive merchants, with a fine front street, an excellent farming district, and as well the many ways for spending a holiday during the summer and fall in the Kawartha Lake district right at our door. It has often been said that a hunter could leave Peterboro in the morning, run up to where the deer are to be found, get his deer, and be back the same day. This is possible, but very seldom is there anybody energetic enough to put the part over. However, yesterday morning, Bob Browne of the Canadian Nashua, and Fred Roy, left at 4 oclock in the morning, were at Harvey Windover's at 6 o'clock, by 11 o'clock had their deer, and not cutting short a pleasant day, arrived home at night with the game.

This is a great country, and Peterboro is one of the finest cities in the province in which to live, and the fellow who has made this his home of adoption rather than birth is the one who is most pronounced in broadcasting its advantages.

Ventegodt swam ashore, but his companion, Hansen, was drowned.

LORD WILLINGDON INSPECTS FAIR

Shows Lively Interest in Products of Canada's Farms.

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press)—Canada's Governor-General this morning showed lively interest in the products of the farms of the Dominion when he visited the Royal Winter Fair. This time, however, he was not accompanied by Lady Willingdon, who received a deputation of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire. Lord Willingdon manifested considerable interest in horses and cattle and incidentally posed with a bovine "king" for a photograph. He was introduced to the leading breeders and spent some time chatting with the halter boys and herdsmen as he moved about the stalls.

This afternoon His Excellency inspected Upper Canada College and was presented with a copy of war memorial book of the school containing the names of 1100 boys who served in the war. After inspecting the college, swimming diving and physical training exhibitions were given by the students.

An Investment in a Public Necessity

The City of London—industrial and commercial centre of the densely populated Western Ontario peninsula and a central point on main tourist highways—at present lacks modern hotel facilities commensurate with its requirements.

London Realty Company 6½% First Mortgage Bonds will be secured by centrally located real estate and the hotel with its equipment now being erected in London.

The undertaking is supported by a large cash investment, ranking junior to the Bonds, by prominent local citizens and the estimated value of the properties is $1,452,150, against only $750,000 First Mortgage Bonds. Estimated earnings for the first full year of operation of the new hotel are equivalent to over 3½ times First Mortgage Bond Interest.

We offer these Bonds for investment at 98½ and accrued interest, to yield 6.65%.

VACCINATION SMALLPOX FOE

Former Terrible Scourge Has Been Rendered Almost Impotent.

CASES DECREASE.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

For centuries smallpox was the great scourge of man. In 1752, as reported by the American Association for Medical Progress, Boston had almost 6,000 cases of this disease in a total population of 15,684.

There was a time when the human being seldom was seen without the scars of smallpox on his face. Today, the man with the scars of this disease is living evidence of ignorance or carelessness on the part of his parents, who failed to avail themselves of the properties of smallpox vaccination.

The number of cases reported from 48 states and the District of Columbia in 1921 was 108,135 and there were 764 deaths. Since that time there has been a rapid decrease, so that the number of cases has varied between 30,000 and 60,000 each year. The number of deaths varied from the low mark of 189 in 1923 to 702 deaths in 1925, 883 in 1922, and 894 deaths in 1924.

Vaccine.

The experiences of many nations have shown that smallpox can be prevented by vaccination. Almost everyone knows that the vaccination itself is a simple matter, involving a mere scratching of the skin and the inoculation of material whose purity and safety have been attested to by the Government.

Successful vaccination generally protects for from five to seven years, and the second vaccination usually protects against smallpox for life.

There is not the slightest evidence to indicate that vaccination can do harm. The only deaths that occur are the result of lack of care after vaccination, whereby the scar itself becomes infected secondarily with bacteria. Vaccination properly done and properly cared for is as safe as any procedure related to the human body.

Millions of persons are vaccinated every year, and the amount of secondary illness is so small as hardly to merit mention.

Cites Figures.

The proof of the protection afforded by vaccination lies in the following figures, also assembled by the American Association for Medical Progress:

In 1925, there were 12,858 cases of smallpox in 18 states. Of the persons concerned, 9,660 had never been vaccinated; 751 persons had been vaccinated more than seven years previously; 2,224 persons were unable to say whether they had ever been vaccinated.

The evidence is clear that vaccination protects.

TAXIMAN ROBBED CHAINED TO CAR

Winnipeg Driver Brutally Beaten By Bandits in Dark Lane.

LEFT HELPLESS.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press). — Brutally battered and throttled, robbed of his loose cash, gagged and fastened to his car by tire chains. Will Kenney, taxi-driver, was left more dead than alive in a dark lane by a couple of thugs Sunday morning.

Suffering terribly and almost unconscious at times, Kenney was not noticed until an hour after when another taxi driver found his passage obstructed by Kenney's car.

Kenney told the police that he had been hired by the men who had instructed him to drive down the lane as a short cut to their destination. As the car approached the exit to the lane one of the men reached over and grabbed him by the neck and beat and throttled him into submission.

The thugs secured $6 in cash.

USE SCISSORS AND HAMMER

"Tools" Used By "Yeggman" In Breaking Open Three Safes.

TAKE STAMPS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—A pair of scissors and a hammer were the "tools" used by "yeggmen" who attacked three safes in the downtown district over the week-end, according to detectives who are investigating the cases.

The loot amounted to $4 in stamps, taken from a safe in the premises of Eugene Trudel and Company, produce merchants. The combination of another safe in the place was smashed, but the "box" was unopened, and at 152 McGill Street the intruders were also forced to content themselves with breaking the combination.

GRAND MASTER VISITS LODGES

Bro. G. O. Luke Entertained By Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges, I.O.O.F.

OTHER VISITORS.

Last Friday was a gala night for Peterboro and Otonabee Lodges I.O.O.F., when they combined to entertain Grand Master G. O. Luke and Grand Secretary William Brooks and representatives of the Havelock, Lakefield, Norwood, Pontypool, Millbrook and other district lodges.

The iniatory work was put on in excellent style by members of the Havelock Lodge, after which jewels were presented to Bro. T. M. McFadden, Peterboro Lodge No. 111, completing 50 years' membership, and Bros. R. S. Cottrell, N. E. Merriam, W. J. Lloyd and H. Abramson of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, and S. H. Long, Unity Lodge, Brainnerd, Minn., members for 25 years.

The banquet which followed was a most enjoyable event. Chairman George Lacheur, D.D.G.M., proposed the toast to the King, which was loyally honored.

Bro. John Nugent proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge, and eloquent speeches in reply were made by Grand Master G. O. Luke and Grand Secretary Brooks.

Past D. D. Bro. Frank Merritt had the task of proposing the toast to "Our Veterans," with Bro. T. C. Elliott replying.

"Our Visitors" was given by Bro. M. Breckenridge, with replies by Bro. P. J. Hooper and Joseph Hall, while the Grand Master proposed the toast to "The Ladies," Sister Mrs. Geo. Warboy responding.

Enjoyable songs were given by Bros. Robert Hendry and W. McKinley.

"THE KHAN" PASSES.

R. K. Kernighan, newspaperman and poet, familiarly known to many throughout Canada as "the Khan," died at his home at Rockford Ont., this week.

Chicago's new street lighting system went into use October 14. It makes State Street so bright through the loop from Lake to Van Buren Streets that nights are brighter in the street than indoors in some of the stores that line the way. Pairs of 2,000-watt incandescent lamps are used at 100-foot intervals.

PIRATES BOARD BRITISH VESSEL

Chinese Brigands Set Ship on Fire But Aid Prevents Total Loss.

NEAR HONG KONG.

HONG-KONG, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press). — The British steamer Sunning was boarded by pirates eighty miles from here and was fired by the boarders, but saved from destruction by the arrival alongside of the British gunboat Bluebell, it was learned here to-day.

The Sunning was on its way here from Amoy, out of Shanghai. The Bluebell sighted the Sunning in distress, her upper work afire. The blaze was subdued and a salvage tug was sent to her assistance. Owing to damage to the Sunning's wireless, details of the pirates' activities and loss to the ship are unavailable here.

PROHIBITION LADIES HEAR GOOD ADDRESS

Rev. D. Wren Speaks at Business Meeting at Y.W.C.A.

The local Women's Prohibition Committee held a prayer service and business meeting in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday afternoon, when the large room was filled to overflowing with the ladies in attendance.

Mrs. G. H. Rowe presided at the prayer service, in which many ladies took part. Special mention should be made of the Bible reading and inspirational talk given by Mrs. J. D. Richardson.

At the business session which followed, Rev. D. Wren presided, and delivered a very instructive and impressive address on prohibition subjects, stressing the need of retaining the O.T.A. and showing conclusively that the O.T.A. had been a great factor in improvement of conditions since the time when an open sale of liquor prevailed.

An encouraging financial statement was presented by the treasurer, Mrs. J. Speer, and a short report of work done was given from each ward.

On Monday next, at three o'clock, another prayer service has been arranged, to which all women are invited.

HIGH COMMISSIONER BANQUETS PREMIERS

LONDON, November 16. — Canadian Press. — P. C. Larkin, the Canadian High Commissioner, gave a dinner party last night to the Dominion Premiers in London attending the Imperial Conference. Among the guests were the following: A. B. Houghton, the United States Ambassador, and Mrs. Houghton; Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the British Prime Minister; Neville Chamberlain, British Minister of Health, and Mrs. Chamberlain; Desmond Fitzgerald, Irish Free State Minister of External Affairs; Mrs. MacNeill, wife of John MacNeill, High Commissioner in London for the Irish Free State; Baron Matsui, Japanese Ambassador, and Baroness Matsui; Miss Larkin, daughter of the Canadian High Commissioner; Sir Thomas Lipton, Lady Mount Stephen, and the Earl and Countess of Oxford and Asquith.

DRIVEN FROM BED GAS PRESSES HEART

"I was bothered with gas so bad that I had to get up night on account of the pressure of gas on my heart. I used Adlerika and have been entirely relieved."— R. F. Krueger.

Adlerika is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser with glycerine buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. It is excellent for Intestinal Stasis, a disease due to modern ways of living and which is often the true cause of sour stomach, gas bloating, nervous dyspepsia and restless sleep.

Unlike most medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, giving the intestines a REAL cleansing and bringing out old poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. Even if bowels move daily, you will be surprised how much more old matter Adlerika brings out which may have been causing all your trouble. In slight disorders, like occasional constipation, GAS bloating, indigestion or sick headache, ONE spoonful always brings relief.

Doctors Praise Adlerika.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

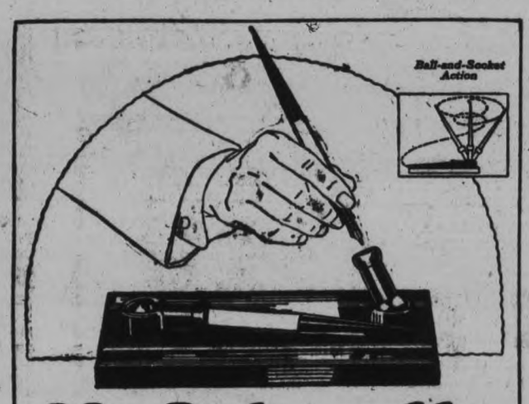
Dr. A. C. Curl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. A. J. Weaver: "In my 30 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my sytsem."

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose.'"

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Peterborough at McDermid & Jury, and other druggists.



No Inkwells Needed on the Modern Desk Now

The Parker Desk Set Pen Holds Its Own Ink—and Plenty of It

NO longer do you need to dip, dip, dip a pokey pen each time you sign your name or write a few words at your desk.

For now at home and at the office, instead of old style pens and spilly inkwells you can have a Parker Desk Set—with one or two Parker Duofold Pens filled with ink ever at hand in their ball-and-socket holders.

Parker Desk Set Pens not only tilt and stand upright but also lie level when not in use—yet remain moist with ink—ready to write the instant the super smooth point touches paper.

So they are out of harm's way by day—and at night you can slip the Parker Set in your drawer and lock it up.

Lose no time in replacing your cluttered inkstand with one of these handsome Desk Sets. Select your model at the nearest Parker dealer.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Both CHERRY LANE, 18, an unscrupulous flirt, and FAITH LANE, 20, stay-at-home drudge for the family of six, are attracted to BOB HATHAWAY, who, on his first visit to the house, shows plainly that he is immensely intrigued with Cherry's beauty.

That night after Hathaway has left, Cherry slips out for a rendezvous with CHRIS WILEY, to whom her father, JIM LANE, has forbidden the house. He tries to abduct her, she screams, arousing her father and Faith, but tells her father she does not know who her assailant was.

To Faith she confesses, and begs Faith not to tell her father and mother. In an effort to make up with Faith, Cherry promises to buy her material for a dress, when she buys herself one. She brings home a pattern that she well knows Faith cannot wear, expecting to get it herself.

Faith starts to tell her mother the truth about the adventure of the night before, but Cherry's frightened pleading stops her. Faith gets a telephone call from JUNIOR, 21, who has been arrested for speeding.

She pawns every trinket she has to get him out of trouble without telling her father, and he promises to pay her back. Cherry tells Faith she has invited CHESTER HART, Faith's former "steady," whom Cherry has vamped away from her sister, to dinner.

He, in turn, has invited GEORGE PRUITT to go to a movie with them, and Pruitt, when introduced to Faith, remarks, incredulously: "Good Lord! I didn't know they grew them like you any more, Miss Lane."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII.

"I don't know what you mean, Mr. Pruitt!" Faith blushed with painful confusion.

George Pruitt did not answer immediately. His eyes were traveling with greedy interest over the fine column of her throat, along the splendid sweep of her shoulders, down the rounded, bare forearms, along her perfectly proportioned tall body to her long, slender feet in their Cuban-heeled white canvas shoes.

"Oh, Faith's a corn-fed!" Cherry's tinkling laugh rang out. "I tell her she ought to reduce ten pounds. Why, she weighs a hundred and thirty-five!" She told the amateur artist this in naive horror. "I only weigh ninety-five!"

"Reduce! My Lord, would you want to make a flapper out of the Venus de Milo?" George Pruitt demanded. "If you only knew how we fellows have scoured New York for just your type for models, Miss Lane," and he brushed Cherry aside as if she had been a kitten frolicking at his feet, "you'd be able to imagine my surprise at finding you here."

"Oh, George, you old rascal!" Chester Hart slapped his thigh and chortled with glee. "Some line, that! Gosh, you artists guys can get away with murder! When I want to tell a dame I've fell for her hard, all I can say is, 'Gee, kid, you're some baby!' but old George tells 'em they're the Venus bag-o-meelo and he's sittin' pretty! Oh, to be an artist! Faith, you better watch this bird! He's the swift one, all right, all right!"

What is your title to this picture—it contains 17 words.

"Oh, take a tuck in your mouth!" George Pruitt turned on him wrathfully. "I'm going to paint Miss Lane's picture, if she'll let me. I may have to sell wholesale groceries to make a living, but by golly, I'm not going to pass up a chance to get a model like you. Will you pose for me, Miss Lane?"

Faith glanced at Cherry, saw that the lovely little face was white and pinched with anger and jealousy. "I'm afraid," she said slowly, as if the words came hard, "that I won't have time, Mr. Pruitt. But—thank you—just the same."

Cherry's face bloomed again. With a deep curtsey, she presented herself to George Pruitt's admiration.

"How would you like me for a model, Mr. Pruitt?"

"Thanks — sometime, perhaps."—George Pruitt turned away from her almost rudely, and addressed himself to Faith. "I suggested to Chester that we all go to the movies. Would you enjoy that?"

"We're regular movie fans, Mr. Pruitt," Cherry cut in before Faith could answer. "Of course we'll be delighted."

"You're coming in my car, aren't you, Miss Lane?" George Pruitt took Faith's elbow as they walked toward the two cars parked at the curb.

"Chester'll be jealous, Faith," Cherry called out gaily.

"I hardly think so, since he came to call on you," Faith answered quietly, as she stepped into George Pruit's racy looking roadster.

The next morning Cherry was sulking like a bad child. She had not spoken to Faith since George Pruitt and Chester Hart had taken their leave at eleven-thirty the night before.

"Hello, folks! Here's your old Aunt Hattie, come to spend the day!"

The Lane family, breakfasting, chorused feeble, unenthusiastic greetings to the thin, elderly, tight-mouthed little spinster, Mr. Lane's sister, who lived away over on the South Side with "Grandpa and Grandma" Lane.

"How are you, Hattie? How's Ma and Pa?" Mrs. Lane asked in her complaining, sighing voice.

"Pretty well, considering." Hattie Lane took the chair which her brother gave up hastily, as if glad to escape. "I declare, Jim, you're lookin' real old. Square up them shoulders o' yourn! You ain't dead yet! Martha, you've put on ten pounds if you've put on an ounce since I seen you last. You're scandalous fat. But you look better'n you have in a coon's age. Been taking that Indian Herb medicine I brought you?"

"I ain't better, Hattie." Mrs. Lane's face flushed darkly and her brown eyes snapped angrily. "I don't sleep an hour a night, and the pain in my legs and shoulders is somethin' fierce. Easy for you to talk, Hattie, you strong as a mule. Nobody knows what I go through—"

"Well, if we don't, it ain't because you don't tell us!" Hattie Lane brushed her sister-in-law's complaints aside briskly.

"Faith, pour me a coup of coffee! And if you've got a wee mite o' toast left, you might pop it in the oven and warm it up for me. But don't go to no trouble for me. I had my breakfast hours ago—Cherry Lane, you march right to the bathroom and scrub that paint off your cheeks and lips! The idee! All smeared up like a Indian! I should think you'd be ashamed of yourself. What you're thinkin' of, Martha Lane, to let her poke her head out o' the house lookin' like a chorus girl, with them short ballet skirts on, showin' her garters—"

"Aunt Hattie, I wish you'd mind your own business!" Cherry scraped her chair back from the table and flung her napkin violently into the center of the table.

"Cherry! Remember your Aunt Hattie's a lot older than you! Don't make Mama ashamed of you!" Mrs. Lane chided the girl half-heartedly.

"If she was a child o' mine—" Hattie Lane began heatedly, but Cherry had fled from the room, her cheeks flaming beneath the light dusting of mandarin rouge.

Hattie turned her steely bright eyes upon Junior, who ducked, shielding his face with an arm, in mock terror. The lively spinster's face softened, as it always did when her eyes rested upon Jim, Junior. "Ain't no call to act as if I was goin' to slap you, Junior," she grinned wryly at him. "Where in the name of tarnation did you get that necktie? Looks like a egg broke up in a bowl o' beet juice!"

"It's a batik, Aunt Hattie!" Joy giggled. "That Fay Allen that Long's runnin' around with made it for him. You do it with parrafine 'n' paints 'n'—"

"That will do, Joy!" her mother reached over and thumped the tow head with her thumb and middle finger. "Go to the bathroom and wash your knees this minute! I declare to goodness, you always look like you'd been crawlin' through the alley! And wash the egg off your mouth!"

"I already washed!" Joy scuffed her brown leather sandals sulkily as she walked slowly out of the room.

"Do as I tell you, and no back talk from you, young lady!" her mother told her sternly.

"Here's a coddled egg for you, Aunt Hattie, and two nice fresh pieces of toast," said Faith, hurrying in from the kitchen, her face flushed and anxious. Aunt Hattie for a whole day!

"Umm! Only one of the family that's worth the powder and lead it'd take to blow their brains out," and Aunt Hattie looked up at Faith with twinkling eyes.

"I come over to get you to help me cut out my new black and white voile, Faith. I brought you a piece o' goods, too. I was doin' a little tradin' at the Banner Store yesterday, when Cherry was buyin' up that flowered stuff for herself. Heard her tell the clerk that you wanted some maize colored chiffon, but she thought you'd like that big-figgered stuff better. Hunh! I'm up to her tricks! Open that bundle on the sideboard, and see how you like it. That blondined young snip that waited on me said it was maize color all right—"

"Oh, Aunt Hattie!" Tears furred Faith's voice, as she lifted the lovely, soft, yellow material from the wrappings. "It's exactly what I wanted. You're a darling to give it to me!" She flung her arms around the stiff, scrawny little figure and kissed her on a withered cheek.

"Hunh! Guess somebody's got to think of you once in a while! Got a beau to spring it on? Hear that young Hathaway's found out where the Lane family lives. Don't let Cherry walk off with him! I've had my eye on him for you for a month o' Sundays! Now, if you lazy folks have set around this breakfast table long enough, scoot—all of you! Me and Faith's got a pile o' work to do today!

"Let's tackle these dishes first, Faith, 'n then I'll red up the bedrooms while you stick the shears in this mess o' yellow stuff o' yours. No hurry about my black and white voile. What you hangin' around for, Junior? I declare, I believe the big baby wants a kiss! There, now! Clear out and let us women folks git busy!"

"What's Cherry got her dander up about this time?" Aunt Hattie asked, as she wielded a vigorous dish cloth over an eggy plate.

"Chester Hart and George Pruitt were over here last night," Faith answered hesitatingly. She loathed gossipping against Cherry, but it was very hard to hoodwink Aunt Hattie. "Chester had come to see Cherry—"

"Your beau?" Aunt Hattie demanded. "Well, if that don't beat all! And who's this George Pruitt? Not kin to them rich Lincoln Pruitts, is he?"

"Their only son," Faith smiled. "Chester invited him to come and go to the movies with us. I suppose Chester was feeling pretty mean about me, you know—and wanted to make it up to me—"

"And George Pruitt fell for you, and Cherry's mad enough to bite nails in two," Aunt Hattie chuckled triumphantly. "Well, land o' livin'! I'd a-give a farm to a-seen her face! And here I was grinnin' to myself because I seen you blush when I mentioned Bob Hathaway's name! There you go again! Well! Oh, drat it! There's the doorbell! I'll answer it."

When Aunt Hattie returned to the kitchen, she was carrying in her arms an enormous florist's box, and her eyes were snapping with excitement.

"More flowers for Cherry?" Faith asked, drying her hands. "From Bob Hathaway, I suppose."

"Guess again, young lady!" Aunt Hattie crowed delightedly. "They're for Miss Faith Lane! And from the size of the box, I bet they're the long-stemmed American beauties!"

CHICKEN SUPPER HELD AT MILLBROOK

Social Gathering Held To Raise Funds For Missions.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 16.—Councillor and Mrs. G. W. Sayles were host and hostess for a very successful social gathering held at their home, Waverley Apartments, on Wednesday evening when a hot chicken pie supper was served, about 100 guests being present.

The Forward Movement for Missions of the Young People's League is under Mrs. Sayles' supervision, and the financial side of the affair was to help raise the $100 which is paid annually toward the salary of Rev. E. E. Hibbard, of Chentu, West China.

Games and music offered plenty of entertainment during the evening, and an especially popular feature was the sale of over 40 "surprise packages" donated by friends locally and from outside points, a uniform price of 25 cents being asked. So brisk was the demand for the attractive looking boxes and bundles that the table was cleared in about fifteen minutes.

Linen towels, boxes of home-made candy, handkerchiefs, pieces of china, etc., proved to be the contents when the parcels were opened, and altogether something over $40.00 was realized from the affair, the first of its kind to be held locally.

Among those who assisted Mrs. Sayles in serving and waiting on the tables were: Mrs. W. Ridge, Mrs. William West, Mrs. G. Freelove, Misses Wilma Fallis, Elsie Spence, Marie Kenyon, Marjorie Skitch, Dorothy Crossley, Miss Estelle Hetherington, as President of the Young People's League, helped the host and hostess in looking after the entertainment of the guests throughout the evening.

Contrary to its usual custom, the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the United church met in the Sunday school room auditorium this month, rather than in the home of one of the members, over forty being in attendance.

Mrs. T. H. Aiken and Mrs. John Rowland were the official delegates to the County Prohibition Union convention which met at Orono last Friday, the former giving the report.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard presided at the opening business period, and among the items receiving attention was the sending of a Christmas letter, containing the greetings of the Auxiliary, to Miss Viola Cardwell, missionary nurse at the Ham Heung hospital, Korea. Miss Cardwell is the missionary at the front who has been taken as a subject of special prayer by the organization, regular times of intercession being observed for her personal work and the field in which she labors.

Mrs. A. J. Brown had charge of the "Watch Tower," Mrs. Aiken giving some interesting information regarding Miss Chambers' work among the Indians in British Columbia; general news from the "world" was given, the fact that the Gideons have placed 100,000 Bibles in hotel bedrooms in Canada and the United States during the past year, 6,000 of these being in the Dominion, proving of interest. Only certified church members among the commercial men are admitted to members in the Gideons, and last year there was an increase of 538. The work is branching out now through placing Bibles in the staterooms on passenger steamers going to the Orient, hence the link being established with the foreign mission fields. The Gideons Bible fund has an increase of $11,000 in the year recently closed, and the total amount expended was $22,547.

Miss Mary Widdis, convener of Group D, took charge of the programme, Mrs. Will Armstrong reading the Scripture lesson, and the devotional leaflet, "Faith and Personality." Miss Hetherington contributed a piano solo, 'Monastery Bells' and Mrs. H. E. Smith gave an interesting talk on the "Origin, Aim, and Motive", of W.M.S. Work, the slogan quoted in conclusion, being most inspiring: "Got any mountains you can't tunnel through? Got any rivers that are uncrossable? We specialize in the impossible, doing the thing that man cannot do. With God all things are possible."

Mrs. H. A. Earle read "An Old Hymn with a Fresh Message," before all joined in singing, "Take the Name of Jesus with you" and Mrs. H. W. Johnston sang, "Dear to the Heart of the Shepherd," the solo being much enjoyed. The second chapter in the study book, "Facing India's Social Problems," was taken up in a most helpful manner by Mrs. V. C. Lambert.

The offering envelopes were used for the first time, members unable to attend sending their monthly offering through this medium, each group being credited with what was contributed by those enrolled under the separate leaders.

The area of land under cultivation is dwindling in France. Figures show that there were 300,000 less acres cultivated this year than last.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE CLASS IS GROWING

Limit of Membership at Warsaw Has Been Extended.

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—The Domestic Science Class limit has been extended to thirty and many more wish to attend. So far the demonstrations have been in preparation of vegetables, in uses of milk, and in pastry making.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon. At the December meeting the report of the delegate to the convention Mrs. T. H. Crowe, will be given, also there will a shower for the Armenian Boys for their Christmas

The Institute goes on record as standing by the principle of the O.T.A. as it stands, and will do all in its power to help this cause.

After the close of the meeting, the ladies joined the Domestic Science Class and tasted the cheese straws, cranberry pie and lemon pie made in the demonstration.

Few could plow on Wednesday, the ground was frozen so hard, and Thursday was worse still. The thermometers registered fifteen on Thursday morning. A few fields of turnips are still out.

There is still some threshing to be done, but it is discontinued until after the hunt.

The hill at Mc Ivor's corners is almost impassible. The large stones that were in the bottom of the centre of the road are thrown out and it is now clear mud into which car wheels sink. On Sunday it was quite bad, and some stuck going up after dark. Monday it dried and was not so bad, but on Tuesday evening few faced it preferring to detour to the north side line. However some have managed to get up, among them the stage driver.

Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Herrington and daughter spent Thanksgiving day at Omemee.

Harold Darling has a position in the C.G.E.

Miss Laura Bowen is having a holiday from the telephone office for a time.

FARMERS ALMOST READY FOR WINTER

Most of Fall Ploughing Has Been Done Around Bailieboro.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 16.—Owing to the weather having been so wet during the latter part of the summer and the entire fall, the farmers have found it very difficult trying to get ahead with their work. The ground has become so full of water that it is very difficult to plough at all. But despite the wet, backward weather the buckwheat and other fall crops are now mostly all harvested, and the major portion of the fall ploughing is completed.

Wednesday night's frost froze the ground so firmly that ploughing was impossible for a few days until the frost thawed out again.

The majority of the fall wheat and clover seeds are looking fine, while the general appearance of the countryside is simply one of readiness for the fast approaching winter.

The threshing is about completed now, and in almost every case the yield in both grains and clover seeds has been excellent, even beyond the expectation of the farmers.

With the exception of the wheat crop, this year has been a year of great plenty in the country. The wheat crop was lighter than it has been for some years, and there is not a great deal throughout the Township of South Monaghan which is so well known as a great wheat centre.

The Young People's League of the United church held a most interesting meeting on Tuesday evening. Karl Lang took the devotional period, while Rev. W. H. Foley took the topic, "What Does our Church teach about God." This subject was very ably taken in the form of a Bible study, and everyone took a keen interest in the discussions.

At the conclusion of the address, Miss Kathleen Bateman gave a splendid report of the Y.P.L. convention at Bowmanville a fortnight ago, at which she and Miss E Lang attended as delegates of the local league.

Next week's league meeting will be held as a temperance meeting

CHURCH ACTIVITIES AROUND NORWOOD

United Church Will Observe Anniversary—Many Bazaars Planned.

NORWOOD, Nov. 16.—The anniversary services to be held in the United church on Sunday and Monday next will commemorate the founding of the church in this district, the dedication of the beautiful building the congregation now worships in and also the second anniversary since the consumation of Union. Rev. Dr. D. M. Solandt of Toronto will be the special speaker for the occasion. The choir under the leadership of Professor Edwards is busily engaged practicing for the event and the members of the Ladies Aid are leaving no stone unturned to make this the most successful anniversary supper they have ever had.

Church bazaars and entertainments have become quite popular and those in the churches in the village are falling in line. On Saturday, November 27 the A.Y.P.A. of Christ church will hold a tea and sale on December 4th; the Y.W.A. and Mission Band of the United church will hold their tea and bazaar on December 11th; the Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church will hold a bazaar and afternoon tea.

One reason why colored insulators are used on some electric power lines is that certain colors make the insulators less conspicuous than white porcelain and therefore less likely to attract the stones and bullets of thoughtless passers-by.

INDIAN RIVER HONEY WINS

William Thompson Takes First Prize at Crystal Palace.

FOR CLEAR HONEY

The district of Peterborough has been well advertised lately in regards to the fine class of honey which the apiarists have to sell. William Thompson of Indian River recently received first prize for his clear honey in the Colonial Exhibit at the Crystal Palace show in London, England. To obtain the honor of being one of the exhibitors his honey had to be sent to Guelph and there judged with the other exhibits of Ontario. Mr. Thompson has not a very large apiary but the three essential things for good honey were found in his exhibit which was of good color, specific gravity, and taste.

I.O.D.E. DANCE

Counter Attractions Cause Falling Off in Usual Crowd at Norwood.

NORWOOD, Nov. 16. — The 40th Northumberland Chapter I.O.D.E. held an "At Home" in the Government Armouries on Friday evening. The Excelsior Orchestra of Hastings supplied the music. The members of the orchestra were: Piano, Miss Gladys Stevenson; traps, Mrs. J. Knight; saxaphone, Mr. W. Knight, violins, Mr. J. Knight and Mr. A. Shand, manager.

Owing to a number of other attractions there was not as large a crowd as usual but those who attended enjoyed themselves very much. About midnight the members of the Chapter served refreshments after which dancing was resumed until about two o'clock.

The household effects of Mr. A. Ball of the firm of Ball and Sons arrived by motor van from Toronto on Friday. Mr. Ball will occupy the new house erected this summer by Mr. James Brown on Belmont street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Blacklock and son, Gordon, of Grafton, were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Noyer over the week end.

Mr. John Weir and Mr. T. J. Foster spent Sunday in Madoc guests of the former's mother, Mrs. A. D. Weir.

Mr. R. Steele arrived home from the West the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Squire and daughters, Vera and Mary, were Sunday guests of Norwood friends

Mrs. W. Johnston and Miss Hitchings of Grafton spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. Moyer.

Mr. Ralph Spencer of Havelock was in Norwood on Saturday.

Mr. Nelson King of Peterboro is spending a few days in the village.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Nov. 16. — The weather was fine for the two Bees held on Tuesday, November 2 and Wednesday, November 10. But the press of other work prevented many of men from going to aid in the repairing of the sheds of the United church. Some, however, were able to assist.

Miss Pearl Coward and her friend, Miss Daisy Watson, of Toronto, were visiting at the former's home over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heard and family and Mr. and Mrs. James Northey, all of Peterboro, spent Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield Northey.

Mrs. John Muskratte visited at the Manse last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison and son Ian; Mr. Ian Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred McMann and Miss M. McPherson were visiting at Mr. and Mrs. John Coward's and returned to their home in Toronto on Monday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Garratt were visiting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hinton at Hastings on the holiday. Mr. M. E. Hinton, the local teacher, returned with them.

A social evening is being planned for November 17 at the United church manse.

W.C.T.U. PRESIDENT SPEAKS IN NORWOOD

Mrs. Gordon Wright Says Government Control Has Failed.

NORWOOD, Nov. 16.— A rally under the auspices of the Peterborough County Prohibition Union was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Friday evening last when several addresses on the issues of the day were given. The meeting opened by singing the hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers," followed by prayer led by Rev. Mr. Moyer. Mr. Carman Denike occupied the chair and after a few well chosen remarks on the issue at stake, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs Gordon Wright, Dominion President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. Wright, who is a very fluent speaker and who has visited the different provinces of the Dominion to study the condition of affairs under government control, gave a very instructive and convincing address. The speaker said that not a single land which had Government control 25 years ago had it now, and mentioned in particular South Carolina.

Saskatchewan, after one year's trial had found the cure worse than the disease. The Mayor of Winnipeg had said that conditions were a thousand times worse under government control. Mrs. Wright said in the course of her remarks, "Don't forget that we are indebted to the Conservative party for the measure of temperance we have."

On the platform with the speaker were Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, Mrs. R. F. Stillman, Reo Moyer of the United Church, Westwood, South Dummer, and Cottesloe; Rev. J. Glover of Cambray; Rev. Archer and Lougheed of Havelock; Rev. Hinton of Hastings; Rev. R. F. Stillman, Norwood, and Mr. Al. Denike, president of the Peterborough County Prohibition Union.

Tugs operated by electricity generated on board by oil engines are now being used by the Panama Canal Commission for towing big ships into the canal and to aid in dredging operations. They are the biggest electric tug boats in the world.

Telephone Santa Claus

Santa Claus is getting ready to leave for Turnbull's. Would you like to telephone him before he leaves his icy home? A message from him tells us that he will be glad to hear from as many of his Peterboro boy and girl friends as can call him up on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings between 7 and 8.30. He has arranged to keep these hours for his little Peterboro friends. He would like to have the little ones up to about 8 years of age call him up. He cannot speak very long to anyone because there are so many who will want to talk to him. If you want to speak to him, follow these directions very carefully:

Just call up "Central" in the regular way, saying "Santa Claus, North Pole, 1650," and Central will put you on the line.

Remember the time, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week, and the Santa Claus time is from 7 to 8.30. He cannot be ready before seven o'clock, nor can be wait after half-past eight.

FERGUSON GOVERNMENT RECORD DISCUSSED BY HON. DR. GODFREY

Minister of Health Speaks at Meeting, Supporting T. B. Chalk.

AT PONTYPOOL.

Upholds Government Control as Method Deserving Good Trial.

PONTYPOOL, Nov. 16.—(Special.)—The address of Honorable Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health in the Ferguson Cabinet, delivered at Pontypool on Monday evening, might have been appropriately styled, "A Parable of Health," the major part of it being devoted to a recital of what has been accomplished under his Department during the late Conservative regime.

Dr. Godfrey was the chief speaker in the interests of Mayor T. B. Chalk, of Port Hope, Conservative candidate for Durham, who was holding the opening meeting of his campaign on Monday night, W. L. Rayfield, of Pontypool, filling the position of chairman. The L.O.L. Hall was fairly well filled for the gathering.

"It does me good to get a handclap in this good, old county of Durham," the doctor said, in beginning his address; "some people apparently think I've got a hoof—but I haven't; you can see. I propose to tell you something of what your public men have to go through, for they get gray-headed very quick."

First elected in 1907 as a member of the Provincial Legislature, the speaker said his ambition was to become Minister of Health for the Province of Ontario. To this office he had been appointed by Honorable Howard Ferguson, "and as I am the first Minister of Health the province has ever had, of course I am the best."

Considering his Department the most important in the administration, Dr. Godfrey said the prevention of tuberculosis in the province had been his platform, and to this disease he had directed a definite, persistent attack. An initial grant of $3,000 had been given under Sir James Whitney, but at present over $1,000,000 is being spent annually, and the death rate from consumption in Ontario has been reduced forty per cent.

Diphtheria was another disease against which preventive measures were enacted, the death rate being reduced from 40 per cent. to 16 per cent. through a thorough and practical propaganda. The cost of anti-toxin was prohibitive for a poor man; 10,000 units are required for a dose, and the rate was $2.00 per 1,000 units. "I made up my mind that anti-toxin should be free for every citizen in this province, and now every physician is well supplied and no child or adult need die of diphtheria. The death rate has been reduced from 16 per cent. to 2.2.

Does public health pay? I think it does."

Another ideal which Dr. Godfrey stated he had striven for and seen realized was permission to supply every man, woman, and child in Ontario with insulin free, if they were unable to pay for it, irrespective of their station in life. There were from 800 to 900 cases last year, and the cost to the province had been $32,000.

"Never hesitate on a matter of policy when it comes to the public health of the province," was an axiom the speaker said he had followed, and went on to state that close to 100,000 school children had been examined in dental clinics "with 2,000 dentists working on one day and never charged you, the ratepayers, one cent. Isn't that a wonderful thing—to get something for nothing from a dentist?"

A Good Government

Turning them to other matters the speaker said, "I believe you got a good government—and I make that statement apart from partisan feeling altogether. But up bobs Mr. Raney, and only one thing in his head, the Ontario Temperance Act, a measure that was passed in war time when other luxuries were being given up, or put under proper control. And we thought we had put the liquor question under control, but we found it couldn't be done that way. No matter what has been done in the other departments of the Government—agriculture, finance, public health, you can't get away from the 'bogey' man."

Stating that it might not affect the rural district as much as the urban centres, the speaker urged, "Give the cities a chance to deal with the greatest evil that has grown out of the failure of the O.T.A.—I mean the boot-leggers."

Referring to Archbishop Thornloe, Archbishop Williams, Canon Cody, Sir Joseph Flavelle, and other prominent citizens who have come out in favor of the policy of Government control, Dr. Godfrey said, "I feel proud to think I'm in such company. But Mr. Raney says we are all sinners; all on the downward path."

"When he says we are joined with the worst of company, I'm going to throw it back on his own head by asking him why he never prosecuted his own colleague (for he was then attorney-general) who carried on a drunken carousal on that "last awful night" of the Drury administration? Yet he has never hesitated to prosecute, perhaps I should say persecute, the Honorable Howard Ferguson, than whom I believe there isn't a bigger-hearted man in the province, nor a more able Parliamenarian; one who demands from any member of his cabinet that honesty shall be the first essential in the administration of public affairs.

Control Needed.

"I'm a temperance man, and as a physician I say that is the proper thing but let's control the liquor situation. Is it right to hand it over to the medical men of the province? I'm sick and tired of it. I'll place my record, and the record of this government, in the public limelight, and you can see what it is, and what the record of the O.T.A. is, after ten years' trial. We brought it in with the best intentions, but it has not accomplished what we had hoped. Other provinces have gone back to government control, and should the province of Ontario be led astray by any emotionalism?"

"Don't take a chance on four more years of Raneyism we are just over the top, and beginning to see the sun up when up bobs the 'bogey man.' Give us a chance to see that this province is a going concern."

"If we're trusting the people of Ontario, ladies and gentlemen, you can trust Ferguson." (Applause).

Mayor T. B. Chalk.

The candidate, Mayor T. B. Chalk, was the next speaker, and was well received at this, the initial meeting of his campaign.

"We have a sample to-night of the Cabinet mateial in the Honorable Howard Ferguson's government," Mr. Chalk said, referring to Dr. Godfrey's address, and went on to mention Honorable Colonel Price, "who had solved the financial deficit of $15,000,000 left by the U.F.O. government," and the Honorable Mr. Henry and his efficient administration of the Department of Highways.

"We have the finest province in the Dominion," the speaker averred, 'and one of the best governments, but into this election they are trying to bring the O.T.A. issue, and are giving the other departments practically no attention whatever."

"In my canvass the liquor question is almost the only one discussed, and I think it should be out of politics altogether. Personally, I do not believe the O.T.A. can be enforced. I am told that $1,000 worth of bootleg whiskey is distributed in Cobourg in one week.

"They are classifying us as wets, and drys, calling the Conservative party the wets, which I consider an insult. I believe this step in asking for government control is an advancement. Other provinces have substituted another law, and since the O. T. A. has proved a failure, why should not our province try another plan? I am convinced that the platform suggested by Honorable Howard Ferguson is the best possible."

In conclusion, Mr. Chalk stated: "I intend to support Government control, and I appeal to you for support for my election on December first. If I am returned I will lend my aid to any measure that will be for the advancement of liquor legislation." (Applause).

F. W. Bowen, M.P.

F. W. Bowen, M.P., spoke briefly, emphasizing his personal friendship for Mayor Chalk, and stating that he had always voted for the O.T.A. and supported temperance legislation. The O.T.A. had done good work at the first, but the enormous increase in bootlegging had made it advisable to change to Government control.

"This is the first time I have made this statement, but I have given this matter serious consideration. I believe it is better for any of us to leave liquor alone, and I was much perturbed when beer parlors were spoken of. I have been where they are in operation and I know they are not good. But, as the Premier said, that suggestion was only an incident in framing the policy and it has since been abandoned. Under the O.T.A. we have apparently not the control that will be possible with Government stores.

"I am assured that if this change to Government control turns out not to be better, or as good, as is expected, that your candidate will advocate a change to something that will be in the best interests of the country, and if you support Mayor Chalk I am sure you will make no mistake."

J. L. McCamus.

Ex-Warden J. L. McCamus, of Cavan, who was also nominated as the Conservative candidate for Durham, but asked to have the selection considered unanimous when Mr. Chalk received the majority vote by a small margin, was the concluding speaker.

Several years personal friendship with Mr. Chalk led the speaker to urge support of his candidature in strong terms, particularly as he believed him to be a firm temperance man.

Temperance legislation given this province by Conservative Governments was referred to by Mr. McCamus, adding the reminder, "Turn out and give our candidate your hearty support on December first."

Signatures to Mr. Chalk's nomination papers were received after the dismissal of the meeting with the National Anthem.

WATCH FRANCE AND ITALY ARE THEY HEADING FOR WAR?

War Clouds Already Gathering Above Blue Mediterranean.

RIVAL AMBITIONS.

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Corespondent.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—France and Italy are heading in for a future war in the Mediterranean unless wiser counsels prevail.

They are constantly rubbing each other the wrong way. Both are striving to modernize their armies and build up their navies and still be able to say to the world that they are reducing the cost of their armaments.

Each national press goads the other country. Sharp things are said and written.

Mussolini harrowed French feelings with his proclamation of a desire to reform Italian women's dress. It was a blow at French fashions. Subsequently he further aggravated France by placing obstacles in the path of French theatrical troupes presenting French plays in Italy.

But these are incidental. The underlying and principal source of dissension is Italy's Mediterranean ambitions. She would have the Mediterranean an Italian lake bordered by Italian colonies. Today, the Mediterranean is a much greater potential menace to world peace than the Pacific across which America and Japan are supposed to be making faces at each other.

Premier Benito Mussolini in a hostile caricature in "L'Oeuvre," Paris

Where the bulk of the British fleet is, there is the greatest danger. Before 1914, after Germany proclaimed that her destiny lay on the sea, the English fleet was in the North Sea where an eye could be kept on the Germans.

Today, that fleet is in the Mediterranean. Coincidence, perhaps, but it recalls Mussolini's Kaiser-like assertion that "we are a Meriterranean people and our future is on the sea."

France needs a clear path between her shores and her colonies in Algeria. From them come food-stuffs and, in war, great levies of men. Block that sea path and France is severely handicapped.

France feels at present that she is menaced by the new treaty between Italy, to the east, and Spain, to the west, some sections of which have been kept secret. Italy has Sardinia and Sicily on one side, Spain the Baleario Islands on the other. And Italy has signified that her needs for expansion include, Tunis, a French possession, and Syria, a French mandate.

That's the explanation of why the French people, while eager to economize, are anxious because the new government has taken steps to reduce the army.

Italy's remodeled army has 30 brigades of infantry, each consisting of three regiments of infantry and one of artillery. She has other military commands in the Alps, in Sicily and Sardinia. Also 12 regiments of cavalry, motorized convoys and artillery, 300,000 militia and 91 squadrons of airplanes with as many more contemplated.

In the Italian navy are 76 torpedo boat destroyers and 43 submarines, most of which are better than the corresponding French men-o'-war. And Spain, her new ally, has just begun a submarine and cruiser building programme.

All the sticks are laid for the fire: The resumption of the race in armaments.

New offensive and defensive alliances.

Colonial ambitions.

Super-heated nationalistic feelings brought about by constant journalistis and oratorical recriminations.

Of the last that which followed one of the recent attempts to assassinate Mussolini is representative. It brought the underlying feeling visibly to the surface.

Mussolini, afterward addressing his Fascist followers in Rome, said:

"It is time to finish with a certain unheard-of and culpable toleration beyond our frontiers if there is a real desire to have the friendship of the Italian people, a friendship which will be seriously jeopardized by incidents like today's."

Lest there be any doubt about his meaning, the perfectly controlled Italian press painstakingly said he meant France. It was demanded that France send back to Italy all the anti-Fascists who had found refuge in her borders. In France there are 900,000 Italians.

The French press, disregarding politics, retorted promptly.

"Soon an Italian anti-Fascist can't sneeze any more without Mussolini holding France responsible," said "L'Oeuvre."

Leaders in Church And State Favor Government Control

FOLLOWING their usual tactics in a campaign of this nature extremists who are supporting the O.T.A. are endeavouring to weaken the Government's cause by trying to create the impression that all the "good" people are on one side of the question and all the undesirable elements of society on the other.

They'll not succeed with such a plan of campaign on this occasion.

As a matter of fact there never was a time since the O.T.A. was first introduced that opposition to the measure has been so strong or voiced by so many leaders in various fields of endeavour as at present.

Many men who conscientiously worked for, and supported the O.T.A. when it first came into force have been studying the conditions for themselves and have come to the conclusion that if the temperance cause is to be saved it must be through a temperance measure that commands respect and public support, not by means of an act against which 49 per cent of the people registered a protest at the last plebiscite.

Prominent citizens of Ontario who find in the Ferguson policy of government control such a measure and are supporting it in the present campaign are many.

We quote from a few of them:

HIS GRACE ARCHBISHOP THORNELOE:
"I have very great hopes that the measures proposed by the premier will be found, if carried, a very great improvement over what we have been experiencing."

REV. CANON CODY, one of Canada's foremost divines.
"I believe Mr. Ferguson is seeking what in his judgment, and I am bound to say my own judgment absolutely agrees, will be a solution that will best promote the welfare of Ontario and create respect for law in this province."

PRINCIPAL W. L. GRANT, head of Upper Canada College.
"As a total abstainer of 25 years standing, as one who loves the young men of Canada and whose life is spent in doing his best for them, I am glad to align myself with Canon Cody, Sir Thomas White and Sir John Willison in support of Premier Ferguson in his fight against intemperance and lawlessness. Mr. Ferguson has taken a big step forward in the cause of temperance and of respect for the law."

REV. JOHN E. BURKE, C.S.P., pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, Toronto
"I was among those who favoured prohibition. The O.T.A. has been no blessing, drinking among the young is prevalent and the act cannot be enforced."

SIR JOHN AIRD, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce:
"I am entirely in accord with the programme of Mr. Ferguson who in his proposal has taken a sane and conservative step in solving what has promised to become a serious problem in this province. The O.T.A. has been a costly failure in many ways."

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE, noted temperance worker:
"With the elimination of the legal sale of liquor in public houses of entertainment I accept the sale of liquors through government agencies under a system of permits as probably the best obtainable change enforcible under the existing state of public opinion."

GEORGE B. NICHOLSON, chairman of the Ontario Plebiscite Committee of 1924 and member of the committee of 100 in 1916:
"A restrictive law cannot be enforced among the people unless they want the law." (He is supporting the Ferguson policy).

REV. A. C. CALDER, rector Holy Trinity Church, Chatham:
"I am convinced the O.T.A. is not a good law, I am conscientiously convinced that a system of government control as outlined by Premier Ferguson would be a better system to adopt."

J. B. McCALL, former Liberal Federal member for Northumberland:
"I am strongly in favour of Premier Ferguson's policy of government control. I consider the results of the O.T.A. most unsatisfactory."

SIR THOMAS WHITE, former Federal Finance Minister:
"Government control is a sensible and sincere attempt to deal with a difficult situation. The O.T.A. is not capable of adequate enforcement lacking as it does the strong support of public opinion."

C. H. BURGESS, police magistrate for the County of Peel who previously worked on behalf of the O.T.A.:
"My view of the matter is that the sale of liquor is out of control and running wild. My convictions are that the moral condition of the people has more chance of improvement under a controlled policy than by the present method."

HORATIO C. HOCKEN, M.P..
"Up to the present I have invariably supported prohibition. Now I am convinced the best interests of the people require something different. In the light of the experience of the last 10 years I have no hesitation in supporting Mr. Ferguson's policy."

These eminent citizens are not interested in the liquor traffic, they are not seeking to "debauch the province." On the contrary their record of service is proof that when they take a stand on a question of this kind they are actuated by what their sober judgment tells them is in the best interest of the people.

Their opinions carry much weight.

And their opinions are those of thousands of voters in this riding who on December 1st will VOTE FOR A SENSIBLE AND WORKABLE CONTROL OF THE LIQUOR QUESTION BY HELPING TO ELECT

MR. W. H. BRADBURN

PAPER ON READING READ TO INSTITUTE

Miss Mary Teal Tells Members of Benefits To Be Gained.

WOOLER, Nov. 16.—The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. W. J. McColl on Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of thirty ladies, and the President, Mrs. W. Orvis, was in the chair. After the business was conducted, the report of the Women's Institute convention recently held at Belleville, was ably given by the official representative, Mrs. L. H. Rowe, bringing an inspiration to the members to enable them to carry on the work with greater zeal and encouragement.

A paper, "The Art of Reading," was given by Miss Mary Teal, teacher of the High School.

"Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body, and as by one's health is invigorated, preserved and strengthened, so by the other virtue, which is the health of the mind, is kept alive, cherished and confirmed.

"Henry Ward Beecher likened books to the 'windows of the soul through which the mind looks out,' and Milton said as good almost, 'Kill a man as kill a good book, for many a man lives a burden to the earth, but a good book is the precious life-blood of a master spirit.'

"Without books not only would schools, colleges and universities disappear, but everything which we call culture would vanish and society would lapse at once into barbarism.

"Then logically what is true of society is equally true of the individual and he, who does not read, and read systematically soon finds himself to be out of touch with the world and lacking in sympathy with the social, political and scientific movements of the time.

"Reading gives us very valuable information. One cannot travel everywhere, meet people of all types, converse with men of all minds; but by means of the printed page he may do all that, even journey back into the past and make acquainantce of the great men who have lived in all times.

"What would we not give," someone sighs occasionally, "if there had been cameras in the days of Caesar that we might know just how he looked; if there had been phonographs in the time of Lincoln that we might hear his own words. But Caesar's writings give a more accurate estimate of the man than could any camera and Lincoln still speaks in the sayings which literature has preserved for us.

"History and fiction show the types of men who have achieved the motives which have guided the world's greatest men, the forces of which they have made use in overcoming their obstacles.

"Even this is not all, it fills the minds with lofty thought, touches the practical side of life and makes for better character and higher ideals. Such lines as Phoebe Cary's

If a task is once begun,
Never leave it till it's done.
Be the labor great or small
Do it well or not at all.

has an obvious lesson, and just this rhymed way of putting it makes such an impression on the child mind, that he never forgets it.

"There are three classes of readers—the simple, the intelligent, and the general. The first reads chiefly to occupy spare time without any particular purpose; the intelligent on the contrary, reads for information and remembers what he reads and value books according to the accuracy of their information while the general reader reads to broaden his intellectual and spiritual life, to purify his tastes, deepen his feelings, and broaden his sympathies. He seeks it because it leads him to a finer and fuller manhood. You must decide for yourself to which of the classes you belong, but whatever the class you will derive benefit from your reading. For the juvenile reading—the individuality of the child will be considered but a foundation of classic stories in prose and poetry, that have lasted for many years and appealed to the children of many generations, may well be read, such as the jingles of "Mother Goose" for the tickling of their fancy and sense of humor. The world of art — pictures, sculpture and literature—is based upon the stories of Greek and Latin, so that an early knowledge of their myths is almost invaluable.

"If the young mind is stored with these myths, the artists' conception of the Aurora Borealis, or the Fall of Troy make their meanings, detail and beauties if seen, intelligently understood. All children should meet our poet Shakespeare in his fairy play "A Midsummer Night's Dreams."

"A book not worth reading more than once is not worth buying. Many of the works of modern fiction are like the moth that flies in the light for an evening ,and then disappears forever.

"These works have their brief period of popularity, then they pass into oblivion. The standard works of fiction such as those of Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, Hawthorne Shakespeare, Tennyson and Longfellow are always popular.

"The inspiration derived from our reading should be enacted in our lives so that we can only think pure, noble thoughts.

"Hence let us all continue to read for Lavelle's reasoning: Because reading enables us to see with the keenest eye to hear with the finest ears, and listen to the sweetest voices of all times."

MEN OF ST. PAUL'S HEAR GOOD LECTURE

Ctiy Solicitor Jos. Wearing Speaks To Men's Organization.

"There were giants in those days," a scripture, was taken as the subject of a very interesting address given last night to the men of St. Paul's by Joseph Wearing, city solicitor, at their second monthly supper meeting of the season.

He fittingly applied the subject to men, not of big stature, but of big ideas like Moses, coming from his time right down to men like Wolfe, John A. McDonald and Brown, those who were responsible for giving Canadians their land and first birthday with a government. The year 1927 will mark Confederation's sixtieth birthday, and Mr. Wearing urged that these men should be commemorated at Canada's Diamond Jubilee.

A very good programme was provided, including recitations by Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland, in her usual entertaining manner, solos by Mr. Bryan, who was encored several times, and selections on the harmonica by Mr. C. S. Thompson were well received. Miss McFarlane acted as accompanist.

Hearty thanks were tendered Mr. Wearing and those who supplied the entertainment.

REV. MR. WREN ADDRESSES MEN

George Street United Church Society Hears Splendid Talk.

"LIGHT THAT ABIDES."

The second regular meeting of the men of George street United took the form of a luncheon, held at Hooper's tea room, on Monday evening.

Rev. J. E. Todd said grace and after the first course was served Trevor Miller led in a sing-song. After the routine business of the organization, and while waiting for the arrival of part of the George street orchestra's quartette, C. S. Thompson, temporary editor-in-chief of that famous paper called the "Gas-Bag," read its first edition. This chronicle was very well named and its editorials humorously ridiculed many members of the organization.

Messrs. Cunningham, Lillow, Thompson and Brian, the members of the quartette, rendered two comic selections and won the appreciation of their audience.

The president, Dr. J. E. Middleton, informed those present of the unavoidable absence of Dr. Lavelle and introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Mr. Wren, of Trinity church. Mr. Wren, after relating his association at college with Rev. Mr. Todd in an informal way, presented his subject, "The Book of God is the Light that Abides." Mr. Wren stated that it is gratifying to know that although some say, "The youth is not as great and heroic to-day as the youth of long ago," it is not so, for the youth of to-day is breathing a different atmosphere, intellectually and morally, than in the past. Although there are changes taking place politically, philosophically, in society and religion, invention and creeds, there are five pillars on which civilization rests, namely—the Bible, God's conception of Christ, Christ's conception of man, humanity's sense of sin, and the glorious hope of immortality.

Mr. Wren concluded his remarks by telling a story about being guided by a light while lost in the woods at night. In long ago when humanity had lost everything, lost God, lost ideals, and wandered in circles, the Book of God was the light that abided.

Dr. J. E. Middleton fittingly thanked the speaker of the evening and the meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

Always ready to treat small injuries

"BEST EVER" FOR MUSCLE-LAMENESS

Scout leader makes short work of strains, sprains, bruises

A Boy Scout leader at Utica, New York, has found a simple and always effective way of taking care of the lame muscles, the bruises, strains and sprains that "the scouts" are always bringing him for treatment.

"I just pat on a little Sloan's Liniment, as the bottle says, without rubbing," he writes. "It takes out stiffness and pain as nothing else will. We have it always on hand and we think it is the best ever."

Sloan's gives real help because it doesn't just deaden the pain: it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing tide of fresh, new blood—building up the injured tissues, clearing out the fatigue poisons.

Almost at once you feel relief. Stiffness, swelling, inflammation go down. The pain stops. Get a bottle today and have it on hand for the first emergency. All druggists—35 cents.

SOURCE UNKNOWN.

Cause of Fire in Temporary Basilica Still Remains Mystery.

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—The Quebec correspondent of the Montreal La Patrie wires his paper that he has been able to learn from reliable sources that the fire which destroyed the temporary basilica at St. Anne De Beaupre, and many priceless relics housed therein, last Monday, was the act of an incendiary and that his arrest is imminent.

"Since the destruction of the church," the correspondent says, "the ecclesiastical authorities have been conducting a minute inquiry into the origin of the conflagration, and although the Redemptorist Fathers have kept their findings secret, we have been led to believe by persons usually well informed that the Fathers are now in possession of information which will justify them in taking steps to cause the arrest of the alleged incendiary."

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (United Press).—Fringe is most important for evening gowns and wraps this season. We find three tiers of fringe of five-inch width acting as a flounce effect at the bottoms of several smart velvet evening coats. Usually the fringe matches exactly the color of the velvet and it dips downward slightly at the rear of the garment, extending upward toward the front. Frocks using the tiered skirt effect have the tiers edged in fringe of silk or beads. Hem borders of many frocks are terminated with fringe.

Dolman lines are dominating in evening wraps hence wide sleeves and loose wrappy lines are depicted in velvet, fur, metal brocades and gold or silver lame cloth. Collars and cuffs of these Dolman coats are usually trimmed in fur.

The tendency to raise the waist line upwards in front is typfied in many instances on Fall gowns. Where the rear of the gown has the deep blouse, the raised waist line is repeatedly used at the front. Many times the rear blouse terminates in drapery as it nears the front and is held by an ornament of some sort.

The brimmed hat must be of drooping type to be considered smart at present. Small, medium and wide brims are all being used in felts and velvets and brims are invariably slightly drooping. The popular street hat has a high draped crown with an irregularly turned-down brim. Some women turn the brim upward directly over the forehead with the remaining brim dipping irregularly. One must wear the hat well down over the eyes to do this successfully. Belting ribbon is the popular trim for these rakish shapes.

Though the black shoe will be extremely popular as Fall nears, black patent will not be considered as smart as ebony suede or some of the dull-lustered kids. Black shoes trimmed with red insets and red strappings are popular at resorts at present.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1926

Mercury and Jupiter dominate in benefic aspect to-day, according to astrology. Venus and Saturn are adverse in their influence.

Much new business is indicated for the press, which is to profit from a great increase in industrial advertising, the seers foretell.

This is an auspicious time for dealing in books and magazine, for which there will be an increased demand.

American authors now come under a direction of the stars that promises much for them.

Jupiter to-day smiles on merchants and manufacturers, who are to gain much from foreign trade, it is prophesied.

Farmers certainly are to profit, if the stars are read aright, for the world is to need food and to pay well for it.

There is a threatening sign to-day for women in industry and it is forecast that they will engage in a movement to establish equality of wage scale or some other demand.

This is not a lucky wedding day, since the bride or bridegroom may be subject to dictation from an older person, probably a mother-in-law.

While women are to accomplish wonders in public service, this is a planteary rule under which they should be quiescent.

This is not a promising direction of the stars for theatres and especially for those conducted under the old systems of management.

Real estate to-day is not well aspected and there may be temporary declines in value, but the seers foretell for this country a time when every foot of land will be in demand.

London astrologers predict the discovery of an important new anti-toxin for influenza by a French or German scientist.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather an unusual year in which it is well to guard against illness. Prosperity may be assured with average industry.

Children born on this day probably will have nobility of thought, imagination and spiritual vision. Many poets are born under this sign in which Scoprio and Sagittarius tendencies may mingle.

(Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

FOR NOVEMBER 17, 1926.

Astrologers read this as an unimportant day in planetary government; Mars is adverse, however.

Under this sway many vexations may be experienced and it is well to guard against small losses.

Egotism is supposed to be more apparent than usual while this aspect prevails and it is well to curb one's self-esteem lest it be the cause of severe criticism.

The sway is not encouraging to domestic peace, for quarrels may start at trifles.

This is not an auspicious rule for starting important engineering projects and it is well to plan rather than to execute.

Mechanics are to be in great demand, it is predicted, and for this reason it is well for young men and women, too, to prepare for employment that demands trained hands as well as trained minds.

Mars in a space approaching the opposition of Saturn is again accused of being the influence to which earthquakes, fires and mining disasters are largely due.

It will be recalled that at the beginning of the year astrologers gave warning of the things that have happened and they declare that malefic influence still is strong.

Foreign complications of various sorts again are foretold and our diplomats are to be put to the test.

Danger of a robbery more sensational than any recently reported is foretold and a distinguished visitor may be the victim.

Extraordinary extravagance in living and entertaining will mark the winter in many cities west as well as east.

Despite warnings that thrift should be practiced, the trend will be toward mad spending that will affect the poorer as well as the wealthier classes.

Persons whose birthdate it is may be brought into close association with physicians in the coming year when they will make many new friends among those who mitigate human suffering.

Children born on this day have the augury of fair success in life, although they may care little for practical things. They are likely to have artistic talent.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

At midnight, when the moon was bright and the air of a North Carolina road fragrant with the perfumes of bordering flowers, Will Porter, age six, and a chum made a stealthy foray and poached on the magnolia preserves of a prominent citizen of Greensboro. They returned down that moonlit road as stealthily as they came and Will Porter laid an armful of gorgeous magnolias on the door-step of Sally Coleman. Many years later this romantic incident was to bloom into a marriage ceremony between O. Henry, famous resident of Bagdad-by-the-Subway, and that same Sally Coleman, still of North C'lina.

But in the meantime many events were to take place. William Sydney Porter, which was the author's real name, now grown to young manhood, fell in love with Athol Estes, a daughter of Mrs. G. P. Roach. His love was reciprocated but Athol's parents objected, the reason being that the girl's father, and Porter's mother and grandmother had all died of tuberculosis. The love match, however, was not to be balked by such considerations. Porter borrowed a horse and buggy and late one night drove to the minister with Athol. Mr. and Mrs. Roach quickly became reconciled and remained O. Henry's best friends.

Not long after, Porter became embroiled in the affair that was to darken his life. Working in a bank, which had an unbelievably loose system of bookkeeping, he was accused of taking a sum of money and appropriating it for his own use. Rather than face trial and risk being convicted for something he protested he had not done, he ran away, an act he regretted ever after. He fell in with the then notorious outlaw, Al Jennings, who, too, was a fugitive, and these oddly assorted men lived in exile—"in the shadows," as this period of O. Henry's is now known.

One day Porter received from his loyal wife back home a box in which was carefully packed some clothes and articles of comfort. Later, by letter from friends, he learned that his wife had packed that box while her temperature was at 105. She was seriously ill. This brought O. Henry to himself with a start and he set out at once for home. He was arrested. The jury felt prejudiced against him for running away and he was judged guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary. He served over three years, a terrible ordeal for a sensitive man. During this time he sent his stories to New York magazines, but they were relayed by friends from another town so that the publishers were totally ignorant of the fact that they were written by a jail-bird. With the expiration of his sentence and his coming to New York, O. Henry began his life work in its true development, and fame came to him as atonement for the horrors he had gone through. His stories were eagerly read and the prices paid him quite different from what he had received during the times when his first short story was released to news papers by the McClure Syndicate. But meanwhile his wife had died.

O. Henry's meeting with Sally Coleman came about when her mother visited New York and found little Will Porter a literary celebrity. When she returned home she told the news to Sally. Sally was ambitious to write herself and in her desk reposed several magazines which she prized and because she so admired the stories they contained by "O. Henry." When she learned who her favorite author was, she was overjoyed and wrote to him for literary advice. The following is one of O. Henry's letter in answer:

"Now, I'll tell you what to do. Kick the mountains over and pack a kimono and a lead pencil in a suitcase and hurry to New York. Get a little studio three stories up with mission furniture and portierres, a guitar and a chafing-dish and laugh at fate and the gods. There are lots of lovely women here leading beautiful and happy lives in the midst of the greatest things in this hemisphere of art and music and literature, on a tiny little income. You meet the big people in every branch of art, you drink deep of the Pierian Spring, you get the benefit of the earth's best."

Soon after this, they were married.

Preserved ginger sometimes gives just the needed fillip to the taste of a dessert. It is worth while learning the possibilities of this toothsome sweet and using it occasionally for the sake of variety.

Apple Ginger.

Core, pare, and quarter three pounds of apples. Mix two pounds of fine granulated sugar with four ounces of ground ginger, make alternate layers of apples and ginger, in a wide-mouthed jar, and let this stand for two days. Pour over an ounce of ground ginger one cup of boiling water, add this to the apples in the jar, and let stand one day longer. Then cook the whole in a porcelain-lined preserving kettle for an hour. Care must be taken to cook the mixture slowly, to avoid burning, and in any necessary stirring, to avoid breaking the apples. Store in preserving jars. This is an imitation of preserved ginger-root, and may be served in small glass dishes for a sweet course.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

I am afraid every family that owns a boy is going through this problem. Martha B. is worried to death because sonny, age 17, wants to spend his savings bank money on a Ford.

"He has $140 in the bank in his own name, which I have helped him save in nickels and dimes since he was a tiny tot. Now he is going to High School and it takes him nearly an hour to get to school every day, entailing the whole household getting up very early. He could do the trip in less than 20 minutes by automobile. That's his argument—he considers a car a modern necessity.

"But of course, what he really wants is a car to take girls out in at night. We have lent him the family car once or twice, but it breaks his heart if his father and I want it when he wants it. He has always been a good boy till now, but this argument about the Ford is making him defy us. He says he will leave school and go to work rather than do without a car. What can we do?"

We Are Weakening.

I know all about it. We are going through it too, at our house. A half a dozen families I know are going through it. Personally father and I are trying "tact," fond reasoning, persuasive postponement, but we don't seem to be making the slightest impression. I am afraid we are weakening. All we have achieved is a grudging three month's respite on promised rewards of virtue for the first term's achievements in college.

Edna D. T. says her beau was out of work for two months, but that a month ago she got him a job with her firm. And now he is paying attentions to the manager's daughter, who is also a stenographer, and it is breaking her heart. She has to be nice to the manager's daughter, or else she will get fired herself.

Keep right on being nice both to the beau and the manager's daughter, Edna, and keep your chin up. If the situation becomes more than you can bear, hunt another job. But the young man cannot break your heart if you don't let him.

Mrs. Orville Manages.

Orville M. says he is a bank clerk, and a husband of a year's standing. His young wife is alarmingly ambitious for him and has developed an unpleasantly "managing" attitude. Will I please tell him how to cure a wife of being "managing?"

Yes, very awkward, I am afraid the young woman is not subtle enough about it. Of course capable wives usually are "managing" to some extent, but the clever ones are artful about it. Well, now, Orville it would seem that it is up to you to be the clever one, do your own "managing"—and be more subtle about it—if you can.

Philip D. is morally certain that a woman guest stole his wife's diamond pin, but she still visits their house (without invitation) and treats them with gushing cordiality. How does one get the goods on a lady like that? The pin cost $600.

A very delicate situation. You would have to have some tangible evidence against the lady to make an accusation. But you should notify the police of your loss, so that it might be traced if she tried to dispose of it. If you are insured against theft the insurance people would make some investigation.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

The figure displays a skirt of kasha pleated like thin material. It is part of a semi-sports frock of rose color. Below is the skirt of another sports frock showing novel pleating.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all the many and varied pleats of the present season is the inverted pleat found at the back of some of the practical new sports skirts—remarkable, however, only when seen by modern eyes, for there was a time well within the memory of many women when the inverted back pleat on skirts was taken as a matter of course. This inverted back pleat appears on a smart little hunting suit with an inverted box pleat in the jacket as well.

When in doubt have it pleated, seems to be the motto of the dressmakers nowadays, and the pleaters have certainly risen to the occasion. The well-equipped pleating shop has mechanical devices for laying and setting a wide variety of pleats and the skill of the pleaters is such that there is hardly a material that cannot be pleated. The woman who contemplates making some or all of her own clothes ought to visit one of these well-equipped pleating shops just to see what possibilities they afford. Material as heavy as kasha can be pleated as finely as crepe de chine and the effect is charming. Moreover, pleating nowadays does not come out as it used to.

The home dressmaker really ought to take advantage of all these new devices for pleating, stitching, braiding, picotting and hemstitching. The cost is trifling and the result is to give the sort of finish that keeps a frock from looking home made. Fan-like arrangements of pleats on either side of the skirt are made especially attractive when a material of contrasting color is inset so that it shows the fan is open. Insets of contrasting material may also be arranged when large box pleats are used so that the contrast of color shows only where the pleats open.

Really good ready-made clothes can be bought so reasonably nowadays and such good results in alteration can be secured in the work rooms of the shops where these ready-made things are sold, that there is no very great advantage or economy to be gained through making your own clothes. One almost wishes that the saving were greater—then more women would feel that they were justified in using time in making their own clothes. There is a fascination in handling the materials and in working out the little problems that are involved in the making of the new clothes.

Corns
removed — root and all

No one need suffer from corns. They are perfectly easy to remove if you go about it in the right way. To get rid of corns bodily take a Radox foot bath. When you dip your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts, the dead skin combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This protein salt dissolves in water like ordinary salt, and so loosens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily, root and all. Radox does not affect the living skin; it is only the dead skin of the actual corn which is dissolved. Your druggist can supply Radox. Half-pound pink package 60c.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND TUMBLE'S TOP

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

Tumble was one of the forty 'leve-little bunny children who lived with Uncle Wiggily Longears, his wife and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow. Tumble was a little boy rabbit.

There also were Bumble and Stumble, his brothers who were most like him. For Stumble was always stumbling while Tumble was always tumbling. As for Bumble, he was always trying to catch bumble bees, because he said he liked to hear them buzz. He never harmed them, always letting them go after he had played with them a while.

And once Bumble was stung while playing with a bee, and he let this one go much more quickly than he had ever let a bee go before.

But this story is about Tumble and his top, so I must get along with it, if you please.

One day Tumble fell down rather harder than usual and when he arose he had a toothache. Perhaps the tooth would have ached anyhow, if Tumble had not tumbled. But, anyhow, he went in the bungalow holding his paw to his mouth and crying.

"What's the matter?" asked Daddi-cums Uncle Wiggily, who was just going to hop away and look for an adventure.

"I have a toot—toot—I have a toot—" began Tumble, who could hardly talk.

He carried him piggie back.

"Oh, you have a toot, have you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I suppose you mean you have a horn and can toot it."

"Oh, no, no!" sobbed Tumble. "I fell down and I have a toot—toot—toothache!"

"Oh, that is quite too bad!" said Uncle Wiggily, picking up his little bunny boy in his arms and hopping back with him into the bungalow. "The toothache! Dear! Dear! I'll take you over to Dr. Bear, the kind dentist, and he will pull out the aching tooth."

Tumble's tooth ached so much that he wasn't afraid, as some children are, to go to the dentist's office. But the trouble was, when Uncle Wiggily got to Dr. Bear's house, the dentist was out and would not be in until next day.

"We shall come tomorrow," said Mr. Longears, carrying Tumble back home. But on the way the tooth ached worse and poor Tumble cried and sighed and said:

"I wish my toothache would stop, stop, stop!"

And just then Uncle Wiggily saw in a store window a pretty, red, toy top so the bunny gentleman said:

"Oh, you want a top, top, top; do you, Tumble? Very well, you shall have a top!" Now Tumble hadn't said top at all. He had just wished his toothache would stop. But he was so glad to get the toy his father brought for him that, for a time, he forgot about his tooth. He held the toy in his paws and reaching the bungalow, sat on the floor and played with it.

His tooth seemed to stop after a while, but all of a sudden it began again and Tumble, flinging his top from him, howled and cried again as the top flew across the room.

"I'll carry him on my shoulders piggie back," offered Uncle Wiggily, and this stopped the little rabbit boy's sobs for a while. However, the tooth kept on aching and Tumble called loudly for his top. But when they looked for it they couldn't find it. All over the room the search was made, but there was no top.

"This is going to be an all-night job, I think," said Uncle Wiggily with a sigh as darkness fell. "I'll put on my slippers and walk Tumble up and down the room. That may keep him quiet until we can have his tooth pulled tomorrow." But as Uncle Wiggily put one paw in his left-foot slipper, the bunny gave a jump and cried: "Oh! Wow! Ouch!"

"Did the Fox bite you?" asked his wife.

"No, but I jammed my toes against something in my slipper!" howled Mr. Longears and when he looked, there inside his slipper, where it had landed when Tumble flung it across the room, was the missing top, as red as a beet.

"Oh, there's my top!" cried Tumble. "Let me play with that and I will forget about my aching tooth!" So they gave him the top and he spun it and listened to the hum until he fell asleep and then his toothache stopped, and the next day it was pulled.

Thus everything came out all right, and if the hammer doesn't hit the nail on the head and turn it into a carpet tack, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Lulu's locket.

BROWNING SUIT IS POSTPONED

Request of Counsel For More Time To Prepare is Granted.

ALIMONY ASKED.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Nov. 16 (Canadian Press). — The suit and counter suit for separation between Frances ("Peaches") Browning and Edward W. Browning, wealthy middle-aged New York real estate man, which was originally set for December 4 at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., will probably not begin until the middle of January.

The request of Mrs. Browning's counsel, Henry Epstein, for more time in which to prepare his case, was granted by Supreme Court Justice Morschauser to-day, at the hearing of a motion to fix alimony for the girl wife and to set a sum for counsel fees.

Mrs. Browning is asking $4,000 a month alimony on which to live in keeping with "the plans to which she was lifted by her marriage," and $25,000 for counsel.

Mrs. Browning's counsel declared that Browning's suit charging her with cruelty and abandonment would be answered by admitting abandonment, but that she would counter with the assertion that abandonment was justified.

"From the marriage," said Epstein, "to the time she left six months later, Mr. Browning pursued a course of conduct which rendered life impossible with him from a physical standpoint, and made life with him also impossible from a moral standpoint."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

ROXANNA

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

The most poetically symbolical name in all feminine nomenclature is Roxanna. Though not particularly euphonious, it is, in its native tongue, the most equisite music. For Roxanna is really Roschana and means "dawn of day." It comes from the Persian where all the really lovely and uncommon feminine names arise.

Through the Persian poets and writers, it was brought to France. There it was less poetically called Roxane, Roxanne and Statire, as rival heroines of Racine, became proverbs in France for the stately or the languishing form of tragedy dame. Roxane's connection with the French drama straightway brought her to England where the name underwent Anglicization and appeared as Roxanna.

In this country, Roxanna is frequently used, but all too frequently, alas, it degenerates into Roxy. The tragedy of its history is the perishing of the original Persian Roschana, which is worthy of an individual niche in the history of feminine names, so redolent of poetry and music is it.

The lapis lazuli is Roxanna's talismanic gem. It will cure her of melancholy, drive away all her worries, and bring her happiness and laughter, according to an old prophecy. Wednesday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

Considerable interest has been shown in the discussion published a short time ago on new ideas for vegetable platters. In the course of this discussion, I told about a vegetable extracts with the appearance of brown gravy. Because of the fact that this appetizer is also a distinct addition to the diet, and because my readers are showing interest in this subject, it seems a good plan to tell a little more about this vegetable extract itself.

Its trade name is Savita and it can be purchased at the better grade grocers in large cities. Those who live in smaller places may send directly to the manufacturers—The Battle Creek Food Company, Battle Creek, Michigan.

To return to the vegetable sauce itself. The fact that it is a concentrated extract of vegetables means that it furnishes in unusually appetizing form a generous supply of two of the most important food groups—mineral salts and vitamins.

Besides its use as an attractive addition to vegetable platters, this extract gives a meatlike flavor to vegetable soups and gravies. This means, of course, that those who are denied meat and meat soups may partake of foods containing this extract with full assurance that they are living up to their physician's orders.

Referring again to those who must forego the appetizing qualities of meat, one realizes that there is something indiscribably appetizing about savory steaks, roasts and chops. In fact, this very quality is one of the chief advantages of meat foods, although not, of course, the only one. So it is that our friends who are ordered to cut out meat broth and extracts are denied that stimulation and refreshment that comes from the use of this type of food. The vegetable extract then is a friend indeed to such as these. All the family may use it, however, with advantage. Add some of it to the lettuce that forms the filling of the children's school sandwiches and see if they do not ask for more. Truly, the cook who understands the secrets of flavoring is the one who can best control the appetites as well as the nutrition of those whom she serves. Unfortunately, many appetizers are appetizers only. The outstanding characteristic of the extract of which we are speaking is that it is appetizing and nourishing at one and the same time. One of the vitamins present in vegetables of which it is composed is that known as the appetite stimulator. A food product of which this is a type is truly an all round friend. First, it makes us hungry, then it satisfies that hunger with wholesome and vitally necessary food elements. Nor is this all. The appetite thus stimulated may, if properly nurtured, be the very means of inducing an otherwise under-nourished person to eat other wholesome foods as well.

The sapphire is today's talismanic gem. Ancient superstition makes the wearing of the sapphire a certain proof against danger. It is one of the luckiest of stones, especially if worn in a ring. It attracts good luck to its wearer by bringing him wealth and position among his fellowmen.

A happy life is promised those who observe the superstition regarding the emerald, which is today's natal stone. It has the power to bestow upon them extraordinary intelligence and an almost uncanny gift of divination; in this way fortunes may be amassed by the wearer of an emerald.

Violet is today's lucky hue. It is particularly recommended for those who suffer from nervousness or insomnia.

IN DEFENSE OF "NONE ARE"

"Sir," says a letter to the New York Tribune, "it is startling to a mere lover of good English to note that to the New York grammarian 'none are' is incorrect. I suppose the critic is of the tribe that write 'illy' and 'overly.' According to the poor old dictionaries, 'none' may be either singular or plural, according to the meaning. Sometimes it means 'not one;' sometimes it means 'not any.' The problem is complex, but it is just the sort that invites some people to rush in where others would tread warily.

"As to 'none of these move us,' an examination of Acts XX, 24, will show "None of these things move me.' Probably Boston still follows the Bible."

To which the conductor of the "column" in the Tribune replied: "With the dictionaries and the Bible refuting us, we are driven straightway out of logic and into truculence. Just as long as we are caretaker of this turret "none' will be admitted only when accompanied by a singular verb. We are probably one of the world's worst grammarians, but we're awful stubborn."

SHORT STORY

"I don't mind telling you," confided young Jimmy Dawson to his friend Charley Underwood, as they smoked their post lunch cigars in the Belmont grill, "that Lesbia Carroll is just about all the brains in our firm. That girl's a marvel!"

"She's an easy creature to look at, also," replied Charley. "I've known her for years."

"Righto!" Then Dawson frowned. "There's something worrying me. The little simpleton has entered this fool contest for the world's best-looking and speediest typist, and I'm scared silly she'll win."

"If she did," finished Charley, "she'd be snapped up by movie men and the firm would lose its brains."

"You've said it," returned his friend gloomily. "But worse even than that, the girl would be utterly spoiled. Her picture blazoned from coast to coast. Simpering idiots writing proposals of marriage. All that sort of tommy rot."

"Pardon my inquiry, but have you —er—any personal interest in that matter?" asked Charley gently.

"Certainly not!" retorted the other with apparent sincerity. "Pure altruism alone incites me. If I could think of some scheme by which she could be kept from entering the finals, I would not hesitate to save her from herself."

"You'd stop at nothing?"

"Well, almost nothing!"

"I've got it then!" and Charley slapped his knee. "You say your sister is at her place on Long Island? Well, listen, here!"

An hour later, Lesbia Carroll looked up from her desk to see her employer striding toward her with an expression of determination on his comely face.

Looking down into her blue eyes, "Are you still set on being in that contest?" he demanded.

Lesbia tossed her curly bobbed head. "Certainly," she said. "Why not?"

Now young Jimmy had not been altogether sincere about his interest in Lesbia. In spite of himself, it was fast growing personal, but he would not recognize it if Lesbia persisted in advertising herself throughout the country.

Therefore, he now hedged somewhat in his reply. "There are many reasons, Miss Carroll. You are bound to lose interest in your work with us. And—oh, hang it—"

Lesbia flushed. "Please, Mr. Dawson. Please!"

"It's no use," he presently telephoned Charley. "She will go into the thing and with her looks and speed, she's bound to win. I'll get hold of my sister—lucky they used to be old friends in school—and we'll carry out that little plan. Means, I've got to get in a substitute here, but it's worth the trouble. It's up to you to see that your arrival with Lesbia is quite too late for the final contest."

Now to do Jimmy's sister justice, she was not informed as to just why Lesbia was sent to her for a week-end visit other than that Jimmy thought she needed a rest. But because she had been asked to include Jimmy's old friend, Charley Underwood, in the house party, she suspected a love affair and managed to throw them into each other's company as much as possible.

Therefore upon that poor man fell the duty of playing Machiavelli, at the same time that he was supposed to be enacting the role of an ardent Romeo. And it was probably not the first time that a well-meaning friend cursed his well-meaning friendship for precipitating him into unseen difficulties.

On the morning when the final contest was to be held, Jimmy Dawson's cruiser swung slowly up the East River.

Her owner was pacing the dock at which she was to land, and now and then he glanced nervously at his watch, while a few yards away, a taxicab with its engine still running quivered on the cobblestones.

As the boat drew near, Jimmy went over to the top of the ladder which led down to the float and, as Lesbia started up, he reached down and grabbed her arm. "Hurry, Lesbia," he cried. "The contest was postponed until eleven, but we've only about fifteen—no, thirteen minutes, in which to make it. Hurry!"

But Lesbia seemed in no great haste, while Charley, now on the scene, was regarding Jimmy with an expression decidedly curious.

"Hurry," said Jimmy. "Only twelve minutes!"

"But I'm not going to enter!" cried Lesbia. "I know that Charley, for some reason or other doesn't want me to. Ever since we left your sister's, he has been inventing delays and imagining that one thing after another was wrong with the boat. We've stopped twenty times on the way!" Then she slipped an arm through Charley's. "Mr—er—Dawson, Charley and I—" she paused.

"Sorry, old man," said Charley. "You see—we've gone and fallen in love and now she's won me, she doesn't seem to care about winning anything else!"

Jimmy grabbed their hands. "Congratulations!" he said, and there was no doubting his sincerity.

But later, when the two men were alone, Charley could not refrain from just one question. "How come, Jimmy, you made such a right-about face about Lesbia's going in for that affair?"

Jimmy looked sheepish. "I—I sort of lost interest in what she did," he confessed. "And I didn't want it on my conscience that I'd stood in her way. I—I say, Charley, you ought to see the girl who's taking her place! Gloria, her name is—and, gosh, she's got brains, too!"

HERE'S HOW TO CURE ASTHMA

In the preceding article I explained to you how asthma is caused entirely by an excessive amount of stomach and intestinal gas, and the fact that the patient has poor control of the diaphragm.

The way to get the quickest results, if you are suffering from asthma is to start at once to get rid of the gas pressure. The simplest way to do this is to start immediately on a fast, and expect to continue this fast for at least a week or ten days.

You may take a plain water fast, drinking only water, as much as you desire, but the orange juice fast is usually quite successful in quickly bringing about good results. You may change the water diet by the addition of the juice of one or two oranges every two hours during the day. Lemon or grapefruit juice may also be used in place of the orange juice.

A daily enema of one quart of warm water should be used, more if necessary, in order to remove a large amount of intestinal gas.

After the first day on this fast, if you are using adrenalin or smoking any powders you should stop this so that the drugs you have been using can be thrown out of your system by the end of the fast and no more be added afterwards.

The heavy breathing will usually disappear in from twelve to forty-eight hours, and will never again appear during your life-time if you will follow the rest of these instructions.

After you have fasted for ten days, start the following diet on the morning of the eleventh day.

BREAKFAST

One egg. (Prepared in any manner, except by frying.)
Three or four pieces of Melba toast. (Prepare the toast by cutting bread one-quarter of an inch thick and toasting in the oven until it is brown all the way through. Butter as desired at the table.)
Five stewed prunes, or an approximate amount of figs or raisins. (These to be prepared without sugar.)

LUNCH

Choice of one of the raw acid fruits listed below: apples, apricots, peaches, nectarines, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, plums, loquats, cherries, berries, pineapple, tomatoes and melons.

DINNER

Choice of one of the following proteids: lean beef, mutton, fowl, turkey, rabbit or fish.
Choice of two of the following cooked, non-starchy vegetables: celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, cucumber, egg plant, beet tops, turnip tops, small carrots, small parsnips, small turnips, pumpkin, lettuce, okra, chayotes, oyster plant (salsify), mallow kale, zucchini.
Choice of one of the raw salad vegetables listed below: celery, spinach, asparagus, cucumber, parsley, small beets, small carrots, small turnips, lettuce, oyster plant, mallow, nasturtium leaves and flowers, endive, alligator pear, ripe olives.

Take an enema daily for one month: at which time the enema may be discontinued and the bowels will move normally, if you will wait at least three days.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE LAUNDRYMAN

I am the laundryman. I come
Around each week and get the wash.
And, if I'm ever rather glum,
I have a right to be, b'gosh.
I've come around a certain day
For six or seven seasons steady;
It doesn't matter anyway,
They seldom have the laundry ready.

"They also serve who stand and wait,"
Once Milton said, and, if it's true,
The laundry service must be great,
For that's the biggest thing we do.
A pillowslip she has to get,
She has to run and find a teddy,
I seldom saw a woman yet
Who ever has the laundry ready.

The day of Judgment will occur
Some morning, I am sure of that;
But I am worried over her,
The woman in the second flat.
Although on high she'd like to go,
Although her faith is strong and steady,
She'll have no snow-white garments though—
She didn't get her laundry ready.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

Maroons and Rangers to Open National Hockey League

SENATORS' STAR MAY NOT PLAY

Joe Tubman May Not be in Again This Fall.

KICKING HALF

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov 16 (Canadian Press).—With each hour making it more certain that Joe Tubman, star kicking half of the Ottawa Senators will not be in the game again this Fall, other members of the team are redoubling their efforts to take the field next Saturday in the finest possible shape. Charlie Connell returned to the fold last night when the Dominion champions reported for practice to tone down for the Eastern Canada semi-final against Balmy Beach here on Saturday afternoon.

The kicking duties will likely be handed over to Joe Miller. Miller has shown more than any of the other players in the way of booting, though Harry Kehoe put on a good display against both Varsity and Argonauts. Kehoe can boot but he has not the hands of Miller. Lynch will likely be the second man on the rearguard when Ottawas are on the defensive.

With the exception of Tubman and Connell the team is free from injuries, having come out of Saturday's game in Toronto in good shape.

Wintry weather has put Lansdowne Park in bad condition, but measures are being adopted this week in the care of the gridiron which it is hoped will put the playing field in good shape for the big contest. Sand and sawdust will be applied and a roller will be utilized freely.

Arrangements are being made to handle a bumper crowd and many out-of-town requests have already reached football headquarters here for reservations. It is expected that Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Willingdon will attend, an invitation having already been extended to them.

EDITH CAVELL BEAT CRUSADER

Daughter of Man-o'-War Takes Measure of Crusader.

AT PIMLICO

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 16—Edith Cavell, Walter M. Jeffords' three-year-old daughter of Man o' War and The Nurse, in a magnificently run race, took the measure of the mighty Crusader in the running of the two miles and a quarter of the Pimlico Cup Handicap. She hung out a new track record of 3.52 1-5 for the distance and won $8,325.

The filly was in under the teather of 93 pounds, while Crusader had 126 pounds on his back. The only other starters were Princess Doreen and The Clown, both bearing the silks of the Audley aFrm Stables, and they were beaten off forty lengths being eased up in the stretch.

It was the last day of the Pimlico meeting.

NO PLACE TO FIGHT SO SHARKEY WAITS

Contract With Brooklyn Promoter Seems Useless To Bostonian.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—All signed up and no place to go, appears to be the situation of Jack Sharkey, conqueror of Harry Wills.

In a splash of gratitude for the opportunity Humber J. Fugazy gave him to reach the pugilistic summit through the medium of the Wills fight, Sharkey entered into an agreement binding him to box for the Brooklyn promoter this winter.

Fugazy, however, has been unable to obtain an indoor arena thus far. The Boston heavyweight, consequently finds himself tied to a contract which, for the time being, appears useless.

After a conference with Fugazy, Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, said he would present his problem to the New York State Athletic Commission. If he can break from the Fugazy agreement, he indicated he would accept an offer from Tex Rickard to match Sharkey against Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight champion.

PRO GOLFERS AWARD 1927 CHAMPIONSHIP

To the South For the First Time in History of the Organization.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—The Professional Golfers' Association yesterday elected a new president, awarded its 1927 championship to the south for the first time in the history of the organization, and discussed steps of defence against an impending invasion of British stars next July.

After delegates from 22 districts had voted to stage the title fixture next Fall at the Cedar Crest Country Club of Dallas, Texas, Alex. Pirie of Chicago was elected to succeed George Sargent of Columbus, O., as head of the association.

Announcement of Great Britain's intention to send an invading team of professionals across the Atlantic was contained in an official letter from the British Profesional Golfers' Association. At least eight well known players will visit the United States to participate in the open championship at Oakmont and to engage American pros in a return international team match.

The British organization revealed that a trophy, similar to the Walker Cup played for by British and American amateurs, has been offered in an effort to bring about permanent international team competition between professionals.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

NEW YORK N.H.L. OPENS TONIGHT

Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers Provide Initial Tilt.

GALA PERFORMANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Tonight's opening of the local National Hockey League season promises to be a gala performance. The world's champion Montreal Maroons and the newly-formed New York Rangers will provide the initial tilt, with the visitors strong favorites to calk up their first victory of the season.

The Rangers took to the ice for light practice yesterday afternoon, after which Lester Patrick, manager announced his lineup for tonight's game. Hal Winkler will guard the nets, with Taffy Abel, the only American born player on the team, and Ching Johnson on the defence. Frank Boucher will play centre, flanked by the Cook brothers, Bill and Bunny.

Clint Benedict, goal; Reg. Noble and Dunc Munro, defence, and Nels Stewart, Punch Broadbent and Babe Siebert on the forward line are expected to comprise the Montreal regular sextette.

The game will be broadcast by station WMSG, as will all professional games throughout the season. Lou Marsh of Toronto will be in charge of the whistle.

The West Point Cadet Orchestra of 126 pieces will render the music, and an ice ballet will entertain the customers during the intermissions at the opening game. The proceeds of the game are for the benefit of the Grosvenor Neighborhood House. A complete sell-out is anticipated.

MARMORA HOCKEY CLUB IS ORGANIZED

J. P. Marrin is President and Good Season is Expected.

MARMORA, Nov. 16.—An enthusiastic gathering of local hockey fans took place on Friday evening at the barber shop of Messrs. Jones and Shannon. The reorganising of the Marmora Hockey Club was the matter in hand. F. S. Johnston was voted to the chair and election of officers proceeded with.

The officers are:

President—J. P. Marrin.

1st Vice President—F. S. Johnston.

2nd Vice President—R. E. Bonter.

Secretary - Treasurer — T. W. Rhind.

Executive—G. Forestell, C. Jones, and J. D. Narrie.

Manager—A. Shannon.

Assistant—John Jones.

At a meeting of the Executive following, the management of the rink was first dealt with. J. Finnegan, Sr., again consented to take the rink on the same basis as he did last year this proving quite satisfactorily to all concerned. Healthy discussion of the Club's finances concluded the evening's business. The team's colors will be green and white as in previous years. The Executive now awaits the second annual meeting of the Hastings County Hockey League in which it hopes to enter as strong a team as did duty last year. With talk of a High School team also on the ice this winter, hockey fans anticipate an interesting season.

FEATURE GAMES IN U. S. FOOTBALL

Only Two Definite Championships Were Decided Over Week-End.

ARMY DEFEATED

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—After another knockdown and drag out week-end of football, only two definite championships were decided. Princeton cinched the championship of the one-time "Big Three" and Southern Methodist cinched first position in the southwestern conference.

The day's results, while not official also helped to establish Notre Dame and the Navy as the greatest teams of the season.

Notre Dame plodding through a schedule that only the bravest would attempt, lived up to every hope that had been entrusted to Knute Rockne, by beating one of the greatest teams that ever represented the U. S. Military Academy.

While the Army was going down to its first defeat of the season, a defeat that spoiled its ambition for a national championship, the Navy squeezed through a victory over a great Georgetown team.

The Navy, therefore, stands out today as the first team in the East. Brown, Lafayette, New York University and Boston College have not been defeated but none of those teams has gone through the schedule that the Navy has passed through.

Notre Dame, for the same strong schedule reason is the ranking team of the Middle West.

Michigan's victory over Ohio State—narrow as it was—pushed Ohio State down the list in the western conference.

Michigan and Northwestern are now tied for the "Big Ten" lead.

Alabama still leads the race in the Southern Conference and Stanford seems to be the best winning team on the Pacific coast.

LESS CONFIDENCE IN OTTAWA CAMP

Worst Defeat in Years For Senators Is Not Relished.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 16. — The Ottawa Senators returned from Toronto on Sunday morning after suffering their worst defeat in years at the hands of the Argonauts on Saturday afternoon, when they went down by a score of 24 to 0 before the whirlwind attack of the Toronto Scullars. No excuses are offered by the club officials for the disaster although Coach McCann and several of the players feel the reverse very keenly.

It was not expected that the Senators would stake everything they had on winning the game but the fans were very much disappointed when the final score was flashed on the bulletin boards. The players have nothing to say but there is a strong rumor of severe measures if some of the members of the team do not put their heads down and get to work.

With Balmy Beach here on Saturday in the semi-final game for the Eastern Canada title, Tubman definitely out of the game, and a possibility that Charlie Connell will also be an absentee, there is a whole lot less confidence than radiated from the Ottawa camp a week ago.

Yesterday's practice was in the evening as usual, but starting to-day the team will hold daylight workouts, commencing each day at one o'clock.

TWO SENIORS IN THE N.O.H.A.

Secretary Charlton and Angus Campbell Elected Life Members.

C. W. TASK PRESIDENT

NORTH BAY, November 16. — The Northern Ontario Hockey Association held its annual meeting here on Saturday, when delegates were present from all the northern towns including South Porcupine, which is once again in the northern group. Haileybury is back in the central section and Sault Ste. Marie and Chapleau have returned in the southern group. Indications are that there will be two senior groups in the N.O.H.A. with four clubs in each group.

By a motion which was passed unanimously Secretary Charlton was made a life member of the N.O.H.A. along with Angus Campbell of Cobalt.

The treasurer's report, presented by Mr. Charlton, showed the total credit to be $874.10. This statement was not so gratifying as in past years, since only a junior team could be sent to Toronto for play-off games.

In order to avoid printing of a separate book of rules and regulations for the N.O.H.A. the O.H.A. rules and constitution were adopted by the meeting.

Some feeling was expressed with regard to the appointment of referees in the final play-offs between N. O.H.A. and O.H.A. representative teams, and as a result the following recommendation was made, which will be presented at the annual meeting of the O.H.A.:

"That the question of referees in the O.H.A.-N.O.H.A. play-offs be left to the discretion of the secretaries of the two bodies, and that the appointments as arranged by them be made before the games in writing."

"Officers were elected as follows: President, C. W. Task, Iroquois Falls; vice-president, C. O. Baker, North Bay; secretary-treasurer, W. A. Thompson, North Bay; executive committee, D. R. Mitchell, Sudbury, and D. Sutherland, Haileybury.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to life members A. D. Campbell of Cobalt and Secretary-Treasurer H. P. Charlton for their untiring efforts in the interest of the organization during the past year.

President C. W. Task and Secretary-Treasurer W. A. Thompson were appointed delegates to the annual meeting of the O.H.A. in Toronto.

STRIBLING UNABLE TO STOP LEVINSKY

Old Battler Groggy But Never Off His Feet.

DES MOINES, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Young Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight boxer, decisively outpointed Battling Levinsky, former champion, in their 10-round bout here Saturday night, in the opinion of newspapermen.

The fight was a tame affair after the third round.

Stribling showed his skill and speed in the first and second rounds, driving his powerful left home almost at will, but not delivering a knockout punch.

Levinsky was never off his feet, although groggy from eight hard lefts in the second.

HARTZ LOWERS 50-MILE MARK

Auto Racing Champion Increases Lead Over Field at Charlotte.

FORCED OUT TWICE

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Nov. 16 (Associated Press).—Harry Hartz, of Pomona, Calif., holder of the 1926 automobile racing crown, is today a greater champion than ever as a result of his record in the American championship sprint races at the Charlotte speedway last week.

In additon to breaking the world record for 50 miles, he was second in one of the 25-mile races and fourth in the 100-mile contest.

These victories added 155 points to the 2,789 he already possessed in the American Automobile Association rating, giving him a total of 2,954.

Frank Lockhart of Dayton, Ohio, runner-up to Hartz, broke the world record for 25 miles, and had excellent prospects for capturing both the 50 and 100-mile races but was forced to withdraw because of car trouble.

In the 100-mile race Lockhart was a mile and a quarter ahead of the next car when the connecting rod broke on the 44th lap. Lockhart was leading in the 50-mile event when engine trouble again caused his retirement.

The 100-mile feature event was won by Leon Duray of Beverly Hills, Calif., who also came second in the 50-mile race. He shot around the mile and a quarter track at an average speed of 122.5 miles per hour.

All Show Speed

Dave Lewis of Signal Hill, Calif., crossed the finishing line first in the other 25-mile race, covering the distance at an average speed of 127 miles per hour.

Hartz completed the 50 miles at an average speed of 129.35 miles per hour, which broke the previous record of 128.24 held by Peter De Paolo, 1925 champion.

The record of 25 miles was made by Lockhart at 132.3 miles per hour, which smashed the record of 130.39 made by Duray.

Bennie Hill of Harlem, N.Y., displaced Earl Cooper as champion for the five mile distance by traveling around the track at 130.369 miles per hour. Cooper's record was 127.659. He also broke his own record of 129.496 by covering ten miles at an average speed of 131.32 miles per hour.

BOOK REVIEW

GRAIN, a Romance of the Wheat Country, by Robert J. C. Stead, which has just been published by McClelland & Stewart Limited, Toronto, is a significant contribution of the serious literature of Canada. It far surpasses any previous story by this well known author, and will probably establish him in a category far ahead of that in which he has been found in the past. GRAIN is a fascinating presentation of a familiar type of boy of the Canadian farms, of the current generation; it traces his development, absorbingly, from little boyhood through adolescence, into young manhood in the rural isolation of the prairie grain fields, and reveals sympathetically the reaction of his type of character to the peculiarities and limitations of his environment, on a farm settled by a familiar Ontario pioneer family and developed with a clutter of modern machinery and engines.

The novel as an artistic achievement, is a remarkable advance not only beyond Mr. Stead's previous work, but beyond any other novels of western Canada life yet published. The boy is surrounded by a rural community of interesting characters distinctly drawn and charmingly familiar to any one who knows rural life in western or central Canada. They are set out with insight and fine balance and without exaggeration for dramatic effect; and the author has succeeded in making an absorbing and significant story out of the small events of their superficially monotonous daily affairs. It is Mr. Stead's first novel of character study. He displays indisputable genius in his clever invention of revealing incident, in the skill with which he sets character against background, and in the manner in which he develops the significance of apparently trivial matters. There is a true feeling of the Canadian farm in the book; readers with experience of farm life find many passages vivid and poignant.

In craftsmanship GRAIN is notably better than any previous story by Mr. Stead. He has written gracefully, with a perceptible improvement in diction, and with a calculated restraint which is effective. The narrative is constantly relieved by the gentle flickering humor which has always characterized his writing, but which is here employed with real artistry to keep the sun shining through the bleakest passages, and to provide the reader with constant surface amusement.

BLIZZARD

The face of Satan, the brain of a genius, the body of a Caliban, the strength of a master of men.

That was Blizzard. The most remarkable, the most fascinating character ever presented to photoplay followers dominates a picture that ranks among the greatest ever produced.

Don't fail to see it.

Playing Is Revelation Says Ensign C. Webber

"Be sure and hear the Australian Band if you possibly can. They are superb, and a treat of a life time. They have been here for three days, and their playing was a revelation of what a brass band can do. I am sure you will enjoy it.

Coughs and Colds

Are dreaded by Mothers who do not know of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

What a weight of responsibility rests on the mother of the family during the cold weather season. In every cough and cold she seems to hear the warning of serious developments. She dreads croup, bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption and realizes that these are the natural result of neglected colds.

But Dr. Chase has provided a prompt relief for coughs and colds and a preventive of more serious ailments of throat and lungs, in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This medicine is so well-known that only a reminder is necessary to most people to recall its effectiveness in relieving croup, bronchitis, asthma and all forms of throat and bronchial troubles.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothes and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and many other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

JEAN FORD TOLMIE (Miss Toronto) appearing with Capt. Plunkett's Revue of 1926, Grand, Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20. Saturday matinee.

Musical Notes

ALFRED H. PAXTON,

solo cornetist, Australian National Band; is also an Australian champion, and inter-State champion many times over. His highly-strung nervous temperament makes solo playing very trying to him but as assistant to Arthur Stender, and soloist in selections, he stands alone. Probably no player to-day has such brilliant executive ability as Alf. Paxton. As solo cornetist for the Malvern Tramways Band, he established a reputation for himself in Australia and New Zealand that will never be effaced. It has been freely stated by the press of the various countries where the band has been that no band in the world to-day has such a team of solo cornets: Arthur Stender, Alf. Paxton, "Scotty" Armour, and Harold Collins.

JOSEPH H. HARDY,

soprano cornet soloist, Australian National Band. In non-reed bands the soprano, or Bb cornet, takes the highest parts; usually given to the Eb clarinets. It solo work that given to the flute is taken by the soprano cornet. It is, therefore, a most important and certainly difficult instrument to play. It is tiring to the lips, and a successful player must have wonderful lip-control in order to stand the strain, and be able to play in tune. It is here that the true artist shows himself. There are many players who have the "lip" necessary, but their artistry and intonation are at fault. Just here is where we hand out the palm to Joseph Hardy. He is an artist to his finger-tips. Dainty and delicate in all his work, he "comes in" without being noticed. As one writer said, he "glides" into a solo, doubling with the soloists for the time being with all the ease of an organist pulling out a copuling stop. A consummate artist is J. H. Hardy.

CLARRIE COLLINS,

solo trombonist, Australian National Band. Critics have dubbed Clarrie the "Caruso of the Trombone!" And what better appellation could be given? The trombone is the purest instrument known, next to the human voice, and in making instruments the tenor trombone was to represent the tenor voice. But what a travesty on such a high ideal is the usual trombone playing one hears! As Caruso was the brightest star in the constellation of the world's artists, so Clarrie Collins is the star premiere among trombonists. Confident in the strength of his own ability, with a tone that rings like the voice, he literally swamps all opposition. Clarrie Collins is another product of the excellent competitive system of band contests in New Zealand and Australia. Competitions are held every year for soloists on every instrument in the band. Often a thousand men and boys will compete, the contests lasting over a week, and as much as $5,000 being given as prize money. Some classes, such as cornet and trombone, have as many as eighty in one event! To win through to first place is some distinction. Four years ago Clarrie Collins could not get a place in his band to play in the contest, but competed in the solos and astonished, not only his own band, but the music-world of Australia. Opprtunity was presented to him, he took it, and made good. To-day he is without a compeer!

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of recovery was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely healed my rupture. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may have a complete recovery without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen Carpenter, 599 N Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N.J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

DR. MITCHELL IS O.H.A. CANDIDATE

J. P. Bond of Peterboro, who has been a member of the O. H. A. Executive for a long time, has again been nominated for the position, and will command his usual support from the clubs.

A new candidate this year, who is highly thought of among those who know him, is Dr. Mitchell of Collingwood, who has been identified with hockey in the Collingwood district for 25 years. Dr. Mitchell is chairman of the Board of Education in Collingwood, one of the Dominion championship whist players, president of the Collingwood Hockey Club for several years, and is known to his friends as a 'square-shooter' on all occasions. Men of his type are needed in sport.

HUNTERS RETURN.

Report That Deer Are Not So Plentiful as Last Season.

The Windover Mountain Hunt Club has returned after a week's hunting around Squaw River and Long Lake in Galway. The party was successful and enjoyed the outing. It was composed of F. L. Roy, R. A. Brown, Dr. A. A. Cameron, S. H. Haskill, W. G. Harris, J. W. Fraser, J. W. Brightman, H. Gill, Roy Hutchinson, H. Lacheur, and C. E. Smith. They say deer are not so plentiful as they have been seen in other years.

Peterborough, Nov. 14, 1926

The Editor, "Examiner,"
Peterborough.

Sir.—Last Saturday's Examiner contained a sublime drawing by the Ontario Prohibition Union. Does it represent the young ladies and young men of our days born brainless—or with heads like footballs—incapable or unable to look after themselves.

It is certainly an awful-looking drawing to be delivered at a person's home, and would certainly take first prize at a lunatic asylum.

Evidently the ladies' dresses grow shorter and shorter as the Government control is handed out.

No wonder Lindsay has ordered a consignment of fig leaves for next Spring.

Yours,

Only one service (Anglican); no meeting; one lone figure, Sergeant Walter Wade, in uniform, to sound the Last Post at the Memorial; count all flags on fingers of one hand, and that is the way we commemorate the sacrifice of the dead.

VETERAN

Monday, November 15th.

Dear Editor of our daily paper, which we do appreciate very much.

May I have a space, please?

On Saturday night we listened to a splendid Gospel sermon by an out-of-city pastor. It was good, but about at the end he seemed to be mostly addressing the fifty or sixty children. He referred to men who smoke a pipe, or use tobacco, as dirty, smelly creatures. We would like to ask our own city pastors: Do you think it was a fair deal to send children home with a despiseful thought towards their Dad? For after all, it was he who put the thank offering dollar or dollars in the envelope.

But let us tell you what one little nine-year-old girl said: "My Daddy is not a dirty, smelly creature. He told me he has worked hard since he was eight years old, and he works hard to get us kids clothing, and even candy every pay-day night, and I love to see him enjoy a smoke, and I am glad that minister will not come back for ten years. If he did, I would not go to hear him. Our own dear good pastor never says anything mean about Daddy or anyone's Daddy.

We would quite agree with the little miss who thus defends her dear Daddy, and we thought it would look pretty good in The Examiner.

Yours very respectfully,
A LOVER OF CHILDREN

FINE EXAMPLE ARTISTIC WORK

Large Illustrated Address on Display Is Work of Local Man.

BEAUTIFULLY DONE.

In the window of the Robert Neill Company's shoe store is displayed just now a very fine example of artistic caligraphy, the handiwork of Mr. J. Kennett of this city. It is a large illustrated address from the boys of the Freemantle (Church of England) Day School in Southampton, to their master, Mr. Alfred Marshall, retiring after a period of thirty-two years. The design has been elaborately executed, with a large scroll heading the address, and a beautiful foliated border done in varied colors of blue, orange, green and red. The capitals also are tinted in the same style with water colors. The whole effect is exceptionally pleasing and artistic, and is a credit to the careful and expert work of the skilful designer.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET.

Salvation Army League Members Hear Interesting Talk By Adjt. Ham.

Under the auspices of the Young People's League of the Salvation Army, a very interesting meeting was held in the Young People's Temple last evening, with an attendance of about one hundred and fifty of the junior members of the church. Adjutant Frank Ham gave an instructive travelogue, entitled "A Trip Around the World," illustrated by lantern slides.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL

LON CHANEY IN "THE PENALTY."

In one of the best of his many weird characterizations, Lon Chaney has the stellar role in "The Penalty," the screen dramatization of the story of the same name. His peculiar flair for creating terrible people on the silver sheet has full scope in the Satanic atmosphere imparted to the character of Blizzard, the central figure in "The Penalty." And he does not appear to strive for efforts in this picture, as he has done in other roles. It is indeed a strange art that gives him the power to portray evil with such fidelity.

Blizzard is the dark genius of the Barbary Coast of San Francisco, and the master of hundreds of crooks and thugs. As a child, he has been mutilated for life by the too hasty action of a surgeon in amputating both of his legs, after an accident. He swears vengeance on the physician who is responsible, and proceeds to build up an organization that is to assist him in securing mastery of the city. His mad dream of power includes a wholesale revolution and consequent looting of the treasury by himself and his lieutenants. The story unfolds itself in the macabre fashion that characterizes all of this actor's work. Barbara Ferris, the daughter of the surgeon who has ruined Blizzard's life, advertises for a model for a bust of Satan, and Blizzard responds. He obtains a mental control of the girl, and then uses it in an effort to force her father to comply with his wishes and graft a pair of legs onto his body. Another odd twist to the story is given by the inclusion of the character of Rose, a girl detective who gets into Blizzard's house in disguise, then falls in love with the evil, strong-willed man.

Lon Chaney has chosen his habitual unhappy ending for this story. Even when circumstances have changed the course of his life, and he is trying to do good, rather than evil, the penalty of his years of misdoing comes upon him, and he dies.

It is a powerful picture, unusual as all of Chaney's productions are, and shows him at his very best in strong characterization work.

AT THE GRAND.

When Jean Ford Tolmie, Canada's most celebrated queen of beauty, was appearing in the international pageant at Atlantic City a theatrical manager and two artists, each gave her personal letters to Florenz Ziegfeld, with the urgent request that she be sure to call on him in New York and that they had spoken to him of her.

But she returned to Canada first and Capt. Plunkett got in ahead of the famous American glorifier. He put Miss Tolmie, otherwise "Miss Toronto" in the new revue which he has just brought to this country.

The production itself, with the beauty queen appearing in person, comes to the Grand Theatre here for a two-night engagement on Friday, November 19th with a special matinee on Saturday afternoon.

It is "Capt. Plnukett's Revue of 1926", an offering which has revolutionized certain standards of production. It carries no chorus in the ordinary sense of the term, but instead of an entire ballet completely made up of solo dancers and specialty girls, every one a beauty. This ballet, in addition, was given a month's concentrated training in special ensemble dances, arranged particularly for this revue by a Russian ballet-meister. The result is a series of high-speed concerted numbers which have all the speed and swiftness of the Tiller productions done by a ballet with a perfect sense of rhythm.

There is an abundance of music of every variety and the production is fairly plastered with laughs. Staged so that there isn't a dull second from curtain to curtain, the production runs at high-speed, no waits and no pauses and every bit of action has a sparkle all its own.

As an added feature, there is Patricia O'Shea, Miss Winnipeg, the West's great beauty and winner of the international contest this year at Galveston, Texas.

AT THE REGENT

"THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER."

War Mothers Will Enjoy New Big Picture Production.

It will be a joy to the war mothers and war brides who see "The Unknown Soldier" at the Regent Theatre to-day, as smiling through their tears they glory in the greatness and the beauty of the theme and motif of this splendid story.

There could be no greater tribute to "The Unknown Soldier" of America than this graphic and impelling screen version of his greatness. Only a director with the artist's touch could handle so delicate a theme, and Renaud Hoffman, who directed the production, has done excellent work.

"The Unknown Soldier" is a masterful stroke of realism embellished by a touch of the spiritual which reaches a compelling climax with the triumph of love over death.

The hero of this great war drama is Charles Emmett Mack, and the leading woman is Marguerite De La Motte. Ethel Wales plays the poignant part of "mother" of "The Unknown Soldier," and Henry B. Walthall is the rich old father-in-law who opposes his daughter's love for the heroic soldier lad. Three comic doughboys, played by Syd Crossley, Jess Devorska, and George Cooper, keep the audience alternating between laughs and tears.

In Peterborough Churches

(Contributed.)

Speaking Sunday night in Trinity Church, on "The Problems of the Hour," the pastor, Rev. David Wren, came out strongly for the O. T. A., and in this connection gave his experience as a down town pastor in the city of Toronto.

In that part of the city known as "the ward," the church had a splendid opportunity to study the vastly improved conditions under the Ontario Temperance Act. The act came into operation during a period of high rents, high prices and at a time when wages were scarcely equal to the task of maintaining the home, but their experience, said Rev. Mr. Wren, was the home conditions among the poor were so greatly improved that the church was very greatly relieved of her work of charity and philanthropy. So marked was this change that the Fred Victor mission on the corner of Jarvis and Queen streets, which was erected as an hostel to care for the derelict and the unfortunates through drink, an institution once crowded nightly, and requiring a small retinue of workers to carry on this work, has now under the O. T.A. had this part of their work completely wiped out, and for some time the church has been considering the advisability of discontinuing this institution. And yet this is the very centre where we are told the bootlegger plies his trade, and there is as much liquor sold and consumed as in the old days.

The story of every down town church in the city of Toronto, is that conditions have greatly improved, and my deaconess, Sister Margaret Saunders, said in comparing condition, to a similar area in the city of London, England, "This in the Homeland would be considered Heaven."

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

(Contributed).

That there is a great work going on in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church is indicated not only by the steadily increasing attendance at the Sunday evening services, but also by the somewhat remarkable attendance at the weekly prayer meetings. If it is true that the prayer meeting is the best indicator of the spiritual health of the congregation, then the prayer meetings in St. Paul's Church speak volumes for the congregation. For some two months, the pastor, Rev. Wm. Allan, has been speaking on prophetic subjects. So great has been the interest that the attendance has been steadily increasing, and many strangers are noted, indicating the interest that is felt in this subject. The Guild Room is no longer able to hold the attendance, and last Wednesday night the main part of the Sunday School Hall was filled. The subject for Wednesday night of this week will be the events as foretold by prophecy that will attend the second coming of Christ.

Sunday Night's Service.

In the course of the questions which were asked and answered from the pulpit on Sunday evening, a feature that is proving of marked interest, Rev. Mr. Allan expressed the view that no minister has any right to go into politics unless he is prepared to give up the ministry. Otherwise he would be certain to fall between two stools. Politics divide people into parties. The mission of the Christian message is to unite people into one spiritual body. The speaker quoted from a British paper to show that a study of the accomplishments of ministers of the Gospel who had entered the British Parliament were nothing but what ordinary laymen might have accomplished, and possibly better. Rev. Mr. Allan doubted if the pulpit should endeavor to give instruction to laymen, but it certainly should seek to give inspiration. The business of the Church is to create character by teaching the Gospel of Christ. The purpose of politicians is to control conduct by legislation. There is a great difference between these two objectives.

The Sermon.

The sermon was based on the text in Luke xii.: 20: "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee." The words were spoken by Christ. They related to the rich man who, forgetting his duty to God and to others, had made up his mind to give himself over to the enjoyment of his wealth. Christ had been speaking of judgment to the multitude. Among those who heard Him was one upon whom the import of the message was lost as he asked Christ to intervene with his brother in order that he might secure a more favorable division of his brother's inheritance. Christ sought to show the importance of eternal things as against those that are temporal. His aim was to reach and influence the heart, conscience and will of man, which are out of harmony with God's Will.

The probabilities are that very few of those who knew him would have considered the rich man a fool. Even his enemies might have envied his success and desired to emulate it. He himself probably prided himself on his own wisdom and foresight. Yet God pronounced him a fool.

With the foregoing as a foundation, Rev. Mr. Allan asked his congregation if they had taken time to consider what God's verdict might be of them. It was not necessary for them to have wealth in order to receive condemnation on their acts. They were rich in the fact that they were alive, in the divine intelligence which had been given them, in their affections and in their will. Were these advantages being used for God's honor? If not, and if any of them were holding God at arm's length, then they might expect to receive the same condemnation as had been pronounced upon the rich man in the parable. Surrender to the Will of Christ was necessary in order to receive God's approval.

SEE THAT THE LIVER IS ACTIVE

You've heard it today—the story of the bright young woman, whose energy is sapped by bilious headaches and constipation. Complexion blemishes or sallow skin perhaps give the first warning. Then the attacks of headache become more frequent, and a chronic state of nervous depression ensues.

Women in business and in the home, in need of a gentle tonic and laxative that assists Nature in cleansing the system of poisons, and keeping stomach, liver and intestinal tract in a state of healthy activity find prompt relief and permanent satisfaction in the use of

OBITUARY.

MRS. E. (GRANDMA) PEMBERTON.

At 9.15 p.m., on November 8, 1926, there passed away peacefully at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Pemberton, 1202 Ferger Avenue, Fresno, Calif., Mrs. E. (Grandma) Pemberton, in her 77th year surrounded by relatives and friends. She also leaves to mourn her loss one son (married) in London, England, and one daughter (married), in Adelaide, South Australia, and fourteen grandchildren. The funeral took place in Belmont Park Memorial Cemetery on November 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pemberton formerly resided in Peterboro.

MRS. JAMES ROSE.

The death occurred to-day of Mrs. James Rose at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Smith, of Rochester, in her 84th year. The late Mrs. Rose was born in England and came to this city 40 years ago. She has lived in Rochester for the past two years.

Her husband predeceased her two years ago, but she leaves to mourn her loss three daughters and five sons.

The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2.00 o'clock from the residence of her son, Wesley Rose, 53 Morrow Streete.e Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery, with the Rev. J. D. Richardson officiating.

AROUND THE CITY.

What might have been a serious accident occurred yesterday afternoon on Water street north when two cars collided at the end of the cement roadway.

Both cars were travelling north at the time, the foremost car, it is said, turning to the left. The driver of the second car swerved to avoid the first, with the result that the car went over the grass and through a fence, finally coming to a stop in a garden.

One of the occupants of the second car was cut about the head but was able to proceed home after treatment at the Clinic.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

STEAMER'S MATES BATTLE TO DEATH

One Now Under Arrest For Slaying Subordinate in Fight.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 16. —(Canadin Press.) — A hand to hand battle to death on the high seas between two men of great physical strength—like those who fought their way through the pages of Kipling, Conrad and London—was revealed here last night by the issuance of a warrant by the United States District Attorney's office, charging H. E. Anderson, first mate of the American steamer William E. Smith, with murder.

Anderson is accused of slaying E. Christenson, second mate of the William E. Smith, in a fight on the main deck of the steamer during which belaying pins, knives, a cold chisel and teeth are said to have been brought into play.

The fight started early one evening while the steamer was en route from San Jose, Gautemala, to San Francisco. The men clinched and fought their way to the rail, each apparently intending to throw the other overboard.

Anderson, who said he was getting the worst of the fight, grapped Christenson's fingers with his teeth. One digit was so mutilated afterward that members of the crew amputated it with a cold chisel.

The skipper put into Salina Cruz for medical assistance and Christenson was taken to hospital, where he died.

'A Tip To a Good Thing' Says Cyril McIlhenny

The Australian National Band is coming to Peterborough this week. DON'T MISS IT. Their audiences here were disappointingly small, but it wasn't because the performances didn't justify good audiences. Say, they are marvellous. Just 24 of them, mind you, but hear them play, "Nearer, My God To Thee," "It Is Well With My Soul," to saying nothing of "Morning, Noon and Night," "Poet and Peasant" and the novelty number "Maggie, Yes Ma!" and you won't forget it for a while. Charlie was enraptured with them, and we thought we would just tip you off to a good thing. Tell Frank R. and the boys not to miss it. Tell Frank to take the whole band. He will be glad he did.

IN MEMORIAM

FALCONER. — In loving remembrance of Douglas Grant Falconer, who departed this life just one year ago today, November 16, 1925.

Oh, dear Douglas, how we miss you;
In the months that have gone
You have left us sad and lonely
For a home up in the sky.
Heaven now contains my treasure;
Earth, the lonely casket keeps.
But oft we linger 'midst tears and flowers
Where our darling Douglas sleeps.

—Sadly missed by Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock; and Aunties Mary, Dorothy and Theo.

IN MEMORIAM.

CLARK: In loving memory of my dear Grandfather, Thomas Clark, who died November 16th, 1921:

The month of November again is here—
The saddest month of all the year—
Because it took my dear Grandpa away.
Just five years ago to-day.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of him so dearly loved by all;
He is remembered as well to-day
As on the day he passed away.

The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still!
But Death has left a vacant place
This world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by his granddaughter Violet, Mrs. E. Harris.

IN MEMORIAM.

FALCONER: Just one year ago today, since our dear Douglas passed away,
How happy every child of grace,
Who knows his sins are forgiven,
This earth, he cries, is not my place
I seek my place in heaven.

What is there here to lure my stay,
Oh hold me back from home,
While angels beckon me away,
And Jesus bids me come.

—In serted by Mother, Father and Brother.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE ADOPTS PLAN TO RESTRICT IMMIGRATION TO DIFFERENT BRITISH COLONIES

Distribution of Empire's Population in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

COST £3 EACH.

It is Victory By Maintaining Right To Take Immigrants They Want.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(By Associated Press.)—The United States' principle of limiting and carefully scrutinizing its immigrants from Europe has been carried out in a comprehensive plan adopted by the Imperial Conference for the distribution of the Empire's population, mainly in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

By this plan the Dominions won somewhat of a victory over the Mother Country by maintaining their right to take the immigrants they want instead of those which England would wish to send overseas.

Canada, for instance, is preparing a new contract with the British Government for the transportation of immigrants at a cost of £3 each. They must be agricultural workers or domestic servants. The home Government would perfer that Canada also accept industrial workers, but the Dominion is holding out against this. The day is past, it is felt, when the only qualification for a British emigrant is that he cannot find work in England.

Nodwadays he must have a small amount of capital and be capable of doing the work required by the Dominion, to which he is emigrating.

The British Government is hoping that some overseas unit of the Empire will find work for about 100,000 surplus coal miners who are not likely to find jobs even when the strike is settled. The problem is unsolved.

PRINCE GEORGE ON THE PACIFIC

Is Top Notch In All Social Events Held on Board.

IS POPULAR.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 17. — (Canadian Press.) — Official advice received at Canadian Pacific headquarters from the S. S. Empress of Russia on departing from Kobe, Japan, tells of a gala trip from the Orient to Canada on which voyage the youngest living son of England's King is living up to the popularity won by his brother, the Prince of Wales.

Prince George, the naval prince, boarded the ship on Armistice Day at Hong Kong, The cablegram tells of a brilliant dance given on board the ship that night when the ballroom of the ship was decorated in Oriental fashion, flags of the allied forces being in evidence. The Pacific played its part in giving the passengers a peaceful and calm sea between Hong Kong and Shanghai and then on to Kobe, Japan. "The passenger list has many of the younger generation," the cable says, "making Christmas in England an objective, and in consequence sport and deck games are the order of the day on board. The prince is top-notch in all events and has won the hearts of all on board. The native crew have shown great admiration towards the member of England's Royal family."

Prnice George will land in Vancouver on November 29 after touching at Yokohama on November 20. He will proceed across the Dominion to join the S. S. Montroyal at Saint John, N.B., early in December, and will attend a Chrismas dinner of the Royal Household in England.

Hurls Stones At Engine That Wouldn't Kill Him

DETROIT, Nov. 17.—Frank Supka, 34 years old, 17234 Omira Avenue, was tired of life, so he threw himself in front of a switch engine, he told Judge Thomas M. Catter in Recorder's Court yesterday.

He was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The arrest was made by Russell N. Tucker, special officer of the Grand Trunk Railroad, at the Davison Avenue crossing. Tucker told the court Supka had resented orders by the crew of a Grand Trunk engine that he move on after he had laid down on the tracks in front of the engine. The engine was stopped just as it touched his body. After he had been picked up by the crew he threw stones into the engine cab, Tucker said.

Supka said he had been without work for three months and wanted to die.

His case was referred to the Recorder's Court psychopathic clinic.

DISTURBANCES IN ENGLISH HOUSE

Viscountess Astor Again Comes Into Altercations With Laborites.

DISCUSSING RELIEF.

LONDON, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press). — Viscountess Astor was again the centre of a series of sharp verbal exchanges in the House of Commons last night, coming into altercations with Miss Ellen C. Wilkinson, George Lansbury, George Buchanan and other Laborites.

The House was discussing relief for the unemployed, when Lady Astor challenged some remark by Miss Wilkinson, who tartly accused Lady Astor of putting words in her mouth, she had no intention of using.

The breeze had hardly died down when the Viscountess interrupted Mr. Lansbury, who replied caustically:

"The noble lady would be very much more respected if she would learn to hold her tongue."

Amid laughter the chairman reproved Mr. Lansbury for making an improper remark, and the member retorted by asking the chairman to invite the noble lady to hold her tongue. For this he received further reproof from the chairman.

Presently George Buchanan, who represents Glasgow, was observing that the people in that city were starving for lack of an adequate poor law for their relief, when Lady Astor challenged him to give names. She declared he was not entitled to make such statements unless prepared with proofs. Mr. Buchanan offered to take Lady Astor to Glasgow to see for herself. This led to further recriminations, Mr. Buchanan snapping back to another demand that he should answer her question: "I will answer if you shut your mouth and listen. You might at least try to have some manners and sense. You can't stand the truth."

Various supporters of the contending members joined in the fray. The chair appealed to them not to carry on in this manner, which was met by further protests against Lady Astor constantly interrupting the members. Mr. Buchanan then remarked: "What I object to is the noble lady not being able to take her medicine. She should remember she is not dealing with her horses at Newmarket."

On the whole the House treated the incident good naturedly.

Scolded Dog Travels 70 Miles Home In Day

REDDING, Calif., Nov. 17.—Offended because he was scolded by Mrs. H. C. Erno, at Shasta Retreat, Teddy, a big collie dog belonging to her brother, William Menzel, disappeared. He was not seen again until he arrived here at the Menzel home. The dog had traveled more than 70 miles of highway during the day to reach his master.

CHILDREN'S AID REFUSES RETURN OF TWO CHILDREN

Rescinds Vote of Recent Meeting and Will Keep Youngsters.

REGULAR SESSION.

Various Reports Received and Business Done By Board.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon in the City Council Chamber, the newly-elected president, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, in the chair, and the following present: John Edgar, secretary and agent of the society, Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, J. Abraham, W. Stocker, W. J. Hopwood, Rev. P. Costello, R. H. Parsons, A. Moffat, Mrs. W. J. Hopwood, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, Mrs. R. Knox, Mrs. W. Oke, Mrs J. Welsh, Mrs. R. Devey and Mrs. J. S. Fanning. The past president, B. F. Ackerman, was also present, at the request of Dr. Blagrave.

Dr. Blagrave expressed his appreciation of the honor of election as president, in a few words, and Mr. Edgar read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mrs. W. H. Gibbs gave the report of the Purchasing committee and also the donations during the month, which were as follows:

Trinity Young People's Club, bread; Murray Street Choir, weiners and buns; Mr. Oke, apples; Knox Church Sunday School teachers, cake and bread; Mrs. Oke, clothing; Caledonian Club, $4; Mrs. E. F. Mason, hat and clothing.

Mr. Edgar reported the results of Tag Day efforts in Havelock and Norwood as being respectively $59.65 and $35.41. Lakefield's tag day will be held on Saturday next. The agent also gave the report for the month, showing 6 applicants for children, 10 children brought into the Shelter (not wards), 9 children placed on parole, (not wards), 1 child returned to its parents (not a ward), and one child made a ward of the so-

SHOOTING VICTIM TAKEN TO HOME

Bailiff St. Charles Resting More Easily—Hope Held Out.

ASSAILANTS HEARD.

MADOC, Nov. 17—The preliminary trial of Lemuel and Abraham Robinson who were arrested at their home on Monday night following the shooting of Bailiff C. St. Charles, and taken to Belleville, was held yesterday. Lemuel Robinson was dismissed and returned home, while Abraham Robinson was committed to jail to await further trial.

An ambulance was brought out from Belleville yesterday evening and Mr. St. Charles was removed from Dr. Thompson's home in Eldorado where he has been since he was shot, to his home in Madoc.

Mr. St. Charles stood the trip remarkably well, and the doctor speaks quite hopefully of his condition.

The Young Queen

Peterborough Welcomes the Australian National Band

(The Commonwealth of Australia, Inaugurated New Year's Day, 1901)

Her hand was still on her sword-hilt, the spur was still on her heel,
She had not cast her harness of grey war-dinted steel;
High on her red-splashed charger, beautiful, bold, and browned,
Bright-eyed out of the battle, the Young Queen rode to be crowned.

She came to the Old Queen's presence, in the Hall of Our Thousand Years—
In the Hall of the Five Free Nations that are peers among their peers;
Royal she gave the greeting, loyal she bowed the head,
Crying—"Crown me, my Mother!" And the Old Queen stood and said:—

"How can I crown thee further? I know whose standard flies
Where the clean surge takes the Leeuwin or the coral barriers rise.
Blood of our foes on thy bridle, and speech of our friends in thy mouth—
How can I crown thee further, O Queen of the Sovereign South?

"Let the Five Free Nations witness!" But the Young Queen answered swift:—
"It shall be crown of Our crowning to hold Our crown for a gift.
In the days when Our folk were feeble thy sword made sure Our lands:
Wherefore We come in power to take Our crown at thy hands."

And the Old Queen raised and kissed her, and the jealous circlet prest,
Roped with the pearls of the Northland and red with the gold of the West,
Lit with her land's own opals, levin-hearted, alive,
And the Five-starred Cross above them, for sign of the Nations Five.

So it was done in the Presence—in the Hall of Our Thousand Years,
In the face of the Five Free Nations that have no peer but their peers;
And the Young Queen out of the Southland kneeled down at the Old Queen's knee,
And asked for a mother's blessing on the excellent years to be.

And the Old Queen stooped in the stillness where the jewelled head drooped low:—
"Daughter no more but Sister, and doubly Daughter so—
Mother of many princes—and child of the child I bore,
What good thing shall I wish thee that I have not wished before?

"Shall I give thee delight in dominion — mere pride of thy setting forth?
Nay, we be women together—we know what that lust is worth.
Peace in thy utmost borders, and strength on a road untrod?
These are dealt or diminished at the secret will of God.

"I have swayed troublous councils, I am wise in terrible things;
Father and son and grandson, I have known the heart of the Kings.
Shall I give thee my sleepless wisdom, or the gift all wisdom above?
Ay, we be women together—I give thee thy people's love:

"Tempered, august, abiding, reluctant of prayers or vows,
Eager in face of peril as thine for thy mother's house.
God requite thee, my Sister, through the wonderful years to be,
And make thy people to love thee as thou hast loved me!"

BAND PARADE THROUGH CITY

The Australian National Band will parade to-night from the Armouries to the Grand Opera House, escorted by the Band of the Peterborough Rangers and the Salvation Army Band. The parade will start at 8 o'clock, and will march by way of George to Hunter, Hunter to Aylmer, Aylmer to Charlotte, Charlotte to George and George to the Grand Opera House. There the local bands will each play a selection at the front entrance to the Opera House.

The programme inside starts at 8.30.

Government Control DOES Control

SO SAYS JUDGE EMILY MURPHY ("JANEY CANUCK"), JUVENILE JUDGE, MORAL REFORMER, AND AUTHOR.

"Personally I am one who claims that neither whiskey nor beer are hygienic drinks. We would be vastly better without them — better physically, mentally and morally—but as long as these are produced for consumption we must regulate them, we must control it in the best manner possible. To argue otherwise would be imbecility.

"There is no doubt that education along temperance lines is having an immensely powerful effect, and that one day the gospel of abstinence will gain a vastly greater hold upon our Canadian people, but until this happens we must rigidly control the consumption of liquor. Before Government control became the law of Alberta I opposed it vigorously, both on the platform and by my pen. I was fearful that our last state would be worse than our first. It seemed only logical that if the restrictions were removed there would be more drunkenness and crime. No living person could persuade me to the contrary. I had a fine line of arguments on the subject, too.

"After a period of several years in which I have been called upon to enforce the present Liquor Control Act, both as a city and provincial magistrate, I am bound to acknowledge that my fears were largely unfounded. There was not even a rush of inebriety as I had predicted, the people showing a remarkable degree of restraint. The condition was steadily improved—again I say, not from any degree of spiritual enrichment on the part of our people—but because the law was well conceived and is being well enforced.

"When I say the convictions under the Liquor Control Act of Alberta have decreased, I know whereof I speak. In my own court, during the past twelve months, there have been only 46 convictions for offences under this act.

"In a population of nearly 70,000—apart from the thousands of persons who come in for races, circuses and for exhibition week—this is as close to elimination as we may reasonably expect to reach.

"Is more liquor drunk under Government Control than under the Prohibition Act formerly in force?

"That I cannot say, because it is impossible to gauge the amount of liquor that was illicitly manufactured or illicitly imported. The evidence is not before me. I only know that boot-legging has been largely, very largely, suppressed; that poisoned liquor, or substitutes for liquor, such as methylated spirits or 'canned heat', have disappeared: THAT THERE IS COMPARATIVELY LITTLE DRINKING AMONG JUVENILES; LESS DRUNKENNESS, AND MORE GENERAL RESPECT FOR THE LAW.

"That the public generally believe the change to be a beneficial one is evidenced by the fact that the subject of Government control of liquor was in no respect an issue in the provincial election which took place two months ago. The government of Hon. J. E. Brownlee was returned to power with an overwhelming majority. Even those of us who previously fought for prohibition of all intoxicants are bound to acknowledge that, as far as this province is concerned, Government Control has worked a reformation in the traffic."

UNVEILS TABLET IN MEMORY OF INSTITUTE DEAD

Lord Willingdon Officiates in Unveiling Ceremony at Military Institute.

OFFICERS PRESENT.

Bronze Memorial Will Be Lighted at Night By Torches.

TORONTO, Nov. 17—Lord Willingdon, in the presence of many officers of Toronto military units, unveiled a bronze tablet at the Military Institute at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to the memory of the members who were killed in the war, or who have since died of war service.

A guard of honor from the 48th Highlanders, under Lieut.-Col. Ian Sinclair, was drawn up to meet his Excellency as he arrived and the Highlanders' band, under Capt. John Slatter, struck up the National Anthem. The pipe band was also present to render music.

After inspecting the guard, His Excellency proceeded to the Institute, where he was welcomed by the president, W. W. Denison, D.S.O., who introduced the distinguished visitor to the managing committee.

Unveiling Ceremony

The ceremony of unveiling the tablet, which is placed in the sunroom, was immediately proceeded with. Four army chaplains took part in the service. They were Rev. Major Crawford Brown, Rev. Major W. L. Baynes-Reed, Rev. Captain W. E. Hedley, and Rev. Captain F. Vipond.

The invocation opened the service followed by the Lord's Prayer. Then the gathering sang "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." The Scripture lesson was from Revelation 7, 9-17.

Lord Willingdon then unveiled the tablet and the names of the members of the Institute who died in the war were read. The Last Post was sounded by the bugles and the memorial was then dedicated. His Excellency addressed a few words to the assembly, suitable to the occasion, and with the singing of Kipling's Recessional, the benediction and reveille, the service closed.

Torches to Light Tablet

At either side of the bronze tablet is a torch which will be lighted at night and which will be visible from University Ave. Below the inscription on the tablet is a receptacle known as the ambry in which the Golden Book is being placed. This Golden Book contains the names of the Institute members who are dead. To each soldier is given a page, containing data concerning his life and service. The printing in this book is to be very artistic.

The tablet bears the following inscription: "In proud remembrance of those members of the Canadian Military Institute who died for their country in the Great War in the years of Our Lord, 1914-1921. And whose names are recorded in the Golden Book. So they gave their bodies to the Commonwealth and received each for his own memory praise that will never die."

DANCE TO END AUSSIES' VISIT

Noteworthy Occasion To Have Fitting Climax on Thursday Night.

UNIQUE AFFAIR.

As an added attraction during the visit here of the Australian National Band, Kiwanis Club has arranged a dance for Thursday night, at which the band will supply the music.

This will be a unique occasion, giving the opportunity to dance to music of a kind never before presented to the people of Peterborough. The band has played for dances in some of the large cities it has visited, but this is an added honor reserved for the few, and Peterborough is fortunate in being chosen for this distinction.

The dance will be held in the G.W.V.A. Hall, Murray street, following the programme in the Grand Opera House. Dancing will commence shortly after ten o'clock and continue until 1 and a charge of $1 a couple is being made to cover expenses. A good steady programme of outstanding music is promised.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday's rainfall was one of the two heavy rains of 1926. It amounted to 1.46. Another heavy downpour occurred on June 15, when 1.51 fell. Somewhat colder conditions are now heading this way.—W. P.

Inviting Dead Relatives To a Wedding Is Correct

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—A curious wedding custom is observed in the industrial city of Goerlitz, about midway between Berlin and Breslau. On the day before the wedding ceremony, bride and groom walk to the cemetery and visit the graves of all departed relatives. The visit is regarded as an invitation to the deceased to be present in spirit at the wedding. It is considered that unless departed relatives are so invited, the marriage will be unhappy.

BOOM LIKELY TO FOLLOW STRIKE IN OLD COUNTRY

Piled-up Orders For British Goods Will Help Industry.

PROSPERITY WELCOME.

Leaders of Industry Attempt To Prevent Future Disputes.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—In spite of staggering losses due to the coal strike, which surpass the entire cost of the South African war, there is a remarkable wave of industrial optimism sweeping the country.

Orders for British goods, which have piled up during the stoppage from all over the world, were never executed, and now manufacturers say that with coal peace in sight they are beginning to carry them out and expect a temporary boom.

It is also believed that the cotton industry will leap forward and, in expectation of higher earnings of the workers, the Birmingham jewelry manufacturers are preparing to swamp all industrial areas for Christmas

"Criminal Madness"

Meanwhile the leaders of industry are finally agreeing that machinery must be created to prevent future disputes. Philip Snowden calls the mining stoppage "criminal madness" yesterday, in criticizing both miners and mine owners, while Sir Arthur Steel Maitland, minister of labor, calls for co-operation in industry to overcome difficulties.

DAIRY COUNCIL MEMBERS VISIT DE LAVAL PLANT

Sessions of Dominion Body Open After Trip To Peterborough.

MANY PRESENT.

Other Local Plants Will Be Visited Before Return To Toronto.

Peterboro welcomes with a good deal of pleasure to-day the members of the National Dairy Council of the Dominion, who arrived in town at noon as the guests of the De Laval Company.

Headed by President J. A. Caulder of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Vice-President W. F. Stephen, of Huntingdon, Que., the members reached Peterboro on the noon C.P.R. train, travelling in two special coaches.

Some of the foremost dairy men in Canada were included in the party, among the visitors being two Provincial Ministers of Agriculture, Hon. A. Prefontaine, of Manitoba, and Hon. M. Cummings, of Nova Scotia. Dairy commissioners of the various provinces are also here.

The Dairy Council is meeting in Toronto this year, and adjourned their sessions to-day in order that they might visit Peterboro and inspect the plant of the De Laval Company.

The programme while here embraced an informal reception and luncheon at the Empress Hotel, at noon, attended also by Mayor Holloway, who gave a short address of welcome on behalf of the city to the gentlemen present, a motor drive to the works of the De Laval Co. and insnection of the plant from 1.30 to 4 o'clock, after which the visitors were to be taken on a motor drive around the city, visiting the Lift Lock, the Peterborough Creameries, and, if possible, the Quaker Oats Co.

Informal dinner is being served to-night in the grill room of the Empress, the De Laval orchestra providing the music.

The De Laval Co. is then taking the gentlemen, as their guests, to hear the celebrated Australian Band in the Grand Opera House to-night.

The list of those who are here is as follows:

President J. A. Caulder, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Vice-President W. F. Stephen, Huntingdon, Que.; Hon. M. Cummings, Truro, N.S., Minister of Agriculture for Nova Scotia; Hon. A. Prefontaine, Minister of Agriculture, Winnipeg, Man.; R. U. Hurford, Courtenay, B.C.; W. J. Berry, Langley Prairie, B.C.; W. J. Park, Vancouver, B.C.; D. J. Christie, Edmonton, Alta.; W. W.

NOV. 17, 1926. — PETERBOROUGH, ONT. — No. 4

Jailing the Bootlegger!

PREMIER Ferguson promises to jail the bootlegger when Government Sale is introduced.

Why not jail him now ?

Why wait Strengthen and enforce the O.T.A. and put the bootlegger in jail now. The government has the power. Why not use it?

THE PREMIER'S RETREAT

Premier Ferguson is retreating before the attack of the bootleggers. He says that we can't cope with them. Therefore we must yield to them.

Is this year to go down in history as "Bootleggers' Year." The year we surrendered to the bootleggers.

Bootleggers will not keep the law, therefore, Premier Ferguson says, do away with the law.

You cannot guage a country's morals by vague statements about police court cases, nor its health by visiting a hospital, nor the rock-bottom truth about the temperance situation by the number of doctor's prescriptions issued. Though Premier Ferguson is trying to.

The temperance situation is guaged by the obvious, universal, decent sobriety seen every where in Ontario.

The bootlegger breaks the law—shall we abolish the law?—or Jail the Bootlegger?

No. Strengthen and enforce the O.T.A.

THE FAILURE OF GOVERNMENT SALE

Government sale has utterly failed to abolish bootlegging in those provinces where it has been tried. The Mail and Empire, who is supporting Government sale, makes the following comparison of conditions in Manitoba under Government sale and prohibition:

> "Bootlegging may have been reduced on the whole, but not to any great extent. Foreigners are no longer getting immensely rich; wholesale bootlegging is through; but retail bootlegging has taken its place. That is, instead of a few bootleggers making their millions, there are now a great many making a few hundred or a few thousand a year. Wholesale bootlegging has been replaced by retail bootlegging."

Note that even the Mail and Empire admits that in spite of the enormous quantities of liquor now sold by the government, bootlegging still flourish.

How is Premier Ferguson going to stop bootlegging under Government sale?

BRITISH STEAMER ESCAPES PIRATES

Nine Captured and Thirteen Lose Lives—Companions Flee.

HONG KONG, November 17. Canadian Press — Twelve pirates were killed, one was drowned, and nine captured, in a desperate battle on the British steamer Sunning and the subsequent pursuit of the fleeing buccaneers, 80 miles' from Hong Kong, it was learned here to-day when the ship, badly gutted by fire, and bearing gruesome marks of the encounteer, was towed into port under guard.

As the captured pirates were rushed to jail officers of the ship told the story of the fight.

When the watch was being changed late on Monday afternoon, forty pirates rushed the rails overpowering nearby officers at the point of revolvers and taking control of the ship by putting two of their number on the bridge.

Chief officer T. B. Beatty and Second officer J. W. Hurst, who had been held at bay by the pirates, finally located two revolvers and 150 rounds of ammunition, and at midnight decided to attempt to regain control of the ship.

The two pirates on the bridge were mowed down by the officers, and left apparently lifeless. This put the officers in control of the ship's workings. Shortly afterwards one of the "lifeless" buccaneers revived and fired point blank at them, but missed. The butt of a carbine which was snatched from the deck by one of the defenders, laid him out again. Then another pirate rushed the bridge. A revolver duel ensued at close range and he fell dead.

The remaining buccaneers, seeing their plans going down to defeat because of the pluck of the British seamen, then seized G. Cormack, the chief engineer of the Sunning, and, using him for a shield, rushed to the steps of the bridge in a body. There the two defenders turned loose their deadliest fire and eleven pirates were slain. Cormack was wounded in the chest and leg.

NOVA SCOTIA GIVEN APPEAL

Question of Abolishing Legislative Council To Go To Privy Council.

COURT DIVIDED.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Special leave to appeal to the judicial committee of the Privy Council was granted this morning by the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia in the matter involving the future of the legislative council. At the suggestion of Chief Justice, the Hon. R. E. Harris, judgment was entered pro forma, and leave to appeal was granted with Mr. Justice Mellish disenting. At the suggestion of the law officers of the Crown at Ottawa the questions as to whether or not the Lieutenant Governor in council had the right to appoint members of the Upper House in excess to the traditional complement of twenty one and as to whether or not the members held office at the pleasure of the Lieutenant Governor in council was referred to the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia in July of this year. The court divided equally on the question submitted and an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council followed. The reference arose from the desire of the government of Nova Scotia to do away with the bicameral system of government.

Quebec and Nova Scotia are the only two provinces in Canada at present governed by such system.

WED 58 YEARS.

Relatives and Friends Call on Mr. and Mrs. George M. Clarke.

NORHAM, Nov. 17.—A surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. George Munroe Clarke, two of the oldest and most highly esteemed residents of Brighton township, on Friday evening last. About one hundred relatives and friends gathered to extend congratulations to the aged and happy couple upon the fifty-eighth anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. Clarke (nee Mary Carnike) of Ameliasburg, Prince Edward County, has been a member and active worker in the Methodist now the United church, for 75 years. She is still in possession of all her faculties and able to do her own housework although in her eighty-third year. Mr. Clark has a record as church trustee and steward of which anyone might well be proud. He is in his eighty-seventh year and except for a slight deafness is remarkably smart. He was born in Brighton township just a few miles from where he now resides and has spent his whole life in the neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark are of United Empire Loyalist stock, and still live in the house that sheltered them so many years ago, when as bride and groom they settled in the forest and began to clear the land and make a home for themselves.

During the evening which was spent in community singing and social visitation Mr. and Mrs. Clarke were escorted to a comfortable pair of rocking chairs, which were decorated with bows of white ribbon and presented with a four story wedding cake that weighed about thirty pounds. Mrs. Clarke also received a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke have one son, Jacob W., on the homestead and one daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Valleou, living with her husband in the edge of Brighton township, five grandchildren, Owen Clark, who lives with his father, but who has spent the summer in Saskatchewan; George Clarke, principal of the public school at Castleton; Mrs. Frank Austin (nee Grace Valleau), of Saskatchewan; Blake and Clarence Valleau of Rochester, five great - grandchildren, sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Austin.

DAMAGED BY FIRE.

Several St. John's Buildings Badly Gutted By Fire Yesterday.

SAINT JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press)—The rooms of the Church of England Institute, the offices of Peters and Company and of the wholesale firm of Slattery and Company were badly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon.

DEATH.

ATCHISON.—At North Monaghan, on Tuesday, November 16, George Atchison, aged 76 years.

Funeral Thursday, November 18, service at 2 p.m., from the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. Clarke, Lot 1, Concession 8, North Monaghan.

ANNUAL DINNER GREAT SUCCESS

Regent Street United Church Obtains Large Sum From Effort.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 17.—The annual Thanksgiving dinner, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Regent Street Church, went over the top with another big success on Monday night. The tables set in the basement of the church were loaded with appetizing viands and were in charge of a committee of competent matrons, assisted by attentive waiters, who devoted themselves to the material welfare of the large crowd which patronized the supper. This year the church orchestra played in the body of the church from 6 to 8 o'clock, entertaining the waiting crowds between tables and proving a wonderful factor in keeping the crowd quiet. The church orchestra is well worth listening to, for they have devoted themselves to their organization, and the old adage says, "Practice makes perfect." This feature of the evening added to everyone's enjoyment.

When the supper was concluded the chairman, Rev. S. A. Kemp, called the audience to order and announced the programme, which was as follows:

Chorus—The choir of Regent St. Church.

Prayer—Rev. D. Wren, of Trinity Church, Peterboro.

Chairman's address—Rev. S. A. Kemp.

Reading — Miss Jean Hamilton, Peterboro.

Solo—Mr. S. C. Gay, soloist and choir leader, Foxboro.

Recitation—Miss Phyllis Moore, Hawaiian guitar duet—The Trethewey sisters, Peterboro.

Reading—Miss Hamilton.

Address—Rev. T. M. Wesley.

Trombone solo—Mr. W. Madill.

Recitation—Miss Phyllis Moore.

Reading—Miss Hamilton.

Hawaiian guitar duet — Misses Trethewey.

Address—Rev. David Wren, Peterboro.

Solo—Mr. E. C. Gay.

Reading—Miss Hamilton.

National Anthem.

Benediction—Rev. John Gloves, of Cambray United Church.

The programme was excellent in every particular and delighted the capacity audience. Mr. Gay, who made his first appearance in Lakefield, is a splendid singer, and it is hoped that he may be induced to return on some future occasion.

The Trethewey sisters' rendering of "Whispering Hope" deserves special mention as it was a masterly performance. Their other selections were good also, their contribution to the programme being very popular.

Little Miss Phyllis Moore was an especial favorite with the youngsters, who called her back for several extra numbers. Mr. Walter Madill's trombone solo was delightful and Miss Hamilton is a pleasing elocutionist, who made a good impression in the village.

Rev. T. M. Wesley spoke on Armistice Day and Thanksgiving as special and important events. Rev. D. Wren spoke on the five great pillars that abide even with the shattering influence of the Great War. The Bible is one of these pillars.

The proceeds amounted to $266 and the Sunday offering amounted to $167, making a total of $433, which was extremely gratifying. The absence of Mrs. S. S. Spence, who has been identified with the Ladies' Aid from its inception, was regretted, and Mrs. Spence's genial presence was missed, and many good wishes were given for a speedy and complete recovery from her illness.

The Ladies' Aid held a fifteen-cent social on Tuesday evening, which was also successful.

This year's celebration added another success to the long list which mark each year of the Ladies' Aid existence.

Poppy Day.

Saturday was Poppy Day in the village and a bevy of bright young girls worked all day and a good part of the evening providing everyone with a tag in the shape of a scarlet poppy, the flower of remembrance. So well did the campaign prosper that very few, if any, were poppyless at the end of the day. To appear in the streets without a poppy was to make one's self conspicuous. At the end of the evening Messrs. T. W. B. Marling and R. J. Webster counted the money and the returns were found to be larger than for a number of years. The young girls, who were untiring in their efforts, received the grateful thanks of the Ladies' Auxiliary for their cheerfully rendered service.

The proceeds of this great work are devoted to the work among the soldiers in Christie Street Hospital and in the Canadian Institute for the Blind.

The twelve girls who tagged were: Misses Margaret Bissonette, Josephine Allen, Marion Wagar, Merle Crawford, Marie Allen, Margaret Lawless, Lilian Mason, Madeline Junkin, Helen Porter, Dorothy Sutton, Barbara Dench and Constance Stuart.

Women's Allure

no longer imperiled under hygienic handicaps—new way offers true protection; discards like tissue

FRESH, charming, immaculate under ALL conditions. Sheer gowns worn without a second's fear, any time, any day!

If you seek this added charm, stop employing old-time "sanitary pads," insecure, uncertain.

Eight in 10 better-class women now employ "KOTEX" . . . a new way, 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Absorbs and deodorizes at the same time, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

You discard it as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy, at any drug or department store, simply by saying "KOTEX."

In fairness to yourself, try this amazing way. Costs only a few cents. Comes twelve in a package.

STRENUOUS TOUR TELLS ON QUEEN

Is Still Game But Shows the Need of a Long Rest.

HAS CROWDED DAY.

(By John Montgomery, United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train in Chicago, Nov. 17—Obviously exhausted by the continual round of social events planned in her honor, Queen Marie is making a valiant attempt to carry on, despite rapidly nirceasing "worry lines" in her face, and a recently acquired sag of her shoulders.

Her majesty feels that she must be game. Several days ago she expressed her intention of going through with the American visit no matter how exhaustive it becomes, and the grim determined look she now wears is evidence that she is making the best of her situation.

Although she slept eight hours last night, she had less than five the night before, and six the night before that. Nicholas has already complained of the little rest he gets and members of the royal party are often missing at early morning affairs. Audible complaints are heard.

Yesterday the royal party made brief informal visits to a half dozen spots in the city. Her majesty visited the playgrounds, a hospital, and attended a luncheon and a dinner.

Ileana Will Be Queen

BUCHAREST, Nov. 17—A rumor was in circulation today that Princess Ileana the youngest child of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie, who now is accompanying her mother on a visit to the United States, would succeed to the Roumanian throne.

The rumor had it that King Ferdinand's abdication was imminent.

Professor Bensaude, a French specialist, arrived and has examined the king. Bensaude said his majesty's condition was satisfactory, but it was popularly believed yesterday that Ferdinand was suffering from cancer.

OBITUARY.

MRS. A. J. BEAVIS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 17.—The death occurred on Thursday, November 11, of Emma Milligan, beloved wife of Albert J. Beavis, in her 58th year. The late Mrs. Beavis had been seriously ill for some time and despite all medical aid, passed to her reward.

Deceased was born in Stockdale 58 years ago, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Milligan. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Beavis resided in Hastings moving to Campbellford about nineteen years ago. The late Mrs. Beavis was a faithful member of the United church and was loved and revered by a large host of friends.

The funeral services were conducted in the home on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. W. Elliott, pastor of St. John's, who spoke briefly from the text, "Wherefore comfort one another with these words" 1st Thessalonians 4:18. Mr. Elliott spoke as a personal friend, having known Mrs. Beavis for many years, and spoke of her true Christian spirit, faithful in her work of the church and although we all regret her death, we have no fears for the future.

The late Mrs. Beavis is survived by her husband, A. J. Beavis, and one sister, Mrs. George Ivey of town. Mrs. Harold Barnum of Belleview, Mrs. Garnet Green of Cobourg, Mrs. W. Milligan of Norval, Mrs. Lorne Barnum of Petherick's Corners and Mr. George Ivey of Toronto are nieces and nephews.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. S. Parks, William O'Connor, Albert Bonney, Allan Watson, S. A. Maguire, Fred Phillips. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

Some of those present from a distance were Mr. Henry Beavis, Lakefield; Mrs. John Beavis, Hastings; Mrs. Nelson Beavis, Hastings; Mrs. Giffen, Norwood; Mrs. E. Lang, Norwood; Mrs. James Stevenson of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Green of Cobourg.

MRS. JOHN CONWAY.

The death occurred in Ennismore yesterday of Mrs. John Conway. The funeral will be held on Thursday to St. Martin's Church and Cemetery.

MRS. HARRY I. SEYMOUR.

There passed away, after a brief illness at her home in the Township of Cavan on Wednesday, Laura Duncan Seymour, beloved wife of Harry I. Seymour.

WILL RE-INTRODUCE OLD AGE PENSIONS

At the Opening Session of Parliament in December.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 17. — (Canadian Press). — The Old-Age Pensions Bill will be re-introduced at the opening session of Parliament in December, Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Minister of Health and Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, stated here yesterday. Mr. King passed through on his way from the Pacific Coast to Ottawa.

The bill on re-valuation of soldiers' lands, the Minister intimated, also would be re-introduced. The latter bill, he said, would be slightly revised, to meet objections raised during the last session of Parliament.

THAW WILL PAY DEFENCE COSTS

Offers To Pay Attorneys of Girl Who Shot Man.

LIKE OWN CASE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(United News).—Harry K. Thaw has become so stirred by accounts of the manner in which 16-year-old Mrs. Catherine de Nino killed the man she said wrecked her home, that he has offered to pay for the girl's defence.

It has been twenty years since a revolver in Thaw's hands spurted a similar vengeance at Stanford White but evidently the circumstances of the latest murder have enlisted his keenest sympathies. In addition, according to Samuel Goldstein, attorney for Mrs. De Nino, her defence is to parallel Thaw's. She is to plead temporary insanity.

Goldstein said that Thaw, who now leads a quiet life, except for an ocasional fling in the night clubs, called him by telephone after reading accounts of the killing in the Bronx on Saturday. A second conversation followed on Monday in which Thaw said he was mailing a cheque and would pay the total costs of the defence.

WELCOME W. M. S. REGULAR MEETING

Presentation of Life Membership Made to President of Branch.

WELCOME, Nov. 17.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Welcome Church was held at the home of Mrs. W. Chestnut on November 11. Miss Thyra Martyn was appointed Literature Secretary. The Treasurer reported $35.50 thank-offering on Sunday. Mrs. R. C. Symons was appointed to take subscriptions for the Missionary Monthly. The various Secretaries gave reports on their work. The Temperance Secretary gave an account of the convention at Orono on Friday, November 5. The subject for the Watch Tower was "Temperance." Interesting readings were given by Mrs. Staples, Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. Kellogg, Mrs. B. White, Mrs. R. C. Symons and Mrs. E. H. Martyn. This was followed by a season of prayer that the temperance cause might win on Dec. 1st. Mrs. Little, leader of Group "B," took charge of the meeting. The devotional leaflet, "Faith and Personality," was read by Mrs. Frank Bamsay. Miss Beatrice Chestnut sang a solo very sweetly. The missionary rally at Baltimore was reported by Mrs. Staples and Mrs. Clare. Miss Marjory Runnals gave a much appreciated piano instrumental. At this point Mrs. E. H. Martyn was asked to stand, and the following address was read by Mrs. R. C. Symons:

"Dear Mrs. Martyn,—

"We, the members of Welcome W.M.S., feel deeply our indebtedness to you for holding in our society the onerous position of President, a place which you have held for several years in an efficient, tactful and gracious manner.

"We know your heart is in the work and your zeal has ever been an inspiration to us all. Your absolute sincerity and regard for right, wthout fear or favor, have given us confidence in your leadership and consequent unity in our organization.

"We pray that many years may be granted to you for the continuance of your labors for the Master.

"In recognition of your services and as a token of our love and esteem, we beg to present you with a certificate of life membership in the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada.

"Signed on behalf of the society —Mrs. R. C. Symons, Mrs. D. R. Clare, Mrs. J. C. Staples, Mrs. F. Little, Mrs. A. Lewis."

Mrs. Clare presented the certificate. Mrs. Martyn responded in a few well-chosen words, thanking the ladies for the certificate, also their kind words of appreciation.

A social half-hour was spent at the close of the meeting.

Personals.

Temperance organization meetings were held in Welcome on Tuesday night and at Zion on Wednesday night.

Miss Violet McCann went to Toronto on Monday.

Miss Ruth Fanning is visiting her sister in Peterboro.

TAKE OVER LINE.

C. N. R. Take Over Operations of Taschereau-Rouyon Belt Line.

QUEBEC, Que., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press) — Within a few days the Canadian National Railways will take over the operation of the new line built between Taschereau and Rouyn and it is expected that the service which is now of three trains per week will be increased into a daily one.

With the roadbed improving through heavier and frequent traffic, it is expected that the 40 miles between Rouyn and the main line will be made inside of two hours.

OTONABEE COUNCIL.

KEENE, Nov. 17.—The regular monthly meeting of the Otonabee Council was held in the Council Chambers, all the members present.

IT is a most refreshing and healthful practice to drink, first thing in the morning, a glass of water sparkling with a 'dash' of Eno's "Fruit Salt". There is no safer and surer way than this to clear the system of impurities and keep you fit and eager for the work and play which fill each day.

But it must be ENO! Eno—never varying in quality and purity. Eno—containing nothing that may possibly do you harm. Eno—with its fifty years' reputation. Eno—approved and used by doctors and nurses. So, for your health's sake, be sure you get

Have you tried Bon Ami POWDER?

You'll like Bon Ami Powder. Just as you've always liked Bon Ami Cake.

Women who have used it are all singing the praises of this other form of Bon Ami. The same magic ingredients in a handy, sifter-top can. Soft and scratchless, Bon Ami Powder blots up dirt without hard work.

It cleans and polishes quickly, and thoroughly. Nothing can equal it for making the bathtub glisten, cleaning the refrigerator, or restoring the lustre to aluminium, copper, agate and tin.

But for windows and mirrors, most housewives prefer Bon Ami Cake! Convenient in size and very economical.

Gentle to the hands, gentle to the surface it cleans—Bon Ami in either form is the magic cleanser. Women find it an economy of time and money to keep both these "partners in cleanliness" in the home. They meet every cleaning and polishing need.

TODAY'S VISITORS.

Peterboro is very glad to welcome as its visitors today the members of the National Dairy Council of the Dominion, who are here as the guests of the De Laval Company for the purpose of inspecting the plant of that company.

The visitors, who include President J. A. Caulder, of Moosejaw, Sask., and W. P. Stephens, of Huntingdon, Quebec, the Vice-President, represent the dairying interests of Canada from one end of the country to the other.

Among them are two Provincial Ministers of Agriculture, Hon. A. Prefontaine, of Manitoba, and Hon. M. Cummings, of Nova Scotia, as well as Dairy Commissioners from the various Provinces.

The Dairy Council represents interests that are playing a big part in adding to the national wealth of Canada, an industry that is developing by leaps and bounds, and that promises to become one of the greatest in the Dominion.

Peterboro is proud to have such citizens as her guests today, and trusts that their visit will be full of enjoyment and interest, and that they will see enough of this city to be able to tell their friends on their return that one of the oustanding features of the 1926 convention was their visit to Peterboro.

PETERBORO'S ADVANTAGES.

The fact that two Peterboro sportsmen were able to secure their legal allotment of venison within a few hours of leaving the city is emphatic endorsation of what The Examiner said a few days ago of the peculiar advantages enjoyed by Peterboro residents.

These advantages are scarcely realized by us—yet they should make the very best possible propaganda in bringing the attention of manufacturers to what is offered by Peterboro in this respect.

The manufacturer wants his employees to be satisfied, not only their pay and working conditions, but with the city in which they live.

He doesn't like his shop personnel to be continually changing, for efficiency and economy of operation are not helped by such changes.

He is on the lookout for centres where the living conditions are such that people are glad to stay there.

Peterboro, with the many attractions within its limits and in the district surrounding the city, is exactly the sort of place that should appeal to manufacturers on this account, and the facilities for hunting, fishing and canoeing that are offered should be stressed at all times.

DOING A WORTHWHILE WORK.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held on Saturday, and it is gratifying for those who realize how much this organization has done to provide healthful exercise for the young men of this Province and entertainment of the best type for the people of the cities, towns and villages, to know that despite the activities of professional organizations a successful season is anticipated.

The O. H. A. has meant much to this Province. In the smaller centres especially hockey is the chief source of amusement for many of the people.

It puts a new zest into life, appeals to the community spirit of the citizens, and occupies a prominent and important place in the Province's winter programme.

Without such a body as the Ontario Hockey Association these conditions could not have prevailed, and it is a matter for general congratulation that the organization starts a new season with its membership enthusiastic and with every prospect of a splendid year's activity among the hundreds of amateur teams throughout the Province.

Long live the Ontario Hockey Association!

THE SMALLPOX SITUATION.

The experience of Almonte in which a smallpox epidemic of such proportions as to necessitate the closing of schools and public buildings has developed shows how necessary it is to take energetic measures in dealing with outbreaks of the disease.

The city of Peterboro and the portion of the township of North Monaghan just outside the city limits is dealing with a situation that at any time might develop into an expidemic, if vaccination is not generally adopted as a bulwark against the plague.

In North Monaghan the action of the township authorities in sending home from school all children not vaccinated is already having an excellent effect.

Many of the children sent to their homes have been vaccinated since, and it is believed that the situation is now well in hand.

In the city the plea of the School Health Officer that children should be protected has resulted in most of the Public School pupils being vaccinated, and the Board of Health at its Tuesday meeting sought to have similar action taken in regard to Collegiate Institute and Normal School pupils.

It is hoped that the work of the authorities in heading off an epidemic will be assisted by the citizens generally.

We don't want to be faced with a situation such as Almonte is dealing with at the present time.

FAIR PLAY NEEDED.

It has been made quite evident by the campaign so far as it has gone that there is need for a greater display of the spirit of Christian charity among some of the Christian people of Ontario. It should be possible for a person to feel convinced that he is right without imputing unworthy motives to those who take another view. There are good people and honest people and people sincerely interested in the promotion of real temperance on both sides. Writers and speakers should be content with the use of legitimate arguments. The cause of temperance is not to be promoted by intemperate abuse. A person is not to be denounced as a hypocrite because he advocates the O. T. A.; neither is a person who prefers Government control as proposed to be treated as one who is desirous of promoting the sale and consumption of liquor.

Many people whose motives are beyond question are convinced that only by maintaining the O. T. A. can temperance be promoted. On the other hand, there are many people just as honestly convinced that under conditions as they are better results are to be expected from a system of Government control. It is a matter in regard to which many people feel very strongly, but that is no reason for intolerance.

Besides it is not good policy to seek support for a cause by abusing opponents. People who resort to personal abuse or to imputing unworthy motives leave the impression, either that they are lacking in legitimate arguments, or they have lost faith in their own ability to present them.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

SEARCHING QUESTIONS.

"Being a proper parent is the most important job any of us has," says Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, director of Child Guidance Clinic 2 of the U. S. National Committee for Mental Hygiene, and in the committee's bulletin for October he poses some sets of questions for parents to put to themselves to disclose for their own information at least a part of their responsibility for habits, mannerisms and characteristics they regret or reprehend in their youngsters.

If grown-up or nearly grown-up boys and girls are found favoring or tolerating indulgences or freedoms they should not, the chances are that the laxness is due more to parental inattention during the formative period of youth than to any other cause.

And parental control must be a matter of love more than of mandate. A boy or girl who is treated with generous affection will not likely need discipline much. In this connection Dr. Lowrey's October bulletin has an interesting schedule for parental attention. "Disobedience is usually the parent's fault," writes Dr. Lowrey, and the parent should answer these interrogatories:

"Do I cause my child to disobey?
"By:
"Uttering useless or unreasonable commands?
"Threatening him (and never carrying out the threat)?
"Stopping everything he starts to do?
"Refusing his requests, even though they are reasonable?
"Paying no attention to what he does until it interferes with my comfort?
"Promising and failing to keep my promise?
"Making him want to disobey for the sake of the excitement it creates?
"Evading my own duties and responsibilities?
"Constantly expecting disobedience?
"Quarreling with him over trivial matters?
"Failing to make him understand?"

An analogous set of questions is designed to reveal whether nervousness in a child is induced by father or mother. The master enquiry is: "Do I cause my child to be nervous?" The specific questions are:

"By being nervous myself? By telling him about it so I may have his sympathy? By constantly reminding him how nervous he is? By telling other people in his presence how nervous and queer and odd he is? By worrying over his health and habits? By worrying him with my worries over him? By coddling him physically and mentally? By denying him independence of thought and action? By expecting too much from him and driving him all the time?"

Dishonesty in children is a frequent cause of alarm and pain in parents. That it is "remarkably easy to be dishonest with one's self" is the conclusion Dr. Lowrey reaches. He would have all fathers and mothers troubled on this score examine themselves in this fashion:

"Do I cause my child to be dishonest?
"By:
"Lying to him?
"Lying to others in his presence?
"Overstimulating his imagination?
"Evading his questions?
"Telling him anything to get him to do what I want him to do?
"Boasting before him of some dishonest practice by which I gained an advantage?
"Refusing him most of the things he wants?
"Dealing out harsh treatment for minor offenses?
"Repressing all natural outlets for activity?
"Shielding him from all consequences of his dishonesty?
"Stealing, or actions which he interprets as stealing?
"Making a hero of some one noted for dishonesty?"

Rather searching questions, all of the foregoing. If any of us put them to ourselves and answer with strict truth, the result is liable to become uncomfortable minutes for us, and we shall hardly be prone to feel that any school our boys and girls can go to is likely to do them any harm if the young folks get all the affection and care and common sense that is possible at home.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Welcome, the Aussies.

Two weeks from today the arguments will be all over. But there can be a lot said in fourteen days.

Some one has figured out that the consumption of Canadian apples in Canada averages about half an apple per capita. Shows what a wealthy people we are with apples selling at 40c a dozen.

Those folks you meet with an indignant look in their eyes have just discovered that their names have been left off the voters' lists.

Just to remind the electors that they will not be through with voting on December 1, may we mention that the municipal campaign is only a few weeks away.

Judging from the number of clergymen who are candidates for the Legislature, all the ministers in the next House will not be found in the Cabinet.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 17.— Trade was slow, following active market Monday afternoon, when the heavy run of nearly 7,000 cattle was cleared with a holdover of only about 1,000 cattle. Moderate run of fresh cattle for yesterday. Export buyers Monday filled their bill for the week's shipment to seaboard, and about 200 cattle to carry over for next week. Prices on export steers 25c to 35c lower.

Choice butcher steers and heifers holding steady with last week at from $6 to $6.50. Fat cows and canners steady and in good demand.

Plain and common butcher steers slow and draggy.

Only a moderate export demand for the heavy export steers, this class suffering a further decline of 25 cents lower than last Monday. Steers quoted at from $6.25 to $6.50. One load of 18 finished steers selling at $6.60.

Calves steady to firm, $11.50 to $12.

Sheep and lambs steady to firm. One shipment of 1,200 Ottawa Valley lambs sold at $12.

Hogs, unsettled. Packers announce new differentials, taking effect today. Bids 50c lower, on basis of $10 f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—Wheat yesterday finished at the lowest closing price level reached here in weeks. One of the reasons given was a sharp downturn in the Winnipeg wheat market, together with reports that the Canadian growers pool was selling and that unofficial Canadian crop estimates had been increased. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 1 1-4 to 1 5-8c net decline, with corn showing 1-8 to 1-2c advance; oats 1-8 to 3-8c down, and provisions ranging from 10c off to a rise of 2 cents.

Wet weather, falling off in receipts and notice of material reduction of the yield of corn in the leading surplus States as compared with last year, tended to strengthen the corn market. Oats were responsive to wheat weakness.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 18,000; top yearlings $12.25; bulk better grades $11.00 to $12.00; liberal supply $10.00 down; best weighty steers $10.65; bulls 15 to 25c off for two days; vealers steady.

Hogs 35,000; heavy butchers upward to $11.80; bulk better grades 210 to 300 pound average $11.40 to $11.70; bulk 170 to 200 pounds $11.35 to $11.60; bulk packing sows $10.00 to $10.85; selected slaughter pigs up to $12.00; bulk 100 to 160 pounds $11.50 to $11.85.

Sheep 3,000; natives and few westerns to packers $13.00; top to city butchers $13.10; bulk fat lambs $12.50 to $12.75; most fat ewes $5.00 to $6.50; top $6.60.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Nov 17 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.83 13,16.
Sterling cables $4.84 7-16.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov 17 (Canadian Press). — There was no improvement in the foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday and business was again dull. The local and country demand for coarse grains was a little better and a moderate trade was done. The market for Canadian Western oats was weaker and prices were reduced 1 cent per bushel.

On account of the continued weakness in the Winnipeg cash wheat situation, the local market for Spring wheat flour was again weak and prices were declined another 10 cents per barrel. They are now at the lowest level of the new crop season and 20 cents per barrel below this period a year ago. The local and foreign demand was quiet.

Owing to the lower prices ruling for wheat and in sympathy with the above, the market for Winter wheat flour was easier and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel. The demand was limited and business was quiet.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand from local and country buyers. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

A feature of the local egg trade was the stronger feeling that developed in the market for strictly fresh extras and prices were marked up 2 cents per dozen. This was attributed to the scarcity of supplies and the good demand for the same. The condition of the market for storage eggs was unchanged, the undertone being firm with a good demand. the receipts were 150 cases.

The undertone to the potato market was easier, but prices showed no change. The demand was quiet and the volume of busines was small. New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at $1.85 to $1.90 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.65 per bag of 90 pounds.

The tone of the market for beans was firm under a continued good demand. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were offered at $2.75 per bushel, and broken lots at $3.00 per bushel.

Considerable business was transacted in butter and the tone of the market was firm. The receipts were 292 packages.

There was an improved demand from foreign and local buyers for cheese and a moderate trade was done. Prices were steady. The receipts were 6,639 boxes.

DIAMOND WEDDING DATE OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fox, of Eldorado, Married Sixty Years.

MADOC, Nov. 17.—On Friday, November 12, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fox of Eldorado, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. A family dinner was held at their home in honor of the occasion. About thirty guests were present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Rousehorn and Miss Muriel Rousehorn of Madoc, Mr. and Mrs. D. Phillips of Madoc Mr. and Mrs. W. Parnell and family of Eldorado, Mr. and Mrs. W. Goodchild and family of Bannockburn, and Rev. Mr. White of Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox were married in Belleville on November 12, 1866, Mrs. Fox being Miss Margaret Hanna of that city. In that same year Mr. Fox served in the Fenian raid at Prescott. Mr. and Mrs. Fox settled on a farm in Madoc township where they lived until 1914, when they retired to a home built by themselves about two miles from Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox had eight children of whom six are living: Mrs. Robert Drury of Peterboro; Joseph Fox of Eldorado; Mrs. Will Parnell of Eldorado; Mrs. David Phillips and Mrs. William Roushorn of Madoc, and Mrs. William Goodchild of Bannockburn. There are twenty-four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. During the evening little Raymond Goodchild, the eight months old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Goodchild, was christened by Rev. Mr. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox are both in good health, although Mr. Fox, who is eighty-four years of age, is growing quite feeble. Mr. and Mrs. Fox were presented with a purse by their family. Rev. Mr. White spoke a few words, expressing his appreciation of the aged couple and mentioning the invaluable assistance they had always rendered to the Methodist church and the faithfulness with which they had served their Lord and Master.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

I am a prohibitionist and I would like to say a word for it at this time. When the O.T.A. came in I heard great rejoicing amongst my women friends who thought, poor things, that Prohibition had come. Others said it had not and as I was sadly disappointed if it was not Prohibition I started out to investigate. First I went to the wineries at St. Catharines Niagara Falls, etc. and I was horrified to find that the O.T.A. allowed the making of these wines which are so strong that one half glass of them will make a drunkard Millions and millions of bottles shipped all over Ontario every year and this was allowed by the O.T.A. and was increasing rapidly. I then went with my sister and saw the distilleries. We visited Corby's near Belleville and found it had been increased to three times its size. I asked a friend of mine where all the whiskey went and he told me privately that the bootleggers ultimately got it. And so it was at Seagram's, at Walker's, at Gooderham's, etc. All this horrible work going on by permission of the O.T.A. just as it does today. Mr. Ferguson intends to head off the bootlegger. I stand for Prohibition and I say from personal observation that the O.T.A. is the greatest curse I ever knew.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

East Riding Election with two candidates in the field. Mr. Anderson under the title of Liberal-Prohibitionist. He is credited with certain flops and utterances and actions that the Electorate do not seem to understand and I trust he will be able to answer the following and clear the air:

Did he tender his resignation to the President of the East Peterboro Liberal Association as vice-president for Otonabee, prior to the U.F.O. convention at Norwood in 1919, and recall such resignation immediately after such convention?

What did he mean by saying that he had "severed his connections with the U.F.O. for political reasons", immediately after said convention Was it that they brought out Mr. McDonald instead of him or was it that Mr. McDonald declared himself as a supporter of the O.T.A.? All political questions had been discussed and agreed upon in the various U.F.O. lodges prior to such convention. What was his object in going over to the West Riding Liberal convention at that time (uninvited) and referring to the U.F.O. in the manner he did, as reported in The Examiner?

Why did he deny through The Examiner that he did apply to be appointed County Road Superintendent in 1919? He most decidedly did).

Why did he refuse to take a ballot, in 1919 Election and show his sympathy and ardent support (he now assumes) for the O.T.A. Both candidates, U.F.O. and Tory were practically carrying the O.T.A. banner, one of them supporting Mr. Hearst, the Father of the O.T.A., who had given the women a voice in such O.T.A. by giving them a vote?

How can he now solicit the support of those he ignored in 1919 and what persuasion did he use with the Otonabee elector whom he asked to bring his (Mr. Anderson's) name forward at the recent Lakefield convention?

Such answers will require to be in concrete form in order to leave no loop hole to slide through for as will be remembered, he had a challenge published in The Examiner in 1923 as follows (when denying various strange movements prior to that time): That he would pay to the Children's Aid Society $100.00 if it could be proved "that he ever made an offer to act as County Road Superintendent or solicited the Council for such position". It was subsequently proved in The Examiner by quoting the Minutes of the Council where he had offered his services for such purpose coupled with the same, at salary of $2,000.00, and furthermore it stands on records that he, (at the same meeting of the Council when his offer was not accepted) moved, that the present Superintendent be appointed at a salary of $1,500.00, and when such minutes were read at the next County Council meeting, Mr. Andrews moved that the same be adopted as read, such minutes being published and placed at the disposal of the public.

Now if he is not reported correctly he will have no trouble in securing a copy of the affidavit of the President of the East Peterboro Liberal Association for publication as to whether he tendered and recalled his resignation from such association before and after the U.F.O. convention at Norwood in 1919.

And if not guilty he should be glad of an opportunity to publish a copy of his own affidavit as to whether or why he refused to vote for either U.F.O. or Tory candidate in 1919, when both were declaring the O.T.A. with just as much enthusiasm as is being recommended today.

Failing to answer, or acting similar to the Road Superintendship, will leave his sincerity remain in doubt.

Has he paid over the $100.00 to the Children's Aid Society If not, it would be classed as a debt of honor unpaid.

Sincerely yours
S. BENNETT.
Liberal.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

WHAT PEOPLE WANT
By Dr. Frank Crane.

One of life's little jokes is that John Milton got fifty dollars for "Paradise Lost" and Anne Nichols gets five million for "Abie's Irish Rose."

Everybody admits that "Paradise Lost" is a great work of art.

It will be spoken of by the learned when Abie and Rosie are forgotten "these many years."

But the basis upon which financial rewards are distributed is the degree to which a product fills an immediate want of the people.

More people can laugh than can read a work of art. More people want to laugh than to read a work of art. Hence and wherefore Miss Nichols takes her place as a star account-holder in a New York bank.

With the right or wrong of public taste this article has nothing to do.

The point is that the road to financial success is supplying a public want.

In the South there lives a gentleman named Amedio Obici. He is known as "The Peanut King of the World." Starting with a pushcart peanut stand he worked his way to the presidency of the five million-dollar Planters' Nut and Chocolate Company, in which he is the principal stockholder.

To Mr. Obici recently came an inquiring reporter, who desired to learn the secret of his success.

His reply began with honesty and ended with wisdom.

"My success," he said, "like every other man's, is due to luck. But then, you have to have what people want or they won't buy it."

The last words explain the first.

Luck usually visits those who have what people want.

The secret of most successes—whether made at drawing a comic page, acting on the stage, inventing a new machine, selling a breakfast food, or writing an article—is the same.

It is producing what the people want.

They may not know they want it—that is the work of advertising—but unless the product meets a real need the resulting success will never be very pronounced.

OTTAWA MAYOR FACES CHARGES

Inquiry Ordered Following Accusation of Misuse of Funds.

MADE BY ALDERMAN.

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—Charges that Mayor J. P. Balharrie, Controller C. A. Tulley and Ald. T. E. Dansereau used funds of the city for their own private purposes during their term of office will be aired in a judicial investigation to be held immediately.

The city council decided in favor of the investigation at the conclusion of a tense and sensational meeting Monday night, before which the charges were made by Ald. Thomas Brethour. The three members accused, stoutly denied any wrong-doing, and said they were at a loss to know what acts of theirs were referred to. Ald. Brethour was pressed to give details on which the charges were based, but he refused to do so until he should come before the judge conducting the inquiry. He would institute the inquiry himself if the council did not, he said.

The meeting was an exciting one, as several controllers and councillors urged Ald. Brethour to give more particulars before the city was put to the expense of an investigation, but as he continued to refuse, his motion for an inquiry was carried, all members charged voting for it.

Marathon Rower Saved Companion Is Drowned

SANTANDER, Spain, Nov. 17 (United Press). — The two-oared boat in which the Danish captain, Ventegodt was attempting to row 12,000 miles, from England to Calcutta, British India, sank yesterday near Cape Mayor.

Ventegodt swam ashore, but his companion, Hansen, was drowned.

Rags used for oiling engines can be collected, the surplus oil extracted for making soap and the rags cleaned for use again.

"When Winter Comes"

In winter, Lifebuoy, the all-year-round soap for hands and face, bath and shampoo, is especially good because:

It does not remove those natural oils which are necessary to skin health.

Its mild, creamy, antiseptic lather goes deep into the pores, cleansing and purifying.

It rids the hands and face of cold germs which, getting into the nose and mouth, would cause colds—real protection against winter's worst ills.

Lifebuoy, the ultra-refined, world's most widely used soap, is an inexpensive protective necessity.

Lifebuoy's cleanly health odour quickly vanishes—the protection remains.

RED OUTBREAKS ARE EXTENDED ALL OVER JAVA

Twenty-five Rioters Killed When Mob Attacks Laboen Garrison.

LEADER ARRESTED.

Notorious Mohammed Ali Among Agitators Arrested at Soerabaya.

BATAVIA, Java, Dutch East Indies, November 17. Canadian Press.—Communist activities which last week culminated in revolutionary outbreaks extend to every part of Java.

Twenty five rioters are reported to have been killed when 500 of them attacked on Monday night the garrison at Laboen but were repulsed. Twenty nine prisoners were brought to Manos.

The arrest of Montalis, described as the ring leader at Charibon, led to the discovery of the whole conspiracy in Central Java. An investigation has revealed that 10,000 handbills were distributed during the past few months in which plans for a simultaneous outbreak throughout Central Java were set forth.

Thirty agitators, including the notorious Mohammed Ali, were arrested at Soerabaya.

House searches have yielded important information about plans for an outbreak in Eastern Java. The principal Communist leader there, named Hardjong, was arrested at Batavia Monday.

All is reported quiet in the Java sugar plantations.

The local press emphasizes that only a very limited part of the community was involved in the disorders which the newspapers say, were entirely due to outside Communist influences. The newspapers demand exemplary punishment to prevent further spread of the movement.

Agitators in Western Java are said to have established a base for arms and ammunition at Signapore, British India. Several persons were killed and wounded in the attacks there.

Mohammed Ali, as the head of the Indian Caliphate committee five years ago, was conspicuous in disorders between the British authorities and the so-called Swarajists during the non-cooperative movement headed by Mohatma Ganhi in India. For supporting a seditious resolution at the all-India Moslem Congress in October 1921, he was sentenced to two years in prison.

Like all other Swarajuists, he faded out with the virtual collapse of the movement early last year.

SIX ENTRAPPED MINE FLOODED

Incessant Rain Causes Overflow in Creek Bed Near Mine.

FOUR ESCAPE.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press). — Six miners are trapped in the Tom Hicken mine of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, near this city, as a result of an old creek bed near the mine breaking away yesterday and flooding the mine.

An incessant rain for the past twenty-four hours has caused great damage due to floodings in all anthracite mines in this region.

Four of the ten men got out safely. Mine officials last night expressed the belief that five of the men entombed would be able to keep themselves above the water levels. The position of the sixth at the time of the rush of water was such, the mine officials stated, that his safety is doubtful.

Rescue crews were immediately put to work and efforts were made to speed up the mine pumps to lower the water levels so that the fate of the entombed men could be ascertained.

The flood was caused by a new water channel breaking into a creek, overflowing the creek. The overflow settled into a mine hole on the surface and the mine hole caved in under the weight of the water, which rushed into an upper lift where ten men were working.

GUARD AGAINST PLANE ATTACKS

Cellars, Tubes and Tunnels Are Being Tabulated For Hiding Capacity.

MAKE AIR TESTS.

LONDON, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—The British War Office, the Westminster Gazette understands, is already laying plans against air raids in the next war. Cellars, tubes and tunnels are being tabulated for hiding capacity, and on Monday 100 picked men of the Guards Regiment spent several hours in the tube belonging to the Post Office which conveys the mails from Central London to Paddington railway station. These men were testing their staying capacity in a minimum of fresh air and were watched by scientists.

It is understood that similar tests will be made weekly.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFRE—

CHERRY LANE, 18, one of a family of four children of MR. and MRS. LANE, typical American working people, uses her beauty to "vamp" every man she meets.

The list of her admirers includes CHESTER HART, a former "steady" of her stay-at-home sister, FAITH.

CHRIS WILEY, to whom Mr. Lane has forbidden the house, and whom Cherry meets clandestinely.

ALBERT ETTLESON, a traveling salesman of Indianapolis; and—

BOB HATHAWAY, to whom Faith is also attracted, but who has eyes only for the petite, copper-haired Cherry.

Faith's life is largely made up of work and of getting Cherry and her brother JUNIOR, 21, out of trouble. She has just pawned or sold all her trinkets to get Junior out of jail when he was arrested for speeding. Chester Hart, at Cherry's invitation, comes to call, and because he feels rather mean at having "ditched" Faith, he asks GEORGE PRUITT, son of one of the town's richest families, to call the same evening.

Pruitt, a former student of art in New York, now working in his father's wholesale grocery business, tells Faith she is a modern Venus, and practically ignores Cherry.

Cherry has promised to buy Faith material for a dress, but the cloth she chooses is so unsuited to Faith's type that the girl refuses it, and AUNT HATTIE LANE, acidulous little old spinster, wins Faith's gratitude by buying her the material she had wanted.

The two plan to make the dress, and are interrupted at their work by the arrival of a great box of flowers addressed to Faith, who is overwhelmed at the unusual attention.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX.

Faith's fingers trembled so violently as she worked at the purple cord binding the enormous box of flowers that her Aunt Hattie, chuckling wickedly, seized a paring knife and slashed the string with one vigorous thrust of her skinny little hand.

"Oh, Aunt Hattie!" Faith breathed ecstatically as she lifted a great sheaf of roses from their bedding of damp, pale green tissue paper. "There must be some mistake! They can't be meant for me!"

"American Beauties!" Aunt Hattie crowed. "I told you so! My Lord, the stems are three feet long, if they're an inch! Here, open that there envelope, before I bust with curiosity! Not for you! Hunh! Make me sick! Always runnin' yourself down!"

Faith drew the engraved and inscribed card from the square envelope that was tied to a thick, thorny stem, and read it aloud in a shaken voice:

"Mr. George Horace Pruitt—These roses reminded me of you. I hope you won't mind, and that you will let me see you again soon."

"Mind! Land o' livin!" Is the boy crazy? I bet them roses cost him a pretty penny. How many are there? Hmm! Three, six, nine, twelve! A whole dozen, and they cost a dollar and a half a piece, if they cost a nickel! I'd give my new false teeth to see Cherry's face when she takes a squint at 'em and realizes they ain't for her. What are you goin' to put 'em in? There ain't a vase in the house big enough for 'em. And it'd be a sin and a shame to cut off any o' the stems."

"I'll put them in that green lemonade pitcher," Faith decided, her cheeks almost as red as the gorgeous flowers she carried.

"I'd say he's got it bad—'these roses remind me of you'—" Aunt Hattie quoted with relish. "He ain't so far wrong, neither! I always did say you was a fine, handsome girl! The good Lord ain't forgot how to turn out a real woman, even if he has been skimpin' a lot on these toothpick flappers!"

Faith said nothing, but her Aunt Hattie's shrewd eyes observed that even the back of her neck was red as she arranged the magnificent roses in the green lemonade pitcher. She could not trust herself to speak, for her heart was too full of gratitude toward George Pruitt and toward Aunt Hattie, and tears were quivering on her eyelashes. But when she went into the living room, to place the flowers on the library table, she stood for a long minute before the old-fashioned pier glass that reached almost to the ceiling, and which, because of its usefulness in dressmaking, Faith had refused to sell, at Cherry's request.

She saw her tall, splendid body with eyes that had been opened by George

What is your title to this picture—it contains 16 words.

Pruitt's appreciation. Cherry's tiny, elfin-like figure, the supreme expression of flapper beauty, had made Faith feel awkward and almost grotesquely large, although she was only five feet five inches tall and weighed a hundred and thirty-five pounds—the correct weight for her height.

Clasping her hands behind her head, she revolved slowly before the mirror, observing, with shy but unashamed eyes, the sculptured perfection of her strong, round, white arms, the long, graceful line of neck melting into sloping, erect shoulders: the swell of high, firm, pointed breasts under the straight front of her pink percale bungalow apron, the gracious, curving sweep of back into waistline, defined by the wide, starched belt; the long, splendid curve of the thigh, the straightness and rounded slenderness of her calves and ankles; the high-arched, aristocratic narrowness of her feet, which not even scuffed old brown Oxfords could hide.

Exultation flooded her heart. She would never again be ashamed of her body, carry it awkwardly, apologetically. God had meant women to look like that—sturdy, strong, fit for motherhood. At the thought, color dyed her cheeks again, but her eyes were luminous with this sudden vision of what life held in store for her, when she raised them to study her face.

The warm, creamy tint of her cheeks—they just escaped being olive—was deepened by that tide of color that had swept up out of her heart, but her wide lips were rather pale.

"I need just the right kind of lip rouge," she whispered to herself. "And I'm going to get it, no matter what it costs!"

Her large, calm brown eyes, luminous now with new vision, looked at her steadily, serenely, from under the level, dark brows that Cherry had suggested that she pluck to an arched, hair-thin line. If only her nose were thin, nostrilled, aristocratic, straight, as it should have been to match her face and her body!

"I hate you, you squdgy soft old thing!" She poked at her round-tipped, indefinite, characterless nose with an angry forefinger.

"What you doin' in here so long?" Aunt Hattie demanded from the doorway. "I finished dryin' the dishes and put 'em away. Let's git a hustle on now and see how quick we can git this house cleaned up. Where's your Ma?"

"She's in her room, lying down. She has a sick headache," Faith explained.

"I guess that's the same sick headache she has always had when I come to spend the day," Hattie Lane chuckled. "Take your flowers in to show her. That'll give her something to think about."

An hour later the grizzled gray head and the sleek brown one were bent over a fashion book.

"Here—look at this! Bet you'd look swell in this!" Aunt Hattie pointed a triumphant, skinny forefinger.

The pictured dress, of the same soft yellow as Faith's material, was sleeveless, with a long waist line, the bodice, falling in a loosely bloused effect, being joined to the full, flaring short skirt with a soft crushed girdle of the chiffon, a great scarlet flower poised on the left side.

Faith's eyes kindled with shy enthusiasm. "I do believe I could wear that, Aunt Hattie. But what do you think of the scarlet flower? Don't you think it's a little loud for me?"

"Loud, my foot!" Aunt Hattie fairly spat the words. "What do you think you are—an old maid like your Aunt Hattie? A good bright red's just what you want to liven you up! Finish off the skirt with them deep petals, like you did Cherry's green organdy. And have 'em picoted downtown. No sense in the world in you runnin' up a two-piece dress on the machine in a coupla hours and slavin' two days on a dress for Cherry! You slip into another dress and hurry downtown for the pattern. I'll scrape up a bite o' lunch for your Ma and Joy and me, and this afternoon, between us, we should have that there dress half finished."

When Faith was ready for her trip to the shopping district, her aunt followed her to the door, and pressed a folded bill into her hand. "Here, Faith, you get that there red flower already made up. I don't want this dress to look home-made. I seen just the thing in the Vanity Shop—two dollars. A satin thing made to look jest like a scarlet poinsettia, with yellow French knots for the center. No, don't you worry about the money. I guess I know what I can afford. My hens have been layin' extra good this spring and summer."

Faith was about to thank her aunt when the shrill clamor of the telephone interrupted her. "I'll answer it, Aunt Hattie. It must be for me."

"This is the Western Union," a metallic voice told her in a monotone. "We have a message for Miss Cherry Lane, addressed to the A. H. Preston Company. They tell us that Miss Lane is no longer with them. Shall I read it over the phone or send it out? Delivery will be ten cents."

"Read it," Faith found herself answering in a dry, husky voice. "This is—is Miss Lane."

"This is a day letter from Indianapolis, Indiana, and signed Albert," the monotonous voice went on. "The message reads: 'Sorry can't make it this week-end. Somebody suspicious. Don't worry. Writing full instructions. Love and kisses, Albert.' The metallic voice paused, then resumed, with a slightly more human note: "Shall I read it again?"

"No, I understood perfectly." Faith stammered. "Will you mail it please to this address—no, send it care of Cluny and Neff, Attorneys at Law, Prudential Building."

Faith hurried away, leaving a mystified and rather piqued Aunt Hattie staring after her.

Albert! That could only be the mysterious Albert Ettleson, whose return address Faith had seen on the envelope under Cherry's pillow. "Somebody suspicious!" That could mean only one thing—that Albert Ettleson was married and that Cherry knew it. "Writing full instructions!" Instructions—instructions? What on earth could he be "instructing" Cherry about? What plan did her sister have on foot that a married man could be writing her full instructions concerning? And he dared end his cryptic message with "love and kisses!" Faith's cheeks burned with shame for her sister. She would disgrace them all yet—

Before buying the pattern for her dress, Faith went directly to the Prudential Building, in which Cluny and Neff had their pretentious offices. She dreaded the scene that was bound to follow, but her head was held high, and her brown eyes were almost black with anger. The heartless, conscienceless little flirt!

"I'm Miss Lane's sister," she told the boy who was lounging in the outer office.

That's her office," the boy said, pointing to a closed door. "Just go right in!"

Treading softly, a little awed by the magnificence of the Cluny and Neff offices, Faith turned the knob noiselessly and pushed open the door. The tableau, quickly dissolved, which met her eye drove for the moment all thought of the telegram out of her mind.

KING FERDINAND MAY ABDICATE

Report Persists That He Suffers From Cancer of Stomach.

ILEANA TO SUCCEED.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 17.—(United News).—Rumors that King Ferdinand plans to abdicate following his request that Queen Marie cut short her American visit, are corroborated by the newspaper Politika, which asserts that Princess Ileana's succession to the throne is being arranged.

Despite the fact that Dr. Bensande, a French physician, has diagnosed the king's ailment as rectosigumoditis, thus confirming the diagnosis of local physicians, the popular opinion insists that the royal patient is suffering from cancer of the stomach. The French specialist says that the king's condition is satisfactory.

WESTERN YOUTHS STUDYING PORKERS

Champion Pig Raisers of Three Provinces at Royal Winter Fair.

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair was stormed yesterday by a squadron of youthful prairie farmers, who are determined to see all there is to be seen, do all there is to be done, and carry back with them to the West such points on breeding and the care of live stock as may be useful to those amongst whom they will disseminate the knowledge they acquire. These boys know their pigs, but to them a pig is not merely a pig, it is a bacon-hog or a porker. It is amongst the swine that they spend a great deal of their time, and that is why they are now champions of the swine clubs. They are in Toronto for a week as guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which company has for many years granted a cup for competitions amongst the boys and girls' swine clubs in the three prairie provinces, and offer as an added inducement for greater effort on the part of the contestants in the swine breeding competitions a trip to the Royal Agricultural Fair.

The boys are under the supervision of George B. Williams, agricultural agent of the Western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The two winners from Kenton, Manitoba, are Stanley R. Hunt and Gerald McLean; the two from Manor, Sask., are twin brothers, George and Edward Hume, and two from Hardisty, Alberta, are Walter Kabitzsch and George Matthews.

The Entire Family Using It

MR. WM. McDONALD

"Every member of my family has taken your HERB JUICE and we have found it the only satisfactory treatment for stomach trouble and constipation,' said Mr. Wm. McDonald, 109 Seaton St., Toronto. "I had suffered for a good while with stomach trouble and constipation and had been unable to find any medicine that would relieve me of the terrific gas pains. However, the first bottle of HERB JUICE did me worlds of good and after using it for a short time I was completely relieved of stomach trouble—my bowels were regular and I never have any more trouble from constipation. We give it to the children as a laxative. My wife and I would not be without it in the house."

London Counts Cellars For Future Air Raids

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(Associated Press Cable.)— The British War Office, The Westminster Gazette understands, is already laying plans against air raids in the next war.

Cellars, tubes and tunnels are being tabulated for hiding capacity, and yesterday 100 picked men of the Guards Regiment spent several hours in the tube belonging to the Post Office which conveys the mails from Central London to Paddington Railway Station. These men were testing their staying capacity in a minimum of fresh air, and were watched by scientists.

STATE POLICE ARREST LEADER OF STRANGE CULT

'King' Benjamin Purnell, of House of David, Caught After Four Years.

AT COLONY.

'King Ben' Faces Charges Preferred By Members of Sect.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—King Benjamin Purnell, fugitive leader of the Israelite House of David, sought for five years by police throughout the world to answer serious charges preferred by revolting members of his sect, was captured today by Michigan State Police in a building of the colony here.

A will-o'-the-wisp from justice since 1922, when warrants were issued charging him with assault on girl inmates of the picturesque colony, Purnell, bewhiskered leader of a cult which defied for years investigation by State authorities, fell captive to a surprise attack by the State troopers.

Only today did the authorities learn that "King Ben," subject of investigation after investigation, had still maintained his residence among his people and still exercised sovereign powers there.

The "King" surprised by his unheralded, unwelcome visitors, was found seated in a chair dressed only in his underwear. Beside him stood two men who claimed to be attendants to a "sick man."

In other rooms of the building were found three other men, two girls, and a woman, the King's constant attendant throughout his tempestuous career, Myrtle Tulk.

The girls were garbed solely in their night garments, while the Tulk woman was in deshabile.

Those arrested with Purnell are Leonard Rose, 33; Thomas Wilson, 50, farmer; Joseph Couch, 51, laborer; Millard Wilson, 27, street car motorman, at the colony; Mrs. Anna Belle Askerlund, 23; Mrs. Helen Bloom, 21 years old; and Myrtle Tulk.

Purnell, when questioned as to his identity, gave his full name and added: "I am a painter."

Purnell was released on $50,000 bail today when arraigned on serious statutory charges brought by Ruth B. Reed and Gladys B. Rubel, former members of the sect. The others, charged with obstructing justice, were also released on bond. Purnell's examination was set for Dec. 22. He remained silent during the short court proceedings.

Re-Arrested

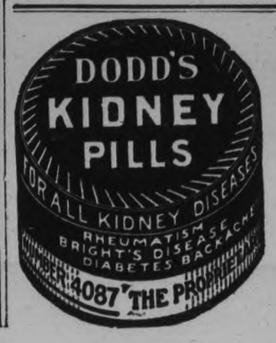
BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—"King" Benjamin Purnell of the House of David, arrested early today on warrants charging assault upon two former girl members of his colony, and who was released a few hours later under $50,000 bond ,was re-arrested this afternoon when Circuit Judge Charles E. White ruled that the bond was worthless.

AUSTRALIA'S DEBT BACKED BY ASSETS

Premier Bruce Replies To Criticisms of Frequent Loans.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— Premier S. M. Bruce, of Australia, at dinner here last night, took occasion to reply to recent criticisms of the Australian Commonwealth and Australian States for frequent borrowings in London.

Only one-third of Australia's debt, Premier Bruce said, represented the dead weight of her war debt. The remainder represented valuable assets, whereas Great Britain's debt practically was altogether dead weight, except the money owed by the allies and of this full recovery was extremely doubtful.



INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING FOWL

Proper Ways of Killing and Plucking Are Described.

The following instructions on killing and dressing poultry are issued in connection with the dressed fowl fair:

All birds should be fasted for 24 hours before killing, and during the period of fast given some water to drink. If this is not done the food remaining in the crop and intestines at the time the bird is killed, decomposes. As a result of this decomposition of feed in the digestive tract, strong smelling gasses are liberated which taint the flesh of the bird, not only destroying the flavor, but very much lowering its keeping qualities.

All birds should be killed by bleeding, preferably through the mouth. This is a very simple operation, and a little practice will ordinarily make one fairly handy at the work. Two general positions for the bird during the operation are used. The one is to place the bird on a padded bench or table, and the other is to hang the bird up by the feet with a rope or cord. For the average person the latter method is preferred, as there is less danger of bruising or barking the skin than were the bird is lying upon some object. The one end of the rope or cord may be fastened to a small rod or pole and to the other end attach a small block about two inches by two inches. When hanging the bird up, the end of the rope with block on is placed around the feet and the block dropped in between the birds feet are about on a level with the picker's shoulders.

For bleeding a sharp knife with a blade about three inches in length will answer. To bleed catch the bird's head with the thumb and the forefinger just at the juncture of the neck and head or at the earlobes; then, with the third finger, open the chicken's mouth. Next insert the knife and put it down the throat, practically the length of the blade; then, with the edge of the blade turned down, cut rather heavily with a drawing stroke of the knife. The object is to sever the jugular veins at the point where they unite back of the head.

The chicken should be plucked immediately, first removing the long wing feathers and the tail feathers, then each side of the breast, then the legs and lastly the back. Do not try to pull the feathers either forward or backward ,but more sideways or angle. The coarse or rough feathers should be removed in the shortest time possible, as the more quickly the feathers are removed after sticking the easier they will come and the less danger there is of tearing the skin. For instance in removing wing feathers, grasp both wings in the left hand and the feathers of both in the right, removing them all at one stroke of the right hand. Next raise the right hand to the tail, grasping all the feathers in the tail, and with a slight twist remove with a second stroke of right hand, and so on over the different sections of the body. To remove the pin feathers, use a dull, round bladed knife, similar to an ordinary paring knife. Be careful not to rub or bark the skin. This may be done very easily by rough handling, or by placing the chicken in contact with coarse clothing; hence do not put chicken on your lap to pluck it. If you should unfortunately, tear the skin, hold the skin at the torn part tightly to the body between the thumb and first finegr, and then remove all rough feathers near the torn part. Anyone with a little practice can remove the rough feathers in from three to five minutes. Expert pickers will do it in from three quarters of a minute to one minute.

The bird should be plucked clean, the blood washed from the head out of the mouth, and the feet washed clean.

Demonstrations will be given at the Market Hall, Peterboro, on Saturdays previous to the sale.

MRS. MILLS' SISTER ON WITNESS STAND

Says Her Sister Told Her That She Loved Minister.

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Nov. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Another sister of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, slain with Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall in September, 1922, related at the murder trial here yesterday that the choir singer was in love with the minister.

Mrs. Marie M. Lee, of Patterson, N.J., younger sister of Mrs. Mills, said the latter had told her in 1919 that she loved Mr. Hall, but that their relations had been "quite proper."

The witness said Mrs. Mills had said in the presence of James Mills, the slain woman's husband, that she planned to go away with Mr. Hall, probably to China, where Mr. Hall would take up "some other business."

Mrs. Mills also told the witness that Mr. Hall was going to ask Mrs. Hall to "release him." After stating that she had seen her sister kiss the minister, witness in reply to a question by defense counsel said that her sister told her that one of the reasons she was fond of Mr. Hall was because he was her intellectual equal.

ciety. Seven complaints were followed by seven investigations, police court attendance, 11; wards placed out, 2; wards returned to the Shelter, 2, and one ward visited.

Mr. Edgar suggested that fruit trees be placed in the grounds of the Shelter, Mr. Stocker objecting to this on the ground that it would offer temptation to small boys in pilfering the fruit.

Mr. Edgar brought up the question of the King children, two of the children of a man named King who was convicted and sentenced for a serious offence some years ago, having been taken subsequently by the Children's Aid Society and placed out in foster homes. The mother of the children now asks for their return to her home, on the ground that she is unable to support the remaining small members of he family on the amounts received from time to time from her husband, who is at present in Detroit, and that she has secured factory positions for the two children, one a girl of about seventeen years of age, the other a boy of about fifteen years. At a special meeting of the Board, held a fortnight ago, a show of hands was in favor of returning the children to the mother, this action to be ratified at yesterday's regular meeting, but a resolution of the Board yesterday afternoon nullified the previous decision and recorded the feeling of the majority of the members as being against the return to the mother's home.

Mrs. Frank Ham, wife of the Adjutant of the Salvation Army, who has been making visits to the home since her arrival in the city in April last, appeared before the Board yesterday and make a strong appeal for the return of the two children to the mother. She said Mrs. King had done everything that had been asked of her by herself, the Police Matron, and that she was making an effort to do right now. It would encourage her to have her children back in the home, and she would be able then to have their financial support and also some help from the city relief officers, which is now denied her. Mrs. Ham thought that there were "hundreds of worse cases than this in the city, and far more dangerous women. This woman may go to the bad if you don't let her children go back to her."

Mr. Edgar reported that the girl in the case, the daughter of 17 years of age, does not wish to go back to her mother, and the boy has not yet been heard from.

A divergence of opinion was evident in the conscientious efforts of the members to arrive at some satisfactory solution of the problem. Several of the ladies of the board thought that Mrs. King, whom one of them termed an "impossible" case in the past, could have helped herself by the aid of a washing machine, which was loaned her at one time, and felt that it would be a dangerous thing to allow the two children to go back to this home. One lady thought the main object of the society, the "aid" of children, should be considered as its primary objective, rather than the welfare of the mother, and that conditions in the home, which in the past have been very bad might in future develop once more along sinister lines. Rev. P. Costello, taking into account the assertion of Mayor Holloway at the last Board meeting, that the home would be under the direct supervision of the Chief of Police and the Police Matron, thought that the children should be returned to the home to make some contribution to the financial support of their mother, and made a motion along this line, which, after some delay, found a seconder in Stocker. An amendment moved by Mrs. J. Welsh and seconded by Mrs. J. S. Fanning, finally carried, deciding that the children be left where they are at present.

It was explained by a member of the Charity Board who was present, that the action of the City Relief officers in refusing further financial aid to Mrs. King, was due to the fact that these children might be of aid to her, if returned to the home. It was suggested that some arrangement might be made with the girl, who gets the sum of $10 a month, besides her clothing and board, and the boy, whose wages (if any), are also rather negligible in amount, to contribute a little toward the support of their mother, who, besides several small children of her own family, has two infants, one of we mind, to look after, her only support at present being derived from the uncertain contributions of her absent husband and the small wage of another young daughter. A suggestion by one memebr of the Board that the other children be taken in care of the society brought the assertion from Mr. Edgar that this could not be done unless conditions were of such a nature to prove ill-treatment and neglect.

It was decided to leave the matter of providing Christmas cheer at the Shelter in the hands of the Purchasing Committee.

It was also decided, on motion of F. H. Dobbin, to appoint a committee to look into the question of the advisability of procuring an office for the agent somewhere in the city buildings, and to install a card-index system showing all transactions with regard to wards and business of the society. The committee will consist of Mayor Holloway and Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, W. Stocker and R. H. Parsons.

Mr. Edgar, giving the matron's report, showed 20 children in the Shelter during the past month with 11 brought in and three sent out.

Mrs. Gibbs reported for the Purchasing Committee as follows:

Milk Products Co., $5.99; telephone accounts, $2.92 and $3.29; Canadian Packing Company, $15.30; Turnbull Company, $4.13; light and water, $9.17; Grant and Thorpe, $1.40, T. L. Edwards, $3.65; Higgins Hardware Company, $2.55; W. J. Grady, $17.61; Sanitary Ice Supply Co., $4.00; Mr. Edgar, $14.88; Norwood Register, $2.10; Nicholls Hospital, $6.00.

GEORGE ST. CHURCH.

The Ontario Temperance Act was strongly supported from the pulpit of George Street United Church Sunday morning by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Todd, who in urging that the Act should be retained upon the Statute Books of the Province, said he had no apologies to offer to his people in view of the fact that the question before the people of Ontario was a great moral issue.e It was not primarily a matter of politics but of principle. All his life he had followed the trail of the liquor traffic, and because it had left nothing but sorrow and tragedy in its wake, he was prepared once again to get on its trail though it were endeavoring to hide behind the skirts of the politicians.

No doubt there were many sincere people who would vote for Government Control, but if men and women would listen less to sweet-gossip, and look into the principle of the thing, with eyes and minds open as to the objectives of the two issues, and sinking their party affiliations, he felt that the question would be decided right.

We are being told these days that the Ontario Temperance Act cannot be enforced, and the very men empowered to enforce it are the ones who tell us this. There is no doubt that the will of a definite majority of the people is being defied and violated by interested parties, and determined law-breakers so as to lessen the efficiency of the law, and who advocate that that law should be abandoned for one that is put forward by these very parties who have actually in some cases openly advocated the flouting and violating of the law that is already upon our Statute Books. Have we any guarantee that the law they now recommend will receive any more respect at their hands, if it does not fit in their expectations?

The O. T. A. by common consent of those who are opposed to it, as well as those who are in favor of it, has done a great amount of good. Our province and our city is a vastly different place to live in today to what it was before the introduction of the O.T.A. No one claims that the O.T.A. is a perfect law; no one claims that it is being perfectly enforced; but until those who advocate its repeal have something better than Government Control to give us let us retain the O.T.A. For in every Province where Government Control is in operation we find at least as much if not more discontent with its working as is manifest here with the O.T.A.

Economically, morally and socially there has been marked advance in Ontario since the passing of the O.T.A. Mr. Todd produced statistics to prove these assertions. Government sale does not do away with the bootlegger, for the O.T.A. is not responsible for his being in our midst. He used to be called the blind-pig, and today he is as active in Quebec and British Columbia as ever he was. It is always true that wherever there is a legally imposed tax, you will always find a certain type of low-down person who is willing to run certain risks in order to evade that tax; hence we have the bootlegger.

Would Sit Up Most of Night

In bed nerves would twitch and jerk so he could not sleep

This letter gives you some idea of how distressing nervous ailments become. It also points to the best method of restoring exhausted nerves. Mr. E. P. Schoolcraft, Clarenceville, Que. writes:—"I suffered for three years with my nerves. I tried most everything, but without relief. I could not sleep at night, my nerves were so unstrung. I would twitch first one leg and then the other. Some nights I would sit up most of the night, unable to sleep. I became so bad that I could not sit still. I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and felt slightly better by the time I had taken it. When I had used a full treatment I was an entirely different man—I felt better, slept better and worked better."

CONTRACTOR FOUND WAY TO HEALTH

After Suffering Tortures From Indigestion and Run-Down Condition, He Quickly Regains Health and Strength. Takes Tanlac.

Edison Bradshaw, a successful Toronto contractor, 413 Wellesley street, says: "I hope my story will be the means of helping others who suffered as I did. I feel like a new man, thanks to Tanlac.

"Before taking Tanlac, I doctored for nervous prostration but seemed to be getting worse. I had no appetite and when I forced myself to eat the pains from indigestion were torture. My heart bothered me after the slightest exertion. I was nervous and irritable and could scarcely sleep. At times I would doze off, then suddenly my muscles would twitch and I would awake with a start. I was almost in despair.

"Nothing seemed to help me, until I started to take Tanlac. The first two bottles made me feel so much better that I kept on taking it. Now my appetite is very good, stomach normal, nerves in good shape. I can sleep well at night, in fact have entirely recovered.

"I heartily recommend Tanlac because I feel sure it will do for others what it has done for me in restoring my health."

Tanlac has helped thousands of men and women. It is nature's own remedy made from roots and herbs according to the famous Tanlac formula. The first bottle, as a rule, brings wonderful relief. Keep up the treatment and see how quickly you will grow stronger and healthier.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1926, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 1

The writer has often referred to the charm of the unexpected at auction. When you think you have an invincible hand, a bad "break" surprises and disconcerts you and you only make one or two odd. On the other hand, the game has its compensation, for how often does an apparently worthless hand turn out to be a big winner! Very often the one picture card in the hand is just the one to make your partner's hand invincible, and so turn apparent defeat to an unexpected victory. "Never say die" is just as good a motto for auction bridge as for anything else. Here is a good example of the hopeless hand turning out to be a winner. Z dealt and held the following hand:

Hearts — Q, 4, 2
Clubs — 8, 7, 5, 2
Diamonds — 10, 7, 6
Spades — 7, 3, 2

Naturally he passed, and probably with the thought: "Here goes game." His partner, however, had a most remarkable hand:

Hearts — A, J, 9, 8, 7, 5, 3
Clubs — none
Diamonds — none
Spades — A, Q, J, 10, 9, 5

The bid finally reached five hearts, was doubled and Z's partner redoubled. He just made the bid, losing only one spade and one heart trick. Z's one face card, the queen of hearts, saved the day, and Z's hand which looked so hopeless really contained the element of victory. Never despair and never give up a rubber until your opponents actually win it. Until they do, there is always hope and that is what makes auction bridge the greatest of card games.

In preceding articles the writer has often referred to the 4-4-4-1 type of hand and strongly advised an effort to find a suit bid with such a hand, one that best fits in with the partner's hand. Here are two good examples:

Hand No. 1

Hearts — A, Q, 8, 6
Clubs — K, 8, 4, 2
Diamonds — 7, 6, 5, 3
Spades — 8

	Y
	Z

Hearts — K, J, 9, 7
Clubs — A, 9, 6, 2
Diamonds — 7
Spades — K, Q, 10, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade. A passed and Y bid one no-trump. If B passed, what should Z now bid? Z should bid two hearts. If Y cannot help the spade bid, he should have good help for hearts and a game is very possible. On the other hand, if Z passes and lets Y play the hand at no-trump, his opponents may run off five diamonds and so save game. With this type of hand, 4-4-4-1, try to find the suit bid that best fits the combined hands. If you do, you nearly always score game. Hands with this type of distribution come up very frequently, several times in an evening's play, so if you know how to handle them you will make many a game not otherwise possible.

It's not often that a good fifty-two card problem is presented but here is one just from England and it certainly is a teaser. Try your luck, but if you cannot solve it don't be discouraged, for it will puzzle the great maiority of players

How can Z so play the hand that he can win the balance of the tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

SOCIETY

The Catholic Women's League held a very successful and well-attended Thanksgiving tea and card party in the auditorium of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum yesterday afternoon. Upwards of two hundred ladies were in attendance for the card games and afternoon tea, which was served at individual tables centred prettily with yellow 'mums and bronze calendula. The two large serving tables were also arranged with vases of 'mums and lighted candles, and the stage was attractive with gaily-shaded floor lamps. Mrs. Joseph E. White acted as general convenor, assisted by Mrs. T. Lane, Mrs. A. Sharpe, Mrs. John Carroll and Miss Annie Simons. The recention committee included the president, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. John Coughlin, Mrs. James Crowley and Mrs. Wm. J. Grady. Mrs. R. Sheehy and Mrs. A. I. MacPherson also assisted. Mrs. H. Owens had charge of the bridge tables and Mrs. John Grisdale of the euchre, sixteen tables of the former and six of the latter being played. Prizes were won for bridge by Mrs. C. S. Stapleton and Mrs. B. Hulfish, and for euchre by Mrs. D. Donoghue and Mrs. J. Roach. Tea was poured by Mrs. B. Law and Mrs. George Lynch, assisted by Mrs. John McCarthy, Mrs. W. O'Brien, Mrs. N. Tobin, Mrs. Jno. Roach, Mrs. C Wolfe, Mrs. W. Hayes, Mrs. F. Lynch, and the Misses Ann McCarthy, Grace McCarthy, Madge Tobin, Mary Scollard, Bernardine MacPherson and Camilla Fitzpatrick. During the tea hour, a pleasing musical programme, in charge of Miss Geraldine Collins, was rendered, with vocal solos by the Misses Gertrude Doyle, Gladys Costello and Catheleen McCarthy, with accompaniments by Miss Hurley. Miss L. Letellier and Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, and instrumental selections by Miss Hurley and Miss Louise Letellier.

Mrs. Harold Freeman and Mrs. Herschel Welbourn were hostesses for the Thanksgiving meeting of the St. James' X L Mission Circle, held at Mrs. Welbourn's home, 218 Reid Street, on Monday evening. The good attendance and excellent programme made the meeting a success. Mrs. F. Kitney, the president, led the Thanksgiving responsive service, after which reports were given by the several officers and committees, which were exceptionally gratifying. The study book, in charge of Constance Wagar, took another interesting chapter on the life and work of Mary Slessor in Calibar, Africa. Pleasing solos were contributed by Miss Amy Fairbrother and Mrs. Ernest Kitney. At the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the committee, and a social half-hour enjoyed by all. The December meeting is in charge of Misses Amy Fairbrother and Jessie Martin, and will be held at Miss Fairbrother's home, Romaine Street, the second Monday evening in December.

Saves $24 A Year

Cooking experts figure that the SMP Enameled Ware Roaster will save the average Canadian family fully $24.00 a year in meat bills. The secret is, it roasts the meat with very little shrinkage. Also, it makes cheap cuts taste like the best ones.

You place the roast in the roaster, put on the cover: the roaster does the rest. No basting required. Every roast is perfectly cooked.

The cover fits close, so that cooking odors cannot escape. Grease can't spatter out, which means a sweet clean oven. Prices range from 85c. to $3.50 each, depending on size and finish—and don't forget the saving of $24.00 yearly.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1926

This is one of the lucky days that come not often in the calendar. Venus, the Sun and Uranus are all in benefic aspect. Mars and Jupiter are adverse.

This is pre-eminently a day auspicious for the affairs of women, social and financial.

There is a promising sign for romance and engagements made under this sway should be most fortunate.

Weddings to-day are well directed, for Uranus preserve the illusions, despite the cold realities of life.

Theatres should prosper to-day and it is foretold that there will be tremendous patronage, especially of comedies.

This is a favorable day for men who control the financial or political destinies of the people.

All men and women who are building big careers should benefit from this planetary government.

New honors for the President are again presaged by the stars. It seems that some world decision may be demanded of him.

Great intellectual progress is foretold for the United States, which is to develop many new scholars.

Aviation is to make sudden progress in this country and to be much used in commercial transportation of every sort.

Mainy failures are foretold for London where the suicide of a banker or financier is indicated.

Uranus, near the Nadir, may bring to New York storms and even industrial disorders.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of success in the coming year, which will bring many changes.

Children born on this day may be high-strung and quick-tempered. These subjects of Scorpio may have Sagittarius traits for they are on the cusp.

Throat Trouble

Toronto, Ont.—"For about eight years I was subject to laryngitis, my throat would get very sore and I would lose my voice. I would have a spell of this kind a couple of times a year, especially in the winter when the weather was cold and disagreeable. It would be a couple of months each time before I would fully recover from these spells and get my voice back. I doctored and took medicine with little relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it has so completely relieved me of this trouble that I scarcely ever have a sore throat or suffer in any way from my former trouble."—Mrs. A. LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

WILLIAM PENN AND GULIELMA SPRINGETT

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

The famous Quaker and founder of Pennsylvania, married Gulielma Sprinett, the daughter of a Puritan officer, and their's was a happy life, out of the ordinary. When Penn, harrassed by religious persecutions, secured the tract of land in the New World and was about to set sail for the great adventure, he left his wife one of the most affecting pieces in English literature, a farewell letter, the like of which it is hardly possible to find. This letter contains about seven thousand words and begins:

"My love, which neither sea nor land not death itself can extinguish, or lessen towards you, most endearedly visits you with eternal embraces and will abide with you forever; and may the God of my life watch over you and bless you and do you good in the world and for ever!—Some things are upon my spirit to leave with you in your respective capacities, as I am to one a husband and to the rest a father, if I should never again see you in this world.

"My dear wife, remember thou wast the love of my youth and much the joy of my life; the most beloved as well as the most worthy of all my earthly comforts; and the reason of that love was more thy inward than thy outward excellencies, which were many. God knows, and thou knowest it, I can say it was a match of Providence's making: and God's image in us both was the first thing and the most amiable and engaging in our eyes. Now I am to leave thee and that without knowing whether I shall ever see thee more in this world, take my counsel in thy bosom and let it dwell with thee in my stead while thou livest. . . ."

There follows many pages of Penn's "counsel," directions for Guli's and her children's conduct, expressed in beautiful and sincere language and the letter ends:

"So farewell to thee, my dearly beloved wife and children—yours as God pleaseth, in that which no waters can quench, no time forget nor distance wear away, but remain for ever.

William Penn."

It is an interesting coincidence that this letter was written, almost to the month, on the tenth anniversary of Penn's marriage.

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

THE BUSINESS WOMEN

I attended a Business and Professional Women's convention this week and listened to many speeches, talked with hundreds of bright women holding down important jobs.

But I was most impressed with the fact that women are still very self-conscious in their business responsibilities. And they still have just a soupcon of a persecution complex. They still feel that necessity to explain themselves, to draw comparisons as between male and female competence, to harp on the fact that men are paid better than women for the same work, and that women are subjected to more exacting criticism than men in the performance of similar duties.

There is still a disposition to take ourselves a little more seriously than is quite good for us. But I did note that some of the women holding the most responsible jobs had acquired a little comfortable philosophy and were able to evince a little humor.

Copying the Men.

Not that there was not gaiety. On the contrary, it was recognized that a little gaiety was essential to the success of the convention. But in this they were copying the men very faithfully. It almost might have been a Rotarian convention in some of its aspects. There was, for instance, the chorus singing—new words fitted to old tunes, and several of them harping upon the importance of smiling. "Powder your nose—and smile, girl" was sung with determined heartiness, and "Be a booster, don't knock" was a maxim ardently upheld.

They, too, overworked the words, "harmony and co-operation." They, too, talked about progress and development. They, too, talked about the importance of loyalty to their organization.

On the surface, outside of that powder-puff reference, it might have been a masculine gathering, but all the while there was an underlying feminine self-consciousness. Perhaps we shall never quite get away from that.

If it takes three generations of wealth to make a gentleman, perhaps it takes three generations of business activity to make a successful business woman who is not alertly conscious of being a woman.

Or perhaps this feminine self-consciousness has something to recommend it. Perhaps it keeps us on our toes, keeps us ever on the quivive, prevents us ever letting down. It will, of course, be much more comfortable for all concerned when we can forget we are women for longer spells at a time, but remembering we are women is interesting too. Our triumphs are so delightfully new. Most of the women I talked with were first-generation business women. Many of them were daughters of women who would have shuddered to "go out to work."

But there is a new generation of girls growing up who will take "careers" as a comfortable matter of course, who will be spared the self-conscious pioneering work,—and who will never know the thrill of being "the only wo man . . ." in any avenue of endeavor. And beside them there is a generation of boys growing up who will miss out on the gallantry of introducing the exciting innovation of employing women, or the less approved experience of "working under a woman" which even makes some of the men self-conscious and explanatory nowadays.

And one thing is very sure—the boys of this new generation will have to put their best foot forward to keep pace with their girl competitors in business. The jobs and business rewards of the future are going to the best "man" of either sex. This little persecution complex, this self-explanatory attitude of mind may revert to the male yet—if he doesn't watch out.

er type. Reds, greens and beige are outstanding sports colors and fabrics range from velveteens, jerseys and cashmeres to silk crepes. The tight-fitting low hipline is accentuated in nearly all jumper models. Skirts may be plain or pleated. Contrasting materials are often applied in diagonal band arrangement on bodice and sleeves of the jumper while the skirt remains in a plain color. Velvet jumpers worn with crepe skirts are numerous.

Reds and greens are the leading high colors approved of for fall with a preference shown for deep dark shades of these colors for day wear and for brighter shades for evening.

Though fall "high hats" us with its crowns, we have seen no instance where the crown is so high as to be topheavy. Pressed felt shapes in boyish or tam models seem to be preferred for tailored street wear, while the more crushable velvet shapes rule for dress wear. At present black felt and velvet are more popular than colors.

As we have said before, Chanel red is not a color for the woman who dresses with individuality. Chanel red and all of the purplish wine shades are becoming over-popular due to the fact that they have been accepted by the multitudes before the fall season has reached its zenith. Very seldom do we see a smartly dressed woman wearing any of these over-stressed shades of red. Shades of deep rose and cardinal reds, however, retain their style by their minority.

The crepe frock trimmed with velvet ruffles or petals from knee to hem is very popular with the young miss. In most cases the velvet matches the shade of the crepe used to form the upper dress portion.

DRESS

Above at the left is seen a beige crepe de chine collar with gold braid, gold buttons and ecru lace. At the right is a set consisting of collar, jabot and cuffs of flesh georgette and lace. Below is a similar set of white georgette and cream lace.

Gradually but no doubt surely lingerie collar and cuffs are coming back into fashion. Many of the new afternoon frocks have little collars and cuffs of light-toned georgette or net. This dainty touch often gives distinction to the frocks made to order by the better sort of dressmakers, and the clever woman who knows this can frequently "tone up" an inexpensive ready-made frock by embellishing it with a set of dainty collars and cuffs. But if you want the set to add distinction instead of quite the reverse don't content yourself with collars and cuffs that are carelessly made of poor material. A frock of really inexpensive material may be made to look smart by the addition of a fine set of collars and cuffs while a really expensive frock can be made to look cheap by the addition of shoddy collar and cuffs.

When you are choosing these collar and cuff sets remember that more than any other part of the frock, perhaps, the collar must be kept clean. So if you buy white collar and cuffs be sure they are of a cut and material that can be cleaned without too much difficulty. Or else resign yourself to the necessity of discarding them as soon as the collar looks the least bit soiled.

Crepe de chine and georgette, which are shown in the sketch in several very clever sets, are both washable. Even if you do not trust these things to the home laundry they can be quite satisfactorily cleaned by the professional—and come back looking really as good as new.

One more thing to remember: If you cannot attach the collar and cuff set to your frock so that it looks as if it "belonged," then don't buy it. A dainty collar caught in place with ill-assorted pins, with bits of skin showing here and there, is a most unattractive addition to the costume.

HEALTHY GROWTH IN WESTERN CANADA

Sir Henry Thornton Thinks Vancouver Has Bright Future.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17.—(Canadian Press.)— "Good healthy growth" was the description applied to development in Western Canada by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, who returned here yesterday after his annual inspection tour of the western lines.

Sir Henry said that Vancouver was making great strides and that he thought that city had "probably the greatest immediate future of any Canadian city." He expressed the hope that petty jealousies between cities were gone because such feelings were a drawback to the nation.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

© 1926 DR. COY HEALTH SERVICE, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION.—W. A. G. writes: I am sixty-three years old, and troubled with albumen in the urine. Would cultured buttermilk or sweet milk be good for me and how much should I use? I used to be a heavy meat and egg eater, and coffee and beer drinker, but have not touched any of these foods for over five years.

ANSWER.—The buttermilk and milk diets are often good for kidney trouble; but you should precede these diets by taking a short fast on some kind of fruit; then follow the fast with a regular milk regime, taking the buttermilk, or sweet milk every hour during the day. If you will take eight ounces every hour you will be able to use three quarts or more during the day. This will keep up your strength, and you can do any ordinary kind of work. Have your urine tested frequently, or learn how to make the tests yourself, so you can watch to see if the albumen returns. If it does do so on this diet go back on your fast again until it disappears, and then return to the milk or buttermilk diet. When you are cured and want to go back on to a regular diet, do not be afraid of using meat; providing you use it once a day and only about one-quarter of a pound at a time; being sure to use plenty of leafy green vegetables and salads at the same meal; and no starches of any kind.

QUESTION.—A. A. F. writes: I recently had a bilious fever and my doctor prescribed quinine for me; ever since that my ears have been aching, or ringing. What can I do to get rid of this trouble?

ANSWER.—The best plan is to take a short fast, using the juice of grapefruit. Take the juice from the inside of the grapefruit, and also cook the skins of the grapefruit, and drink the water from this. The best way to prepare this grapefruit tea is to cut the grapefruit into small pieces, and put it into an enameled jar, pouring over boiling water; allow it to stand for thirty minutes and then start drinking the water from this. This contains the organic quinine and this has the power to eliminate from the body the inorganic quinine which is now causing the ringing in your ears.

QUESTION.—E. W. R. writes: I am a man 28 years of age and have been working outside lifting heavy weights. I have pain in my knees and stiffness; the muscles seem to twitch behind the knees. I eat quite a lot of meat, and smoke a number of cigarettes a day. Do you think it would cause rheumatism?

ANSWER.—Rheumatism is not caused by eating meat, or by cigarette smoking; neither is it caused by lifting weights, although the latter may be an irritating cause. Rheumatism is in every case caused by auto-intoxication, from self-poisoning from using the wrong kinds of food, or from local infections of various kinds which are the irritating causes starting an attack of rheumatism, however, the soil must be laid in auto-intoxication first or rheumatism could not develop. A reasonable amount of cigarettes a day will have no effect upon your trouble. Use a limited amount of whatever food you do use and do not be afraid of a small amount of meat, providing it is prepared properly and combined in the right manner with other vegetables. It might be necessary for you to give up your heavy work for a time and give your knees a rest.

QUESTION.—Mrs. L. W. S. writes: My aunt is suffering from atrophy of the muscles and heart. She is only 47 years of age, and has been in the hospital, but this treatment has not helped her at all. Do you think her trouble can be cured or at least checked?

ANSWER.—There is no question but what her trouble can be checked, providing you find the real cause of the trouble. Atrophy simply means the shrinking away, or weakening of the tissues, and if you can find a way for increasing strength in her body, it will be possible to check her trouble. Take her to one physician after another, if necessary, until you locate the cause of her trouble, and until you can find someone who can give you the proper advice. I want to give all the good advice I can in this column, but it is unwise for me to attempt to diagnose or treat too specifically without being able to make a personal examination; you must depend upon your physician for that.

QUESTION.—M. G. writes: I have been troubled every morning with a coated tongue; what can I do to cure this? I often feel like vomiting in the morning when I get up.

ANSWER.—Your trouble is caused from auto-intoxication, and hyperacidity of the stomach. It will take some time before you will be able to get your tongue clear, even though you live on the proper diet. Be patient and persevere and in a few months you will notice a decided improvement, if you continue to follow the diets I am giving you in this column.

QUESTION.—A. A. writes: About a year ago I began to take fits, or to go unconscious after awakening from sleep, and would be that way for some time, perhaps even for hours. When I came to myself I would not know that anything had happened to me, only I would feel down and out, and tired out afterwards. I am told that I am suffering from low blood pressure, and that nothing can be done for me, only not to eat or work too much. Will you kindly give me your opinion through the paper?

ANSWER.—In addition to the low blood pressure, which really means weakness, you must also be suffering from a form of epilepsy, which occurs now only at night, but will finally change to also occurring in the daytime. All epilepsy, except that form caused by brain pressure, is due to poisoning from the colon. This is the theory as accepted by medical authorities everywhere, but little attempt is made to cure this distressing trouble. The cure must depend almost entirely upon a dietary treatment, combined with what other measures, such as massage, vibration, exercise, etc., which will bring about a better tone of the intestines and abdominal muscles. The weakness you are suffering from, which is evidenced by the low blood pressure, can only be cured through living on a correct diet and taking vigorous physical culture exercise. Long walks are particularly beneficial. Start in the first day walking five minutes and increase it one minute each day, until you are able to walk four or five miles daily. When you are able to do this, your blood pressure will be 120 systalic, which is normal, and this will also assist you in overcoming epilepsy. A special article has been prepared on the subject of epilepsy, and if you will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope I will send you this article, which appeared recently in this paper.

QUESTION.—H. L. D. writes: What I am going to ask you is probably out of the ordinary. I want to know what you can tell me about facial surgery; also, is there such a thing as face lifting, and what is meant by it? Can the scars on my face be removed by any of the above processes?

ANSWER.—Modern face surgery is a very improved science, and although it seems to me that face lifting for the removal of wrinkles is a ridiculous procedure; still I am sure anyone is justified in improving their looks if possible. Almost all kinds of scars can be removed by clever surgery. Be careful, however, in selecting your surgeon, and be sure that you choose one who is well qualified and has had plenty of experience. Inquire at the office of your local medical society, and I am sure they can give you the name of some reputable physician who is clever at doing this class of work.

QUESTION.—Worried Mother writes: My boy is three years old. He has never eaten very much, but is quite fat and seems strong. The trouble is that he is subject to colds and sore throat. I try to diet him, but it seems that what he should eat he will not touch. What do you think can be causing his colds and sore throat?

ANSWER.—A fat boy with a sore throat and colds frequently must be using too much sugar and starch, as these are the foods containing the material out of which these diseases can be built. If you did not save the article which appeared in this paper recently on the cure of tonsils, I will send it to you if you will send me your name and address, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. I want to answer your questions completely but space does not permit too much repetition on the same subject in this column.

QUESTION.—Mrs. B. writes: I am troubled with a rash under my arms occasionally. My skin feels all prickly, as if my blood was overheated. Is that a form of eczema?

ANSWER.—I cannot tell whether you are suffering from eczema or psoriasis, or simply from a rash caused by hyper-acidity of the stomach. In the case of any of these troubles, you will find that the cause lies in using the wrong food combinations, which produces acidosis of the body.

QUESTION.—J. A. M. C. writes: I have a pain under my left arm, and some times it moves about where the heart is, and then down under the ribs. I have been bothered for over four months. I was examined two times by doctors. The first one said I had a cold in my lungs, and the last one said that I was suffering from indigestion. Do you think indigestion would give me a pain for four months, or would it be heart trouble?

ANSWER.—Your trouble is caused by gas pressure, which causes indigestion, and this produces heart trouble, because of the pressure of gas against the heart. The pain in your side and arm is called Angina Pectoris.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ROAST POTATOES

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along over the fields and through the woods, looking for an adventure the rabbit gentleman saw Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys with Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, playing about on a flat rock near a grove of trees.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" barked the dogs, while the squirrels chattered a greeting to Mr. Longears.

"Hello, boys!" answered the bunny. "What are you doing here? Why aren't you in school?"

"We were let out of school early," said Jackie.

"The Lady Mouse Teacher told us we could go because we all knew our lessons," added Billie.

"And what are you doing now?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a pink twinkle on the end of his nose. "Are you studying your lessons for tomorrow?"

"Oh, I should say we aren't!" laughed Peetie. "No, indeed!"

"We are going to have some fun!" chattered Johnnie the squirrel. "We are going to make a blaze on this flat rock, for on the rock there will be no danger of setting the dried leaves and the trees on fire."

"That is good and thoughtful," said Uncle Wiggily. "But you must also be careful not to burn yourselves. And when you have made your fire what are you going to do with it?"

"We are going to roast chestnuts in it," answered Johnnie. "See, we have a lot of them," and he showed his pocket filled with the brown nuts.

"Roast chestnuts!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "They ought to be very good."

"But we don't like them," said Jackie with a sad little bark. "I wish we had something to roast in the fire, Uncle Wiggily."

"Why don't you roast potatoes?" asked the bunny. "They will bake in the fire just as the chestnuts will roast. And baked potatoes are very good for puppy dogs to eat—that is if you wait until they cool a bit."

"Where could we get some potatoes to roast?" asked Peetie.

"I'll show you," answered Mr. Longears. He led the doggie boys to a field where, on the edge, were a few hills of potatoes the farmer had forgotten to dig. And, being buried beneath a pile of earth and leaves, the potatoes had not yet been touched by Jack Frost. "Roast these in your fire," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll hop around to look for an adventure, and when I come back I'll help you eat the potatoes. I have a little salt in my pocket to flavor them."

The bunny gentleman hopped away, and the dog and squirrel boys made their fire, being careful to keep it on the rock which would not burn. When the embers were glowing red the squirrels put their chestnuts on to roast, and the doggie boys laid their potatoes on the coals.

Soon the nuts began to sizzle and a delicious smell filed the air, as the potatoes started to brown. But, all of a sudden, there was a loud banging noise. Some of the fire embers were scattered and a lot of white flecks, like snow, scattered in the air, some hitting Jackie and Peetie and the squirrels.

"Oh! Let's run! A hunter is shooting his gun!" chattered Billie.

"He shot me in the eye!" shouted Peetie, wiping away some of the white

"We are going to have some fun!" chattered Johnnie.

stuff, which was soft and hot. "But it doesn't hurt much," he added. "Anyhow, let's run!"

More banging noises sounded around the fire, and as the animal boys started to run, along came hopping Uncle Wiggily.

"A hunter is shooting his gun!" barked Peetie.

"Nothing of the sort!" said Mr. Longears. "It's the roast potatoes that are bursting. I forgot to tell you to make some holes in them, or to nip off the ends, to let the water inside them, which turns to steam in the heat, get out easily. I forgot to tell you this, and that's why your potatoes are bursting. You made some holes in the chestnuts you put on the fire, didn't you, Billie and Johnnie?"

"Yes," chattered the squirrels, "we did. "But we didn't think about the potatoes."

"It is too late now to save those in the fire," said Mr. Longears, as a lot more potatoes burst. "But I'll get you some others, and in these we will punch holes for the steam to get out." When this had been done, the potatoes roasted nicely and were wonderfully good to eat with salt on. So everything came out all right. And if the automobile will wipe the mud off its tires when it comes in the house to go to sleep, I'll tell you again about Uncle Wiggily.

RADIO STATIONS IN CANADA.

Q.—How many radio stations are there in Canada?

A.—There are now 548 radio transmitting stations in Canada. Of these 67 are radiophone broadcast stations, 356 are amateur and experimental, 67 conduct regular telegraphic communication between points in the Dominion or with stations abroad, and the balance of 46 are operated to provide facilities for communication with an "aid to navigation" service to ships on the Great Lakes, Atlantic and Pacific. All radio communication in the Dominion, including broadcasting, is controlled by the Canadian Government Department of Marine and Fisheries.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

THE EXTRA COURSE

Of late years, since the war, to be exact, it has been rather the custom to decry the unnecessary course formerly served at dinner. We all remember reading and hearing our grandmothers tell about "The good old days when the nine-course dinner was one mark of a festive occasion." Gradually, the superfluous came to be, bit by bit, eliminated. Then, when war-time conservation touched labor, as well as food, we cheerfully contented ourselves with as few courses as possible.

May it not be that the time has come to re-examine this question of extra courses as it relates to nutrition and health? Elimination of the unnecessary is commendable, but there is such a thing as trimming a meal too closely. The subtle sense of well being that comes only from a combination of little things is not to be experienced by one who dines too sparingly. Not that the average home requires or expects an elaborate menu. It is possible, however, that in our zeal to eliminate we are dispensing with something which might well be restored to our simple every-day dinner tables.

Naturally, the first thing that the housewife thinks about in this connection is of cost; the second, that of time.

Therefore, when we are seeking to add the spice of variety to our, perhaps, over-simple meals, these two points must be kept well in mind.

By way of suggestion, a first course of an appetizer may be planned so as to cost comparatively little and its preparation need consume but very little time. The tiniest "dab" of crab meat, for example, dressed with mayonnaise and disposed in tiny cups of crisp white lettuce leaves, will work wonders in dressing up a plain meal. This might serve as a type of appetizer for a more or less "dressy" meal. Less expensive appetizers may be prepared from bits of sardines, or even chopped white cabbage. The point is that this course should consist, literally, of just a mouthful or two.

This addition of supposedly unnecessary courses to a plain home meal is not so simple a matter as it sounds. Moreover, it is one that will take rather serious study on the part of the housekeeper, if she is to do it justice. Naturally, I do not attempt to go into detail in such a paper as this. My plea is rather to point out to the housekeeper that a few cents added to the cost of a meal may add many dollars' worth of health to the family dietary.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"PITIFUL" AND "PITIABLE"

(The McClure Syndicate.)

Although some authorities hold that the words "pitiable" and "pitiful" have the same meaning, others make a distinction between them. Webster defines "pitiable" as follows:

"Deserving or exciting pity; miserable; lamentable; piteous; arousing pitying contempt, wretchedly insignificant." The meaning of "pitiful" is given as follows: "Full of pity; tender-hearted; compassionate; piteous, lamentable; eliciting compassion to be pitied for littleness or meanness; miserable; paltry; contemptible."

Thus, we may say, if we wish to follow those who draw a distinct line between the two words, "Her plight was pitiable, and the beholders looked upon her with a pitiful eye."

"The Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy," we are told in the Bible.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

PENELOPE

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

Foremost among the names which literature has made immortal is Penelope. It means weaver and its history is one of the most interesting in feminine nomenclature.

There are numerous explanations of its origin. Some etymologists claim that it came originally from the Irish Finnghuala (white shoulders) which, though softened to Fenella was later translated into Penelope. It is to this that we owe the numerous Penelopes of England, beginning with the Irish Penelope Devereux with whom is connected the one shade on Sidney's character.

The more common explanation of Penelope connects her with Ulysees' faithful queen who sat day after day before her loom while the hero of the "Odyssey" wandered the seven seas. This explanation makes Penelope a weaver in truth; another account claims that she had been exposed as an infant and owed her life to a kind of duck whom the Greeks called penelops.

The carnelian is Penelope's talismanic stone. It is the gem of faithfulness and of a trusting, loving heart. It is said that no love doubts will come to her when she wears this stone. Tuesday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

The successful hair dresser has to be extremely careful nowadays about what she says about bobbed and long hair. If her words are heard only by one woman or only by a number of bobbed-haired customers or a number of long-haired customers, then it doesn't make so much difference, but there usually seem to be women of both persuasions present and then she must choose her words carefully.

Her own hair is bobbed, ah, yes—still, long hair is often very beautiful. For herself she has so little time to attend to her own hair—and of course bobbed hair is worn by so many. Still some ladies are letting their hair grow—while as many more are having it cut. Long hair looks very beautiful in the evening—but of course it is possible for short hair to look well in the evening also.

Some women have their shorn hair saved and made into little puffs or buns to be attached for evening dress. Many women have these arrangements made who do not wear them. There is the alarming thought always that the bit of false hair might slip its moorings. Then, too, some women feel that they would appear ridiculous to go about in short hair in the day time and with long hair at night. The falsity of it would be too obvious.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The simplest and loveliest of all gems is the pearl—it is today's talismanic gem. It is the badge of youth and purity and is believed to guard its wearer from sorrow and misfortune. Unless it is worn against the flesh, however, it will lose its lustre and much of its power.

Those who are beset by doubt or anxiety should observe the old superstition regarding today's natal stone, the garnet. In ancient times it was thought to be all-powerful in solving a mystery or in determining for its owner what course to take in a doubtful situation.

Today's color is white. Worn today it is believed to preserve harmony.

The marigold is the special flower for today. It is the symbol of joy and material success.

SHORT STORY

The family haunt at Joan's garden—they called it "Joan's garden of dreams," and they teased her about it in a kindly way. They all loved it and sat in it when they could, but Joan Worth was the one who loved it best, who worked in it, and dreamed over it, always seeing beauty in it at any season of the year.

"Joan's children have gone to bed under a white blanket," smiled Mrs. Worth when the first snow came. The others looked out, seeing the arbor a great hump of snow, and garden benches mis-shapen oblongs. Every bush and vine wore a bridal veil of white, or sparkled with icy diamond drops. The sun shone wanly.

"Well, Joan, my dear," said Nan briskly, "what has your garden to offer today? A bouquet of icicles?"

Joan looked out of the window—"I believe I can get a winter bouquet—there are some dried clematis seeds and downy fluff, the barberry bushes are full and red."

"Is there any romance in your garden of dreams?" asked Nan gently. Joan's thin face flushed and her eyes were very soft.

"I am sure it must flower there, Nan! You remember your Stephen used to sit there with you—" she smiled as Nan looked down at her engagement ring.

"That is true," said Nan softly. "Stephen always said the garden had a great deal to do with his courtship! But, my dear girl, I am not talking about us; I am speaking about a romance for you in your garden! Are you sure there is not a root somewhere?"

Joan laughed. "There's 'love in a mist'—and 'love lies bleeding,' and bride roses," she said mischievously.

Nan looked up shrewdly. "Those flowers are all asleep—like you, Joan Worth!" she declared, and stopped teasing Joan. She felt sorry for her younger sister who was so timid and retiring that only a very bold and persistent lover could win her love. "And where is such a man?" Nan asked herself—"Stephen was the last eligible man in Little River—" And then she thought of Stephen's cousin, Mark Raymond—she had only met him once but he was a large, blond young man with an aggressive nose and chin and persistent blue eyes. "I must ask Stephen to bring him over the next time Mark comes to Little River," she thought, and planned some pretty frocks for the unsuspecting Joan.

The afternoon that Stephen brought Mark Raymond was a Saturday half holiday. Nan had persuaded Joan to wear a vivid orange flannel frock which made the girl look like some brilliant-plumaged bird. Donning an old russet cloak, she prowled around the garden, seeing it sometimes as it would be when the first buds pushed through.

She was planning the garden for another summer, when a quiet voice spoke. "Any room for weeds in your garden, Miss Joan?" She turned quickly to meet the admiring eyes of Mark Raymond—she had not seen him for several years—she had been a small girl then at her first grown-up dance and Mark had taken pity on her mortification at being a wallflower, and had given her the most delightful evening of her quiet life. She was glad to see him.

"There is always room for friendly weeds, Mr. Raymond," she said. "I will have to explain—right along here is the place where my dahlias stand, all in a row like soldiers, and as I raised them all myself for several years, I have named the different varieties after the twelve disciples—see the stakes with the labels?"

Mark went down the row, glancing at the labels—he read them aloud, "Matthew, Mark, Luke, John—" and so on. "So I am not a weed after all," said Mark Raymond. "I am a nice dahlia in a lady's garden!"

"You are named for a saint," said Joan primly.

"Of course I am only a humble namesake," he said meedly, his blue eyes never leaving her vivid face, wondering why he had ever called this child plain! "Seems only last week that you and I had our famous evening at the Charity Ball," he went on.

"It is ten years ago," Joan said, and when he did not answer she looked up to find him regarding her with the queerest expression—mingled admiration, wonder, amazement, as if he had just discovered a great treasure. Perhaps he had—for Joan was twenty-two, and the sweetest girl he had ever seen. What had he been doing all those years while she was growing up? Perhaps she was engaged, as well as Nan! He must find out. His aggressive chin was not there for nothing at all! "So it is you that are engaged to old Steve," he murmured meudaciously.

"Mercy, no," said Joan briskly. "It is Nan—and we must go in now and have some tea."

They came up the garden path together, talking, and Nan, waiting for them, turned away from the window, while Stephen stirred the fire. "How about it?" asked Stephen, grinning. "It will be all right—I saw his eyes—we will have a double wedding, Steve!"

"In the rose garden," added Stephen.

"IT IS SO GOOD FOR YOU"

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

A wicked world—but God sends rain
To help to grow the sinner's grain;
A wicked world—and yet the sun
Lights as he would a better one;
A wicked world—and yet I find
Its God as good, and heaven as kind.

And so I say to you, be good
Even when most misunderstood,
And so I say to you, be true
No matter what the rest may do;
Ah, yes, I say to you, be right
Even though wrong may win the fight.

Surely if God can love through hate
Then we as patiently can wait,
Surely if God, by men forgot,
Loves on if men shall love or not;
Surely if God lets sinners live
Then we can suffer and forgive.

Love on—for then the heart may know
At least the joy of loving so,
Work on—and in a task well done
Find payment, if no other one.
Pray on—for He who waits so long
Will understand, and keep you strong.

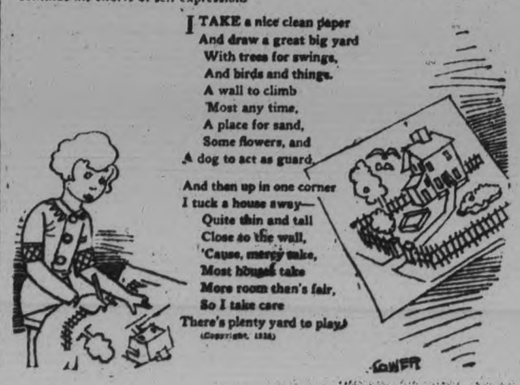
Drawing a House

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THE drawing little people do is really a language based upon the expressive instinct. They delight in making marks just as they chatter "dada." At first the marks may or may not mean anything, even to the child. Later, a picture is often named or re-named as he sees things suggested in it. At first the pictures are perfectly satisfactory to him, in fact, they please him greatly, and he is hurt if any one fails to appreciate them, but later, generally at about nine years of age, he begins to feel the inadequacy of his representations and is reluctant to make attempts at representing objects. After this drawing becomes mechanical imitation instead of a pleasurable means of expression unless he is encouraged to continue his efforts of self expression.



I TAKE a nice clean paper
And draw a great big yard
With trees for swings,
And birds and things.
A wall to climb
Most any time,
A place for sand,
Some flowers, and
A dog to act as guard.

And then up in one corner
I tuck a house away—
Quite thin and tall
Close to the wall,
'Cause, mercy sake,
Most houses take
More room than's fair,
So I take care
There's plenty yard to play.

Cooper Scores Three Goals For Boston In N. H. L. Game

MAROONS LOSE TO RANGERS BY SCORE OF 1 TO 0

Phillips and Boucher Draw Major Penalty For Mixing It.

LOOSE GAME.

Goal Scored in Second With Less Than Two Minutes To Play.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Nov. 17. — Montreal Maroons, world's professional hockey champions, went down to a 1 to 0 defeat before the onslaught of the New York Rangers in the opening game of the National Hockey League this season, who with a collection of former Western League stars, created a favorable impression in their appearance in Gotham. Their victory was well earned, as at no time did the Maroons show the form which brought them the title last season, the only goal of the contest, which was rather loosely played, was scored in the second period with less than two minutes of the period remaining. Bill Cook, captain of the Rangers, took a pass from his brother in front of the Maroon net and slipped the disc past Benedict. The latter, who was sprawled on the ice at the time, was injured in the play, but after repairs was able to continue.

Eighteen penalties dotted the contest, Bill Phillips of the Maroons and Frank Boucher of the Rangers each drawing a major and $15 fine for fighting in the last period. Boucher was cut about the head during the melee.

Nelson Stewart, the star Maroon centre, drew four minor penalties, while Ching Johnson, Ranger defense man, had three.

The attendance was 13,000.

Montreal—Goal, Benedict; defense, Munro and Noble; centre, Stewart; wings, Siebert and Broadbent; subs, Dinsmore, Holoway, Carson, Phillips, Rothschilds and Emms.

Rangers — Goal, Winkler; defense, Abel and Johnson; centre, Boucher; wings, Bill Cook and Bun Cook; subs, Boyd, Murdock, Thompson, Mackey and Rocco.

Referee—Lou Marsh, Toronto.

FIGHT RESULTS.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Clyde Hull, Faith, S.D., beat Tommy Ryan, Kansas City (10).

Baltimore, Md. — Lew Mayers, Baltimore, beat Johnny Ceccoli, Scranton, Pa. (12).

Louisville, Ky.—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, knocked out Ray Moore, Chicago (6).

Pittsburg Pa. — Jackie Brady, Syracuse, defeated Cuddy Demarco, Pittsburg (8).

Chicago, Ills.—Johnny Hill, Philippines, beat Don Davis, Chicago, (10).

Mason City, Iowa—Eddie Morris, Sioux City, Iowa, scored a technical knockout over Johnny Fichols, St. Paul (3).

Mexican Joe Rivers, Cedar Rapids, outpointed Irish Joe Kenny, St. Paul (8).

Rochester, N. Y.—Chubby Brown Rochester, knocked out Johnny Carey Erie, Pa. (6). Tommy Ryan McKeesport, Pa., beat Mike Marcells (10).

Newark, N.J.—Jack McVey, New York, beat Jack Hood, welterweight champion of England (12).

VARSITY'S BACK FIELD TRIO

With the above trio ready for action Queen's, the intercollegiate champions of the past four years, will never lack for strength on the back field. "Pee Wee" Chantler, on the left, has made his mark as ball carrier, while "Beano" Wright, centre, turned in a fine performance against Varsity at the stadium. Carl Voss, at the right has already arrived and the former Riverside collegiate graduate is being looked upon as a fit running mate for the great Batstone.

VARSITY'S REAL CHANCE IS IN THE OPEN AY

Brought Them Their Victories Over McGill and Queen's.

INTEREST SHOWN.

All Three Confident They Will Win Intercollegiate Football Title.

TORONTO, Nov. 17—Who will win the Intercollegiate senior football title?

Varsity?

Queen's?

Or McGill?

That is the question uppermost in the minds of the football public these days, though whether Baimy Beach can trounce Ottawa is another problem that is giving a lot of worry.

All Three Confident

But the Intercollegiate struggle always seems to overshadow the struggles in the other Unions for some reason or other. Why it is is hard to determine. Of course this year that overshadowing is all the greater for the simple reason of the triple tie coming from the conclusion of the regular schedule.

Varsity think they can win.

So do Queen's.

And so do McGill.

Little to Choose

And there is plenty of reason for this triple placing of confidence. But taking it all in all the fair minded are of the opinion that it is a mere toss up with a break this way, or a break that way likely to settle the whole affair. True it is they are well matched. The season's games have shown that. Varsity have had the fewest points scored against them while Queen's have scored the most. McGill have proven the weakest defensively and offensively. But on the points scored for and against there is so little difference that this angle of figuring should be passed up.

Open Play Necessary

Toronto fans believe that Varsity can win by opening up the play. They lost at McGill in the first game more by their own mistakes than by McGill's superior effort. They lost at Queen's in the opinion of many by sticking too much to safety first football. They won from Queen's and McGill in Toronto simply because they got away from safety first football and opened it up. In other words they took a chance on the odd fumble or so that might develop and hoped to more than atone for any of these mistakes by the ground gained on the plays that worked successfully.

Changed Their Style

Varsity beat Queen's on a slippery field by the open field game. They beat McGill in rain on a field greasy with mud and a ball greasy to handle. And they beat them with open field work. The excuse therefore that they didn't open it up at Queen's last Saturday because the field was slippery, hardly holds water. They had success on slippery fields before. They might have had that success against Queen's. What is more Varsity had everything to gain and nothing great to lose by an open game that perhaps didn't work. If that open work proved disastrous it meant nothing worse than a tie. If it did work they had perhaps a victory that meant a championship.

Varsity Face Task

The situation as it looms up now, doesn't give Varsity any edge. Queen's have the bye and that will help them to patch up injuries and be ready to place their best on the Varsity Stadium field on November 27. McGill have an edge in that they will play under home conditions against Varsity next Saturday in Montreal. That playing on foreign soil may not phase Varsity one bit. But it may help McGill. However, if Varsity can squash the McGill threat and come through unscathed, then they will have what edge there might be in home grounds on November 27.

Many Support McGill

However it is a peculiar thing how many have switched their opinion to McGill. That Shag crew have improved. Of that there is no doubt. In Toronto the feeling is that if Varsity can't turn the trick, then they would like to see McGill do it. And what is more there are any number who feel that McGill, supposedly the weak sister in the race, may yet rise to championship heights. They showed a smart performance against Varsity here even if beaten. And they showed a smart game to beat Queen's in Montreal. In fact the margin in that game was only one point, but the general opinion was that McGill's margin of the play was more than one point.

Queen's Are Strong

But Queen's must not be overlooked. Any team with Batstone on the backfield and a Monohan on the line are not to be despised. And it must be remembered that while Varsity and McGill are taking chances on injuries next Saturday at Montreal Queen's will be stepping along in practice and bringing the injured players back to top form. Voss was not at his best against Varsity. And he suffered further injury during the game. But two week's should find him at his best unless that sore leg of his proves worse than anticipated. Batstone came through a hard gruelling against Varsity and he seems to be able to stand a lot of heavy work. On top of that Queen's have improved in tackling, a mighty important factor. Against Varsity in Toronto early in the season they were woefully weak in that department. At Kingston last Saturday they were good.

Summed up it certainly looks like two great struggles will be staged before a winner is declared. And it looks like a toss up to pick the winner.

A. C. REFUSES TO SANCTION FIGHT

Claims Reverberri Not Suitable Opponent For Light Heavyweight Champion.

FOR TEN ROUNDS.

CHICAGO, November 17. Canadian Press. — The Illinois State Athletic Commission refused yesterday to sanction a ten round fight between Delaney, light heavyweight champion, and Orlando Reverberri, at the Coliseum, November 26, the eve of the Army-Navy football game.

Chairman John Righemer, after investigating Reverberri's record, ruled he would not be a suitable opponent. The Italian claims the championship of his country.

OLD-TIME STAR IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Senior Officers For O. H. A. Were Elected By Acclamation.

TORONTO, Nov. 17—Nominations for office in the Ontario Hockey Association closed over the week-end. Senior officers were elected by acclamation.

George B. McKay Kitchener, was elected president, having been promoted from the first vice-presidency. Richard Butler advanced from second vice to first vice-president, and Frank Hyde became second vice-president.

The new president was a great hockey player in his day, and back in 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903, when the Toronto Wellingtons were winning the O.H.A. senior championship Mr. McKay was captain and holding down rover for that team, and doing both in rare style. At that time the Bank League games were played at the Victoria rink, Mr. McKay also being a member of the champion team. Mr. McKay now has two sons playing in the junior O.H.A.

Secretary Hewitt was re-elected for his twenty-fourth year in office, and Treasurer Paxton for his sixteenth year. Four old members are seeking re-election on the executive.

The complete list of officers is as follows:

President — George B. McKay, Kitchener (elected by acclamation.)

First vice-president—Richard Butler, Lindsay (elected by acclamation.)

Second vice-president — Frank Hyde, Woodstock (elected by acclamation).

A.A.U. of C. governors—W. W. Davidson, Toronto (re-elected).

Treasurer—Sheriff J. F. Paxton, Whitby (re-elected).

Secretary—W. A. Hewitt, Toronto (re-elected).

Executive committee (four to be elected)—J. Percy Bond, Peterboro; George Dudley, Midland; Dr. J. M. Mitchell, Collingwood; Alvin H. Schlegel Preston; Wm. Friend, London; Frank Selke, Toronto.

Wm. Easson of Stratford becomes past president, and with Life Member Francis Nelson will complete the executive.

STEVE O'NEILL ALMOST SURE TO SUCCEED HOWLEY

Catcher Has Inside Track For Managerial Berth With the Leafs.

WEBB SECURED.

Announces the Purchase of Third Baseman From the Buffalo Club.

TORONTO, Nov. 17—It can almost be taken for granted that Steve O'Neill will be the next manager of the Toronto Baseball Club. President Solman says so and he should know. Howley's right-hand man and the man who had more to do with the development of the great pitching staff which twirled Toronto into a pennant and the junior world's championship with an indifferent team otherwise can have the berth if he wants it. Mr. Solman met him recently in Detroit and made him an ofefr tat in his own best interests he can hardly refuse. It is altogether likely that the local magnate will be in a position today to make a statement in the matter.

In the event that O'Neill turns down the opportunity to become manager of the best city and club in the minor leagues George McBride of Detroit will be given the job. He is anxious to come to Toronto but in that respect he is no keener than several other big leaguers, including Lee Fohl, recently with the Boston Red Sox and before that with Cleveland. Heinie Groh, who played third base with Toledo last season and who was with Cincinnati for years is an applicant, but his chances are rather slim in view of the fact that the Leafs have purchased the release of Billy Webb of Buffalo, who was out of the game for most of the last summer as a result of being beaned by Jess Doyle. Webb is a third baseman and a good one, too.

Patsy Donovan, late of Jersey City and Frank Gilhooley, veteran outfielder, are among the others who are in the running for the management. The former in all probability will come to the Leafs in some capacity, maybe as scout, as it is Mr. Solman's intention to develop players, not borrow them, as has been the custom in the past.

There is a chance that both Cleo Carlyle and Herman Layne will return to the Toronto Club, also Jess Doyle. The former was sold to the Boston Red Sox when Detroit released him outright to the Leafs, while Layne was turned over to Pittsburg for much cash, conditionally. If he makes good the local club will get the full amount, but if there is no place for him he will be returned. Doyle was drafted by Detroit, but whether he will be kept by the Tigers is another story.

WELCOMED HOME

Grover Cleveland Alexander, hero of the world series in baseball, is welcomed home by his mother, now nearing 75, on his return to his boyhood home, St. Paul, Nebraska.

'HONEY BOY' IS NEW CHAMPION

Secures Decision Over Chick Suggs For Featherweight Title.

IN 10 ROUNDS.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 17.—Dick (Honey Boy) Finnegan, who Monday night won the decision over Chick Suggs, New Bedford negro, in a 10-round scrap which was billed as a battle for the world's featherweight championship, yesterday awaited official recognition of his title by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission.

The Commission authorized the promoters to announce the fight as a title battle for the crown relinquished by Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

Fourteen thousand fans, the largest attendance on record for an indoor sport event in this city, packed the recently enlarged Boston Arena to see Finnegan carry seven of the ten rounds and win the verdict.

Suggs was credited with two rounds, while in one honors were even. The negro fought a game but losing battle and the closing rounds of the melee saw him weaken visibly.

Finnegan, however, was unable to put away his opponent. Finnegan weighed 125 3-4 pounds and Suggs 124.

The new champion has risen from the ranks of pugilism through a long series of victories that were only recently brought to a climax by triumphs over Red Chapman, former New England title-holder, and Babe Herman, one of the top-notchers in the featherweight ranks. Finnega nis a left-hander, with a loose but rugged style, and has proved his ability to get over a sleep-producing punch as well as to outpoint his man at long range boxing.

BOSTON BRUINS ARE VICTORIOUS OVER CANADIENS

Assume Lead in the Second Period and Win By 4 To 1.

MANY PENALTIES.

Galbraith Scores the Fourth Goal in Rush Down Left.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 17.—Boston Bruins, strengthened by the acquisition of six men, opened their National Hockey League season with an impressive 4 to 1 victory over Canadiens of Montreal. It was hardly an ideal night for hockey, hot, sultry and damp, yet it was the biggest hockey crowd that ever saw a game in Boston.

Boston stepped to the front with two goals in the first three minutes of the second period, and from that point to the finish the flaming shirted habitants were fighting a defensive battle, with an occasional rush by Morenz or Joliat.

Cooper, veteran right wing, was the big scorer, with three goals to his credit. The other was scored by Percy Galbraith in a rush down left. He and Eddie Shore, the young defence man from the Pacific Coast, made particular impressions on the crowd.

The penalty box was well filled during the game.

Proves Mother Is Your Closest Friend

Jersey City. Mr. J Pauli writes:—"I awakened each morning with an unpleasant taste and was often reminded by my Mother that my breath was disagreeable. I tried perfumed tablets, mouth washes and other camouflages which gave temporary relief. After taking a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills my stomach and bowels were relieved, foul and impure gases eliminated." Druggists, 25 & 75c red packages.

STEAMER ASHORE AFTER COLLISION

Dominion Coal Vessel Damaged in Crash With French Ship.

QUEBEC, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—The Dominion Coal Company steamer Hochelaga, plying between Montreal and Sydney, N.S., is beached at Channel patch in the St. Lawrence, about 48 miles below Quebec, as the result of a collision between the collier and the French-owned freighter Leopold L.D., about four o'clock this morning. The Leopold L.D. is proceeding to this port under her own steam. So far no casualties have been reported.

Advices from the scene of the collision are meagre but it is reported that the Hochelaga has sustained considerable damage. First reports were that the collier was sinking by the bow and that the Leopold L.D. with her own Hull badly smashed was standing by.

The Canadian Government steamers Druid and Lord Strathcona were rushed to the assistance of the Hochelaga this morning.

The crash occurred in heavy weather the whole Gulf being swept by a gale last night and this morning.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

ANNUAL MEETING.

Considerable Business To Be Discussed at Toronto Convention.

The annual convention of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held on Saturday morning at the Temple Building, Toronto, starting at 10 o'clock. President William Easson, Stratford, will occupy the chair.

There is considerable business to come before the meeting, in addition to the reading of reports and the election of an executive committee. All the senior officers have been elected by acclamation.

Each club is entitled to one delegate, and proxies are not allowed.

The O. H. A. sub-committee, through Sheriff J. J. Paxton, has the following amendments to the constitution:

That this association places itself on record as unalterably opposed to any change in the age limit of the junior series. There is a proposal before the C.A.H.A. to increase the age limit from 20 to 21.

Would Amend Pro. Coach Rule

That Clause 5 of the constitution, which says: "No hockey club in this association shall employ the services of a professional coach," be amended by adding the words "except with the approval of the O.H.A. executive."

That P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, be appointed an honorary member of the O.H.A. executive.

Suggested amendments to the regulations:

By G. S. Dudley, Midland: That Clause 3 of the regulations, which deals with residence, be amended by deleting the following words: "In case of a sailor who has not been a continuous resident under this rule, he must play with the club of his town, city or village, of which he has been a resident from the 1st of January preceding the 1st of August mentioned in this clause."

Automatic Suspension Suggestion.

By James T. Sutherland, Kingston: Add to Clause 6 of the regulations the following: "Any player who signs a professional contract automatically suspends himself from this association, and cannot be reinstated inside of one year."

The playing rules will not be amended in any way except as to the marking of the ice and a rewording of the offside rule. The amendments as they appear on the order paper:

By Sheriff J. F. Paxton: Goalkeepers' pads—maximum width 10 inches lying flat, instead of 12 (to go into effect season 1927-28).

By James T. Sutherland, Kingston: That it be a suggestion to the C.A.H.A. that goal posts be 6 inches wider than at present viz. 6 feet 6 inches in width instead of 6 feet.

By Sheriff J. F. Paxton—In Rule 1, page 99 of the Rule Book, insert after the word "side" in the second line, "wearing ice skates." This is an omission from the O.H.A. and is merely a correction.

By Sheriff J. F. Paxton—As the first step towards uniformity of rules "new defence area" is defined as follows: On all rinks 200 feet or over in length, a line is to be drawn 60 feet from the goal line; on all smaller rinks the ice to be divided into three equal sections between the goal lines. Distance behind goal posts must be at least five feet; ideal distance 10 feet. In the new 60-foot area the old rule applies, viz., no offside for the defending team. All rinks must be marked with defence lines as outlined.

Alterations Proposed.

By A. D. Campbell, Cobalt—That the present offside rule be re-worded to read as follows so as to make a clearer distinction between a player being offside and making an offside play.

a) A player shall endeavor always to be on his side of the puck. A player is offside when he is in front of the puck or when the puck has been hit or touched or is being skated with, by one of his own side behind him, namely, between himself and the end of the ring near which his goal is placed.

(b) A player being offside is put onside when the puck has been hit by or has touched the dress or person of any player on the opposite side, or when one of his own side has skated in front of him either with the puck or having played it when behind him.

(c) Since a player who is offside may be put onside as provided in clause (b) the referee shall not stop play unless the player offends against the following clauses (d) or (e) of this rule.

(d) Persistent failure to be onside shall be designated as loafing and penalized as a foul.

(e) If a player when offside plays the puck or annoys or obstructs an apponent the referee shall stop the play and the puck shall be faced where it was last played before the offside occurred. The deliberate making of offside plays shall be penalized as a foul.

(f) Despite the foregoing clauses a player on the defending side is not to be considered offside within a space of 60 feet out from his own goal line and extending to the side of the rink. A line parallel to the end of the rink shall be drawn across the ice of the rink to designate this distance. Within the space between this line and his end of the rink a player on the defending side, even though in front of the puck, may take a pass from or play the puck as it bounds off his goalkeeper or the end of the rink or netting or is passed by any of his team-mates.

(g) Players on both sides shall be onside when they and the puck are between the goal line and the adjacent end of the rink.

INDIAN TOURIST NOTORIOUS PRINCE

'T. Raje' Revealed as Former Maharajah of Indore, Who Abdicated.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 17.—(United Press.)— The quiet though luxurious tour of T. Raje through the United States has been turned from an ordinary sight-seeing affair into an object of popular curiosity by the declaration of W. E. Wart, his tour manager, that Raje is none other than the famous former Maharajah of Indore. "Raje" arrived here a few days ago with a suite of a dozen secretaries and retainers, bent on seeing the United States.

Then suuenly came word that he was the Maharajah who gave up one of India's wealthiest thrones because of the scandals which followed the murder of Abdul Bawla, over the love of Mumtaz Begum, a Nautch dancer. Mumtaz once had been the Maharajah favorite and had deserted him.

SUFFERS ATTACK PTOMAINE POISON

Apprehension Caused in McGill Camp When Quarterback Taken Ill.

MONTREAL, Quebec, November 17, Canadian Press. — There was apprehension in the McGill Rugby camp to-day when Jack Mickles, the Red team's quarterback, quit the field house, and returned to his home in the city suffering from ptomaine poisoning. The McGill players had visions of being short of their regular quarterback for the semi-final play-off game with the University of Toronto here Saturday afternoon. Mickles was unable to practice with the Red team to-day but reports from his home last night indicated that he would be ready to return to training quarters to-morrow.

Yesterday's downpour failed to check the McGill team in its preparations for the Intercollegiate eliminations to break the three cornered tie, in which the clubs found themselves at the end of the scheduled season. The rain not only failed as a damper to the squad, but also failed to halt the Red team's supporters, who were out in force, to provide an opposition squad for the regulars to work against. Prominent aming work against. Prominent among those who worked against the senior team was Ralph Harrison, Montreal big four quarterback, who piloted the scrubs in their battle against the regulars.

The field is a soggy mass at present but providing there is fair weather from Wednesday until Saturday, there will be a good field for the tussle.

Athletic authorities at McGill have been deluged with applications for reservations for Saturday's clash, and a big rush to take up tickets is expected when they are made available.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

GREAT CAST SUPPORTS MIX IN FINE WESTERN

In "No Man's Gold," Tom Mix comes riding back in a part that fits him as snugly as he fits into the saddle of his wonder horse, Tony.

You have not seen Mix at his best until you see him in this latest Fox film, "No Man's Gold," which will have a three days' run at the Capitol, commencing to-morrow. Not only is he back in one of the finest pictures of the type that gave him world wide fame, but he is supported by a cast, each one of whom is an old favorite with moving picture audiences. There is the beautiful Eva Novak, who plays the part of Jane Rogers, a rodeo star; and there is no doubling for her. She does her own riding in a way that must make many a cowboy envy her. The part of the villainous gambler, Pete Krell, is played by the husky Malcolm Waite. In one of the best rough and tumble fights ever screened, he uses everything from his fists to a saxaphone, but is at last knocked out by Tom.

Wat Lyman, the prospector who is killed for his secret of a gold mine, is splendidly characterized by Forrest Taylor and the part of his son, Jimmy Lyman, is played by that lovable specimen of American boyhood, the nine year old Micky Moore.

The story of "No Man's Gold" is the kind that will hold the attention of any audience from beginning to end.

It deals with the discovery of a mother lode of virgin gold far up an unknown canyon. Wat Lyman, the prospector, who discovers the mine, has been followed by Frank Healy, a notorious gambler who shoots him down, intending to rob him of his map. But before he has an opportunity to do this Tom Stone, foot-loose cowboy, and Lefty Logan are attracted by the shot. They hurry to the scene to find Micky the proprietor's nine year old son bending over his dying father. Lyman makes the three men, including Healy, whom he does not know as his murderer, promise to share the wealth of the mine with his boy. To protect his son he tears the map into three parts, giving each of the men one of the pieces.

Then follows a battle of wits between Healy and his fellow desperadoes on the one hand, and Tom, on the other. It all ends very satisfactorily of course but until it does, a very exciting but pleasant time is had by the audience.

AT THE GRAND.

Twenty-five stars, singers, dancers and comedians.

Just as many song hits. Just as many dance hits. One laugh every three-quarters of a minute. Settings, lighting effects and spectacular costuming that have the touch of both Paris and Broadway. Sketches with the hilarious flavor of the famous London music halls.

A revue, staged to run as swiftly and speedily as a doctor, on his way to work. It's smart, unusual, full of novelties and entirely different from anything you've seen before.

This is Capt. Plunkett's Revue of 1926 which comes here to the Grand Theatre on Friday, November 19th for a two night stay with a special matinee on Saturday afternoon.

It has more pretty girls than a beauty contest and is now known, in the theatrical world, as a sister to the Dumbells, since the latter production is the only one which can equal its popular success.

One of its outstanding drawing-cards is the Dominion's famous beauty, Jean Ford Tolmie, "Miss Toronto", the Canadian girl who was the sensation of the recent Atlantic City beauty contest, even though ineligible for the title because she was from this country. She was rated by a committee of celebrated American artists as one of the three most beautiful women on the continent.

In Capt. Plunketts new revue success, special scenic effects and specially-designed gowns, set off her beauty to the fullest advantage. Once seen it is easy to understand why, in Toronto [illegible] American cities, police reserves [illegible] to called out to handle [illegible]s which crowded round to [illegible] glimpse of her at every opportunity.

With Miss Toronto, is the winner of the international beauty contest at Galveston, Texas, against 63 beauties from United States, Canada and Mexico — Miss Winnipeg Patricia O'Shea.

BIG WAR PICTURE.

"The Unknown Soldier" packs a mighty heart-throb. It is war drama in all its beauty and grandeur, without the customary blatancy in spectacles of that magnitude. Not a tear was shed in vain during the presentation of this Renaud Hoffman production at the Regent Theatre last night. For each sob there was a smile, for each tear a laugh.

"The Unknown Soldier" is without doubt, one of the most human and convincing picture plays that has come to the screen. The plot interest is overwhelming, the drama is truly stupendous and the characterizations tremendously sincere. The picture was greeted with enthusiasm.

"The Unknown Soldier," played by Charles Emmett Mack, is a characteristic American doughboy, devil-may-care, foolhardy, but with a deep-rooted spiritual sense glorified by war. Marguerite De La Motte, his war bride, attains great dramatic heights in her impelling characterization. Another intensely human characterization is that of Ethel Wales, who personifies "America's War Mothers" in the Hoffman opus.

Henry B. Walthall is splendid in the role of a steel baron. Syd Crossley, George Cooper and Jess Devorska, rollicking trio of doughboys, provide many laughs. Claire MacDowell appears to excellent advantage.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE XXVII—Origin of a Great Industry. by MAX HAHN

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY, EMPLOYING MILLIONS OF PERSONS, ORIGINATED BEFORE MAN COULD WRITE. WOMAN STARTED IT BY BRAIDING WILD GRASS INTO ROPE AND BY WEAVING MATS OF TREE FIBERS.

THE TERM "SPINSTER" IS DERIVED FROM THE FACT THAT MAIDEN LADIES ONCE SPENT MUCH TIME SPINNING. REMNANTS OF LINEN HAVE BEEN FOUND IN THE RUINS OF NEW STONE AGE DWELLINGS.

PRACTICALLY EVERY PRIMITIVE HOME ACQUIRED A LOOM ON WHICH WOMEN WOVE LINEN.

NICKLE TO RUN ON DRY TICKET

Will Contest Former Seat in Interests of Prohibition.

KINGSTON, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press)—"I expect to be supported by all those who wish a dry Ontario," W. F. Nickle said after announcing his candidature on the prohibitionist ticket in the provincial election. He has not yet been formally endorsed by the prohibition forces at Kingston. "I expect to give them a good run for their money," he said, concerning the two other candidates in the field.

Mr. Nickle did not care to discuss possible alignment of forces in the new legislature, nor the attitude he would assume if he were elected. "The troubles today are sufficient to have to deal with at the time," he said.

KINGSTON, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press)—W. F. Nickle, K.C., former attorney-general announced today he will be a candidate in Kingston on the Prohibitionist ticket in the forthcoming elections.

Mr. Nickle resigned from the Ontario Cabinet upon announcement by Premier G. Howard Ferguson of the adoption of the Government control of liquor sale policy.

Following is a copy of the letter which Mr. Nickle addressed to Alderman T. A. Kidd, nominee of the Conservative party, and Mayor Angrove, who has announced that he will run as an independent candidate in support of Government control:

"Dear Sirs, — For several days I have watched the development of the political campaign in which you are contenders and as expected I find that the issue of first importance is 'Will the legalized sale generally of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes be better or worse for Ontario?'

"I my letter of resignation, as attorney-general, to the prime minister, which you may have read, I made clear to him and the province why I could not continue to be longer a member of his government.

"Upon careful consideration of the situation I am convinced that the electors of Kingston and Portsmouth have a right to express their opinion on this issue.

"I have decided that I shall attempt to perfect arrangements to have a full and frank public discussion. As each of you is identified to an extent in supporting the so-called control (?) policy of the government my suggestion is that we hold two joint debates on successive evenings in the City Hall, one of you to lead one evening (this you could arrange between you) to be followed forthwith by the other. I am then to fololw and which ever of you opened is to have the right to close. On the other evening I am to open, each of you to follow, after which I have the right to close, the allotted time for each of the main speeches to be thirty-five minutes, closing ten minutes. Relative priority in speaking might be settled by lot; incidental expenses to be born ratably among us.

"In the event of the outlined details not being agreeable to either of you I would readily consent to any reasonable variation consistent with full and frank review of the various contentions.

"It necessarily follows that I shall be candidate in the election. Your convenience will be mine to discuss dates and other necessary incidents.

"Awaiting the favor of your early reply.

"Believe me yours sincerely.
(signed) W. F. Nickle."

IN POLICE COURT.

Three tins of canner heat graced the police station with their presence this morning.

However, the contents had not been used for the purpose of warming up the building or the constables' lunches, but were the residue of a drinking bout staged by two local men yesterday afternoon.

Both men appeared in court this morning and pleaded guilty to charges of being intoxicated in a public place. They admitted that the canned heat, a preparation consisting of wax and alcohol for heating purposes, was responsible for their condition.

One of the men faced Magistrate D. A. Langley yesterday morning on a different charge and had promised His Worship that he would get out of town to a job in the woods this morning. In the meantime, however, he decided to stage a farewell party which led to his reappearance in the court today.

Both men were fined $10 and costs.

GOVERNMENT SALE IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Mr. Robert Harstone of Peterboro, writing from Frobisher, Sask., says: "I look at the temperance question in this way: Does Mr. Ferguson's plan of control actually control the sale of liquor? My answer is that it does not. I know from my observation of the same plan in the two prairie provinces. It simply means that liquor will flow and beer will be sold by the case as it is in Saskatchewan. You can purchase a case every day if you have the price. Beer bottles stand around the corridors in halls of the bedrooms like a bar room. If the facts are put before the people the temperance cause should win.'R. Harstone. 1d117-664

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

Who, if not the government, is now responsible for Liquor CONTROL? If Mr. Ferguson cannot control the Liquor Traffic with a closed act like the O.T.A., what machinery can he introduce to control or curtail the liquor traffic, when he opens the flood gates through government dispensaries? Will he select bartenders with higher moral standards than the doctors of this province? 1d117-663

PREMIER FERGUSON'S AUTOCRACY.

Thanks to the high moral standards of most Conservatives, principle must dominate the policy which they support. Autocracy is repugnant to a democratic people. The autocracy of Premier Ferguson cannot control them. The people understand and their voice must be obeyed. Vote O.T.A. that Democracy shall continue in Ontario. 1d117-662

SLIDE SEIZURE NOT ORDERED

Toronto Authorities Say They Asked For Slides For Censorship.

HAD COMPLAINTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—That they had not consulted in regard to the seizure of motion picture slides at Kemptville, Ontario, was the statement of both Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, and Hon. J. D. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, today, when they were questioned concerning the seizure made by the Kemptville town constable. The slides were being exhibited by Rev. Dr. E. I. Hart, Secretary of the Prohibition Union of Quebec, during his lecture last night in support of the Ontario Temperance Act.

The action was taken on complaint from Kemptville that some of the slides were objectionable, R. C. Buckley, Chief Inspector of Theatres and T. Scott, Assistant Director of the Censor Board, explained today. Consequently a form letter was sent to the Kemptville police, asking them to inspect the slides and to instruct Dr. Hart to send them to Toronto for censorship. All slides must be brought to Toronto for censorship, it was explained, but it was said there was no thought of prosecuting Dr. Hart.

Dr. Hart refused to leave the slides when they were seized by the constable last evening, and he spent the entire night in the Kemptville Town Hall, where they had been taken. He has the slides now, awaiting instructions from Toronto.

The slides, according to Dr. Hart, contrast conditions under the two different systems in Ontario and Quebec.

Leading Stocks Drop General List Is Firm

TORONTO, Nov. 17. — (Canadian Press.)—While the list on the whole held up well recessions appeared among recent strong leaders in to-day's heavy trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. British Columbia Fishing, to-day sharing with Arnold the leadership of the market, eased down a point and a half to 93 1-2. Brazilian receded a point at 1-4 and F. N. Burt lost 1 1-8 at 57 5-8. Nickle eased 3-8 at 37 3-4. Shredded Wheat was leader of the strong section, gaining 1 5-8 at 58 5-8. Canners Preferred advanced 1 1-4 at 68 1-4, Porto Rico 1 1-4 at 45 3-4, and British American Oil 3-4 at 69. Alcohol, C.P.R., Brompton and Page Hersey all firmed fractionally.

Mine Trading Lighter Small Losses Prevalent

TORONTO, Nov. 17.— (Canadian Press.) — Losses were only moderately substantial in the general downturn on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Trading was lighter, Kirkland Lake suffered most, losing 5 1-2 at 68 1-2. Canadian Lorrain at 71 and Castle Trethewey at 116 were both a point lower. Barry Hollinger lost three at 89, Teck Hughes one at 498, and Tough Oakes one at 57 1-4. Mining Corporation four at 275.

Stock Prices Work-Up On Lower Interest Rate

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices worked upward today in apparent response to the lowering of call money rates. Pools were again active in a number of specialties. Woolworth was bid up 4 points to 195 3-8, on rumors of a stock dividend next month. Commercial Solvents "B" after an early weakness, rallied to a new high record at 213 3-4.

General Motors was marked up 3 points. Other motors were sluggish. Oils disregarded the crude oil price cut, Panhandle Producers and Refinery Preferred actually moving up three points.

Attempts to bid up United States Steel met with stiffer resistance. Sharp gains were recorded by American Ice, South Porto Rican Sugar and Standard Milling.

Rails were under accumulation in anticipation of unusually favorable October earnings statements, New York Central, Reading, Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, and Southern Railway being among the many issues to sell a point or two higher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(Canadian Press).—The stock market continued to display a firm tone yesterday A five per cent rate for call money probably accounted for more cautious attitude regarding speculative operations.

Wall Street's belief that some of the more prosperous steel companies would join the growing number of corporations paying larger dividends led to renewed bidding for these shares. United States steel sold above 153, a new high on the current movement, although chairman Gary was quoted as saying that no dividend changes had been considered or discussed. Sloss Sheffield rallied six points.

Reports of steady trade promoted demand for General Motors, American Can, and various food shares, including the Loose Wiles Biscuit and Beechnut packing issues. Case Threshing Machine was subjected to heavy selling for a time but it recovered most of an early six point loss.

Argentine Yield Good Wheat Values Take Drop

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.— (Canadian Press.)—Assertions that above average crop may be looked for in Argetnina tended to weaken wheat values early to-day.

One leading authority cabled raising by four million bushels his previous estimate of a probable Argentine wheat yield.

Opening unchanged to 1 1-8 lower, wheat subsequently underwent a material setback all around. Corn and Provisions were firmer and Oats about steady,with Corn opening at 1-4 off to 1-8 up and later scoring a decided general advance.

FIRST SESSION OF COMMISSION

Regret at Retirement of Sir Francois Lemieux Expressed.

DUTIES DISCUSSED.

OTTAWA, November 17. Canadian Press. — An enlarged Royal Commission, composed of three judges resumed investigation into the Department of Customs and Excise this morning under the chairmanship of Chief Justice J. T. Brown of Saskatchewan. With chairman Brown, were Mr. Justice William H. Wright, of the Supreme Court of Ontario, and Justice Ernest Roy of the Quebec Superior Court, his fellow commissioners.

Proceedings were featured by a brief statement from the chairman. He expressed the greatest regret that Sir Francois Lemieux had found it necessary to retire from the chairmanship of the commission. This sentiment was concurred in by Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., commission counsel.

In his statement, Chairman Brown divided the subjects to be dealt with by the commission under five heads. The commission would, he said, investigate commercial smuggling of all descriptions. It would inquire into evasion of excise regulations, dereliction of duty by customs officials, and the operation of the anti-smuggling treaty with United States. Finally, it would make constructive suggestions for coping with the smuggling evil in the Dominion. He expressed the view that Canadians had confidence in their judiciary and declared that he and his colleagues would conduct the task assigned to the commissioners with diligence.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear mother, who died November 17, ——
The midnight stars are gleaming
O'er a lone and silent grave,
Beneath sleeps one I dearly loved,
But who I could not save.
The happy hours we once enjoyed—
How sweet their memory still!
But death has left a vacant place
That never can be filled.

A Great Old Game But It Will Not Work This Time

The eagerness with which Liberal-Prohibitionists are endeavoring to pull away Conservative temperance people from the support of the only party that ever gave Temperance Legislation to Ontario, furnishes the present campaign with its one element of comedy.

Liberal-Prohibitionists—the order is used advisedly because that is the order in which they invariably vote—must credit Consevatives with small intelligence and poor memories when they have the audacity to make such an appeal.

Temperance workers saw three plebiscites, under Mowat, Laurier and Ross, with majorities in favour of prohibition in each case larger than that of the O.T.A. at the last plebiscite utterly ignored by Liberal Governments and yet went to the polling booths and to a man voted for these governments. Sir James Whitney was condemned up hill and down dale while his handling of the liquor question was drying up Ontario. In 1919 Prohibitionists forgot their temperance principles and helped slaughter the Hearst Government that had given them the O.T.A. Prohibitionists condemned Hon. W. F. Nickle in unmeasured terms for his 4.4 beer amendment and now have him as a hero because they think his present attitude may hurt the Conservative cause. Prohibitionists, who have been Liberal FIRST and prohibitionists SECOND on every occasion when their party loyalty was tested, exhibit child-like simplicity in asking Conservatives to abandon their party now.

And for what?

To elect a supporter of a proposed Raney-Sinclair administration!

Where do they stand?

They are committed to nothing save to maintain the O.TA. until it is removed by the vote of the people at a plebiscite.

That plebiscite might follow quickly, should the Liberal party be returned.

In fact while Prohibitionist-Liberals try to herd Temperance Conservatives into the Raney camp, it is being whispered to Liberal believers in the Government control policy that the best strategy is to get rid of Ferguson first and, then kill the O.T.A. in a plebiscite.

It is a great game—but it won't fool enough people to put little Mr. Raney in the seats of the mighty again, and it is not going to fool temperance Conservatives who saw Premier Hearst betrayed by Prohibitionist-Liberals in 1919.

Temperance Conservatives have no need of deserting their party at the beck of political enemies. The Conservative party is the Temperance Party.

SONS OF WILLIAM MAYBEE GIVE EVIDENCE OF PURCHASE OF ALCOHOL FROM D'ANGELO

Their Father Had Dealt Only With Accused For Some Time.

OTHER WITNESSES.

End of Trial For Manslaughter Expected This Afternoon.

MILTON, Ont., Nov. 18.—Further evidence filling in the gaps in "the poison alcohol case" and supplying an eye-witness to the fact that Mrs. Olive Guertin and William Maybee while at the Balmuto Street, Toronto, flat had actually taken drinks from a bottle afterwards found to contain a large percentage of wood alcohol, was produced by the Crown when Bert D'Angelo of Hamilton, indicted on four counts for manslaughter, was placed on trial before Mr. Justice Rose at the County Assizes here yesterday. The grand jury, at the opening of the court, brought in two true bills against the accused dealing with the manslaughter charges and that of administering poison alcohol. The day was taken up with a presentation of the Crown's case on the first indictment, and when the court finally adjourned its sitting, further witnesses had still to be heard. The intense interest manifest in the poison alcohol case arising from the death of four victims in this section of the Province ,has its origin in the growing suspicion that bootleggng activities in Ontario have had more widespread and serious effects than are yet realized, and the testimony given yesetrday afternoon by Professor Rogers, Provincial Analyst and member of the staff of the University of Toronto, suggested the extent of the death toll from this source.

Came From Oakville Home

According to the evidence submitted, however, the two bottles containing the poison found by the police at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Fairbanks, 4 Balmuto Street, Toronto, were traced to the Maybee home at Oakville, while Mrs. Elsie Snowden, the only fresh witness brought forward, testified to the drinking at Balmuto Street on July 23rd, the night before the death of the two victims, Maybee and Mrs. Guertin.

After presenting the medical evidence on the deaths of the four victims, James Johnson, George Gill and William Maybee, and Mrs. Olive Guertin, the Crown confined itself almost entirely to an attempt to trace the cause of death in the last two instances, and in the words of the witnesses, Walter and Harold Maybee, Mrs. Annie Connors of Hamilton, and Mrs. Snowden, the story was retold of those fatal days

All Districts Except Yorkshire Turn Down Cabinet Proposal.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—A. J. Cook, miners' secretary, announced to-day that the vote of the men was against acceptance of the Government's strike settlement proposals by a large majority.

All the large districts were against acceptance by considerable margins, he said, except in Yorkshire, where there was a very small majority in favor of acceptance. The members of the miners' executive, meeting this afternoon to consider the situation, were gloomy and perplexed. The delegate conference which last week recommended that the miners accept the terms, will meet to-morrow in an endeavor to solve the difficulty.

IN POLICE COURT.

Three tins of canned heat graced the police station with their presence this morning.

However, the contents had not been used for the purpose of warming up the building or the constables' lunches, but were the residue of a drinking bout staged by two local men yesterday afternoon.

Both men appeared in court this morning and pleaded guilty to charges of being intoxicated in a public place. They admitted that the canned heat, a preparation consisting of wax and alcohol for heating purposes, was responsible for their condition.

Aviators Drop Supplies To Stranded Motorists

LONDON, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Pilots of the Royal Air Force have been engaged in dropping dates and other foods for stranded passengers in the cross desert motor car service between Beirut and Bagdad, says a despatch to the Daily Mail from Bagdad. The distance of the cross desert route is nearly 600 miles.

Many cars have been stuck fast for more than seven days in a sea of mud, caused by an exceptional rainfall. The Basra-Bagdad has been washed out at several places and a number of houses in Bagdad have collapsed.

DAIRY COUNCIL IS ENTERTAINED

Guests of De Laval Company at Informal Dinner Last Night.

FORM THEATRE PARTY.

The members of the National Dairy Council, consisting of prominent representatives from all over the Dominion of Canada, who were in the city yesterday as guests of the De Laval Company, were royally entertained at an informal dinner in the Empress Hotel last night.

At the conclusion of the dinner the guests were entertained to a theatre party at the Grand Opera House.

During the dinner a number of selections was played by the De Laval orchestra, which is composed entirely of De Laval employees.

D. G. Carlisle, also a member of the company's staff, sang two excellent solos.

W. R. Breyfogle, general manager of the company, officiated as chairman.

The various speakers spoke in glowing terms of the reception tendered to them by the local company, paying tribute to their generosity in inviting them to the city of Peterborough.

Owing to the theatre party the speeches were somewhat limited, but this did not detract from the enthusiasm shown by the different orators.

Expressing his pleasure at accomplishing what he termed one of the best trips of his life, the Hon. A. Prefontaine, Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Manitoba, stated that he would never forget the royal welcome they had received at the hands of the local officials of the De Laval Company.

He gave a brief account of his early experiences in dairying, taking his listeners back to the year 1880, when he first settled in the Province of Manitoba. The hardships of the early settlers were described by him in a vivid manner. In 1886, he said, he had helped to construct the first creamery in the province. The next year they installed De Laval machinery so that the company could justly lay claim to being with the pioneers of the dairy industry in Manitoba.

Outside of the city of Winnipeg, he said, this was the only creamery in the province for a period of twenty-five years.

Comparing this with the present time, Mr. Prefontaine declared that last year butter to the value of $130,000,000 had been exported from his province. This year an increase of 26 per cent. had been registered.

In the early days, he said, Winnipeg was a mudhole with a few planks to walk on. He could remember a poplar rail bridge in front of the City Hall. On one occasion he was driving a yoke of oxen along the main street when the street gave way, the oxen being only saved from drowning by the neck yoke, which caught on the edges of the hole. In concluding, Mr. Prefontaine declared: "If we are to produce a product that will compete with the countries of the world, we must do it not as a province but as a country—then, and then only, will success crown our efforts. It is only by an organization, such as the National Dairy Council that this goal will be accomplished."

Vice-President W. F. Stephen of Huntingdon, Que.; W. W. Prevey of Edmonton; R. B. McClennan of Truro, and George Hogg of Montreal also gave brief speeches of appreciation.

And I set my house in order,"
Said our Lady of the Snows.

"Neither with laughter nor weeping,

Soberly under the White Man's law
My white men go their ways.
Not for the Gentiles' clamour—
Insult or threat of blows—
Bow we the knee to Baal,"
Said our Lady of the Snows.

"My speech is clean and single,
I talk of common things—
Words of the Wharf and the market-place
And the ware the merchant brings:
Favor to those I favor,
But a stumbling-block to my foes.
Many there be that hate us,"
Said our Lady of the Snows.

"I called my chiefs to council
In the din of a troubled year:
For the sake of a sign ye would not see,
And a word ye would not hear.
This is our message and answer;
This is the path we chose:
For we be also a people,"
Said our Lady of the Snows.

"Carry the word to my sisters—
To the Queens of the East and the South,
I have proven faith in the Heritage
By more than the word of the mouth.
They that are wise my follow
Ere the world's war-trumpet blows,
But I—I am first in the battle,"

THE AUSTRALIAN NATIONAL BAND

(By F.D.C.)

Can you imagine a Peterborough audience actually cheering a musical number?

That unusual event really happened at the Grand last night, and the organization which aroused local music lovers out of their customary calm reception of musical artistry was the famous Australian National Band.

The overture to "William Tell" was the number that caused the rare demonstration.

Always a sure-fire hit only half-decently played, this most popular overture was presented in a manner that was astounding when it is remembered that the "William Tell" number was scored for an instrumentation that included a fine assortment of reeds and that the Australian band is an all-brass ensemble. In the usual presentation of the number much of the work falls upon the reeds, and the oboe-flute duet is always an outstanding feature. Yet played as it was last night by this wonderful band the reeds were not missed for a moment and the whole number was a flawless inspired rendition that worked up to the stirring finale. Taken at a fast tempo, with galvanic effect upon the audience, for as with the last crashing chord a storm of cheering and hand-clapping greeted the musicians.

Conductor Arthur H. Baile repeatedly bowed his acknowledgment of the ovation and as the applause continued signalled to his musicians who also rose to their feet in response to the demonstration.

That one number would have been enough to have earned the Australians a lasting place in the memory of those who heard them.

But the visitors are more than a wonderful band; they are a whole show.

Here was an agregation of artists who could play "Nearer My God to Three" in perfect simulation of a church organ, a Tschaikowsky suite with the charm of a symphony orchestra, modern dance numbers as "hot" as any American jazz band, and a patrol with real Sousa effect. Its membership comprised a xylophone wizard who would be a headliner on any vaudeville circuit, a cornet soloist of rare ability and a trombone star whose numbers showed what really could be accomplished with this instrument in the hands of an artist. So versatile were the bandsmen that one expected that before the programme finished Conductor Baile would produce a juggler or a couple of slack-wire performers just to round out the vaudeville bill.

Wonderful tone, perfect balance, an attack as crisp as a November dawn, all the volume imaginable when called for and a piano that was as light and smooth as a muted violin, complete co-ordination between leader and band, and dignified and inspired conducting by the former all were combined in the execution of a programme that was as varied as it was delightful.

The "William Tell" overture was the band's first number and it earned them the ovation already described and sent them away at a high level that was consistently maintained throughout.

This overture and the grand selection "Reminiscences of Tchaikowsky" as arranged by Douglas were the biggest numbers on the programme. The Tschaikowsky selection which included, the Solonelle March, movements from the Nutcracker Suite, and other gems, was brilliantly presented.

A selection of Gilbert and Sullivan's excerpts, the descriptive patrol, "The Red, White and Blue,' and the humouresque "A Musical Sketch" a pot pourri of over forty well known airs, were the other programmed numbers by the band and each was a triumph for Conductor Baile and his men.

The hymn "Nearer My God to Thee' was played as an encore, and it ranked as one of the outstanding features, the organ-like effect being perfectly presented.

"Valencia' gave the band a chance to show that "jazz' effects can be produced by other than American bands and the musicians rose to their opportunity—literally as well as figuratively, while "Maggie, Yes, Ma," a number that playgoers will remember as having been sung here by the London 8, was a delicious piece of musical fun-making by the band.

The soloists are scored heavily.

Gloomy Dean Decides Englishmen Are Lazy

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Dean Inge, "the gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's Cathedral, has about arrived at the conclusion that Englishmen generally are lazy.

A tendency to sloth and to arrogance, and certain indulgence in eating and drinking were faults other nations saw in Englishmen, asserted the Dean, before the Bishopsgate Institute, and, in a way, he said, he agreed with this.

"On the whole," he added, "I think we are a lazy people —not only our workers, but the employers, right on down through the nation."

MARIE CANCELS REST OF TOUR

Will Return To Rumania on Saturday Due To Husband's Illness.

NO ANXIETY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 18 (Canadian Press) — Queen Marie will go direct to New York when she leaves Louisville tonight and will sail for home on the first available steamer. Marie called in her official family and advisers this morning just before she began a tour of Louisville and told of her wish to abandon all features of the remainder of her tour.

May Take Berengaria

Queen Marie's train, enroute to Louisville, Ky., Nov. 18 — Queen Marie of Rumania will abandon her tour because of a serious turn in theu condition of King Ferdinand, and expects to sail on November 24 on the Berengaria. Marie authorized this statement early today. She will spend today in Louisville and tomorrow in Cincinnati.

Returning to her train at Indianapolis, Queen Marie summoned Col. Carrol and said: "I want to go home." There were tears in her eyes as she explained that new cable advices had come from Bucharest concerning the health of Ferdinand and that the news was not good.

Cure Very Slow

BUCHAREST, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press) — King Ferdinand's condition causes no anxiety, Premier Averescu told parliament last evening, but his malady being of long standing cure is necessarily slow.

APPRAISERS SOMETIMES MAKE MISTAKES OVER VALUING GOODS RENEWAL OF CUSTOMS SITTINGS

Counsel Says Some Were Absolutely Without Qualifications For Work.

VANCOUVER NEXT.

Session Dealt With Finding Out How Various Branches Functioned.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Customs appraisers whose duty it is to place a value on goods imported into the Dominion sometimes make mistakes. Before the Customs Royal Commission, which resumed sitting here yesterday, R. L. Calder, K.C., one of the Commission counsel, stated that an importation of very valuable antique furniture entering the Port of Montreal had been appraised as "second-hand furniture and rated as such" by the appraiser through whose hands it passed. Evidence taken before the Parliamentary committee last session had shown that some of the appraisers were absolutely without qualifications for their work, Mr. Calder said.

Counsel mentioned these matters when J. A. Watson, Dominion appraiser, was on the witness stand before the Commission, both Mr. Watson and his assistant, Edward Richards, informed the Commission that they were not consulted in any way officially as to the choice of appointees for the posts of Customs appraisers at points outside Ottawa. Customs appraisers generally became such by promotion, Mr. Richards thought, but he and Mr. Watson agreed that the Civil Service Commission was the body which would probably tell the Commission about the matter.

Yesterday's sitting, which was a resumption of the investigation by Royal Commission postponed by Sir Francois Lemieux during the general election campaign, was devoted largely to finding out just how the various branches of the Customs Department at Ottawa functioned. Starting with the Acting Deputy-Minister of Customs, G. W. Taylor, the various heads of branches in the department appeared before the Commission and described how their staffs were made up and how they functioned.

There was a laugh when William Caven, Dominion Inspector of Customs and Excise ,describing the de-

FOREIGN POLICY COMMUNICATION PLANS TAKEN UP

Committee of Empire Conference Will Bring in Report This Week.

OTHER MATTERS.

Planned Now To Have Formal Closing Next Tuesday.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (By Cable from George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The Imperial Conference plans to formally close next Tuesday. Between now and then there will be hurried days of plenary meetings and final revision of committee reports, chief of which will be that of the Premiers' committee on inter-Empire relations, which committee has been guarding its secrets so zealously. The report does not presume to draw up a new form of constitution for the Empire but discusses various questions submitted to the committee and gives the committee's opinion thereon. One of the most important of these deals with the definition of the British Empire and status of the Dominions. Another touches on the right of each of the Dominions to control its own foreign policy when such Dominion is

Liquor Sales Hurt Business

BUSINESS MEN! Have you considered what the effect of the Government sale of liquor in Peterboro would be on your business?

Your customers—that is most of them—can not spend money for liquor in government stores without buying less in your store and in the stores of other legitimate merchants.

If you want proof compare the list of commercial failures in Ontario during the past few years under the O.T.A. and in Quebec under Government Sale. Here they are. Remember that Ontario has a much larger number of business firms:

COMMERCIAL FAILURES

Year	Ontario	Quebec
1922	954	1485
1923	844	1171
1924	817	889
1925	625	930
1926-9 months	441	678
Total	3681	5176

The sale of liquor has contributed to that result.

From Government reports the sale of liquor has been:

Year	Ontario	Quebec
1921-22	$4,214,261	$46,248,708
1922-23	4,840,875	47,226,027
1923-24	5,028,747	49,747,461
1924-25	5,065,997	47,620,507
Total	$19,149,880	$190,842,703

A BREWER'S EXPLANATION

The Empire Brewing Co., Nanaimo, B.C., in a stockselling advertisement dated April 12, 1926, states:—

"Do You Know
that a well-known British Columbia brewery paid its shareholders 800 per cent. on their investment?

"Do You Know that the annual report of a Quebec Brewery last year showed a surplus of over $3,000,000 and paid a profit for that year amounting to over $1,250,000?"

A BUSINESS MAN'S EXPLANATION

The Managing Director of Canadian Cottons, Ltd., Montreal, Mr. A. O. Dawson, states in a Toronto daily of October 28, 1926:—

"If the business men of Ontario expect Government Control to bring about more prosperity they had better study the problem again. Take the illustration given me by a friend; he was visiting in a small town (in Quebec) and discovered that none of the stores were doing good business; in fact business was poor. A further study of conditions showed the fact that the people of the town were spending their money in liquor stores and taverns. The argument that the liquor trade advances national wealth does not hold good."

FOREIGN POLICY

primarily concerned.

In the opinion of the nationality committee of the Conference, international action will be the only effective method of remedying the difficulty of a woman being without a country as a result of marrying an alien.

A plan for a kind of diplomatic exchange as between Great Britain and the Dominions is understood to be receiving consideration from delegates to the conference.

Under the scheme, if adopted, the Governor-General would be purely a representative of the Crown, not of the British Government. Communications would then practically pass direct to London with the Dominion High Commissioners exercising a semi-diplomatic function and the British Government would be represented in each Dominion by a special officer, who would keep the Dominion Government informed of the course of British policy.

Arthur G. Stender, the deputy conductor, a cornet soloist of wonderful ability, played the "Titantia' polka brilliantly, his triple tongueing being as clear cut as that of any artist ever heard here, and he rose to even greater heights in his playing of "The Lost Chord," with the band providing a most striking accompaniment.

Clarrie Collins, the trombone soloist, was wildly applauded for his masterly playing of Gounod's "Lend Me Your Aid," and his encore number earned him a second ovation.

As for the xylophonist, Harold Reid, this musician in theatrical parlance "stopped the show." His first offering "Coaxing the Piano," a fast moving "rag" was followed by "Aloha" and "Home Sweet Home" played with four hammers with wonderful effect and finally the xylophonist played a number blindfolded.

The band was given a welcome to Peterboro by Dr. J. J. Craig, president of the Kiwanis Club and by Mayor Dr. Holloway on behalf of the city while Kiwanian Joseph Wearing introduced the band to the audience. Among those present were members of the National Dairy Council.

The Australians will give their final local programme tonight. They should be greeted by a capacity audience.

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

MINERS REJECT PROPOSAL MADE BY GOVERNMENT

Decision Due To Large Majorities in Wales and Scotland.

DELEGATES MEET.

May Consider Voluntary Return To Work in Reaching Conclusion.

LONDON, Nov. 18. Canadian Press. — It was reported this morning that voting on the memorandum of the government for the settlement of the coal strike has resulted in the rejection of the terms, due chiefly to the immense majorities cast against them in Scotland and South Wales, and partly to the fact that local miners' councils prevented the miners who have resumed work from voting.

The terms contained in the government's memorandum touch the main points of issue: increasing miners' hours of work beyond the statutory seven hours daily, the contingent questions of district settlements both hours and wages, and the reinstatement of the strikers without prejudice to the men as opportunity offers the mine owners.

The Miners' Federation to-day was considering the returns of the voting, which are to be referred to another delegate conference to-morrow. Predictions as to the outcome differ but the situation seems likely to be influenced materially by the fact that thousands of the miners continue voluntarily to return to the pits.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR THREE GIRLS

Daughters of Bruce McNevin Were in Car Which Struck Truck.

OMEMEE, Nov. 18.—The three daughters of Mr. Bruce McNevin had a miraculous escape from death on Monday evening when their car, which was being driven by one of the girls, collided with a heavy truck on a narrow stretch of road between Reaboro and Hill Head. Two of the girls escaped injury, but the third one sustained a painful head wound, which required four skitches to close.

League Meeting.

The Young People of Trinity United Church League, who were fortunate enough to be present on Monday evening, enjoyed not only a splendid address by Mr. Stalter, the assistant High school teacher, but also a splendid set of lantern slides dealing with life in West China, which were run off by Mr. C. L. Morcombe.

Mr Stalter gave a most interesting demonstration in chemistry experiments, in one case having an earthenware pitcher from which he poured in turn, a sparkling red liquid, then one of crystal, later pouring all back into the pitcher, he refilled the glasses from the same vessel with a clear liquid. Needless to say, the experiment was most mystifying and the address interesting throughout.

Miss Jessie Lamb was in charge and the scripture lesson was read by Miss Christina Connell.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bradley, while out motoring on Sunday, had the misfortune to break an axle of their car when near Lakefield. Being unable to secure repairs in Lakefield or Peterborough they were forced to leave their car there and find other means of transportation home.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting Held in Deloro Hall on Tuesday Evening.

MARMORA, Nov. 18. — Deloro Hall was well filled on Tuesday night with male members of the population on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Deloro Social and Dramatic Society, as in recent years, this event partook of the nature of a smoker. At 8 p. m. Mr. R. A. Elliott, the retiring president, took the chair. In a brief address he instanced the continued interest shown in the Society and this in spite of the later formation of the Athletic Association and the Safety First Movement, which had helped to detract from its activities. The annual Christmas tree and the minstrel show having been referred to, Mr. Elliott concluded by remarking that necessary renovations to the hall would have to be carried out in the ensuing year. Mr. S. B. Cheeseman, the energetic secretary-treasurer presented a most favorable financial statemen which, upon motion of W. Kerr, seconded by W. Williams, was duly passed.

Election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

Honorary presidents — S. B. Wright, F. A. Bapty, R. A. Elliott,
President—A. V. Yates,
Vice-President—H. A. McNally.
Master of Ceremonies — Eric Mantle.
Secretary - Treasurer — S. B. Cheeseman.

Miss Jean Reynolds unanimously received the appointment of librarian and was given power to select her assistant.

The Executive committee appointed comprise: Messrs. F. Groves, W. Simmons, F. Leal, J. Hemphill, C. H. Buskard, R. Hunter, K. Buchmann, W. R. Reyonlds, F. Craig, Floyd Gray, J. C. Quinn, F. Melvaer and A. Hart.

W. R. Reynolds introduced the matter of a Boy Scout troop for the village and with S. B. Cheeseman speaking strongly in its support, the matter is promised careful consideration by the Society. The entertainment of the evening was provided by the screen and the singing of the National Anthem brought to a close a most successful meeting, one of the best since the inauguration of the Society in September, 1901.

SUPPER AT KEENE.

Many Attend Function Put On By United Church Ladies.

KEENE Nov. 18—The first annual Fowl Supper and concert of the Keene United Church was held on Thursday evening and was a huge success. Over four hundred paid admission to the supper in the basement of the church and the Town Hall was packed to the limit for the concert, all available seating and standing room being taken up and the stage had to be utilized to seat some.

It was held under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society and the ladies deserve great credit for the effort put into it.

The programme was put on by local talent augmented by the Sunday School orchestra from Coldsprings.

Owing to illness the programme had to be curtailed but everything went off splendidly.

The programme:

Selection—Coldsprings Orchestra.
Chairman's Address—Rev. John Archibald.
Piano Duet — Miss Eva Taylor and Mrs. Herb McFarlane.
Song—Betty Brown and Bobby Humphries.
Elocution—Miss Cressa Crowe
Selection—Coldsprings Orchestra.
Solo—Miss Bryce; Violin obligato, A. E. Fletcher.
Elocution—Miss Jean Nelson
Guitar and Banjo duet — A.M. Fletcher and Stephen Miller; Miss Bryce, accompanist.
Elocution—Rev. Archibald.
Duet—The Misses Rutherford.
Quartette (comic)—Mrs. Gilbert Howson, Mrs. Harry McLauchlan, Messrs. D. D. Brown and William Drummond.
Selection—Coldsprings Orchestra.

Miss Pearl McCann and Miss Bryan spent a few days at the home of Mrs. McCann.

Mrs. E. H. Barnes and family returned home to Millbrook after visiting friends at the Victoria House.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown and son of Toronto spent a few days at the home of Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Connell.

Miss Rennie who recently suffered a stroke has improved slightly.

Miss Blanche Ellis of Harwood spent Sunday with Keene friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howson and son spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Howon's mother, Mrs. Thomas Howson.

Dog Carries Food For Mate Caught In Woods; Also Tears Up Bushes To Make Captive Comfortable

Inspector R. C. Smith of the Peterborough Humane Society related the following dog story to The Examiner today:

Some years ago Fred Telford of Toronto purchased a black and white beagle hound at the Toronto Exhibition dog show. He in turn sent the dog to a Mr. Fisher at Collingwood. He afterwards sold the dog to a farmer at Dunedin, sixteen miles from Collingwood.

No more was heard regarding the dog until the beginning of the next hunting season, when the dog turned up at Collingwood and made its way to Mr. Fisher's home. This continued for a number of seasons ,the only difference being that on the two last occasions the dog was accompanied by a collie.

Mr. Best decided that the only way to retain "Belle" was to keep her chained up, but despite his precautions the dog escaped again this year..

The dog was missing for six days and during that time Mr. Best noticed that the collie was taking out part of its meals to the bush which was situated near the house.

He decided to follow the dog and, much to his surprise, it led him to the dog that had disappeared six days before.

The chain that had held the dog in confinement had become entangled in a stump and had held the dog a close prisoner.

The collie had been filling the role of the good Samaritan by bringing food to its less fortunate companion and had even torn up roots and bushes in an effort to make the hound more comfortable.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Peristent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medicl discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits the germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SONS OF W. MAYBEE

commencing, it is alleged, with D'Angelo's visit to Oakville on Wednesday, July 21st, and having its climax on Saturday, July 24th, when the police visited the Balmuto Street flat and when the death of the two victims took place.

Return True Bills

The sitting of Assize Court resumed yesterday before a large and interested crowd of spectators. The Grand Jury formally returned two true bills against D'Angelo for manslaughter and the administration of poison alcohol. Following the formal reading of the first indictment to the prisoner, Mr. MacDonald at once protested against the four counts in the bill being grouped, and moved for separate trials on each count. His Lordship, however, saw no reason for the separate trials, promising that if during the case it seemed to him in the interests of justic, he would make an order to this effect. D'Angelo, through his counsel, then pleaded "not guilty" to the indictment for manslaughter, and Mr. Young opened the case for the Crown.

Through Hugh John Macdonald, Toronto, the accused pleaded not guilty on all counts. MacGregor Young, K.C., special Crown counsel, elected to have the manslaughter cases heard first. Defence counsel moved that all be tried separately. He said that unless the allegation was that all four deaths resulted from the one liquor transaction, actions should be tried separately. The defence objection was overruled and the charges will be heard together.

The selection of the jury interested D'Angelo, who smiled when 12 of the talesmen were challenged by the defence. He chewed gum industriously and beat a tattoo with his fingers on the prisoners' box. The Crown challenged four.

Widow Testifies.

Mrs. Iva Johnson, widow of James Johnson, was the first witness. She said her husband went away with William Maybee, three days before his death He returned two days after departure, and was violently ill. She told how her husband had gone blind. The eyes looked very strange and he glared. He was totally blind quite a while before he died.

He was unconscious before the end. Dr. E. P. Soanes, who performed the post-mortem examination of Gill and Johnson, said: "Both died from poisoning of the alcohol group." The doctor told defence counsel ordinary Scotch or Canadian whisky was a poison if taken in large doses. Three ounces a day could be taken without harm.

"Suppose a man got drunk on good old whisky, would there be less chance of his dying than if he drank a mixture of alcohol and water?"

"I would think so, but I really cannot state accurately." He said recovery was doubtful if wood alcohol was taken.

He added that continued drinking of good whisky would bring about a poisoned condition. In this case, he said, "an acute poisoning had come on suddenly."

In his address to the jury he explained that, according to the allegation of the Crown, the accused was guilty of manslaughter where death had been due, among other things, to the unlawful action of violating the Ontario Temperance Act, and of unlawfully handling wood alcohol poison.

The remainder of the morning was devoted to medical evidence, recalling again the ghastly symptoms from which the victims of the alleged alcohol poisoning had suffered as the results of the fatal traffic.

With the opening of the afternoon sitting, 14-year-old Harold Maybee was called to the stand. He knew the accused and told the story of a visit from D'Angelo the Wednesday before his father's death. He had delivered cans, the contents of which had later been mixed with coloring material and water, placed in bottles and hidden at the back of the house lot. Mrs. Guertin, James Johnston and Mrs. Fairbanks had been visiting them and he described the trip to Toronto on Friday when two bottles of the liquor had been carried and the party had gone to Mrs. Fairbanks' Balmuto Street apartment.

"Had you ever seen your father get alcohol from anyone else besides D'Angelo?" A.—"No, not when D'Angelo was bringing it."

"How often did he do this?" A.—"About twice a week."

Walter Maybee Testifies.

Walter Maybee, aged 16, stated that he had frequently hidden the bottles of diluted liquor taking them in the car to a spot half-way to Oakville. On D'Angelo's last visit he had been playing a short distance from the house. He had seen D'Angelo's arrival, but had kept clear knowing there was a job on. (Laughter). He had driven the party, including Mr. and Mrs. Maybee, Mrs. Guertin, Mrs. Fairbanks and his brother to the Balmuto Street flat in Toronto, on the evening of July 23rd. Mrs. Fairbanks, Mrs. Maybee and the boys had gone to Sunnyside, returning to find Mr. Maybee lying ill in a front room of the flat. On the following morning, while he had been with his father, whose condition seemed worse, word had come that the detectives were at the door. Mr. Maybee had pointed to a wardrobe in the room, exclaiming, "Get rid of that stuff quick." Walter had gone to the wardrobe, had found two bottles, one of dark glass and full of liquor, and the other of clear glass with only about two inches of liquor in it. He had taken both bottles out on the verandah and deposited them underneath some papers in a box on the verandah of the house adjoining.

After several other witnesses had been heard, His Lordship decided to adjourn the court, which resumed its sitting this morning. It is expected that the Crown will conclude its case early in the day.

MADOC W.C.T.U.

House To House Canvas Will Be Made—Candidate Gives Address.

MADOC, Nov. 18.—The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held on Monday afternoon with fifty ladies in attendance. Rev. Mr. Sexsmith of Queensboro, Rev. A. H. Foster of Madoc and Rev. L. M. Sharp of Belleville were also present. Mrs. J. M. McCaffery, president, presided. Very excellent reports of the provincial convention of the W.C.T.U. held in Hamilton in October were given by Mrs. Sexsmith of Queensboro and Miss Adams of Madoc.

Rev. Mr. Sharp then gave a short address explaining his reasons for having consented to act as candidate for the prohibition party in the coming election. Mr. Sharp is convinced that if properly enforced the O.T.A. is better than Government Control.

Two committees of ladies were formed one headed by Mrs. F. Dafoe and one by Mrs. J. Marcellus to make a house to house canvas of the village, explaining the ballot and making provision for conveyances where desired on election day.

An organization meeting of the North Hastings Prohibition Union was held in Madoc on Monday night. Rev. L. M. Sharp, prohibition candidate, was present and outlined his plan. Arrangements were made for holding meetings in different municipalities. Mr. Sharp will endeavor to cover most of the riding with meetings. A committee was named to secure outside speakers to address these meetings. The meeting was well attended last night men being present from a number of points in Madoc township, and from Rawdon and Stirling.

MORGANATIC WIFE WOULD NAME SON

Suing Prince Carol For Heavy Damages and Hohenzollern Name.

PARIS, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press) —"My heart's own darling, you know that you are the only woman in the world to me," wrote former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania in one of the many perfervid messages he sent to his former morganatic wife, Madame Lizi Lambrino, after he was separated from her by an annulment of the marriage by the Rumanian Parliament. The amatory effusions have been read into the record of the First Chamber of the Seine Department Tribunal in an action of Madame Lambrino to determine the status of the six-year-old son, Mircea, born of the morganatic union, and whether Madame Lambrino shall be granted ten million francs damages. Madame Lambrino desires that her son shall have the name of Hohenzollern — that of the Rumanian royal household—Charles Hohenzollern. Judgment will be rendered next week.

tails of the operations of Canadian breweries in the manufacture of beer, stopped and suddenly said to Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., who was examining him, "Am I too technical?"

"I am afraid that you are for me," replied Mr. Rowell, who had been looking rather puzzled. "I am not familiar with this branch of business."

Statistics tabled showed that Toronto was the largest importer of commodities for the last fiscal year. Imports valued at $209,261,820 entered the Port of Toronto during 1925-26 as compared with importations amounting to $192,662,298 at Montreal. Vancouver was third with importations of $59,543,051, and Winnipeg fourth with $40,760,988.

Resumption of the hearing yesterday morning was prefaced with an expression of regret from Chairman J. T. Brown that Sir Francois Lemieux had retired from the chairmanship of the Commission. It was announced that, after the Ottawa sittings, which will probably conclude Friday, the Commission will proceed to Vancouver.

MEN MAY VOTE AGAINST TERMS

But Labor Leaders Are Certain of Peace Over Strike.

NEED TWO-THIRDS.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—While the great majority of votes from the mining districts are in favor of acceptance of the terms of peace, it would not be a surprise to labor if the final vote is against acceptance. Labor, however, is prepared for this, for it will be found that a vote against acceptance, even at the most optimistic prediction, will not amount to two-thirds of the ballots cast and leaders will then claim they cannot continue the strike without the two-thirds majority which is necessary under their by-laws for declaration of the stoppage. They will say that a failure to secure a two-thirds majority against acceptance amounts to a mandate for acceptance and will proceed with ratification of the peace terms. For this reason, everybody is anticipating peace and is making preparations for it.

W.C.T.U. MEETING.

Campbellford Ladies Name Committee To Plan For Election.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18.—The ladies of the W.C.T.U. held their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. J. H. Bell. The meeting opened by singing a hymn after which several matters of business were disposed of. Mrs. Bell read a letter from Mrs. Pugsley, leader of the W.C.T.U. of Ontario, asking for the co-operation of all the ladies for the cause of temperance. A committee of ladies were appointed to plan a course of campaign to be followed during the next two weeks. The following splendid programme was given:

Piano duet—Miss Irene Stephens and Miss Cherrie Turner.

Miss Lillian Hay gave an interesting story of the Chinese design on the Blue Willow-ware china.

Solos were rendered by Miss Cherrie Turner and Miss Emma Meiklejohn, after which Miss Hay gave a recitation.

An interesting tree contest was then enjoyed, Mrs. Hammond winning the prize. Refreshments were then served.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight

This new combination of yeast tamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vita-mine food; but not until we perfected "ironized yeast" — whichcomes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Fort Erie, Ontario, Canada.

A WONDERFUL BAND.

May The Examiner suggest to music-lovers of Peterborough who have not yet heard the Australian National Band, that they should by all means take advantage of tonight's final appearance of the Australians here, to listen to a programme full of enjoyment, by a musical organization of rare ability.

The Australian Band has been a revelation to its Peterborough audiences as indeed it has been to audiences wherever it has been heard in Canada.

Its playing is a wonderful demonstration of what can be accomplished by an entirely brass band. Small in numbers but with every member of its personnel an artist.

In the sheer artistry of its technique, the individual cleverness of its soloists, the charming variety of its programmes and its all round excellence the Australian Band occupies a field by itself.

It would be a pity indeed if all Peterborough's music lovers did not hear at least one programme during the band's two day visit.

THE ROYAL WINTER FAIR.

The Royal Winter Fair seems to be scoring even more than its usual success and the men who had the vision to plan and carry out to completion this splendid enterprise deserve general congratulations.

Its value to the agricultural interests of this country must be large.

Even more than the Canadian National Exhibition itself the Winter Fair is of vast importance as an educational factor to farmers and as an agency that inspires the individual farmer to improve the quality of his stock and of his products.

What such an improvement will mean to the national wealth of Canada is apparent to every one.

To consolidate the place that Canada has won in world markets and to gain fresh advantages there is simply a matter of quality.

The best produce wins in the final analysis, and so the Royal Winter Fair in the incentive it provides for more attention to quality, is doing a great work for agriculture in Ontario and generally throughout the country

THE CUSTOMS' INQUIRY.

The announcement made by Chief Justice J. T. Brown, chairman of the Royal Commission to investigate the customs' situation, indicates that the probe is to be a wide one.

The Commission proposes to divide its work along five different lines.

Commercial smuggling of all descriptions is to be investigated and evasion of excise regulations, dereliction of duty by customs' officials, and the operation of the anti-smuggling treaty with the United States will all receive attention.

In addition the Commission hopes, as a result of its investigations, to be in a position to make effective suggestions for dealing with the smuggling evil.

This programme will be heard with much satisfaction by Canadians generally who, now that the election excitement is over and a period of political stability seems to have been reached, are anxious that the customs' situation should be efficiently dealt with, and that conditions existing for some time should be cleaned up.

A thorough non-partizan inquiry was promised during the election campaign by the present Government and the statement of Chairman Brown will be accepted as an indication that the pledge is being redeemed.

A FUTILE STRIKE.

The British coal miners have had to pay dearly for following the uninspired and stupid leadership of "Emperor" Cook.

After a six months' strike the consequences of which, to the miners themselves and the country generally, have been close to disastrous the miner go back to work on worse terms and conditions than they could have secured without "downing tools."

It is estimated that the strike caused the British people a loss of $1,500,000,000 it meant the loss of millions in wages to the miners, yet the strikers return on smaller pay and shorter hours and without even the protection of the Coal Commission's report.

It will be remembered that the Commission finding that the coal industry was not self-sustaining and recommended cuts in wages, not in all cases but for the higher paid workers.

Afterward the Commission proposed a further inquiry with a view to improving the efficiency of the coal industry in the matter of production and marketing.

However Leader Cook's only answer was, "not a penny off the pay, not a minute on the day" and this matter has rested.

The penalty for allegiance to such blind leadership has been a heavy one all round—it is to be hoped that the colossal failure of the strike will mean the end of the reign of such troublemakers as Cook, whose almost every utterance alienated public sympathy from the miners.

LITERARY LOG-ROLLING.

When a well known Toronto newspaper scribe, a playwright and critic of some repute, to wit, informed a Montreal audience the other day that Canadian writers are afflicted with a form of self-consciousness, which a less cultured lecturer might have defined as "swelled head," he displayed, perhaps, more courage than a due appreciation of the talent that is building up a native literature of no mean quantity and quality. To declare that our writers "have no ideas and cannot write" is to indulge in criticism as wild and unwarranted as that which seeks to give Canadian literature a distinction it does not fully deserve.

But in so expressing himself it is certain that Mr. Fred Jacob intended not so much to disparage the efforts of the growing literary circle, of which he is a worthy member, as to warn his fellow craftsmen against the fatal mistake of taking themselves too seriously. As he pointed out, self-consciousness in itself is not an unqualified evil. Without it, indeed, neither art nor literature would achieve the perfection attainable by the exercise of the gift of self-analysis and the sense, inseparable from the true artist, of work well done. Yet there is a point at which it does call for discipline, and that stage is reached when the artist or writer develops an exaggerated conception of his own importance and loses sight of the relation which his work bears to the recognized standards of his art.

It may be that Mr. Jacob has had better opportunities of studying the psychology of Canadian authors than others have had the fortune to enjoy. Possibly, he may be right when he asserts that in their make-up the inferiority complex is not conspicuous by its presence. But the opinion may be ventured that his animadversions might have been more appropriately directed against those supposed friends, though really enemies, of the authors, the publicity agents and "blurb" artists, who, masquerading as critics, beslobber their productions with indiscriminate eulogy.

Criticism becomes sheer nonsense when books of merit, worthy of sane encouragement, are extolled as works of genius; when the authors thereof are hailed as masters of thought and expression unrivalled in this or that field, and Canadian poets and prose writers of a former period are consigned to oblivion to make way for the new species of inspired knights of the pen whose voices of ecstatic power and penetrating timbre are crying aloud in the northern wilderness for a place of prominence in the great world of letters.

Waving aside the Robertses, the Lampmans, the Carmans and the Scotts with a sweep of the pen, one of these log-rollers plunges into a rhapsody over the latest work of a Canadian poet whose spiritual vision and "superb art" are described as qualities second only to those of Shelley and Keats. Another announces the wonderful discovery that all Canadian biography hitherto has been lifeless inept, and void of interest, and that it has been reserved for a talented western journalist to write a book of biographical sketches which puts the work of previous Canadian Boswells and Lockharts, with their old fashioned methods completely in the shade. And if some of our native novelists are developing an indue sense of their own powers, they are not so much to blame as the emotional and uncritical scribes who endow them with virtues of which, probably, they had never dreamt.

Canadian authors may well pray to be saved from their friends, for no greater disservice could be rendered to the literature, to which they are worthily contributing, than the fulsome publicity called criticism, that lacks all sense of discrimination and proportion and has come to be known expressively as "blurb."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Two weeks from today nearly every one you meet will be saying, "I told you so.'

The advent of Hon. W. F. Nickle as a candidate in Kingston adds new interest to the election campaign generally.

An easy way to attain prominence is to change your political allegiance during a campaign.

It begins to look as if that "Vote as you like, but vote" slogan will not be necessary in this campaign.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the fact that the majority of foreign bids were below exporters' views, the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was extremely dull. The only business reported was the sale of an odd load of Canadian Western No. 3 barley.

The trade in cash grain was quiet, there being little demand from any source, but the tone of the market was steady.

The flour market was quiet and values for Spring and Winter wheat grades were well maintained.

Considerable business was transacted in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was steady.

The feature of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was the weaker feeling that developed, and prices were reduced 10 cents per bag.

A fairly active business was transacted in all grades of eggs and prices were well maintained for fresh and storage qualities. The receipts were 2,894 cases.

Potato values were reduced 5 to 15 cents per bag, which was attributed to the accumulation of supplies of spot on account of the mild weather that has prevailed. The market was quiet. Car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains quoted at $1.75 per bag; Prince Edward Green Mountains at $1.80 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.60 per bag of 90 pounds.

The undertone to the market for beans was firm under a good demand. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.75 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $3.00 per bushel.

The butter market was moderately active and prices were firm. The receipts were 85 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade, but values were steady. The receipts were 3,751 boxes.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 14,000; heavies very draggy; best 1,437 pound bullocks $10.25; bulk $9.00 to $9.75 with liberal supply $7.25 to $8.50; vealers 25c lower; bulls easy.

Hogs 17,000; few loads choice 240 to 275 pound butchers $11.75; latter price extreme top for the day for weighty butchers and choice slaughter pigs 160 to 225 pound avearage at $11.40 to $11.50; $11.65 for sorted 240 pound weights; packing sows on shipping account mostly $10.50 to $10.75; weighty kinds mostly $10.35.

Sheep 10,000; fat lambs about steady with Tuesday; top natives to small killers $13.15; choice natives and fed westerns to packers $13.00; bulk desirable fat lambs $12.50 to $12.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Wheat yesterday established new low price records for the season, but was rallying as the day came to an end. Favorable crop reports from Argentina had a bearish effect and so, likewise, did announcement that world supplies of wheat had increased 15,987,000 bushels for the week. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3-8 to 7-8c net lower; corn 3-4 to 1 1-8c up; oats at 1-8 to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Falling off in receipts with enlarged commission house buying gave strength to the corn market. Besides weather was favorable for husking and it was contended that corn prices were at too great a discount as compared with other grain. Oats sympathized with corn.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.83 11-16.

Sterling cables $4.84 3-16.

C.N.R. EARNINGS

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ended November 14, 1926, were $5,918,582 as compared with $5,786,786 for the same week of 1925; an increase of $131,796, or 2 per cent.

DRUGS

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

It is a difficult problem just how far we should go in saving a man from his own weakness.

A boy is a drunkard and he is breaking his mother's heart by his wrongful indulgence.

What should be done with him?

He ought to be taken to an asylum and confined until he has mastered his weakness, but this cannot be done without his consent.

If one were to go to the devil all by himself and not drag other people down, the matter would be simpler. Then he could indulge in drug taking to his heart's content. The sooner he were dead and out of the way the better for everybody.

But in his downfall he must wreck also the lives of parents, wife and other relatives.

It is the nub of the prohibition question. There is a radical difference in point of view here. Undoubtedly, the wets are right when they say a man should go to ruin if he wants to. The Lord Himself gives every man the privilege of undoing himself.

But the question arises in regard to the rights of others. The difficulty is that no man can wreck his own career without wrecking that of others.

The same thing holds with noxious drugs. Every country controls their use and sale to a degree. But the drug taker is a canny soul and there have been cases where an addict frequents several doctors and several drug stores in order to obtain a sufficient supply of harmful drugs.

The trouble is that most harmful drugs, if they are used with intelligence and proper caution, may be helpful.

The problem is to confine the employment of injurious drugs to physicians who are conscientious and scrupulous to use them properly.

It is one of the vital and important problems in almost every country. How far may we go in protecting a man against himself for the sake of others?

Who shall give correct answer to this question?

VOICE OF PEOPLE

All communications on political questions must bear the signature of the writer for publication and must be received before 2 p.m. on the day before publication is desired.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir;

"The Toronto Star" says in its issue of Saturday that I said that "Ferguson's plan is not only not Prohibition but is actually anti-Prohibition." That statement is absolutely untrue. What I said was "The O.T.A. is not only not Prohibition it is actually anti-prohibition.'

Moreover I said it in a letter to The Examiner several days ago and not to The Star or to anybody else whatever, though The Star says that I "told The Star." However I have been too long in politics to bother about one lie more or less.

J. H. BURNHAM.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir;

The sensation of the week of November 10th undoubtedly is the shabby trick played by Mr. Raney on the Liberals. Mr. Raney declared at Exeter November 9th for two amendments of the O.T.A. and I will give his own words:

"……for the prohibition within Ontario of the commercial manufacture of alchoholic liquors for beverage purposes."

Then he also said on the same occasion that he would establish Government Control over liquor dispensaries for the purpose of checking the present scandal of doctors' prescriptions. These two amendments are reasonable and sensible but they utterly condemn the O.T.A. as at present commended to the province as a useless and absurd measure. "What are the Grits going to do now?" asks a cynical Tory. Well! What are they going to do? Having adopted the O.T.A. as their political child and backed it as they would a horse against Ferguson's Government Control what will they do now that Raney comes out and says the O.T.A. is no good. What will all the preachers and others who have been crying with a loud voice, "Hands off the O.T.A."—what will they say now that Raney shows that if you want Prohibition it must be got somewhere else than in the O.T.A.

Raney spoke the truth and shattered the Liberal idol, the O.T.A., at one cruel blow. He says all that all others say against it. He has virtually adopted Ferguson's policy of trying to suppress drinking by putting all that is now permitted by the O.T.A. out of business. Raney's bomb is the biggest bust-up that has been sprung upon Ontario in many a day. I am glad that he sees that if we want Prohibition we must really go after it and stop lying about it.

J. H. BURNHAM.

IT DOESN'T TALLY.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

Allow me to set out for your attention an item published in The Mail and Empire on Tuesday, signed by Mr. Burnham, as follows:

GARBLING UTTERANCES MADE BY PUBLIC MEN

J. H. Burnham of Peterboro Exposes Tactics of Raneyites.

Special to The Mail and Empire.

Peterboro, Ont., Nov. 15.—The report in the Toronto Star that I am opposing Premier Ferguson's Government Control is absolutely false. Whoever sent the report garbled a letter of mine to The Examiner here, in which I said that the O.T.A. was not only not prohibition, but was actually anti-prohibition. The words Ferguson's policy were falsely substituted for the words O.T.A.

I regard Ferguson's policy as the best that has ever been produced, and the O.T.A. as the worst. Real prohibition is at least honest but the O.T.A. is a lie and, as experience has shown, a superlatively corrupting and dangerous one.—J. H. Burnham.

And then, sir, allow me to reproduce a clipping from The Examiner of November 9, referred to by Mr. Burnham:

ON PROHIBITION.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: A homebrewer asked me the other day if he could go on making home brew under Ferguosn's plan, just as he is doing today under the O.T.A. I answered "Yes." Both the O.T.A. and Ferguson's plan are not only not Prohibition, but they are actually anti-prohibition. Ferguson says that the distilleries, breweries, wineries and homeries may blaze away making alcoholic drinks as at present but that the whiskies, beers, wines, etc., which they make, (except home brew) must be sold to the government, and no one else, who will in turn sell to the people who have permits.

….And more of the same nature signed "J. H. Burnham."

Evidently the Conservative leader is not the only one of that ilk who can turn a sudden flop when provoked. The difference is Mr. Burnham should know better than to deny a statement he has written over his own signature, a lesson Mr. Ferguson is rapidly assimilating.

Mr. Burnham at the moment regards the Ferguson policy "the best that has ever been produced"—a short week ago it was "anti-prohibition.' Figure it out for yourself.

JAMES RUTHERFORD.

CHOOSING THE LEAST OF TWO EVILS.

Peterboro, Nov. 14, 1926.

How shall we vote is the question that is uppermost in the minds of many at the present time. In fact, the word perplexed is the only word that will express the feelings of the honest voter at the coming election.

When we consider that in two weeks' time we must line up and take some side, like the professor in this incident. What was going on over at the town hall last evening, asked a farmer of his neighbor. Oh, said he, one of the professor fellows was lecturing on the potato bug. By gum, I guess I missed it, but say was he for the bug or against it.

We had the O.T.A. with us for some years and many opinions are expressed about it. It has at least banished the bar, but many smaller evils have sprung up. Just what Abraham Lincoln said would happen under prohibition. Home brew, secret drinking, the bootlegger, is all with us, and yet the law may have some measure of success in the same sense as other laws, such as speeding, riding on side walks, is a success.

And then on the other side held out to us as a solution for past evils of Government Control, a fine word in many respects, but untried by the people of Ontario. It may have crooked winding paths leading to evils of which we are not aware, and yet, it may be worth trying as the Scotch minister said to the old sinner, who enquired of him if he gave all his money to the church would it help him on the way to Heaven.

Mr. Raney declares evil days will be our lot, a great bar room we will become, and who knows but this fellow may have a premeditation of another great disaster seeing he has so recently escaped from the wreck of the late Drury government.

Our own Mr. Burnham appears to have a remedy, providing he is allowed to enter any home and examine the contents of the cellar. But this law would lack public sentiment according to Lincoln, would fall short, and then his plan to stop the manufacturing entirely as many suppose would be the real remedy, but like the parable of the tares. Would it not be more ambitious than wise to pluck up and destroy root and branch the liquor curse. Seeing it is only as man is tempted and tried he shall receive afterward the crown. What would be the drunkard's trial then, with nothing to overcome. Would he not have an easy road, seeing that his besetting sin was removed.

I remember while attending Mr. Steer's Sunday school many years ago, the good old superintendent would lead the singing in a fine old hymn that is never sung now. It commenced:

"Must I be carried to the skies,
Mid flowery beds of ease
While others fought to win the prize,
And sailed through bloody seas."

Well if Mr. Burnham will enlighten us on those matters, no more will be said until after the election at least. If space would permit I meant to tell about a fine Christian man I worked for in Western Ontario who had for a besetting sin a fierce meat axe temper, and as a trial of his temper a balky horse, a story from real life, perhaps, some other time. In the meantime shall we take the stand of the Manvers farmer took. He was a strong temperance man, but alas for the open bar, some mischievous neighbors coaxed him into the old tavern one afternoon to have something to drink, and when the hotel man presented his two wares, whiskey and beer of those early days, this fellow would say of two evils, choose the least and he would then drink down the glass of beer every time.

The Kruschen "dimeful" every day Will help you keep the 'flu away.

A-tish-oo!

Don't be afraid to sneeze.

Sneezing is one of nature's ways of getting rid of germs that find their way into the recesses of your nose, mouth, and throat. There they generate poisons which they distribute (by means of the body's common carrier, the blood) to other parts of your anatomy. It then depends upon the condition of your blood whether or not the poison finds out your weak spot, and an attack of 'flu, a twinge of gout, or a sharp touch of rheumatism, lumbago, or sciatica be the painful and disabling consequence.

Your First Line of Defence

If your blood be pure and virile there is not a germ in all bacteriology that has the power to harm you.

The Kruschen habit is your first line of defence against disease germs, because it enables nature to maintain a rich supply of pure and virile blood. The body's organs of elimination all work better and more regularly under the daily reminder of the Kruschen habit, and with these organs working well and regularly the purity and virility of the blood are ensured.

Kruschen Salts is a natural aperient and diuretic tonic — not a medicine but an "Aid to Nature" in eliminating from the system waste material which poison and debilitates the blood.

Take as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a 10-cent piece every morning in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. This is your first safeguard against epidemics, etc., such as influenza — and the indispensable condition precedent to their successful treatment.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea

Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dimeful that does it.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The dose of a dimeful taken every morning is found in practice just the right amount of a most invigorating daily tonic. The medicinal dose for persons suffering from pains of rheumatism, gout, lumbago or sciatica, or habitual constipation, with inactive liver, etc., is half to one teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water before breakfast. Every druggist sells Kruschen. A 25c bottle lasts three months. This works out at half-a-cent a day for health and happiness. Get a bottle at your druggist's today and start to-morrow. It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

M'ARTHUR AND ROBERTSON VISIT NORTH-EAST SECTION OF RIDING

Conservatives Held Organization Meeting Last Night —Hunters Returning.

BATTLE IN WOODS.

Frank Bonnycastle Finds Buck Killed in Combat With Another.

(Examiner Special Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, November 18. —Northumberland's two candidates have made their introductory swing around the northern section of the riding. Dr. Robertson, of Colborne, the nominee of the Liberals, arrived Tuesday evening and discussed the campaign with some of his supporters, and Mayor McArthur, the Peterguson Conservative, came up from Cobourg yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Tommy Green of the Dunham House and several others. These were the first two moves of the campaign, which might have warmed up a little earlier if Major Belford had not temporarily sidetracked the Conservative forces.

Last night Mayor McArthur broadened his acquaintanceship among the active Conservatives at an organization meeting at which plans were generally outlined for action until election day.

Both Dr. Robertson and Mr. McArthur create favorable impressions wherever they go. The latter is a dentist, the other is an undertaker and furniture dealer. Dr. Robertson practices in Colborne, and Mayor McArthur presides at present over the destinies of Cobourg. Both are professed temperance men, tee-totallers, it is understood, friendly, mild-mannered men, who will undoubtedly prove clean and keen campaigners. Neither camp has shown much aggressiveness so far, but the whole county is for the time being gloried debating league on the subject of the O.T.A. vs. government control. A few bets have been reported for small amounts, and apparently this election lacks the partizan ardor that generates the wagering spirit.

Quite a number of electors here and in near-by villages intimate that they have not yet decided how they will mark their ballots, and are in the mood to say "A murrain on both your houses." A sense of duty will probably bring them eventually to the decision bench but just now they are confused by the controversy which has the whole province swirling its arms in argument.

Fatal Stag Fight.

Frank Bonnycastle, local photographer, just missed by two hours, a fatal stag fight in Limerick township, up in Hastings township, where he was hunting with a party for two weeks. While trudging through the woods he came upon the body of a dead buck, a gash in its side, and its heart pierced and torn by the antlers of the victor which had delivered the death blow (coup de grace), and had stalked away, perhaps to lick his wounds. The ground for 75 or 100 square feet was pitted and torn by the hoofs of the two deer, and the shreds of fur and other evidences of the combat indicated how ferociously they had fought there in the woods without any witness, two males driven by brutish instinct. The fallen one had apparently been cornered between a big root and log, for there the fight ended. The body was quite warm when Mr. Bonnycastle discovered it, and he estimated that he arrived two hours too late.

In other hunting trips he had seen the battling grounds, torn and pawed like this but never before had he found one of the combatants.

With Mr. Bonnycastle in camp were Harry Free, G. Lloyd and A. Dunk. They shot four bucks.

Leningrad Art Library Now Europe's Largest

LENINGRAD, Nov. 18.—Now that the books on art have been collected and arranged at the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad, the library contains more than 150,000 volumes in all European languages. Many of the books are of enormous value, some being old prints, and others single specimens of which no other copy exists. The Hermitage library undoubtedly contains the largest and most important collection of art books in Europe. Moscow, also, soon is to have an interesting library. The widow of Prof. Metchnikov, celebrated Russian scientist, who worked for years at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, has just arrived in Moscow with many scientific objects and the valuable library of her late husband. A Metchnikov Museum is to be built which will contain all three articles.

COAST VESSELS STORM WRECKED

In Terrific Storm That Swept Over Newfoundland Tuesday.

NO LOSS OF LIFE.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Nov. 18. — (Canadian Press.) —Two coasting vessels were wrecked in a storm that swept Newfoundalnd Tuesday night, but no loss of life resulted, the crews of both vessels managing to reach shore after suffering great hardship. The Marion, of Carmanville, Captain A. Blundon, was driven ashore at Baccalieu and the schooner Prospector, locally owned, piled up on the rocks at Catalina.

The coastal steamer Kyle spent the night searching for the crew of the Prospector, but discovered yesterday morning that they had managed to live through the heavy seas in their small boats and found refuge at the lighthouse on Catalina Island.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

BETHEL UNITED CHURCH

HASTINGS, Nov. 18.—The anniversary services of the Bethel United church on the Hastings circuit were held on Sunday, November 14th, Rev. H. H. Mutton of Smithfield having charge of the services. In the evening the choir of the Hastings United church gave the musical selections.

On Monday an old fashioned tea meeting was held in the church. Refreshments were passed and after the large gathering had been satisfied an excellent programme was given. Rev. M. L. Hinton was chairman and opened the programme with all singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds" in unison.

POLICE HUNTING ALLEGED LEADER OF LIQUOR RING

Federal Agents Cleaning Up Rum-Runners on Pacific Coast.

U. S. DEFRAUDED.

Charge That Vancouver Exporting Firm Acted as Smugglers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—With numerous alleged "higher ups" already under arrest in connection with the government's thrust against what is described as the most extensive rum-running ring ever organized on the Pacific Coast, Federal agents from Los Angeles to Seattle are searching for John Murphy, whom government operatives say is one of the few important members of the ring still at large.

Murphy is alleged by officers to have been the Pacific coast general agent for the Consolidated Exporters limited, the name, according to the investigators, under which the liquor smuggling organization operated.

Government agencies are trying to locate and seize four liquor ships used by the smugglers. The officials declare that they are in possession of information showing evidence of a conspiracy, and that as a result they can seize the vessels, even though outside the 12 - mile limit, without violating international treaties.

Letter Confiscated

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 18.—Internal revenue agents, continuing a campaign against Canadian liquor exporters declared by them to have defrauded the United States out of more than $1,000,000 in income taxes Tuesday obtained a Federal court order here directing Postmaster Charles M. Perkins, of Seattle, to turn into the court a letter containing a bank draft for $75,807.50.

The letter was said to have been mailed in Los Angeles Friday by C. H. Haskins, of Vancouver, B.C., and addressed to J. R. Denton, of the same city. Government agents said both are employed by the Consolidated Exporters corporation of Vancouver.

In the meantime, $75,807.50 deposited for the draft in the Hellman Commercial Trading a ' Savings bank, of Los Angeles, is held under a warrant of distraint. A similar warrant was served on Postmaster Perkins.

THOMASBURG NEWS

THOMASBURG, Nov. 18.—The sacred concert given by the Colclough family of Belleville in the United church here on Monday evening was enjoyed by all present. A silver collection was taken at the door, which amounted to $25.

The Women's Missionary Society held a fruit shower in the vestry for Rev. John Knox. Forty bottles of fruit were given.

Another car of hunters left for the hunting grounds on Monday morning.

About forty-five people spent a very enjoyable time at the home of Mr. John Kincaid on Wednesday evening.

Miss Maisie Wannamaker of Octinolite and Messrs. Roy and Wesley McAdams of Bannockburn were guests of Mr. Walter Harrison and family on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elmy and children were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Montgomery Robinson.

Miss Hilda Vance of Tweed spent the week end at the home of Mr. Harvey Vance.

Mr. John McAdams of Allen's Settlement visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mulvey on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Yorke and children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Prindible on Sunday.

Mr. Henry Bateman spent a few days in Belleville recently.

Mrs. Arthur Jones of Madoc visited friends here the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kincaid spent Monday evening at the home of Mr. Byran Arbuckle.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vance and children motored to Kingston on Sunday.

APSLEY NEWS

APSLEY, Nov. 17.—A basket social and moving picture show under the auspices of St. Paul's Church, Lasswade, was held in the club-rooms on Wednesday evening, and in spite of the cold weather and snow storm, about thirty-five persons attended and had an enjoyable time. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $21.75, of which sum $17 accrued from the sale of the eleven baskets supplied by the ladies. Miss Maggie Whitmore's basket won the prize for bringing the highest price.

Armistice Day was observed as in former years by a short service being held around the war memorial at eleven a.m., conducted by the Rev. C. Spence. The service consisted of suitable prayers and scriptural reading, with a short address, and ended with the reading of the twenty names of the illustrious dead inscribed on the monument. The spectacle was pathetic in the extreme, inasmuch as only seven women and the rector comprised the gathering.

DR. ROBERTSON AT HASTINGS

Liberal Candidate Will Hold Meeting Next Tuesday in Town Hall.

BIRDS LINGERING.

(Examiner Special Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Nov. 18. — Winter may be riding hard on the traces of Autumn, and Wednesday's splendor may have been for only a day, but there are still signs that seem to promise open weather. Cranes are numerous and so are the bittern and there are even straggling blackbirds in the marshes along the river below the town. Paul Barry said he had particularly noticed these birds during the last few days, and because of their number he hoped that their lingering might be a sign that winter might be delayed in its coming. And the prolonged rainy season has suggested the possibility that this winter's snowfall may be less than the average. It is assumed that the weatherman's supply of water is not inexhaustible and that if it is expended as rain there should be so much less snow. Maybe! At any rate the waterfowls have loitered long beyond their usual schedule and they haven't suffered much yet from the cold.

Meeting Next Tuesday

Dr. G. S. Robertson of Colborne, the Liberal candidate, was a visitor here on Tuesday night and arranged for a public meeting in the Town Hall next Tuesday, November 23.

Bishop O'Brien of Peterborough administered the sacrament of confirmation to about forty-five members of the congregation of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel last Sunday. Three of them were adults.

OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, Nov. 17.—The annual celebration of the signing of the Armistice was duly celebrated in Omemee on Thursday night.

A torch light procession made up of boys big and small who represented negroes, cowboys, clowns and characters too numerous to mention made its way along the village street to where the never to be forgotten Kaiser, in effigy, was concealed and after long returned to the business thoroughfare where many spectators had gathered, drawing a vehicle upon which the noted figure was the centre of attraction, with a body guard in attendance. Much amusement was created by the boys who led the parade each on a cleverly contrived hobby horse. After parading up and down King and Sturgeon streets, during which time many shots pierced the air, the big bass drum, the kettle drum and the ukeleles were made to resound by those so inclined.

Later, Sandy Point, the scene of many a former cremation, was reached, and the prisoner, after being bound securely, met the fate of many predecessors amid roaring flames and the booming of cannons.

While the onlookers gazed into the flames, a fire was struck across the river directly opposite on Mount Nebo, which at first glance was thought to be imitative of a cross the emblem of the Ku Klux Klan. This conception was soon cleared up, however, when it was learned it was a prank of some of the young men of the village.

Believed His Car Killed Woman, Youth Kills Self

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18 (Associated Press).—Oscar Heinlein, 14, shot and killed himself here Tuesday night after believing he had fatally injured a woman with the automobile his father had forbidden him to use.

He fled after striking the woman, who suffered a fractured arm and dislocated shoulder. Returning to the scene he was told by a spectator the woman had died.

Fish Sea-Sick On Land So They Get Special Car

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Associated Press). — To reduce the heavy mortality among fishes from "sea-sickness" while travelling, a special tank car is being built for the new $3,000,000 Shedd Aquarium here.

Fishes, like people, are made ill by the swaying of a railroad car, George Morse, director, explained yesterday, and the car is designed to reduce the death rate by keeping the water tanks free of impurities during overland travels.

The car, in which the aquarium will bring fish from their native habitat, will permit control of the water's temperature, circulate the water continually and pour fresh oxygen into it.

7 out of 10 doctors said laxatives are harmful

IN a recent coast-to-coast investigation we asked doctors the plain question: "Do you consider cathartics and laxatives harmful?"

64.24% answered unqualifiedly "Yes." 8% more said "Yes, if taken repeatedly." Laxatives make the bowels weak by doing their work for them. If expulsion of waste matter is forced by pills or other drugs, the bowel muscles soon become powerless to do their work without help. In other words, laxatives bring on the laxative habit.

Doctors Advise Nujol

Nine doctors out of every ten told us they were advising the Nujol type of treatment for their patients in place of laxatives—and for these reasons: 1. Nujol is not habit-forming; 2. A more natural method; 3. A lubricant is better than a laxative; 4. Does not gripe; 5. Is not irritating; and 6. Nujol gives lasting relief.

Unlike Laxatives

Laxatives and cathartics act by irritating the intestinal tract. They cause the bowels to frantically expel the contents of the intestines and thus rid the system of the drugs that pills and potions contain.

Nujol acts entirely differently. It contains no drugs, no medicine. Its action is mechanical. It merely softens the dried waste matter in the intestines and lubricates the passage so that the muscles of the bowels can expel the waste matter regularly, naturally and thoroughly.

Nature-given Remedy

Nujol appeals to the medical man because it is a simple, scientific and safe remedy for constipation, no matter how severe the case may be. It is gentle in its action and pleasant to take. Children love it!

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today. Doctors advise it for constipation, whether chronic or temporary. Avoid substitutes.

These Australians

An Account of Their Playing by One Who Doesn't Know Anything About Music

(By J.R.H.)

Having neither soul nor ear for music I didn't expect to get much fun out of the programme these Aussies were to dish up last night, but when anything like that comes to town I like to see my name in the list of those present. I always make it a point to go up and speak to the reporter so he'll be sure to notice me. Last night I saw three reporters in the Opera House, but two seemed to be enjoying themselves, so I didn't bother with them—they obviously weren't on duty. F.D.C. was there, and he will likely want to tell you in high-brow language all about the fine points of the programme, but me, I break into print to tell with the assistance of a man named Adams, what the music sounded like to one who thinks bassoon may be the feminine of baboon, and never heard of Tschaikowsky until his name appeared in print on the bill of fare last night.

And so, dear sir or madam, as the case may be, let me start at the beginning and tell you that when President Craig and Mayor Holloway and City Solicitor Joe Wearing started wise-cracking on the stage in the preliminary bout I says to myself: "That's a fine way to introduce a high-brow organization that's come all the way around the world to favor Peterborough with selections from Tschaikowsky." But Mr. Baile, who waves the wand over the musical aggregation (I copied that one from an ad) fooled me He had left out a lot of the jazz numbers from his printed programme, and he pretty nearly had me two-stepping in the aisle with a couple of items he didn't think worth advertising.

And at that the heavy pieces weren't so bad. That William Tell Overture, now, just tickled me pink. When it started in, the band didn't seem to care what it did and you'd think the fellows were wishing they hadn't come. They tweedle-eedled a little in the cornet section on the left, and twoodle-oodled some among the big horns in the centre, and grunted and groaned in the trombone section on the right—just fooling around. And I said to the man sitting next to me, "What kind of fool playing is this? Dugan's jazz band has it beaten a mile." But he gave me a dirty look and said, "Hush!"

Then the band kind of warmed up, and the notes started chasing each other over the footlights like a crowd of mice scampering through the attic. I was getting tired of the foolishness and thinking to myself, "When do we eat?" it being a habit with me when I'm fed up, when I heard a little bird waking away off in the bush, and calling sleepy-like to his mate, and I saw that the Aussies were beginning to take some interest in their business. I sat down again. It was the peep of day; "Dawn" in the "William Tell" Overture. The light came faint from the east, the breeze blew gentle and fresh, some birds waked up in the trees over in the park, then some more near the house, and all began singing together. People began to stir; the milkman rattled his bottles. Just then the first beam of the sun fell upon the blossoms a little more, and it touched the roses on the bushes, and the next thing it was broad daylight, and everything was summer. The sun fairly blazed, the birds sang like they'd split their little throats; all the leaves on all the trees were moving and flashing diamonds of dew, and the whole wide world was as bright and happy as a king. It seemed as though there was a good breakfast in every house in the land, and not a sick person anywhere. It was a fine morning.

And I said to my neighbor, "That's real music," but he didn't speak.

Then the wind changed, the clouds came up and a thick mist covered things. It was the second movement, "Storm." The trombones and big horns got busy. I got low-spirited right away. Then a silver rain began to fall. I could hear the thunder roll and see the streaks of lightning rip across the grey sky. The raindrops hit the ground and some flashed up like long pearl earrings, and the rest rolled away like rubies. Then the pearls gathered themselves into long strands and necklaces, and then they melted into long silver streams running between golden banks, and then the little streams joined each other at the bottom of the hill, and made a brook that flowed silent except that you could kind of see music, especially when the bushes on the bank moved as the music went along down the valley. I could smell the flowers in the meadow. But the sun didn't shine nor the birds sing; it was a rainy day, but not cold. The thunder died away. The most curious thing was the little white angel boy, like you see in pictures, that ran ahead of the music brook, and led it on and on, away out of the world, where no man ever was. I never was so certain; I could see the boy just as plain as I see the paper I'm writing on. He danced out of the golden bow' of the cornet.

Then the moonlight came, without any sunset, and shone on the graveyards, over the wall, and between the black sharp-top trees splendid marble houses rose up ,with fine ladies in the windows, and men that loved them, and played on guitars under the trees, and made me so miserable I could have cried, because I wanted to love somebody. At least that's what it seemed like to me, though they called it "Pastorale." Then the sun went down, it got dark, the wind moaned and wept like a lost child for its dead mother, and I could have got up and there and then preached a better sermon than any I ever listened to. There wasn't a thing in the world left to live for—not a single thing; and yet I didn't want the music to stop one bit. It was happier to be miserable than to be happy without being miserable. I hung my head and pulled out my handkerchief, and blew my nose well to keep from crying. My eyes are weak, anyhow; I didn't want anybody to be gazing at me snivelling, and it's nobody's business what I do with my nose. It's mine.

Then, all of a sudden, the band changed its tune. It ripped and it rared into the "Finale," like the grand entry at a circus. It looked to me like all the electric lights in Peterborough were turned on in the house at once, things got so bright, and I held up my head ready to look any man in the face, and not afraid of anything. It was a circus, and a brass band, and a big ball, all going on at the same time. And in the middle of it there came a whole army of soldiers marching, with their bands playing and their bayonets shining; there was artillery rumbling along too, and they were all going to fight for liberty. If they'd come recruiting then for a war against polecats, I'd have been the first to volunteer.

Then it ended, and first thing I knew the cornet was playing "Titania,' and dripping tears of joy into a lake of glory. The music was full of feeling that couldn't be thought. Sometimes it was sweet, and reminded me of a sugar-squirrel turning the wheel of a candy-cage. It was as sweet as a sweetheart sweetened with white sugar, mixed with powdered silver and seed diamonds. It was too sweet to end so soon.

Then the audience cheered and clapped, but Stender, the fellow who played the cornet, just bowed, as if he wanted to say, "Much obliged, but I'd rather you wouldn't interrupt me.' Then he played "The Holy City," and I saw it come down from heaven, all shining and golden, without a speck anywhere. And angels were hovering all around and there wasn't an ache or a pain anywhere.

I was still suspicious that there was something coming I wouldn't understand, for I had never appreciated high-brow music, and I thought when the band leader announced something "from Chaiksowsky," the time had come for me to get out. But before I had grabbed my hat—and I would point out to the authorities that seat UI left, has no hat rack—the music had started and I couldn't move. It was soft and low and solemn. I heard the church bells over the hills. The candles in heaven were lit one by one. I saw the stars rise. The great organ of eternity began to play from the world's end to the world's end; and the angels went to prayers.....

Then the music changed again; I saw star shells climbing up little ribbons of light and bursting over no-man's land at midnight, and my cheek was close to a rifle butt, and the barb wire was out in front. Then the big guns started shooting, away behind, and the shells swished overhead, and other shells came the other way, till the noise became a steady rumble. Then the machine guns started crackling, and the rifle barrel got hot. The band fired by platoons, by company, by brigades. Cannon, siege guns, eighteen pounders; big guns, little guns, middle sized guns; and shells, shrapnel, mortars and mines, every battery and bomb was going at the same time. The house trembled, the lights danced, the walls shook.....

And then the war was over, and all the women in the world were weeping for their men who had been killed. It was the "Pathetique" symphony. I saw their tears roll into a dark river, and on its bosom a black boat, sable draped, bearing the souls of all the men. It drifted slowly, slowly past without a sound, like the shadow of a lost hope. And I wondered what it was all worth.....

And then suddenly the music changed again, and all the women on the bank, and all the men on the black barge began to sing, and I couldn't hear the words, but I knew they meant they were not sorry the sacrifice had been made. The river didn't look so dark, and the boat was after all, decked in flowers, and there was a shining figure at the helm. Down the river, too, was a city, all brightly lighted, and just as the music ended the boat steered in through a gleaming river gate and the most wonderful melody welcomed it.

Then Harold Reid took two little sticks and played the Xylophone, hitting it here and there without looking much, but making the sweetest music. He couldn't hit enough keys with two sticks, so he got four, and played "Hawaiian Lover's Farewell." If the Hawaiians feel like that made me feel, they're awfully weepy, but there was something grand about it, too—it made you feel as if nothing else mattered, only the sweetness of love. And when he played "Home Sweet Home,' the audience pretty nearly stood on the chairs; they cheered and clapped till they must have hurt their hands. It was a triumph, and just to show he didn't care a darn, the Aussy got a fellow to blindfold him, and then he played a selection without seeing what he was hitting. "A Novelty," he called it, but I call it magic.

After that the band went away for a rest before playing "Sullivan's Operas," and then Clarrie Collins made his trombone play "Lend me your Aid." He didn't need any, except when the crowd made him play another piece, and then tried to get him to play a third.

When the audience had quieted down again, the band played "The Red, White and Blue Patrol," and you heard a marching troop coming away off in the distance, passing you as you stood by the side of the road cheering, and disappearing in the distance.

In "A Musical Switch" there were 44 different pieces. There was everything from something I knew, like "Good Bye-e-e," to things I had never heard of, from Rachmaninoff. There were things that touched sad strings, like "Robin Adair," and others that stirred pleasant memories, like "The Bridal March." There was the Soldier's Chorus, from "Faust," better known to real soldiers as "Our Dog Stole a Big Lump of Beef." The band did gymnastics. It got mad. It sat up straight, and went right at the music, bass, treble and middle. It started in the bowels of the earth, and you heard thunder, through the hollows and crevices of perdition; and then it fox-chased away up into the clouds, where the notes of the cornet were finer than the points of needles, and you couldn't hear anything but the shadows of them. They forward two'd, they crossed over first gentleman, they crossed over first lady, they balanced two pards, they chassede right and left, back to your places, they all hands'd around, ladies to the right, promenade all, in and out, here and there, back and forth, up and down, perpetual motion, doubled and twisted, and turned and tacked and tangled into forty-eleven thousand double bow knots.

And then Colonel Bogey marched in, toodle-de-ump; toodle-de-ump; toodle-de-ump-ump-ump; and the programme ended with a grand crash that woke up a red-nosed man who went to sleep from force of habit, when "Au'd Lang Syne" was being played.

Though despising high-brow music, I've forgotten all about the jazz numbers in last nights programme. There were two or three such as "Valencia," and "Maggie, Yes Ma," and they were jazzed to the last semi-demi-semiquaver. Probably the bandsmen learned that wriggly movement from the Kangaroo. They jazz better than old man Jazz himself, and when they get into action at the G. W. V. A. Hall to-night at the dance,—hotsy, totsy.

RE-ORGANIZATION Sale

No refunds. Exchanges made if necessary to insure a good comfortable fit. Buy early while selection is the best.

Mr. Evans and extra sales help will assist during this Sale. With a little patience we'll take care of everybody. Don't go away unserved. Bargains like these will bring buyers in crowds, but there's plenty for all. See that you get your share.

Having retired from the firm Howden & Evans, I wish to thank all friends who have loyally given us their trade for the few years the firm has been in existence, and to ask that this much-appreciated patronage be continued to Mr. Howden as he carries on alone. I believe the reputable service this Store has always given will be fully equalled by the present proprietor in future. As I shall remain to assist at the Re-organization Sale, I shall still have an opportunity to meet all old friends for the few weeks it will be run. I particularly advise taking advantage of this event, which I know will well repay all who patronize it.

G. G. EVANS.

Having taken over the business of the firm, it will in future be carried on under my own name. This Sale has a double purpose—to reduce the stock to a "one man" size, and to raise the cash needed in assuming Mr. Evans' share of the business. The public will see footwear bargains, while this Sale is in progress, that will surely be a pleasant surprise. Mr. Evans' friends will find him here for the present, and have the benefit of his advice in making their purchases. The well-known policy of handling shoes of first quality will be continued, and value to the customer a first consideration.

U.F.Y.P.O. ELECTS ITS NEW OFFICERS

Reports Show Bailieboro Club To Be In Good Condition.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 18.—The South Monaghan U.F.Y.P.O. Club held its annual business meeting on Friday evening. There were about forty-five members present, and the president, R. F. Rutherford, presided at the opening of the meeting. The reports from the various officers, of the business which was transacted during the past year was very encouraging. The treasurer's report went to show that there was a balance on hand of over sixty-six dollars, while the president's report told that the membership of the Club was about one hundred and twenty.

F. Barnard was appointed chairman of the business meeting which contained the business of the election of new officers, and the following officers were then elected by ballot, Messrs. W. Johnston, G. Berry and K. Huggins acting as scrutineers:

President, W. W. Waterman; vice-president, Miss E. Tate; secretary-treasurer, Miss F. Bonnycastle; program committee, Misses V. White, F. Bonnycastle, E. Tate, and Messrs. R. Rutherford F. Barnard, W. Waterman and K. Huggins.

The retiring officers were: President, R. Rutherford; secretary-treasurer, Miss S. Rutherford.

During the business meeting it was decided to send Misses A. Brown and E. Tate to the annual U.F.Y.P.O. convention in Toronto commencing December 14th, as delegates from the local club.

The next meeting which will be held on November 26th will be featured with a debate on "Government Control" versus "the Ontario Temperance Act". The O.T.A. will be upheld by Misses Agnes Brown and Vera Bradshaw while the Government Control question will be debated by Messrs. H. Campbell and K. Huggins. It was also decided that a dance would be held early in December.

The executive committee is planning a means of securing more members in their splendid organization.

Mr. J. C. Campbell who went on the hunting trip to North Bay with a Toronto party, was successful in bringing home a fine deer.

Mr. W. Hutchison has purchased the residence lately owned by Mr. John Fletcher, and is moving his family to the village within the near future.

John Porter and George Eagleson motored to Peterboro on Sunday to attend the Evangelistic service in Park street Baptist church.

Mrs. C. F. Dawson of Toronto is the guest of her son, Mr. Frank Dawson.

NORMAL STUDENTS VISIT MILLBROOK

Teach at the Continuation School For Practice—Millbrook News.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18.—The first party of senior students from the Peterborough Normal school to visit the local Continuation school and take practice teaching periods arrived on Monday at noon, and taught in Forms II and III.

The arrangement was recently made by Mr. Duncan Walker, Principal of the Normal School, with the local school board and the Continuation school teaching staff, the plan to be in operation on two afternoons, Mondays and Thursdays, of each week. The agreement entered into with the Department of Education provides for observation and practice teaching by teachers in training from the Peterborough Normal school, twelve teaching periods of not more than half an hour each to be spent at the local Continuation school each week. The Education Department will pay to the board for the privilege of using the school $150.00, and to each of the teachers for supervising and directing the teachers in training $300.00 annually

The subjects taught are on the regular curriculum hence there is not likely to be any interference with the scholars' work. Provided the arrangement does not work satisfactorily the agreement may be terminated on three months' notice.

Those who were here on Monday included: Misses Calder Capstick, Adams, Benson, Brown, Bowerman, Costello and Burnham. The teachers in charge from Peterboro were Messrs. Madill and McDonald.

St. Thomas' W.A.

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Thomas' church held its November meeting at the home of the secretary, Mrs. E. Whyte, the attendance being most encouraging.

The president, Mrs. (Canon) Allen, was in the chair, and among the business items given consideration was the Christmas bale to be sent to the parish of Roche's Point early in December. An afternoon tea will be held at the home of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott on Wednesday, December 1, when donations of "pound parcels" for the bale will be received and the whole packed and sent to the clergyman of the parish for Christmas distribution.

Miss Dixon, of Toronto, who is the guest of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott delighted the members with her reading of the study book "In Desert, and Town, in Moslem Lands." The Auxiliary hopes to have an illustrated talk on the book "The Moslem World", with the speaker from Toronto to give the address, possibly before Christmas.

Following its usual custom the Auxiliary will not hold any meeting in December, owing to the busy season, the annual meeting in January to be at Mrs. John Allen's.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed at the close of the formal session on Monday evening

Grace Presbyterian church is holding its anniversary services on Sunday, November 21, when Rev. W. T. Goodwill, B.A., of Cobourg, will preach at 10.30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Special music by the choir.

Princess Martha, of Sweden, shown ABOVE, is the oldest sister of Princess Astrid and was one of the bridesmaids at the Royal wedding between Princess Astrid and Prince Leopold, of Belgium.

Mayor T. B. Chalk, of Port Hope, Conservative candidate for Durham, is holding public meetings at Mount Pleasant on Saturday, November 20, at 8 p.m., when Fred Hogg, of Toronto Miss Field of Cobourg, F. W. Bowen, M.P., J. L. McCamus, and the candidate will address the electors, and at Millbrook on Wednesday, November 24, when the Honorable J. R. Cooke, with the others mentioned, will be the speakers. The initial meeting in Mr. Chalk's campaign was held at Pontypool on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mullen are visiting their daughter, Mrs. B. R. Raper, Toronto.

Mr. Ivan Gray was called to Peterborough on Saturday owing to the death of his father, the late Mr. James Dugan Gray, who passed away in his 68th year Besides his only son, Mr. Ivan Gray, of Milbrook, two brothers, J. O. and J. D. Gray both of Cobourg, and two sisters, Miss S. E. Gray, of Peterboro, and Mrs. D. McGregor, of Barrie, are the immediate survivors. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Gray in this time of bereavement.

Miss Mamie Collins visited friends in Toronto for a few days last week returning with her brother, Postmaster Collins, who motored to that city for the week end. Miss Nellie Hetherington assisted Miss S. Fethick in the post office during Mr. Collins' absence.

Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds, and their little son, Clifford, motored from Toronto on Saturday and spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. F. P. Johnson, Sixth Line, Cavan.

The many friends of Mrs. V. Milligan will be glad to learn that she was sufficiently recovered from her recent operation to be able to leave the hospital on Saturday, and is now with her sister, Mrs. R. J. Doak.

Walter Sayles and Lawrence Rowland were delegates from the local Tuxis Square to the County Boys' Conference held at Orono, beginning Friday November 12, and with the closing session on Sunday evening. About 80 boys were in attendance, all denominations in the community opening their homes for the entertainment of the delegates. A. E. Plewman, of Toronto, an expert in boys' work, and Gordon Lapp, of Brighton, who recently returned from the Y.M.C.A. World's Conference at Helsingfors, Finland, were the chief speakers. Nelles Rowland, of Millbrook and Franklin Bannister of Garden Hill, who are candidates in Durham East (outside of Port Hope) for the Boys' Parliament, presented their respective platforms at the banquet on Saturday evening. A number of boys from the local Square motored over for the banquet, and again on Sunday several were at Orono for the day.

WEDDING BELLS.

DENIKE—STEWART.

COBOURG Nov. 18.—A marriage of interest was solemnized at St. John's Presbyterian church, Hamilton, on November 4, when Agnes Jean, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Stewart, was married to Mr. James McGlennon Denike, son of the late Dr. F. R. Denike of Colborne, and Mrs. Hamilton Crawford of Marmora. The groom is well and popularly known at Colborne and other parts of Northumberland county.

DUCK—HUNT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18.—A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock when Miss Gladys Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunt, became the wife of Mr. John Duck. The wedding ceremony was performed in the presence of immediate friends by Rev. W. Elliott, pastor of St. John's

The bride was tastefully gowned in blue silk and carried a bouquet of carnations. After a wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Duck left on the 1.30 train for their home in Flint, Mich.

Previous to her marriage a number of co-workers of the bride gave her a handsome set of teaspoons and a berry spoon.

STEAMER REFLOATED.

Beached For Several Hours at Channel Patch in St. Lawrence River.

QUEBEC, Nov. 18. Canadian Press. — After being beached for several hours at Channel Patch, in the St. Lawrence River, 48 miles below here, following a collision with the French owned freighter Leopold L. D., the Dominion Coal Company's steamer Hochelaga was refloated at high tide, and is on her way up the river. The Leopold has preceded her into port.

The Hochelaga is a coal carrier plying between Sydney, N.S., and Montreal.

W.M.S. MEETING.

Bethel Ladies Give Programme at Meeting at Mark Street.

The W.M.S. of Mark street United church held their November meeting at the parsonage Mark street. After some business had been discussed and regular routine work done, the W.M.S. of Bethel rendered a very interesting programme. This consisted of a letter from Miss Cardwell, a missionary in Korea, read by Mrs. Cardwell. A reading entitled "Taking Stock", by Miss McNaughton and a very pleasing solo was rendered by Miss MNaughton. After the meeting refreshments were served and a very pleasant social half hour spent.

OBITUARY.

MRS. HARRY I. SEYMOUR

The funeral of the late Mrs. Harry Seymour, will be held from her late residence on the ninth line of Cavan, on Friday, at 1.30, with the Rev. Mr. Totten in charge.

MRS. JOHN CONWAY.

Mrs. John Conway, who died on Tuesday at the family residence. The funeral was held this morning, interment being made in St. Martin's Cemetery, Ennismore.

MRS. JOHN EDWARDS

KEENE, Nov. 18 — The funeral of the late Mrs. John Edwards Sr. took place on Saturday afternoon from the United Church, Keene, where the large auditorium was nearly filled, the Rev. John Archibald and Rev. Rufus Garrett officiating. A private service was held at the home previous. Interment was in Pine Grove cemetery, Keene.

Mrs. Edwards was in her 80th year and had been poorly for some time, but had been fairly active until a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Edwards was born on April 14th, 1847, in the Township of Smith, her maiden name being Evesia Ann Burgess.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary two years ago when both were hale and hearty. Mr. Edwards has always been a fine church worker holding offices in the former Methodist church of which they were both memebrs and on the occasion of the Union of the two churches in Keene was made an honorary elder. Their son, Mr. David Edwards, is superintendent of the United Church Sunday School.

Besides a sorrowing husband there are left to mourn her loss three half brothers, David, Archibaldand Edward Murdock and five children, Mrs. Ed. Wright, Mrs. Andrew Brown of Peterboro, Mrs. William McNevan, Mrs. Charles Edwards of Keene, and one son, David, also of Keene. A daughter, Mrs. Joseph Taylor, died six years ago.

The flowers were numerous and beautiful.

The pall-bearers were as follows: Andrew Brown and Ed. Wright of Peterboro, William Kempt, John Edwards, William McNevan and Louis Downer of Keene.

NORHAM NEWS

NORHAM, Nov. 17.—On Sunday at the United church service the delegates who attended the convention held in Peterborough, Oct. 25 to 27 gave their report of the proceedings.

Allan Edwards and Mrs. Arthur Edwards of Warsaw, sister of Mrs. J. F. Everson were guests at the parsonage on Tuesday. Mr. Edwards took home several bushels of apples which he purchased from Harry Alyesworth.

Alex McCaul of Wooler, who is running for member of the Boys' Parliament from East Northumberland and Rev. Harold B. Neal called at the parsonage on Thursday evening and later proceeded to Warkworth on a campaign re the election to the Boys' Parliament.

The Ontario Religious Educational Council of East Northumberland is to be held in Campbellford United church on Wednesday, November 17th. All Sunday school workers in the district and especially the county officers are invited to attend. The special speaker will be Rev. Manson Doyle, of Toronto who is a specialist in Young People's and particularly in Boy's Work.

On Monday evening a People's League was organized in connection with Trinity United church here. Miss Lulu Mitchell was chosen president. Treasurer, Arthur Grills; secretary, Donald Knight; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bert West; vice-presidents, Mrs. Lorne Evans, Mrs. Oscar Laver, Allan Platt and Flossie Everson. The first meeting will be held in the League Hall on Monday evening and will be in charge of Mrs. J. F. Everson. The subject is Christian Missions based on a study of India.

Miss Eliza Stone had the misfortune to fall down stairs recently and injured herself badly.

Miss Amanda Stone has been confined to her bed for the past two weeks and is in a critical condition.

Mrs. Tweed of Colborne is waiting upon her mother, Mrs. William McClelland, who is confined to her bed as the result of a fall received a week ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Huycke and Miss Annie spent the week end in Toronto, where they visited their daughter, Margaret, who is a nurse in training in Grace Hospital.

Samuel Gummer has been under the doctor's care since last Friday.

The mission band met in the League Hall on Saturday. There were twelve members present.

Rev. Harold B. Neal, of Wooler, assisted with the service in Bethany church on Sunday afternoon and journeyed to Salem where he was in charge of the anniversary service in the evening.

Rev. Richard Bamforth, B.A., of Peterboro preached at Salem in the morning and at Colborne in the evening. His morning subject was "A Good Story" and his evening subject "A Sad Story."

William Ames, of Codrington, was taken seriously ill a few days ago.

Kenneth Ames is in the North on a deer hunt and reports say that he has slain a deer.

Rev. J. F. Everson and Miss Laurel Arkels were at Bethel on Monday night and assisted with the program given in connection with the tea meeting.

Orland Bertrand left for Rochester on Friday, where he has secured a position.

George McAllister is in the North hunting.

AMERICA FASCINATES MARIE

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(Canadian Press).—America fascinates Queen Marie because everything and everybody is "so disconcertingly quick, so frightfully efficient." But the Rumanian sovereign wonders, if, because of that, the people aren't missing something.

"You give," she ventured "over much to the practical side, neglecting it seems to me, the side of the sentiments."

"You seem to be perfectly healthy, perfectly efficient, but one can be that and still miss something—something spiritual. Poetry, religion, tradition, which also plays its part and has its value, and poise—does the United States sufficiently value them?"

The United States educational programme seems to Her Majesty remarkable, but too practical. It results in efficiency, but "you have left in it no time to sit down and think things out."

Everything moves in so many directions, she observes. There are half a hundred churches and "so far as I have been able to see, nobody goes to them—at home we have one, and we go to it."

A Good Start is half the race

Some people suffer throughout life from the handicap of poor health, traceable to faulty diet during the years from 2 to 6—their most important growth years.

Authorities state that the child's success in school and after life is largely dependent on his development during these pre-school years. A good body and an active brain are largely a matter of proper food.

During the all-important "toddler" period your child's weight doubles, his height increases by twelve inches, and his heart becomes four times larger.

The most essential food element during the growth years is protein. Quaker Oats, with milk—a cup of each—will furnish almost a fourth of the child's daily requirements. These oats also give vitamines, carbohydrates and minerals in balanced proportion, and have a tender coating of bran.

Quaker Oats and Quick Quaker, the quick-cooking Quaker Oats, are sold in sealed cartons only. The Quaker on the package assures you of the best there is in Oats.

The Amazing Success of DE FOREST & CROSLEY RADIO

An Engineering Triumph

Only a short time ago you expected to pay several hundred dollars for really worth-while radio performance. To-day De Forest & Crosley engineering accomplishments have made the best that radio offers available at a fraction of former prices.

Added Attractions in Radio

By expressly building every component unit to suit Canadian conditions, De Forest & Crosley bring added attractions to radio—unexpected range, exactness of tone, uncanny selectivity, surprising ease of operation. Progressive D-C design has evolved radio that meets reception conditions in this country, admittedly different from anywhere else.

Standardization Revolutionizes Values

Through the D-C plan of standardized quality, every set no matter what price, is an exact duplicate of a master set, and no variation is allowed from these precision instruments. Such accurate methods, coupled with large buying power and low cost distribution have made outstanding radio performance available at surprisingly low prices.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CHERRY LANE, 18, one of a family of four children of MR. and MRS. LANE, typical American working people, has a long list of admirers, which includes:

CHESTER HART, a former "steady" of FAITH, her stay-at-home sister.

CHRIS WILEY, to whom Mr. Lane has forbidden the house, and whom Cherry meets clandestinely.

ALBERT ETTLESON, a traveling salesman, and BOB HATHAWAY, to whom Faith is also attracted, but who has eyes only for the petite, copper-haired Cherry.

Faith's life is largely made up of household drudgery and of getting Cherry and their brother, JUNIOR, 21, out of trouble.

CHESTER HART, calling on Cherry, has invited GEORGE PRUITT, son of one of the richest families in town, to call on Faith, since he himself feels rather mean at his own treatment of Faith.

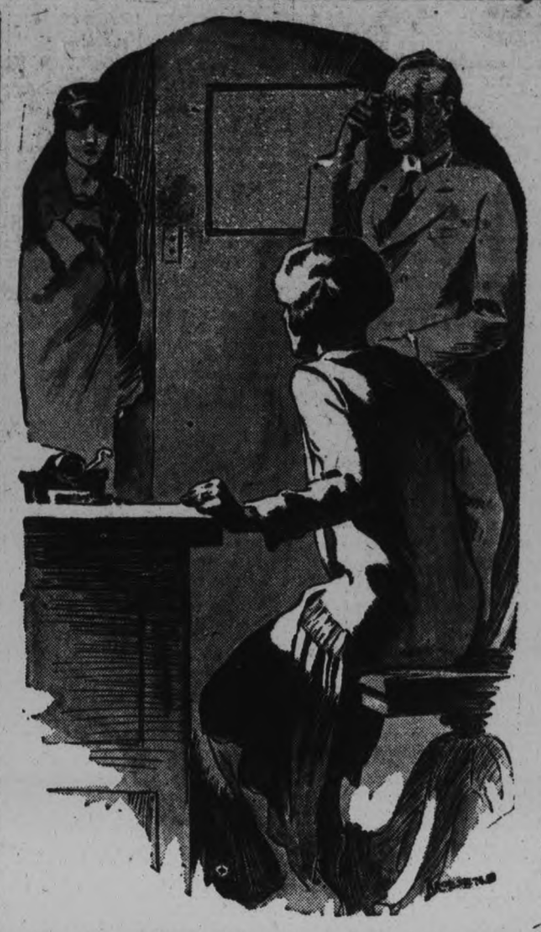
Pruitt, who has studied art in New York, tells Faith that she is a modern Venus, and sends her a great box of American Beauty roses the next day.

Cherry is angry and jealous, and determines to win Pruitt for herself. While AUNT HATTIE LANE is helping Faith to make a new dress, a gift from Aunt Hattie, the girl gets a telephone call from the Western Union. The message is for Cherry, from Albert Ettleson, and Faith hurries to the business district to the offices where Cherry works, to give her the message and to warn her not to play with Ettleson, who is a married man.

She surprises old MR. CLUNY, Cherry's employer, with his arm around Cherry's shoulders, and all thought of the Ettleson telegram is driven from her mind.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X.



What is your title to this picture—it contains 10 words.

Cherry Lane sprang up from her chair, out of the encircling arm of the old man who had been bending over her when Faith opened the door. Her face went suddenly white with anger and her eyes glowed like burning-hot golden coins.

"What do you want?" she demanded shrilly. "What do you mean—butting in on me like this?"

Faith said nothing, but her eyes shifted scornfully from the trembling girl to the white-haired man who stood by Cherry's desk. She could not help but admire the nonchalance with which he adjusted his horn-rimmed pince nez to his thin, high-bridged nose and stared at her, out of pale gray eyes that showed no trace of fear.

"What can I do for you?" he asked suavely.

"I am Cherry's sister," Faith said steadily. "And you can leave me alone with my sister for a moment, if you don't mind."

He bowed slightly, with old-fashioned courtesy, then, turning to Cherry, he said, as if nothing unusual had happened: "As I was explaining—when we were interrupted—section three of this brief is to be omitted. I shall need five copies."

Cherry paid not the slightest attention to him, her hot yellow eyes fixed upon her sister, who watched the tall, thin man leave the room with slow, measured steps.

When the door into an office marked, "Mr. Cluny—Private," had closed upon him, Cherry sprang forward and seized Faith's wrist, twisting her arm cruelly.

"I suppose you want to get me fired!" she panted. "Butting in like that!"

"You were going to quit anyway, weren't you?" Faith asked with quiet, deadly sarcasm. "Don t you always quit when they—get fresh with you?"

"He wasn't getting fresh!" Cherry blazed at her sister. "He's just a nice old man that doesn't mean a thing wrong! And then you come butting in, making it look like something awful—oh, I hate you! I hate you!"

"He had his arm around you and his cheek against yours. And there was a smudge of lipstick on his mouth. He had been kissing you. Oh, Cherry, why do you have to get all tangled up with every man you meet?"

"Mind your own business!" Cherry snapped viciously. "I can take care of myself—"

"I don't believe you can," Faith interrupted her sharply. "You're playing with fire when you flirt with a married man—"

"Married man!" Cherry laughed shortly. "Mr. Cluny's not married—his wife died two years ago—"

"I wasn't speaking of Mr. Cluny," Faith cut her short. "I came up here to give you a message that was telephoned by the Western Union—from Albert Ettleson."

The girl backed away from Faith, reached out a trembling hand to steady herself against her desk. "You let them read you—my telegram?" she gasped. Then, fright cooling the fire in her topaz eyes, she whispered, almost pleadingly: "What did he say, Faith? Did you—did you tell Mother."

"No," Faith answered, and then repeated the message which had been ringing in her ears ever since she had heard it over the phone.

Cherry listened with painful concentration, then relief flooded her face, bringing color into her pinched white cheeks. "Oh, that silly boy!" She tried to laugh unconcernedly. "It's just his joke—that 'love and kisses' business. He—he was telling me when I saw him last that he had a grand job lined up for me—with—with his company. That's what he meant, Faith, by saying he was writing full instructions." As she went on with her extemporaneous lie, she gained confidence, ran her fingers nonchalantly through her short, tousled curls, even smiled into Faith's eyes.

"I have some shopping to do," Faith said, sick at heart, for she knew that Cherry was lying. "And I suppose you've got lots of work to do. But—but I think you'd better tell Mr. Cluny that you are leaving at the end of the week, Cherry."

"I'll do no such thing!" The girl flared up again. "He's just a sweet old darling, old enough to be my father, or even my grandfather, and he doesn't mean any harm. He's just affectionate, that's all. But I'll—I'll tell him that my big sister objects to nice old men kissing me," she ended with her light, musical laugh. "Good-bye, Faith. You—you won't tell Mother or Dad about the telegram or—or about Mr. Cluny, will you."

"I don't know," Faith said slowly, with her hand upon the knob. Before Cherry could plead any longer, she stepped into the reception room, closing the door behind her.

When Cherry entered the living room at a quarter to six that night, the pitcher full of American Beauty roses filled her eyes with their glory and her quivering nostrils with waves of rich perfume.

"Oh, the darlings!" she cried ecstatically, hugging the great sheaf against her breast. "I wonder who sent them?" Raising the pitcher aloft, she bore it triumphantly into the dining room, where her mother sat tatting at the window, her sick headache miraculously cured by the departure of Hattie Lane.

"Did you ever see such gorgeous roses, Muggy? Where's the card? Who sent them?"

"George Pruitt," her mother began, her eyes fond and anxious. "The card's on the sideboard there—"

"Oh, here it is! Isn't he a darling? These roses reminded me of you—and just think, I didn't dream I'd made a hit with him! I'm going to call him up this minute. Isn't it a shame I have a date with Bob Hathaway tonight? I know George is expecting to come over—after this!" and she buried her nose with ecstatic sighs into the great cluster of perfumed loveliness. Then, setting the pitcher upon the sideboard, she danced toward the hall to telephone.

"Wait a minute, honey," her mother called to her, but the ringing of the telephone interrupted her explanation that the flowers were Faith's, not Cherry's.

Before Cherry could reach the instrument, Joy had bounded out of the bathroom, and had snatched the receiver from the hook.

"Hello-o-o!" she called in a high, affected voice. Joy adored answering the telephone, although the call was never for her. "Yes, sir, this is the Lane residence. Mr. James G. Lane's residence."

"Give me that phone!" Cherry whispered fiercely, trying to tear the receiver from her sister's ear. "You make me so darned mad!"

"Who is it you want to speak to? Who? Oh! Wait just a minute, please. I'll see if she's here," Joy's voice drawled with the utmost politeness.

"Give me that phone, you little devil!" Cherry snapped.

"He don't want you, Smarty!" Joy let the receiver dangle and screamed at the top of her voice. "It's for you Faith! It's a man—and he wants you! It's a man."

Faith came hurrying to the phone, brushing flour from her hands which she had taken from the biscuit bowl.

"Who is it, Faith?" Cherry whispered, pressing close to her sister's side when Faith had taken the telephone.

"Oh, Mr. Pruitt! Very well, thank you; how are you? I'm awfully glad. I was going to write you a note, thanking you for the roses. They are lovely."

During the pause that followed, Faith glanced at Cherry.

The lovely little face was quite blank with astonishment. Then, as the meaning of Faith's words sank in, angry color flooded her cheeks, and her eyes blazed hotly into her sister's. She was about to rush away to vent her humiliation upon her mother, when Faith's hand went out restrainingly.

"Oh, that's very kind of you, Mr. Pruitt! Cherry and Chester, too? That will be nice. Wait a moment and I'll ask her if she has any other engagement—" Faith cupped a hand over the mouthpiece and whispered to Cherry, whose flight had been stayed by curiosity.

"It's George Pruitt, and he says he's having a little party tomorrow night in their new garage. He's got the upstairs fixed up into a studio, and he wants you and Chester and me to come—"

"Oh, all right!" Cherry muttered ungraciously, but Faith knew that her anger was melting before the prospect of being an invited guest of the rich and influential Lincoln Pruitts.

Cherry followed her sister into the kitchen, her good humor rapidly returning. After all he had been Faith's partner the night before. It would hardly have looked right for him to send the roses to her—Cherry. But why hadn't he had the gumption to address the box to both of them? To think of Faith getting a dozen American Beauty roses! Oh, well! It wouldn't be hard to get George Pruitt away from Faith.

"What are you going to wear, Faith, honey? Could you start my printed chiffon tonight while I'm out with Bob Hathaway, and rush it through tomorrow? I want to make a hit darling." Her voice was very sweet and coaxing.

"I'm sorry Cherry, but I'm making myself a dress. Aunt Hattie got me the maize chiffon that I asked you to buy me, and we got it ready for the hemstitchers today. It will take all day tomorrow to finish it. You can wear your green organdy, can't you, honey? Oh, I'm so sorry!"

But Cherry shook off her sister's comforting arms, her face distorted with anger. "Oh, you mean thing! You did it just to get even! I won't go a step! That old green rag! I tell you, I won't go a step! I'll pay you back for this, Faith Lane! I'll make you sorry! You and your roses and your George Pruitt! How long do you think you can keep him, if I want him?"

...Around a garage you're bound to get hurt

CRIPPLED BY PAINFUL SWELLING IN HIS LEG

Trouble gone after few applications of simple remedy

As he came in from work in the evening, a garage worker of Shreveport, La., felt a pain in his left leg above the ankle, and the next morning it was badly swollen and worried him when walking.

"I applied Sloan's Liniment to it that night," he writes, "and the pain nearly all left. I applied it again and the next day the swelling was all gone. For all aches and pains I find nothing to beat Sloan's Liniment. I keep a bottle in the garage where I work."

Sloan's gets results because it stirs up the body's own powers to heal itself. Just pat it on, and at once you can feel the fresh blood tingling through the sick tissues. Inflammation, swelling, stiffness, pain, begin to give way at once.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

LITTLE LAD KILLED.

Darts Across Track Behind Freight Into Path of Express.

TILBURY, Ont., Nov. 18—Arthur Authier, the eight-year-old son of Telesphore Authier, of this town, met a terrible death at Queen Street M.C.R. crossing on Tuesday afternoon returning from school. He reached the crossing just as a freight train passed going east, then without looking in either direction, he darted across the track, to be struck by No. 39, fast express, going west. The crossing gates were out of commission and the towerman was signalling for traffic to stop, but the lad did not understand.

The body was ground beneath the wheels of the engine and train. An inquest will be held.

LEAGUE SERVICE.

Regular Service Was Held in Church on Thursday Evening.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Nov. 18—The regular League service held in the church on Thursday evening last was in charge of the convenor of the missionary department, Mr. Earl Fairman. Rev. Mr. Daniel gave a splendid devotional talk and Mr. Fred. Barnum rendered a solo. The Blues, in the choir, upheld their reputation as the sweet singers of the League. The missionary topic, "Bars to India's Social Reconstruction," given by Earl Fairman, was interesting and instructive. A missionary - geography contest followed, which was won by the Khaki group, with the Reds and Whites tied for second place. As the points gained in these contests count in the yearly contest, every effort is made to win them.

The Sunday evening service at Zion was again in charge of the pastor, Rev. C. D. Daniel, who preached a very impressive and helpful sermon.

Mr. Fred. McMullen recently suffered a severe attack of appendicitis and has been in Bel'eville Hospital following his operation on Thursday last. At latest reports his condition is quite satisfactory.

Rain again falls in torrents after a dry spell lasting almost a week. Fall plowing is held up again until another frost dries the ground.

Several local hunters have journeyed north to try their luck among the deer.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

AT MARMORA.

MARMORA, Nov. 18.—Marmora United Church held its anniversary services on Sunday, the preacher both morning and evening being the Rev. C. W. Barrett, of Stirling, interim moderator of the circuit. In the morning Mrs. E. C. Prentice rendered a solo. A very striking discourse was delivered by Rev. Barrett from Zechariah, 13-6. In the evening a splendid congregation listened to a very arresting sermon on the text, "Fine linen is the righteousness of saints." The preacher named his subject, "Raiment of the Soul." He mentioned at the outset that the righteous acts done below weave the robes to be worn beyond. "As a man liveth, so will he die," he reminded his hearers. "Life has been likened in the Bible to a shuttle. What you put int the shuttle will come out in the web. This text strikes the death blow at the doctrine of imputed righteousness. God will not reckon for a man that which he (man) does not purpose or want. Abraham believed in God and it was imputed unto him for righteousness, but his faith was the nucleus of a life of righteousness. All life within it has the power to clothe itself. 'If God so clothed the grass of the field,' said Christ, not 'If God so clothed the field with grass.' He made the grass possible as it lay beneath the surface of the soil to clothe itself."

Rev. Barrett also showed how God gave the trees, birds, flowers and fruits power in themselves to clothe themselves after their own kind. Continuing, he enquired: "If God gave natural things power to clothe themselves, has He withheld this from the spiritual? Is there a different law for the saint to that seen in nature? No. Acts here mean raiment yonder. Clothes we see in nature tell the character of the life they express. There you find perfect harmony in character and clothes. It might be embarrassing if this were put into effect in human life. Lazarus would be dressed in purple and fine linen whilst the other man of the parable would be clothed in rags. Yet the same law now established in nature will be established permanently in the spiritual realm by and by. The day is coming when every man will appear exactly as he is. There will be an ultimate correspondence between character and clothes, for fine linen is the righteousness of saints."

Proceeding, Rev. Barrett pointed out that his text cleaned up another wrong notion, the notion that the next life was going to be so very much different to this present life. This closing message was wrapt up in the question, "Are you living spiritual lives?"

Mr. W. M. Lester sang, "It Was For Me," and the choir gave a fine rendition of the anthem, "O Lord, How Manifold Are Thy Works?"

Next Sunday the preacher will be the Rev. B. S. Black, of Meadowvale.

Gas on Stomach Caused Severe Pains

Mrs. C. F. Wheeler, R.R. No. 1, Glen Ewen, Sask., writes:—"For years my eldest son suffered from severe pains and agony from imperfect digestion. He dieted and used artificial digestants, but all to no avail. At last I got him a bottle of and he had not taken the whole bottle before he was greatly relieved. The severe stomach attacks ceased, there was no more gas on the stomach, and he could eat anything he wished."

SAYS CONTRACTS WERE FULFILLED

Evidence Offered By Former Bookkeeper in Government Defraud Case.

WAS CONTRADICTION.

WINNIPEG, Man., November 18.—(Canadian Press. — Contracts entered into with the Canadian government were fulfilled to the letter by the Canadian Coal Sales Company, was the evidence offered by Gerald Alous, former salesman and bookkeeper of the firm, at the trial of Frederick de Sieves, who is facing charges of fraud and false pretenses. The action was instituted as the result of findings by a royal commission headed by David Campbell, K. C., which investigated alleged irregularities in connection with the delivery of coal to the Tuxedo military barracks here.

Mr. Alodus declared that 25 cars of coal had been substituted for another 26 which had been diverted by the company to meet other demands.

The prosecuting counsel charged that the evidence of the witness was in direct contradiction of that offered before the Royal Commission in June, 1924.

The greater part of the session was devoted to re-examination of evidence taken at the previous probe.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mrs. Earl Williams Is Given Lamp By Toronto Friends.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—On Friday evening, Nov. 12th, the neighbours and friends of Mrs. Earl Williams, 128 Higa street, assembled at her home and presented her with a beautiful floor lamp. The evening dignified their farewell to her on her departure from Toronto. An enjoyable evening was spent, after which the following address was read by Miss E. Shillinglaw:

Dear Mrs. Willams,—This is an occasion where either an address or a speech is superfluous, as the fact of our presence here to-night is sufficient to prove your popularity among us. But just in a few words let me say on behalf of your numerous friends, that your high character, integrity and zeal for the welfare of others, have not only won the esteem and confidence of your friends and those brought in immediate contact with you, but would serve as an impetus to spur us on to do our duty with renewed energy.

On behalf of the subscribers we ask your acceptance of this lamp and hope you will not look upon its intrinsic value as any criterion of your worth to us. In conclusion allow us to wish you long life, health and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of Mrs. Fitchett, Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Soward and many friends.

Mrs. Williams thanked her many friends for their kindness shown to her during her time in Toronto.

Became So Weak Could Hardly Stand

Mrs. Wm. Palmer, Tomahawk, Alta., writes:—"Last spring I had a long spell of sickness and became so weak I could hardly stand. I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up. I tried blood tonics and other nerve pills, but they did me no good, and I was getting worse.

I wrote my mother about my condition, and she sent me three boxes of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

After the first box I was feeling much better, so I kept on until I had used the three boxes, and now I feel as well as ever I did when I was a young girl."

SHORT STORY

(By Susan Gibbs.)

It isn't often that Romance may be traced to its roots. Usually it is not recognized until it bursts into bloom.

So, when Ned Christie told Helen Gage that she was made for him she did not believe it.

"How do you know?" she asked, saucily.

"Has your mother never told you about our earliest days—yours and mine, dear?" he asked.

Helen shook the head that would have been a riot of curls if she had permitted them to grow long enough.

Ned was thoughtful for a moment. He was wondering why Helen's mother had withheld the wonderful story from her daughter. Knowing Mrs. Gage almost as he knew his own mother, he realized that she must have had good and sufficient reason for her silence.

"Well—is it such a deep-eyed secret that no one can tell me?" asked Helen, still frivolously. She was very happy, very much in love and nothing else mattered.

"No-n. It's just—beautiful," said her serious lover.

"As beautiful as our Romance?" asked Helen.

"It is our Romance," he told her.

Helen cuddled up under the shelter of his big arm as they sat together in the big chintz-covered swing. "Then—tell me, please, Ned-die," she implored.

Ned stroked her fair, shingled head. He did not tell her, but he looked forward to the day when Dame Fashion would permit the golden curls to grow again.

"Well?" urged the girl at his side.

He laughed. "It seems funny—my telling you this."

"I don't want to know it—if it's funny. I don't feel like listening to anything humorous," she pouted. "You said it was Romance."

"It is—the most beautiful romance in the whole world," he said, solemnly. "You were a tiny girl—a wee baby in arms and—your mother had wanted you to be a boy."

Helen sat up and was about to protest when he soothed her into acquiescence again.

"My mother had been disappointed because I was a mere boy when she had always wanted a daughter. Our mothers had been friends since college days. They had confided in each other and when each one was frustrated in her wish for a child of another sex — they still confided. I don't know just how it all came about, dear, but little by little you and I were exchanged. I would go to your mother for a week. You would come to mine and so both mothers learned to love us almost equally. It was good for us both, as I see it now. You remember when we went to the village school how you used to visit at our house when I was at yours?"

"Yes—and the fun I used to have with all your things," added Helen.

"Then we went away to college and —well, you know we seemed to grow apart. Your mother, for the first time, appreciated the value of a lovely daughter——"

"I bow," interrupted Helen, in mock humbleness.

"And my blessed mother began to be proud of a big son. There was a certain, well-controlled jealousy in her attitude when I used to want to go to your house so much during vacation, and I noticed that when you came to visit us, your mother came along. It was amusing—then."

"But what happened after mother took me to Europe? Did they quarrel —or what?" asked Helen, serious, now.

"Yes—I never knew exactly how it came about but my mother must have said something about your belonging to her eventually, after all. Meaning, of course, that you would marry me——"

"The idea," began Helen with asperity.

"Wait a minute, dear," consoled Ned. "It has all come out right, hasn't it?"

Helen had moved away and was wearing a disturbed expression. "If I'd known that—that—that my own darling mother didn't wan me to marry you I never would have promised. I was just going against her." Tears rushed to her eyes, and she bit her lip to restrain her emotion.

Ned was several minutes trying to tell her to wait until he could explain. "Before you came back from abroad, your mother and mine had written many letters that cleared the situation for them and they fell into each others' arms when you returned. Each one declared that we—you and I—were made for each other and that a kindly and wise Providence had arranged it all—that we had been brought up with the same background, received the same sort of education and been given the same vision from home. They decided that they were selfish to have quarrelled and—well, that each of them had gained, at last, her heart's desire. Your mother was to have her son and mine was to have a daughter. I don't mind saying that I think my mother is getting the best of the bargain, dear."

"I can't subscribe to that, but I do think mother might have told me all about it."

"I believe she was afraid, deep down in her heart, Helen, that if you believed she had picked out a husband for you while you were still in your cradle, you would have none of him. She was wise in keeping her secret wishes from you until it was too late for you to bolt," laughed Ned. "And it is—too late?—isn't it?"

"Alas—it is," answered Helen.

On Arms and Limbs. Lost Rest. Cuticura Healed.

"I was bothered with pimples for over a year which affected my arms and limbs. The pimples were rather large and red and quite hard, and festered and scaled over. They itched and burned causing me to scratch, and I lost rest on account of the irritation.

"A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. There was a difference after using it so I purchased more, and after using two bozes of Cuticura Ointment and three cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." DRESS

Black and white calfskin generously trim the black cloth coat shown in the sketch, which is worn with a skull cap of matching calfskin.

One might think that the furriers had lately gone to Shakespeare for inspiration and had hit upon those venomous lines of Queen Constance to the Duke of Austria in "King John:"

"Thou wear'st a lion's hide! Doff it for shame,
And hang a calf's-skin on those recreant limbs."

At any rate women were wearing such peltry as leopard, tiger and mountain lion a season or so ago. Much of this is still worn, but many women have followed Queen Constance's advice and adopted calfskin.

A few years ago no woman would have considered calfskin coats seriously It would seem as if the makers of fine luggage started the fad and they really only effected a revival when they began to show various sorts of bags and boxes of calfskin with the fur still on A generation or so ago strong luggage of that sort was to be seen, but no one thought of it as being very elegant

After traveling bags of calfskin came hand bags and then the milliners borrowed it for hat trimming, later making entire hats of it

Following its introduction in the dressmaking workrooms It was used for trimming A sleeveless jumper of white calfskin with black spots attracted much attention Meantime the furriers, ever in need of more plentiful supplies of inexpensive peltry, were experimenting with it, and early in the autumn when women began to think of buying warm coats they found in many of the shops really attractive coats made entirely of this hide A calfskin coat had the advantage of a leather coat, and some of the advantages of fur as well

However, this making of calfskin coats is not so simple as it may seem All calfskins that are good from the leather point of view are not good from the fur point of view Much good leather calfskin is heavy—too heavy for comfort if made into a coat Only the skins that are fairly thin, but strong, with a fairly soft coat of hair, are really suitable for the furrier Therefore, very careful selection and elimination must take place before the coat-making begins

By HEDDA HOYT
(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(United Press).—Very few women today wear a dress until it has paid for itself in utility. This is because fashions change so often and because women are too shiftless to bother with alteratiops.

Despite the fact that most of the social activities fall during the Winter months one does not require an abundance of gowns to cope with the situation if one is clever. Coats cover up a multitude of fashion sins and if one is pressed on one's clothes allowance, one should let the coat carry part of the burden.

For street wear, the last seasons frock can be remodeled and worn under a smart coat without being a telltale of one's economy. The short-sleeved frock can be fitted with sleeves, the day dress with last years tight sleeves can remodeled by using sleeves with deep armholes which taper toward the wrists, apron-fronts can be added, necklines altered. We are all aware of the feats which can be accomplished by remodeling although most of us fail to economize in this way.

The woman who intends to appear well-dressed on a small income must do a good bit of remodeling each season if she is to have many changes. She will be extravagant perhaps in buying dressy clothes for party occasions but her everyday clothes will be left-overs.

It is far preferable to buy a few very smart-looking frocks each season than to completely outfit one's self in cheap garments. The better class frock will stand altering the following season. Take an inventory of your wardrobe before buying a new knock-about dress for shopping occasions. Perhaps you'll find a Spring dress of silk that can be dyed in one of the new shades or last Winter's dress of velvet that is a bit shoddy about the skirt. Three scant tiers of harmonizing satin will bring the velvet skirt up to date. There may be a sleeveless dress for afternoon card parties which would be serviceable this year if fitted with matching sleeves of georgette. By altering these old frocks you can afford to pay a little more for a new one to be worn on more special occasions.

The street dress is far more important in Summer than it is in Winter when hidden by a coat and for this reason it is the one we should find among the left-overs from other seasons.

OUTSIDE HELP MAY BE ASKED TO ARREST MOB

County Crown Attorney Says He Will Act If Police Don't.

CONSTABLE MOBBED.

Reluctance of People of Aylmer To Help Blamed For Delay.

ST. THOMAS, Ont. Nov 18. Developments will probably result in a few days, over the mobbing of County Constable Arthur Soper at Aylmer last Saturday night. High Constable Ostrander, who was sent to Aylmer to investigate the affair, has returned to St. Thomas, and was unable to learn the identity of any who took part in the rioting. It is believed his failure is due to the reluctance of the police and other prominent citizens of the town to lend assistance. County Crown Attorney McCrimmon asserted last night that if the Aylmer police and county constabulary continued to be lukewarm in the matter, he would not hesitate to ask the Attorney-General for outside help. County Constable Guy McConnell and also Constable Soper claim positively that they will have no difficulty in identifying at least a half-dozen of those believed to be the chief trouble-makers. Constable McConnell claims he can produce at least one man who is prepared to swear to the identity of two men who were manhandling Constable Soper's automobile.

Constable Soper's car is almost a complete wreck. In addition to his car Constable Soper lost upward of $100 worth of tools that were in the car and considerable clothing as well. Chief Constable Augustine, of Aylmer, states that when he appeared on the scene the ringleaders were preparing to run the car to the bridge, evidently for the purpose of throwing it over into the creek. Constable Augustine managed to get the car across the street and behind the town hall, intending to protect it, but the mob was too much for him. Some person dropped a lighted match into gasoline that had leaked from the tank and in a moment the flames had spread to the car.

Constable Augustine said that when he was taking the car to the town hall, youths ran along beside it and kicked it savagely at the wheels and body, while others shook it violently.

Government Sale of Liquor Breeds Bootleggers

The Ferguson policy will not suit Ontario. The case is clear, the proof conclusive.

GOVERNMENT SALE of liquor, tried in other parts of Canada, has failed utterly to curb bootlegging. The bootlegger flourishes under a system of Government Sale. He enjoys a greater freedom by which he can obtain and sell booze. The experiences of other provinces demonstrate beyond doubt that Government Sale means more bootleggers and greater bootlegging. Examine the evidence from provinces that have Government sale.

In British Columbia, the Liquor Control Chairman, Mr. Archie Johnson, was asked his greatest problem, and he replied, "Bootlegging". The Vancouver Sun declared a year ago: "Bootleggers are almost as thick in Vancouver as candy stores."

In Manitoba, the Attorney-General, Hon. R. W. Craig, has made the statement: "Bootlegging is more prevalent than it was under prohibition." Mayor Webb of Winnipeg, an experienced hotelman, said: "Conditions in Winnipeg, due to the Government Control law, are undermining the whole social structure. In the bootlegging business a man is fined $200, and the next day is in business again."

In Quebec, the Provincial Liquor Commission has thought it wise to spend money for advertisements warning people against the bootleggers. The Commission stated: "In some cases the unfortunate users of these bootleg spirits have lost their reason or have been injured for life."

In Saskatchewan, Dr. Amos, Liquor Controller, said last February: "Some 900 seizures of bootleg liquor have been made. Some of it was our own liquor; in some cases just as we sold it, in other cases adulterated. There was also a certain amount of vile stuff seized." A Provincial police officer stated: "All the Chinese restaurants are bootlegging."

In Alberta, the United Church Conference a few days ago passed a resolution in these terms: "Interdictions are increasingly necessary until the number is becoming scandalous. The drinking customs are a rapidly increasing menace to young people at dances and parties. The so-called liquor control system does not control."

Such evidence can be multiplied. Everywhere Government Sale or Control has put money into bootleggers' pockets.

Look at it in another manner. Ontario juts into one of the most populous areas of the United States, a huge potential market for the bootleggers. Government Sale in Ontario would provide the bootleggers with an abundant source of supplies and comparative immunity in buying. Half the risk now attendant upon this illicit trade would disappear. Bootlegging for United States consumers would become more profitable. Bootlegging for the dry districts of Ontario would be equally profitable, and less risky. In addition, there is the illicit trade that is certain to take place when Government shops are closed. Government Sale opens the door wide for the bootlegger, particularly in Ontario. Such a system would increase the crop of bootleggers immediately.

Is the province to be over-run by bootleggers? Are our highways to be endangered with bootleggers' trucks and cars?

Your vote on December 1 may give the answer.

The Bootleggers Know

When the Ontario plebiscite was taken in 1924, the worst bootlegging districts in Toronto gave the biggest majorities for Government Sale of liquor.

In one of such districts the vote was 87 for the O.T.A. and 1,008 for Government Sale.'

In one poll there was not a single vote for the O.T.A., but 60 for Government Sale.

In another there were three votes for O.T.A., but 113 for Government Sale.

Police records show that in these districts the bootleggers did a thriving business.

The bootleggers know how they can profit from Government Sale, and they vote accordingly.

Don't be deceived by the Ferguson smoke screen.

A vote for the Ferguson policy is a vote for the bootleggers

SMALLPOX CASES REPORTED IN SMITH

School Closed and Children Vaccinated—Board of Health Meets.

A meeting of the local Board of Health of Smith township was held at the office of Dr. J. A. Morgan, M.H.O., on Saturday, November 6, at the hour of 1.30 p.m.

Dr. Morgan reported small pox in one family in Smith township. He reported that all the cases had been quarantined the local school closed, and the children vaccinated.

On motion of Reeve Middleton and Deputy Reeve Simpson the secretary of the local board of health was intructed to notify each secretary of the public school boards in the township acquainting them of the result of the analysis of samples of drinking water taken by Dr. Morgan from the various sources of supply of the different schools, and asking the trustee boards to take immediate action where necessary to remove the causes of impurities in the water.

An item on sanitation was dealt with and the owner asked to remedy the defect.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on the call of the chairman.

LUCILLE

Lucille is a poetic name which has come into every day usage in this country. It used to be considered a diminutive of Lucy, but as a matter of fact, it is a completely separate name which merely happened to spring to fame simultaneously with the shorter and more serviceable appellative.

It signifies light, coming from the Latin word lux.

Lucille comes to us through the masculine form evolved from lux. Ancient Britain is said to have had a king called Llewfer Mawr, who was Latinized into Lucius. Viscount Falkland brought fame to the name in England and Ireland, in the meantime Lucius was growing in popularity in Rome.

The Lucillian gens of the plebian order was formed from Lucius and from it arose the name Lucilla. Several Roman Empresses bore this name and a saint at Florence was so called. Lucille is the French version which was immediately accepted by England. Owen Meredith made the name famous by his poem of that name.

The diamond is Lucille's talismanic gem. It will bring her courage and physical and mental strength. Wednesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY and ELIZABETH KAHLE

Sending a "tintype" of himself to Elizabeth Kahle, James Whitcomb Riley, America's beloved poet, accompanied it with the following lines:

I send you a shadowy ghost of a face,
To haunt you forever with eyes,
That look in your own with the tenderest grace
Affectionate art can devise.

And had they the power to sparkle and speak
In the language of smiles and tears,
The rainbow of love would illumine the cheek,
And banish the gloom that appears.

The heart correspondence between Riley and Miss Kahle lasted five years, two of which were passed without their having seen each other. The end came when Miss Kahle became Mrs. Brunn and thought it improper to continue the correspondence. The actual facts of the romance are little known as yet and one can only guess at the story underlying Riley's love letters. From Greenfield, in August 23, 1879, Riley wrote Miss Kahle:

"Your letter is so kind—so very kind and good that I must write at once to thank you for it and grab your two warm hands close in my own and wring them fervently. Only you must not be concerned about my health or welfare—anything—'cause I don't deserve such interest from anyone so good as you. I do smile though, when you say I want to ask like I do of children when they cry, what is the matter? Tell me!

"Surely, if you feel like that, and indeed you comprehended me just as I am—a little helpless child who would thank God with all his boyish heart if you just would—now, this minute—put your hands over my eyes and say 'Now, you must sleep,' only—only—I want to be strong enough to bear my burden and your dear words make me weak. You don't know—you can't know—what a weight it is and how heavier it grows each weary step I take.

"Forgive me, but you mustn't be so good to me, because I want you to be happy—not like me, who cannot even lift my empty hands at times and ask God's help! You make me want to call you 'little girl.' You make me want to come to you, creeping on my face and hands, to get away from all the world and rest—rest! . . ."

After Riley's death Mrs. Brunn became addicted to spiritualism and sought and obtained—through the kindness of mediums—spirit messages from the poet. One of these messages was obtained in 1921, produced by a medium in pencil, in Riley's autograph. Here it is:

With the self-same sunlight upon us,
I am writing, dear love, somewhere,
He you would honor, he that you wish for,
Thy king, thy loved one, "over there."

It seems an insult to the memory of a genius to associate such a verse as the above with his name, even though the association is made in private. The doggerel however, has the merit of being up to date, for note the popular war-phrase, "over there."

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

SOCKS
By Alma Whitaker.

Socks, masculine, socks, bear heavy on my conscience. Socks have always been an oppression in my life. It doesn't matter how virtuous I am in other respects, if I haven't darned the socks, I'm under reproach.

The thing began when I was a small girl and a misguided nun taught me nice darning. It was so good for small girls to have duties, so it was promptly decided that Alma should darn the socks. I can even remember taking the responsibility on with pride in those far-off days, showing off with most superlative darns, and preening under the flattery thus won.

I even waxed poetical about father's big toe nail, pinning the verse on darned socks, with some results. After that the holes were not always in precisely the same place. But brother began to grow up and socks increased. Moreover my own and mamma's stockings were added to the burden . . . and when I was sent away to school, blest if I didn't get put on the darning committee! I am not sure that it is wise to be a good darner.

Since then Destiny has handed me ever increasing socks. There seems to be a sort of tacit understanding that it is perfectly all right for mother to have a "career," and even depute some of the household management to hired help—but to completely justify herself she must positively darn the socks. And Destiny not only conferred a husband on me, but boys, always boys—who everlastingly wear socks and make holes in them.

I have brought my brain to bear many a time upon evading sock darning. It is a good brain for quite a lot of things, but it cannot banish socks. There was the scheme by which a nice spinster in the neighborhood should darn them at so much per pair. That lasted three weeks—then she moved away. There were certain amiable housekeepers who were coaxed into agreeing that a little sock-darning belonged to their job. But if the socks were darned, too many other things were neglected and they usually ended up by evading the socks.

If I go away on a trip, it is tacitly understood that no sock will be darned till mother returns. She invariably returns to a mountain—and having had a good time that the family was not in on, her conscience warns her that nothing but rows and rows of darned socks can justify her selfish vacation.

I once announced that henceforth father and the boys would buy socks by the dozen pairs at the 15 cent store and discard them when holey. We tried that, but were shamed by the sight of nasty cheap socks on handsome male legs. Besides, nice in-laws insisted upon presenting stylish silk socks for Christmas and birthday presents—which positively demand neat darning to the end.

Lately, a domestic debacle left us without hired help for a spell. Mother achieved prodigious things in dishwashing, cooking, bedmaking, sweeping, answering telephones, etc., meekly dove-tailing the demands of her "career" between violent goes of domesticity—but unless I get that mountain of socks darned, I'm an incompetent back-slider, a hopelessly imperfect mother. I have been putting in 16 noble and industrious hours a day—but I haven't darned a sock. The laundry has just come home—and added ten more pairs to the ghastly accusing array! But there is this to be said for it—when I have darned the socks I shall ooze frightful unapproachable virtue. I shall exude irrepressible superiority. I am giving them fair warning.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

The duel between the long-haired and the short-haired is still on. There really seems to be something more to it than merely a matter of long hair and short hair. The whole mattre seems to go much deeper than the shears of the barber. It is a matter that most women take rather personally and some even with animus.

Some of the staunchest allies of the bobbed and shingled are women who actually have long hair. One woman of seventy insists that she is too old to have her hair cut—and no one gainsays here—yet she never misses a chance to urge younger women to have theirs sheared. Another woman with very thin hair is fearful lest she would look a fright with short hair, yet she makes fun of her long-haired friends. Not long ago two operatic stars began to exchange compliments on the subject. The short-haired one called the long-haired one a fool, and included in the compliment all other women who wear long hair.

The long-haired singer observed that in her country, Austria, long hair was regarded as a mark of breeding.

It perhaps goes to show that intolerance is still a strong trait in human nature. We don't insist on conformity in matters of religious worship—that sort of thing is old-fashioned—but many of us do feel very impatient of non-conformity in this matter of hair. One is tempted to suggest that there really is room in the world for long hair and short hair, just as there is room for men with smooth faces and men with moustaches, women who use lip stick and women who don't. But the woman who has taken up the cudgels for or against short hair for women will tell you that such matters are quite different. There is something really vital about this matter of hair lengths. And perhaps there is, so long as so many women feel that there is.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

©1926 DR. COY HEALTH SERVICE, LOS ANGELES-BAL.

Question: J. T. writes: What is your advice for a boy of sixteen years of age to do? I grow tall, and do not acquire enough weight to have a well-developed body.

Answer: You should take up a definite physical culture culture regime, using such exercises as you can do through weight-lifting, wrestling, boxing, etc. Besides exercising vigorously each day, it is necessary that you use plenty of the foods containing the blood building materials. These are to be found mostly in the non-starchy vegetables. Eat plenty of raw salads, and eliminate all white flour products. If any bread is used, it should be real whole-wheat bread.

Question: J. L. writes: What causes a sty in the eye? What is the most effective remedy?

Answer: A sty is caused by an infection rubbed into the eyelid when one is in a condition of acidosis. If the eyes are strained by overwork, the eyelids will become easily inflamed, and sties start readily in such inflamed eyelids, provided the patient is enervated and in a toxic condition.

Question: Mrs. E. H. writes: Will you please tell me what will cure my little son of dribbling? He is three years old and has been worse since last winter. His chest is always damp. What is the cause of this excessive saliva?

Answer: Your son's trouble is caused by digestive derangements. There is a definite irritation of the gall bladder or liver, due to wrong feeding. Put him on an orange juice fast for two or three days and this trouble will be corrected, as the irritated organs will become normal very quickly in a child of three years of age. After the fast be careful to feed him according to the instructions I am giving you daily through the health articles in this paper.

Question: J. R. writes: Will you please tell me through the column of the Vancouver Evening Sun what harm there is in eating new bread?

Answer: There is a great deal of harm caused by eating fresh white bread. This kind of bread becomes sticky enough in the stomach and intestines even if it is dried out well before eating. When hot and moist, it is still more unwholesome. Real wholewheat bread never becomes very sticky, as it is too coarse for the sticky particles to adhere close together.

Question: L. A. writes: Will you kindly answer through your columns in the Evening Examiner is there any diet or exercise that will alleviate a cataract of the eye? Such a condition has developed suddenly and rapidly with me during the last four months. Oculists tell me it is rarely found in one of my age. What do you advise in such a case? Thank you. (L. A. does not give age in her letter.)

Answer: I have had several cases of cataract which responded to fasting and diet treatment. inasmuch as this treatment puts the eye into a good enough condition so that an operation could be successfully performed. If only one eye is affected, the other eye can always be saved from developing a cataract if the patient will immediately start dieting to get her blood in good condition, and, at the same time, stop all eye strain It is essential that properly fitted glasses be used in order to avoid any more irritation of the good eye. If you properly prepare yourself before the operation, any good eye specialist can tell you when the cataract is "ripe" to be operated upon, as these operations are not successful unless the cataract is well enough developed.

Question: T. C. writes: Have a pain in my chest when I go out to walk but more so when going up a stair or hill. I have been examined but the doctor cannot see anything the matter. I am 60 years of age. What is your opinion?

Question: You are no doubt suffering from some heart derangement, possibly aneurysm of the thoracic aorta. Cut down the quantity of food you are eating and avoid all bad mixtures which might make excessive stomach or intestinal gas. Do plenty of walking on the level, but not up a steep grade. This walking will help develop circulatory strength and your heart will be benefited by this kind of exercise.

Question: Anxious Truro writes: I have been suffering for two years with what a specialist says is tired nerves, and which my family doctor seems unable to cure. I have a ringing noise in my left ear and my head gets numb and feels crawly, and by spells is icy cold. I sleep poorly and my legs and arms get numb in the night. Have a fair appetite but always seem to have a gnawing in my stomach and never feel satisfied Have constipation, and use laxatives constantly. Have what you call chronic eczema. I do not eat any pies, puddings or cakes, but eat quite a lot of candy.

Answer: You are no doubt suffering from gastritis which causes the gnawing feeling in your stomach. Your constipation must be cured if you expect to get over chronic eczema. If you will diet so as to get rid of gastritis and constipation, I am sure you will find your nerves do not seem so tired at night. Swear off on candy, white bread, and all sweets.

Question: George I. writes: Our little son, four years old, had spinal meningitis last spring, five months ago, and lost his hearing the second day he was sick. He is fairly well otherwise, except he is nervous and falls down sometimes when he is walking, though we still have the hope that his ears will get all right again, as he is gaining strength a little every day. One eye is crossed—no doubt something can be done for that.

Answer: You should take your son to a competent optometrist who can probably fit him with glasses so the crossed eye will be made strong enough to retain its normal position. Have some physician treat his spine who understands this kind of treatment, and do not wait for him to get well by himself without every care which medical science is able to give.

Question: D. I. P. writes: Several years ago I had a very severe attack of the Grippe, they call it Flu now, and ever since then I am troubled with spasmodic Hay Fever and have difficulty in hearing, likewise my singing voice is affected. Do you think the orange juice fast would benefit me and kindly advise just what one must eat, drink, and what exercises, if any, must be taken during this fast. I am a stenographer and bookkeeper and naturally have not very much exercise or sunshine during the day. On the other hand, I have a healthy appetite.

Answer: Hay Fever can be easily cured if you are willing to live on the proper diet, and your hearing and voice will also be helped by the same treatment. I am sure the orange juice fast would benefit you. However, I cannot give complete advice for this treatment in this "Question and Answer" department. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope, an article on "Hay Fever" will be sent to you at once.

Question: "One of your Readers" asks: I can't persuade my family to take castor oil. Please tell me something of its merits. I take it once a month. Is there danger of taking it too often?

Answer: Castor oil is an irritating laxative, but one of the best emergency laxatives to take if one is suffering from ptomaine poisoning or any acute food poisoning. However, I do not recommend its regular use, as I believe each one of us should learn to live in such a manner that we do not require any kind of emergency treatment for constipation. The continued use of laxatives will no doubt deplete the intestines because of over-stimulation.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WHEN OTHERS TIRE

Not all the weariness of life
As in the labor. Oftentimes
A brother to the attic climbs
Weary of toil and sick of strife.
What tires is not the attic stairs
But climbing them when no one cares.

Not all the weariness we know
Is in the labor. Weariness
Upon the soul as much may press
As on the limbs. It is to go
Along life's road and never hear
The word of praise, the laugh of cheer.

Oh, you who long to do so much
For other men, yet have no gold,
Remember hearts may often hold
A wealth that hands can never touch,
That hearts may give, when hands have naught,
A smile, a word, a kindly thought.

Not all could give if gold were all
Men ever gave. Yet men give more
Who give a welcome at the door.
A candle when the shadows fall.
A friendly chair, a friendly fire.
Encouragement when others tire.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

THAT tranquility prevails in many cities and friendly co-operation is what has done it.

THAT as industry continues to grow and take on the wider scope to which it is destined, so will the true spirit of mutual understanding go along with it until the whole community works as one to make the entire community more prosperous.

THAT co-operation is the factor that brings this desired result.

THAT all should have faith in the present and in the future of the home community.

THAT this faith kept alive, is the spirit of progress.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"RADIO LANGUAGE"

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

A correspondent of the New York Times is perturbed by what the editor of the newspaper calls "radio diction." The correspondent writes:

"The other evening over the radiophone I heard an 'announcer' mispronounce the names of two different composers. Leter she made a very obvious error in syntax. When you reflect that what is said over the radiophone goes all over the country—the world, in fact—there should be some way of making sure that such speech conforms to the highest standards.

"Radio enunciation no less than pronunciation should be above criticism. Surely there is no better way to foster good English than by example.

"What a fine thing it would be if 'radio diction' could be taken as our standard—as the diction of the Comedie Francaise is the French standard."

GIRL COULDN'T SLEEP ON LEFT SIDE

"I had gas on the stomach so bad that I couldn't lie on my left side, and could not walk two blocks without resting. I have taken only half a bottle of Adlerika and am much better already."—Lillie Lamar.

Because Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, it gives the system a REAL cleansing and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Peterboro at McDermid & Jury and other druggists.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

DIET IN CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

By Winifred Stuart Gibbs
Food Specialist.

Frequently mothers are worried at the appearance of a catarrh condition in children's bowels. While this condition may appear as one symptom of more serious disturbances, it is frequently overcome by attention to a few simple diet directions.

One diet plan for simple catarrh of the stomach which has been tested over and over again is as follows: See that the child is kept quietly resting for a day and give only frequent drinks of fresh cool water.

For the next few days, a soup-made of very lightly cooked oatmeal is given. Prepare this according to the plan of the Scotch dish. For centuries Scotch soldiers have been noted for their strength and scalded oatmeal has, according to history, been their standard food. The oatmeal is prepared by placing it in a wide pan and pouring boiling water on it. It should be stirred until thick and it is then ready for use. Use this scalded oatmeal as the basis for the soup prescribed for the child with catarrh. The thick mass of oatmeal should be thinned with boiling water until the proper consistency is secured.

After a few days of this oatmeal soup diet, give a cup of milk gruel. The next day the diet should consist of two cups of milk, a cup of milk gruel and a cup of water gruel.

By this time the symptoms have probably come under control and the diet is increased by adding toast, mashed potatoes, sago and any desired porridge.

In administering such a diet as this, it goes without saying that great care must be taken to watch the children carefully. Any indication of loss of strength or other unusual symptoms should be taken up with a physician. In the case of catarrh of the stomach and bowels, as in other disturbances, anything that builds up the general health will help to control the unpleasant symptoms. The child's general digestion should be watched even after catarrh has disappeared. There may be no organic trouble at all, yet individual digestive weaknesses which come may usually be controlled.

A good general rule is to plan a well-known mixed diet suited in quality and quantity to the age of the child and when the catarrhal symptoms have been overcome to stick closely to this all-round normal diet.

If any return of the catarrhal symptoms is noted, a modification of the diet as described may then be adopted.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SQUINKY

Once upon a time there were two little pig boys named Curly and Floppy Twistytail. I have told you some stories about them, but never this one, which I think is quite funny.

There was also another little piggie chap named Squinky. I have never told you about him because he is a new little grunter chap. You have heard of Squeakie Squeezer, the small baby pig, but not about Squinky, I think. At least you never heard this tale of Squinky.

One day Curly and Floppy, the two elder pig boys, about whom I have written many stories, were on their way to school in the hollow stump. All of a sudden Curly stopped short waggled his little curly tail, after which he was named, and grunted:

"I don't want to go to school today!"

"Neither do I," squealed Floppy, whose flopping ear gave him that name.

"Let's go to the woods and hunt nuts," said Curly.

"That would be playing hookey," spoke Floppy, "and it would be very wrong. No, we must go on to school. But after we get there, if the Lady Mouse Teacher should tell us to go home, that would be all right. We wouldn't be playing hookey and we could go to the woods and get nuts."

"That sounds fine!" grunted Curly. "But why would the Lady Mouse Teacher send us home after we got to school unless we were bad? And we don't want to be that."

"No, we don't azackly want to be bad," agreed Floppy. "But we want to get out of school. And I'll tell you how we can do it! Do you see little Squinky there?" and he pointed to their little pig brother.

"Yes, I see him," said Curly. "What about him?"

"We'll get him to wander away and come into school after we have been there about half an hour," laughed Floppy. "Squinky will come stumbling into school like he was lost and Miss Mouse will tell us to take our little brother home. And we can be a long while doing it and so we'll get out of school! How's that?"

"Oh, fine!" chuckled Curly. So they called Squinky from where he was playing in front of the pen house and Floppy said:

"In a little while, Squinky, you come along to school after us; will you? Walk right in the Hollow Stump School and squeal, and then Curly and I will take you home. Will you do that, Squinky? Will you come to school after we are gone a little while?"

"Ess," lisped Squinky. "Me like to go coo!"

"Won't this be fun!" laughed Curly as he and Floppy hurried on to the Hollow Stump School. They went to their desks. The Lady Mouse Teacher led the singing. The morning exercises were over and the first lessons had started when, all of a sudden, into school strolled cute little Squinky.

"Wee! Wee! Wee!" he squealed, and all the boy and girl animals laughed like anything, if not something different.

"Why, how do you do?" asked Miss Mouse politely. "You are a new little pupil I see. Whose little pig are you?"

"If you please, Miss Mouse!" grunted Curly, "he's my little brother, and I guess he ran away."

"He's half my little brother, too!" grunted Floppy. "And we'll take him home if you want us to."

Miss Mouse smiled a funny little smile, and then she opened the door to the next room, and out hopped Uncle

"Let's run!" squealed Floppy.

Wiggily Longears, who had happened also to come to school that morning. He brought the books of Tingle and Tangle, his children, who forgot them.

"It is very kind of you, Curly and Floppy, to offer to take your little brother Squinky home," said Miss Mouse. "But I wouldn't dream of having you lose your lessons. Uncle Wiggily will take Squinky home; won't you, Mr. Longears?"

"I shall be most happy to!" answered the rabbit gentleman with a twinkle of his pink nose. "I have nothing else to do and it will be an adventure for me. Come along, Squinky!"

So Uncle Wiggily took Squinky home, and Curly and Floppy had to stay until the last class was out. And to this day they don't know, whether or not Uncle Wiggily overheard their trick and went to school on purpose to spoil it. No, they don't know.

And if the postman doesn't take all the stamps off the letters to put them into a crossword puzzle, for the fountain pen, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's re-union party.

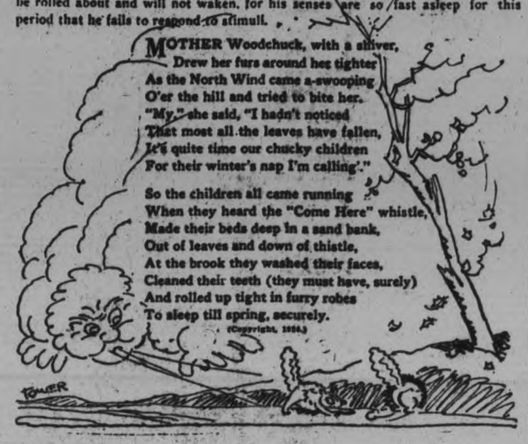
Winter Bedtime

By SHIRLEY ODMAN WILLIAMS

IN the colder climates when the animals are unable to get their accustomed food and have not learned to store their winter's supply, as does the squirrel for instance, they withdraw to shelters beyond the reach of frost, and sleep, or hibernate, till spring. The bear chooses a den or hollow tree, angle worms burrow below the frost line, frogs burrow into the mud of a stream bed and the insect pupa lie in cocoons or earthen caskets. We do not know just the nature of this dormancy, but it seems to be little different from ordinary sleep, except in its soundness and prolonged season. Some animals, like the bat, the chipmunk and some bears, are light sleepers, coming out on warm days. Others, like the woodchuck, enter a sleep as near death as possible and cannot be awakened. A woodchuck can be rolled about and will not waken, for his senses are so fast asleep for this period that he fails to respond to stimuli.



MOTHER Woodchuck, with a shiver,
Drew her furs around her tighter
As the North Wind came a-swooping
O'er the hill and tried to bite her.
"My," she said, "I hadn't noticed
That most all the leaves have fallen,
It's quite time our chucky children
For their winter's nap I'm calling."

So the children all came running
When they heard the "Come Here" whistle,
Made their beds deep in a sand bank,
Out of leaves and down of thistle,
At the brook they washed their faces,
Cleaned their teeth (they must have, surely)
And rolled up tight in furry robes
To sleep till spring, securely.

INDIANA WELCOMES RUMANIAN QUEEN

Was Informed of Accident On Overland Drive From Chicago.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 18. — Canadian Press. — Marie, Queen of Rumania, was welcomed to Indiana last night unmindful of the adventures that had befallen her children, Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana, in an overland drive from Chicago.

None had informed the queen of the illness of the princess, which for a time threatened a stop at a hospital at Danville, Ills. The royal children after a series of mishaps on the rain-drenched roads of Illinois and Indiana, reached the Indiana capital in mud-encrusted motor cars while the city and state were voicing their welcome to Marie. The Rumanian travellers were reunited at a banquet and dance which culminated the stay in Indianapolis. The party was scheduled to leave Indianapolis for Louisville at 12.30 a.m.

In the welcoming party at the station was a delegation of Rumanian women in native costume. Marie alighted to hear a salutation in her native tongue.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The owner of a pearl will be exceptionally fortunate today, as this gem is a talisman. Fairness of face and form is promised the wearer of the pearl and that rare charm of manner which attracts friends and acquaintances alike.

Those born on an anniversary of this date should wear an emerald, the stone sacred to Venus, goddess of love. It is believed to bring unusually clear vision.

Green is the color assigned to this day through the agreement of many legends. To wear it brings hope and joy and the bright promise of youth.

The white violet is today's significant flower.

"Last Saturday we logged sixteen stations in a short half-hour, one of which was KFI, Los Angeles. We have found it to be a very powerful set."

From Mr. J. S. Howard, 30 Queen St. South, Kitchener, Ont.

"Here's a good one for the Rogers Set on both distance and selectivity.

"The other night, Sunday, Oct. 10th, 1926, in my own home, with a Model No. 220 Rogers Radio Batteryless Set, I secured KGOO, Oklahoma City, Okla., at 69½ on the dial. Just half a point further, at 70 on the dial, I secured KFOA, Seattle, Wash., and both of these stations WITHOUT AN AERIAL. How is this for selectivity!

STEAMER ASHORE IN LAKE SUPERIOR

Tugs Proceeding To Scene of Accident To Render Assistance.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—The steamer Cottonwood, owned by James Davidson, of Bay City, is on the rocks a mile north of Copper Mine Point, in Lake Superior, and the tug Alabama, of the Great Lakes Towing and Wrecking Company, left at midnight for the scene of the accident. The crew of the Cottonwood is safe, according to information received by wireless in the Sault, but the extent of the damage to the vessel is still unknown. The tug Favorite, of St. Ignace, is going up to-day in an endeavor to free the Cottonwood from her perilous position. The Cottonwood passed up through the Michigan Soo Locks on Wednesday, and carried a cargo of copper sand, it was learned this morning from the Michigan Soo Canal office. Storm signals are up on both sides of the river to-day. This morning the steamer Imperoyal passed down through the Canadian locks at nine o'clock, and said that while the gale was not unusual for this time of year, it was fairly stiff. The Imperoyal was covered with ice when she arrived in the Canal.

RIVALS DECLINE NICKLE'S OFFER OF JOINT DEBATE

Mayor Angrove Says Mr. Nickle Has Made Business of Debating.

'A CONTROVERSIALIST.'

Alderman Kidd Says Cause of Temperance Would Not Be Advanced.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Neither Mayor T. B. Angrove, nor Alderman T. A. Kidd, Government control candidate, will accept the invitation of Hon. W. F. Nickle, O.T.A. candidate, to meet him in public debate. The Mayor said:

"If Hon. Mr. Nickle will come with me into a foundry, and make a casting with me, thereby coming into the field of my own work, then I will go on a platform with him and debate the liquor question."

"Politics has been Hon. Mr. Nickle's work for thirty years," continued His Worship, "and there is just as much logic to my asking him to come into the foundry and make a casting as there is in his request that I go on to the public platform with him. I do not think that it is fair to ask either Alderman Kidd or myself to debate with Hon. Mr. Nickle, who for years has been in the business of debating."

Alderman Kidd, in stating that he would decline the invitation, said:

"There are two things at which Mr. Nickle is an adept, one is resigning from government and political parties and the other is talking, and so far as I can see, it is not possible to stop him from doing either." Alderman Kidd refused to disarrange his whole working schedule to oblige Mr. Nickle at a debate and concludes his statement as follows:

"I cannot see that it would advance very greatly the interests of true temperance to see a professional controversialist on the platform airing his ever changing views—against the O.T.A. in 1925 and for it now; with his friends and political associates only a few weeks ago and now against them."

'PIG WOMAN' TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Jane Gibson Gives Evidence While Lying on Cot.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., November 18. Canadian Press. — Brought from a Jefsey City hospital in an ambulance, Mrs. Jane Gibson lay on a court room cot to-day, and while a nurse kept watch of her heart beats, testified that four years ago she saw Mrs. Frances Hall and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, at the scene of the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and his choir singer, Mrs. James Mills.

She spoke in a low voice as she started to tell her story and court stenographers repeated her answers to the jury, but as she proceeded her voice grew stronger, and when she finished a direct examination occupying 25 minutes she could be clearly heard. Her story was substantially the same as that she has previously told except that she said she saw Henry Stevens at the spot after she had previously seen Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens in a sedan parked near Derushey's Lane. She declared that she heard the voices of men and women and the words "explain letters" and several oaths by men. An oath preceded the demand "let go" she testified. She then told of four shots which she described as "bang, bang, bang."

Her recital of screaming in woman's voice she emphasized with "Oh, my oh, my, what terrible screaming."

"I seen a man and another man" she said, when she told of seeing Henry Stevens. She was not asked to identify "the other man." She had previously said that she saw Henry Carpender at the scene but the state's representative warned her not to say who the "other" man was in her testimony today. Henry Carpender is under indictment but is not on trial with his cousins.

She said that she saw Willie Stevens in the automobile but not at the spot where the mumble of voices was heard. Mrs. Hall was described as present, later, wringing her hands.

Mrs. Hall was asked to remove her hat, which she did, as the witness was held up to make her indentification.

Willie Stevens leaned slightly forward as Mrs. Gibson told her story. Henry Stevens sat back in his chair and Mrs. Hall's expression changed only once. She smiled slightly as Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked that her hat be removed.

Witness also testified that Felix Di Martini, a private detective employed by Mrs. Hall shortly after the murders, had told her she had "Better keep her mouth shut and stay out of this"—meaning the Hall case. She said she ordered Di Martini from her house.

OLD LANDMARK IS PULLED DOWN

Rough Cast House on Charlotte Street Making Way For Store.

WELL CONSTRUCTED.

One of the old landmarks in this city is being pulled down this week. The rough cast house which has stood on Charlotte street, near George, and has lately been occupied by Samuel Whatley as a shoe repair shop, is being wrecked. The wreckers are finding that the house was built of very substantial material. The frame work was all done in ten and twelve inch timbers, something that is seldom found in many of the barns which are being erected to-day. The floors were made of matched pine lumber with not a knot in any of the boards.

After the house is pulled down it is expected a modern grocery store building will be erected for the Loblaw company, which is expected to start business in this city.

MINISTERS SAIL ON DECEMBER 1

Premier King and Hon. E. Lapointe Will Visit France.

PARIS, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Canadian ministers attending the Imperial Conference in London have definitely made arrangements to sail for home on December 1. Premier Mackenzie King will arrive in Paris on November 27 and will sail for Canada from Cherbourg on the Majestic. He will be accompanied by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, and possibly also by Hon. Vincent Massey.

An Indiana school superintendent recently refused to let a little girl come to school garbed in knickers. Now a school teacher in Harlan, Ky., has gone him one better by refusing to let 9-year-old Ioma Creech attend school in overalls, as shown above. The girl's mother says Ioma wears overalls to play in and she can wear 'em to school; but she isn't getting in, and the town's in a controversy over it.

FACING CONDITIONS, NOT THEORIES

By some people the present election campaign is being fought as if it were a local option fight of two generations ago, as if the issues were whether Ontario wanted to be bone dry or endure the conditions of the bar-room days.

In some churches the pulpits are being given over to attacks upon the Conservative Government; prayer meetings are being held to strengthen the opposition to that government. Women canvassers are going from house to house seeking to work upon the emotions of other women.

This is 1926, not 1906.

We are facing conditions, not theories.

We are not arguing as to the relative merits of a Dry Ontario as opposed to a province under bar-room conditions.

Let us realize these things; let us see the issue in its true light; let us get our heads out of the clouds and deal with this problem in its 1926 aspect.

"Keep Ontario Dry" is the slogan from some quarters.

Ontario Dry under the O.T.A.!

Ontario dry under the O.T.A. when legally $5,000,000 worth of business is done each year by the government dispensaries?

Ontario dry under the O.T.A., when legally the manufacturers of native wine in this province make over a million gallons a year of wine which runs in alcoholic content from 18 to 30 per cent.?

Ontario dry under the O.T.A. when with the consent of the Dominion Government thousands of homes in this province have become private breweries turning out beer of an alcohilic strength of from 12 per cent. upward?

Ontario dry under the O.T.A. when illegally in this province each year millions of dollars pass into the pockets of bootleggers in exchange for liquor?

Ontario dry under the O.T.A. when temptation in the form of illicit drinking threatens the demoralization of the youth of the province?

Ontario dry under the O.T.A. when a temperance magistrate who worked for prohibition has to admit that "liquor is out of control and running wild"?

The simple truth is that Ontario is not dry under the O.T.A.

Hon. W F. Nickle, whom prohibitionists are so fond just now of quoting, in his speech in the debate on the Speech from the Thone in the Legislature last year realized the situation much more clearly than do the Prohibition speakers in the campaign, when he said:

> "If conditions remain as they are today I can reach no other conclusion than that if some redress, some easing, is not given with reference to the Ontario Temperance Act, the Act, much to my regret would be doomed to the extinction because I believe the people of the Province are being driven to becoming whiskey drinkers and drinkers of illicit liquor."

Face the situation; consider the conditions as you know them and ask yourself the question, whether it would not be infinitely better to put into effect a reasonable sane policy of government control than to endure the evils that are developing under the O.T.A.

It is not a question of "booze or no booze" to borrow the words of a prohibitionist speaker. It is merely a question of the best way to control an evil.

Five other Canadian provinces have decided that control by the Government offers the best chance of success.

We believe that the policy proposed by the Ontario Government is better in every respect than those in force in other government control provinces, because it has eliminated the weak features of those other systems.

WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB MEETING

Mrs. J. F. Allan Gives Paper on Music of Slav Races.

INSTRUCTIVE PAPER.

There was a good attendance at the fortnightly meeting of the Women's Music Club, held yesterday afternoon in the studio at the Conservatory of Music, and an exceptionally fine programme was presented, including vocal, violin and pianoforte compositions, illustrative of the study of Slav music which formed the subject of yesterday's programme.

"The Power and Poetry of Slav Music" was treated splendidly by the president of the Club, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, who gave an illuminating and beautifully-worded paper on Slav music, with its barbaric, mysterious and romantic atmosphere. In Russian music, particularly, the sorrow and suffering of past centuries have been transmuted into song, but all Slav music has the same quality of piquant effects, graceful embroidery of ornament, and strange cadences. "The true moujik," said Mrs. Allan, "is never so happy as when he is trolling the most lugubrious strains." This minor mood is especially noticeable in Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony, with its atmosphere of almost unrelieved gloom, and yet there is plenty of merriment in the gay czardas of the peasants.

Chopin, called by Rubenstein "the soul of the piano," is the exponent of the musical art of the Pole, Liszt of the Hungarian, Tschaikowsky of the Russian, and Anton Dvorak of the Bohemian. The Slav music is strongly individualistic and extremely exotic. The newer school demonstrates these traits in its "constant co-mingling of the major and minor, with the preference given to the latter mode, the great rhythmic variety and the more frequent use of the tempo rubato."

"To the Slavs, music is not an algebra of black dots and dashes. It is an expression of their deepest emotions." To gain an impression of its scope, one must go among the peasants, listen to the slow czardas, to the songs of the fair and of the wedding and the lullaby of the mother at the cradle. Every phase of their lives is commemorated in song, and the grim history of their race is reflected in their music. "With tears the moujik makes merry," says the proverb.

The Hungarians have few great singers, but Russia and Poland have contributed much to the opera and the concert stage. In Hungarian life, wine, women and song play important parts and the Hungarian always enlists in his moments of pleasure the services of the gypsy band.

Many of the Slav composers were alluded to briefly by the speaker; Liszt, who portrayed so well every human emotion and succeeded so well in painting tonal pictures of peasant life; Anton Rubenstein, the great master of orchestral utterance; the polished and sympathetic Tschaikowsky; Rachmaninoff, who might be called the connecting link between old and new ideas in Slav music and who excels in the heroic mood; Moussorgsky, with his strikingly new and original compositions; Caesare Cui, Borodin and Rimsky-Korsakov, the latter a composer of charm and originality, and Anton Dvorak, the Bohemian, composer of the lovely "New World Symphony," dedicated to America, the land of his adoption. From Poland, too, come Josef Hoffman and Paderewski, two of the greatest of modern pianists.

The charm of the sombre, striking music of the Slav composers was beautifully illustrated by an exceptionally fine programme rendered by three talented musicians, Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, Miss Edwina Palmer and Miss Agnes Logan, who gave a very fine programme of music following the address of Mrs. Allan.

Mrs. Park's dramatic rendition of the songs of the Russian composers was splendid. Her selections included Rimsky-Korzakov's "Song of the Shepherd Lehl," Rachmaninoff's "O Thou Billowy Harvest Field," and "Lilacs," and Moussorgsky's "Death and the Peasant" and "Hopak."

Miss Agnes Logan played, with her usual charming effectiveness, the "Sonetto del Petrarche" by Liszt, an "Arabesque" by Leschetizky, an Etude in C sharp minor by Chopin, and a "Barcarolle" by Moskowski.

Miss Edwina Palmer's fine musicianship was amply demonstrated in her violin renditions of two Russian folk songs, arranged by Kreisler, Tschaikowsky's "Andante" from String quartette," and two of Dvorak's compositions; a Slavonic dance in G major and a Slavonic dance in G minor.

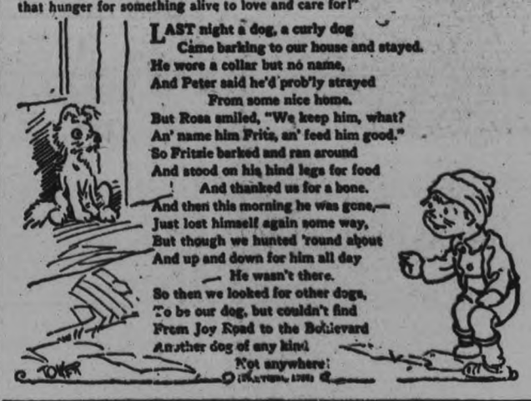
The president, Mrs. Allan, at the conclusion of the programme, spoke feelingly of the sudden death of one of the members, the late Mrs. A. W. Cressman, and the members stood in silence in expression of sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Allan also spoke of the visit here of the Australian Band, and asked for the patronage of the members, adjuring the Club to "get behind everything that is good in a musical way."

Stray Dog

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

A LITTLE boy and girl wanted a dog, they wanted a cat, they wanted a rabbit or just anything for a pet. They lived in the city and father and mother just couldn't consider the nuisance of an animal around. Then one day came a stray dog and their joy was unbounded. They fed him and loved him—but the next morning he strayed on. All that day they carried ropes and hunted for the dog. He wasn't to be found. In telling the story the mother ended, "Then Bob came, and Joan came, when I asked what they were doing and, with worried hungry little faces lifted, they explained, 'Our dog's lost, mother, but we're hunting another'." "What kind of a dog," I asked. "Why any dog," they cried, "just any dog will do." "Suddenly," she said, "I realized what a pet meant to them and I vowed that city or no, neighbors or no, those children should have one to feed, that hunger for something alive to love and care for!"



LAST night a dog, a curly dog
Came barking to our house and stayed.
He wore a collar but no name,
And Peter said he'd prob'ly strayed
From some nice home.
But Rosa smiled, "We keep him, what?
An' name him Frits, an' feed him good."
So Fritzie barked and ran around
And stood on his hind legs for food
And thanked us for a bone.
And then this morning he was gone,—
Just lost himself again some way,
But though we hunted 'round about
And up and down for him all day
He wasn't there.
So then we looked for other dogs,
To be our dog, but couldn't find
From Joy Road to the Boulevard
Another dog of any kind
Not anywhere!

ADDRESS GIVEN ON INDIAN MISSIONS

Miss Priest Speaks at Annual Meeting of the Mission Circle.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Mission Circle was held in the Gilmour Memorial church on Wednesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Gordon Mann in the chair.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Priest, the veteran missionary from Co-Canada, India.

Miss Priest has been a missionary to the Indian Telugus for 33 years. She is at present on furlough and hopes to return to India next September.

Miss Priest spoke to a good audience for an hour and twenty minutes. She based her address on a statement made by the Rev. Stanley Jones, the author of the famous book, "The Christ of the Indian Road." The statement was "Christ has got into the thinking of India, and He is there to stay." She gave example after example of that truth from her own experience. The intellectual people of India, the high caste people, were thinking about Jesus Christ. She regretted very much that these people were not impressed with the kind of Christianity people at home were manifesting; they measure it up by the standard of the New Testament, and they find that we come very far short of being the Christians we ought to be. A common saying of their's was, "We don't want the Christ of the West; we want the Christ of the New Testament."

She told of one who visited the old country and asked a Christian lady if she could tell where he could get a history of Christians. He wanted to find out when Christians ceased being like their Master.

Miss Priest then stated that the people of India were no longer ignorant of our western affairs. They were reading our papers and knew all about the negro question, and even asked questions about the Ku-Klux Klan.

She then went on to tell of the work in the schools, in the hospitals and in the homes. In all these spheres the missionaries and native Bible women were at work with wonderful results.

She concluded her fine address by an illustration of one of the missionaries who was one day in a very despondent mood because he thought he had not accomplished much by his life's work. He was sitting on a hill at the time and in front of him was a heathen temple with great massive walls. He had said to himself all his work had been like casting a single grain against those massive walls in the hope of breaking them down. Shortly after this he walked over to the temple and to his astonishment he found a tree growing out of the wall, and as the tree grew in size it rent the stones apart, and it was only a matter of time till the great wall was broken down.

God used this little incident to encourage his discouraged servant. He saw that his work had been like the planting of the living seed of living truth, which would one day break down the mighty walls of heathenism and superstition as that tree was breaking down the wall around that heathen temple.

Mrs. James A. Young in a neat little speech thanked Mrs. Priest for her excellent address.

Mrs. Jos. Mann and Mrs. Young sang a solo, after which refreshments were served. A thank-offering of over $25 was taken for missionary purposes.

ART STUDY CLUB HEARS OF QUEBEC

Art of Province Is Subject of an Interesting Paper.

The regular meeting of the Art Study Club of the Women's Art Association was held on Tuesday evening, with a good attendance, at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Meredith, Water street. An interesting paper on "Quebec Art" was given by Mrs. A. B. Harris, and the response to the roll call was a quotation from the works of Dr. Henry Drummond. This meeting was termed "Canadian Night," on account of the character of the works studied.

The next meeting of the Club will be held on Tuesday evening, November 30th, at the residence of Mrs. H. W. Morphet.

Mrs. Harris, in her paper on "Quebec Art," said that the first pictorial work done in Canada was, in all probability, that of Champlain, the illustrations of whose books are supposed to have been made from his own drawings. The first demands for pictures arose from their use in converting the Indians.

In 1663, the first paintings were actually produced in Quebec by priests and soldiers. Berczy was perhaps the first to produce work which, in spite of its amateurish quality, showed distinct evidences of taste. The Hon. Joseph Lezare is known chiefly as a collector of the interesting and valuable works now at Laval University. His pupil, Plamondon, studied in Paris and later was awarded a medal by the Quebec Literary and Historical Society for his picture, "The Last of the Hurons." He painted ecclesiastical pictures and portraits of prominent Canadians, also made copies of the old masters.

In 1812, Cornelius Kreighoff was born in Rotterdam. He came to America later and finally drifted to Quebec, where his studies of rural life and types in Lower Canada merited him the title of the Canadian Hogarth. Following him came Vogt, Edson and Fraser, the first a painter, who achieved some distinction as a portrayer of animals, the second and third landscape painters.

Henri Julien, another name on the list, chose the habitant and his environment for his especial study, as did a contemporary, F. S. Coburn.

John Hammond paints delightful harbors and low-lying coasts; Robert Harris is a portrait painter and William Hope paints landscapes. Maurice Cullen paints winter scenes, and William Clapp is a good figure painter. James Wilson Morrice has had the honor of being the first Canadian to have one of his pictures, hung at the Canadian Exhibition at Wembley, purchased by the Tate Art Gallery of London, England.

A. G. Jackson, a native of Montreal, is another snow painter, and was the second Canadian to have a picture purchased by the Tate Gallery. Clarence Gagnon and John Johnston also reproduce scenes of Quebec life and Suzor-Cote is another great exponent of the landscape and background of the life of Lower Canada. William Brymner, born in Scotland, is a painter of note, conductor of advanced art classes of the Montreal Art Association and president of the Academy. He is a gold medallist of the Pan-American Exposition and silver medalist of the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition.

Others mentioned were Randolph Hewton, Mbel May, Laura Muntz, J. M. Bernsley and Emily Coonans.

Exponents of the art of wood carving, one of the flourishing arts of the French Canadian, were the early eighteenth century master, Louis Quivillon, who was the originator of a distinctive style of church construction and interior decoration, and his pupils, Pepin and Labrosse. One of the most romantic moderns in this art is Pere Jobin, who lives at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, an outstanding executor of church figures.

The most brilliant early sculptor of Quebec was Charles Dauphin, whose specialty was religious figures, who was followed by Boule, Louis Frerst and Saint Armand. Napoleon Bourassa, dubbed "the father of Canadian sculpture," was born in Quebec in 1827. He was a very prolific worker and trained his pupils in the true traditions of Art. Others are Louis Phillippe Hebert, Alfred Laliberte, Suzor-Cote and Henri Hebert, the first named, Phillippe Hebert, being not only Quebec's most famous sculptor, but Canada's as well. He has produced more than fifty pieces, some of them large historical monuments, of great merit, and although he has successfully invaded the classic realm, he never cared to go outside his own country for subject matter. "There is everything here that an artist can wish for," he would say.

Mrs. Harris concluded a very fine paper with a reference to the adherence to old artistic traditions of the habitant of Quebec, and his steadfastness in keeping alive the arts of weaving and wool carding. "In travelling in Quebec, one cannot help but be impressed by the harmony between artistry and toil. This is doubtless a French trait, curiously and happily preserved through centuries of pioneer life. Seldom, if ever, is the most trifling thing wrought that is not made in some simple way to have its own artistic character, even to the rag mat which is eventually put to the hardest wear."

VICARIOUS

Sometime, I know, my hand will fail,
And many things undone will lie;
For time and tide await no man,
And days go coursing swiftly by.

But cherished shadows come and go
To hold resolve in firm control—
My life has made a bridge for you
To cross upon and reach your goal.

'Tis much to live in Echo land
When fire-flick turns to ember's glow,
As mem'ry of the baby hands
Restores again the long ago.

The storm from out the ocean's deep,
With fearful tumult and its roar—
Will roll its waves against the steeps
And fling them higher on the shore.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

COUNTY OFFICER GIVEN WARNING

Told To Confine Himself To Middlesex—Other Constables Mentioned.

ONE ALREADY 'GOT.'

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 18—High Constable A. J. Wharton, who is believed to have had a large part in the discovery of a huge still in Elgin County last summer and of another in St. Thomas a week ago, yesterday received an anonymous letter threatening his life if he does not cease operations in Elgin. Though High Constable of Middlesex, he is also a constable of Elgin, and his work has frequently taken him across the county line especially in co-operation with Constable McConnell of Aylmer. The letter received by High Constable Wharton follows: "Take notice that we have got Constable Soper, going to get Constable McConnell 2nd, and 3rd going to get you if you ever once interfere with any afafirs in Elgin county or stick your nose in any one's affairs. Now take warning."

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. Thally, St. Paul, Alta., writes:—

"For two years I suffered from pain in the back. For three months I could not walk. The doctor told me I had severe kidney trouble, and that it would take a long time to get better. I tried everything I could get, but was not improving. Then I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised in your Almanac. I tried one box, and they did me good, so I took six, and in less than a month I was feeling fine and could do my work."

ODD SCHEDULE HELPS PURPLE

Michigan's Second Game With Minnesota May Decide Big Ten Title.

ATTACK AT PEAK.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18. — A queer twist in the 1926 Western conference football schedule threatens to toss the Big Ten championship just beyond the grasp of Michigan.

Of the two elevens fighting it out in the stretch of the title race, Michigan has the harder final test because of a schedule irregularity that makes Minnesota a foe for the second time of the season.

Northwetsern, on the other hand, having had two easy victories over Indiana has benefited by the twist, and is a decided favorite to down Iowa, while the Wolverines brace against Minnesota's assault.

Attack at Peak.

Six weeks ago the two games looked like good fortune for Michigan, just after a 20-to-0 victory in the first of the series. The fall has shown that defeat to be the turning point in Minnesota't fortunes, however, and the Gophers now loom in Michigan's path after an ominous 81-to-0 conquest of Butler.

The Butler game found the traditionally crushing Gopher attack, away to a slow start this fall, almost at its peak; Yost finds himself this week worrying more about defense than about the offense which swept aside Ohio State last Saturday by an uncomfortably narrow margin.

Both Yost and Spears labored today with teams in perfect condition. At Michigan the old air machine was given a preliminary running over and at Minnesota Spears plunged into the series of new plays given his team last week, but not, as Michigan knows, used in the crushing victory over the Hoosier eleven.

One Day of Rest.

Northwestern turned to the finale with Iowa refreshed by a day's vacation ordered by Thistelwaite, in celebration of the conquest of Chicago, polishing up the same attack that humbled the Purple's ancient rivals. At Iowa, Ingwersen busied himself with a defense for much the safe style of game which beat him Saturday.

Stagg, laboring against the effects of another defeat for Chicago, marshalled his forces with an admitted chance of turning back Wisconsin in the renewal of their old warfare. At Wisconsin Little spurred a team heartened by the triumph over Iowa that came with a radical change in style of play.

Illinois is grooming the drop-kicking Frosty Peters and his mates to catch Ohio State after the Michigan game and rise above the Buckeyes for a possible second rank in the Big Ten standing. Indiana and Perdue are grooming for the fifth of the games which ring down the season's curtain with every team in action.

HARVARD TEAM GOES TO BENCH

Coach To Use Nine New Players in Annual Yale Game.

LEADERS REST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 — The drama of the annual Harvard and Yale battle, robbed of much of its importance by early season defeats and Princton domination of the final big three series, provides the colorful feature of Saturday's conflicts as the eastern football season nears a close.

Although Tad Jones is happy at Yale over the stirirng stand of the Elis over the tiger foe last Saturday and plans little change in the front that will face Harvard, the crimson machine is due for a complete overhauling. Coach Arnold Horween shattered tradition and announced to his squad at Cambridge that sweeping reorganization of the eleven would take place this week. Only two men, due to the Crimson's disappointing showing against Brown are certain of places in the starting line-up. Pratt will be at guard and Sayles at fullback. Captain Coady, injured in the Princeton struggle, will fill a tackle berth if his condition permits.

While Navy, Brown, and Army, the three leading candidates for the Eastern laurel wreath, take "breathers" this week in Loyola, New Hampshire University, and Ursinus, respectively, Lafayette and New York University, t wo other undefeated and untied elevens, bring their successful seasons to a close. Lafayette has little to fear from the Lehigh squad, a battered outfit that has suffered many defeats, but New York must tackle the husky cornplanters of Nebraska in Lincoln.

The mighty Georgetown outfit that outplayed Navy for three periods and only succumbed to the Middie drive in the final quarter, brings a massive squad to New York for the annual Fordham engagement. West Virginia has a tartar in Carnegie Tech.

"Whippet" Carr, flashy Syracuse back, still high up among the individual point scorers with 59, despite the fact that he donned moleskins yesterday for the first time since Oct. 16, when he was badly hurt in the Army game, is working lightly in the hope of seeing action against Niagara Saturday. Holy Cross has a tilt with the much-defeated Boston University eleven and Boston College takes a final workout against Providence College.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

THEATRE

AT THE GRAND.

You couldn't write a mere catalogue of all the many features of "Capt. Plunkett's Revue of 1926", if you had a whole column in which to do it.

It comes to the Grand theatre for a two night stay tomorrow with a special matinee on Saturday afternoon.

The music and the vocal abilities of the cast are exceptional. The numbers are as varied as the talents of the cast. There is Arlene Jackson, singing comedienne; Rance Quarrington, musical comedy star; Jean Haig, a sensational young soprano; Curley Nixon and Ernie Bruce, mixing melodies and laughter; the Johnston sisters in harmonies of their own composition and one dozen others.

There is a ballet instead of a chorus; with soloists and specialty girls instead of just ensemble dancers and every dancer is a beauty.

Little Jeannette Garrette has stopped the show at least once a night at every appearance so far. She is a dimunitive danseuse who does, naturally and seemingly without effort, intricate steps which still puzzle many a headliner.

The comedy sketches were imported from London's famous music halls and with them Fred Karno jr. who played with Charlie Chaplin in England years ago when the latter was an unknown in the British music halls.

Finally, there is Jean Ford Tolmie "Miss Toronto," rated by artists and sculptors as a perfect example of the statuesque beauty. Fashion designers say that she can wear gowns with a flair that can not be equalled on this side of Paris. In Capt. Plunketts Revue, her beauty of face and form has the advantage of specially-designed and constructed scenic effects and no Ziegfeld queen ever surpassed her in the matter of gowns. With her is the wests greatest beauty—Miss Winnipeg, Patricia O'Shea winner of the international contest at Galveston, Texas.

AT THE REGENT

RIN-TIN-TIN'S LATEST.

"A Hero of the Big Snows," the new Rin-Tin-Tin picture directed by Herman Raymaker, will open today at the Regent Theatre. Rinty's mate, Nanette, makes her appearance in this new Warner production, and the cast of humans includes Alice Calhoun, Don Alvarado, Leo Willis and Mary Jane Milliken.

The story, by Ewart Adamson, has the Canadian woods as its locale, and deals with a young wastrel, Ed. Nolan, who saves Rin-Tin-Tin from the brutality of a trapper. Rinty strikes up a friendship with a dog belonging to Mary Mallory, a pretty and plucky Canadian girl, and Ed finds the girl a good influence in his unhappy existence.

When Mary's baby sister falls ill and she starts out in a severe snowstorm for the doctor, Rinty aids her, and, in a thrilling fight with a wolf pack, brings the girl safely to her destination.

Rinty had been suspected of injuring the child, but in reality had rescued her from the attack of a wolf. His loyalty and bravery vindicates him of the suspicion, he saves the child, and brings together the two young lovers, after a series of thrilling incidents and encounters with a starving pack of wolves.

This is said to be the most exciting as well as most beautiful of Rin-Tin-Tin's pictures, and those who saw him in "Below the Line," "The Clash of the Wolves" and "The Night Cry," his recent Warner productions, will realize that he has a high standard of entertainment to surpass.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE XXVIII—The Original Musicians. by MAX HAHN

PRIMITIVE MAN WAS STARTLED BY THE NOISE WHEN HE ACCIDENTALLY STRUCK A HOLLOW TREE. POSSIBLY HE CALLED HIS FRIENDS TO HEAR THE TREE THAT SPOKE.

HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE TREE FURNISHED THE HUNCH FOR WHAT PERHAPS WAS THE FIRST MUSICAL INSTRUMENT. THE DRUM.

STRINGED INSTRUMENTS GREW OUT OF THE HUNTING BOW.

A REINDEER HORN FLUTE, FOUND IN A STONE AGE CAVE, IS EVIDENCE THAT MEN OF THAT PERIOD HAD WIND INSTRUMENTS.

CONDITIONS ARE WORSE.
Comparing bootlegging conditions in Manitoba under Government Sale and under Prohibition, Hon. R. W. Craig, Attorney General of Manitoba, said recently: "Conditions under Government sale are worse than under prohibition. The business is resulting in increasingly large expenses in enforcing the law. Under prohibition there were two difficulties the illicit traffic had to face—one to get liquor and the other to sell it. Under the present law one of the difficulties is gone, there is no difficulty in getting liquor. No man can tell me that when one half the difficulty has disappeared there will not be wider breaches of the law."— Advt. Peterborough Prohibition Campaign. 1d-118-684.

WHERE BOOTLEGGING FLOURISHES.
The Vancouver Daily World says: "Rum runners, gunmen, thugs and all the parasites which thrive in the miasma of the underworld of the Pacific Coast are fostered by the Government sale of liquor. The epidemic of murders and assaults which British Columbia is suffering from is part of the penalty we are paying for the present system. Calculations show that bootleggers in this province handle as much liquor as the Government stores."—Advt. Peterborough Prohibition Campaign. 1d-118-684.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR
The resurrection—Satan has used those, who pose as leaders of men, to teach that the dead are not dead, that every man, when he dies, goes immediately either to heaven or to hell or to purgatory; and that all are conscious from the moment of their death. If those statements were true, then the doctrine of the resurrection is wrong. It ought to be quite apaprent to any thinking man, that a creature that is alive in purgatory or hell or heaven, or any other place could not be resurrected. This falsity about death is the same that Satan told mother Eve. Jesus said Satan was a liar and the father of lies. John 8:44. Jesus says "Marvel not; all that are in the grave shall come forth." John 5:28. The apostle Paul says: If there is no resurrection, even the Christians who have fallen asleep (died) have perished. To perish means to go out of existence, never to exist again, unless there is a resurrection. M. T. Butcher.

TWO FLASKS FOR EACH GENTLEMEN.
"Computing roughly the figures obtained—30,000 in five years—and supposing that a flask ought to last a person that length of time, so that there are few duplications, and comparing these figures with the number of registered male voters in Toronto, deducting therefrom a liberal percentage of those who voted dry on the last election, deducting another few thousand for those who could not possibly afford a flask, even if they wanted one, and you reach the appalling conclusion that everyone who could conceivably be called a gentleman in the city of Toronto must own at least two pocket flasks."—From the Toronto Star Weekly of December 26th, 1925.

"Them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him."—1 Thess., 4:14.
How sweet the thought—Thy coming Lord,
Will mean re-union sweet,
And those we loved, and lost awhile,
We'll meet at Thy dear feet.
Till then, we'll dry each falling tear,
The prospect—O, how fair!
It shall be soon, perhaps, to-day,
We'll meet Him, "in the air."

IN MEMORIAM
FINNIE.—In loving memory of Mrs. Walter Finnie, who died Nov. 17, 1925.
November brings sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest;
Who will always be remembered
By those who loved her best.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory clings.
But death has left a vacant place
That never can be filled.
But some day we hope to met her
And to behold her smile.
Where love reigns evermore
And friends do not depart.

CAR SMUGGLING ACROSS BORDER CARRIED OUT ON EXTENSIVE SCALE OFFICERS INVESTIGATNG CASES

Sensational Disclosures Expected When Cars Stored For Winter.

SAME NUMBERS.

Many Brought In As Tourists Are Now Canadian Licensed.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—Sensational disclosures are expected this winter in wholesale evasion to customs law and trafficking in motor cars and customs entry papers. Hundreds of cases are at present being investigated by special officer Knox and a staff of secret service men. The first cases were uncovered in New Brunswick and clues found there have shown that motor car smuggling has ramifications spreading all over the country.

It has been possible for men who openly imported a car and paid duty on it to get copies of the Customs entries, properly made out and signed. These cars were smuggled in and the numbers changed to correspond with those on the entry forms. It is said that there are four or five cars in Canada of the same make bearing the same number. In such cases the cars can be seized even though the purchaser is quite innocent.

In all provinces returns have been asked of uncancelled tourist entry permits. It is suspected that hundersd of cars brought in for short periods on tourist permits and without paying any duty, are now to all intents and purposes Canadian cars bearing Canadian license plates.

Just what can be done in these cases is not known, but they will certainly lead to reform of customs entry practices and the issue of licenses.

At present there are probably 1,000 cases being investigated, and the special officers, some of whom are said to be working as mechanics in large garages, expect to reap a harvest when cars are put in for the winter months. Whether the cases will be ready for the customs' inquiry commission next year is uncertain. They may all go directly to the criminal courts.

A rather remarkable feature of the resumed sessions of the Customs probe, is that there are few, if any, "back benchers." Up to the present there have been plenty of people at all sessions, but the present hearings are being almost entirely given over to alleged illegal handling of liquor in various places,

Marriage Registration Abolished By Russians

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press)—Telegraphing from Moscow, the correspondent of The Daily Express says the Soviet legislative assembly has endorsed the government's proposal to abolish the registration of marriages, which is the only legal matrimonial tie in Russia.

Henceforth marriage will only involve the recording of martial conditions on an identity card, which will be stamped for a small sum. A couple may then live in or out of wedlock as frequently as they wish, and while they have no children they will not be troubled by the court.

HOUSE GUTTED BY BAD BLAZE

Paint Ignites, Starting Fire in Home of Thomas Moore.

OWNER INJURED.

A fire occurred last night at the home of Thomas Moore, 340 Reid street, which completely gutted the back part and burnt a small shed at the rear.

Mr. Moore was heating a pail of paint on the stove and it boiled over. The paint immediately caught fire and Mr. Moore seized the pail and went to throw it outside but it struck the door jam and spilt all over the room. Mr. Moore had both his hands burnt and Mrs. Moore was overcome by smoke when she tried to rescue a little girl which was upstairs.

When the firemen arrived the back part of the house as a mass of flames but they were able to keep the fire in that part of the building.

Distinguished Hero Going Back To Old Country Position.

FAMILY GONE.

MONTREAL, November 19. Canadian Press. — When the Cunarder Ascania left Montreal to-day for Liverpool, she carried Michael O'Leary, V. C., who was returning to the old country after several years in Canada.

O'Leary's wife and children preceded him some weeks ago. The distinguished officer since coming to Canada has had difficulty in obtaining employment suited to him. It is reported that he has secured employment with a dry goods firm in London.

The O. T. A. Is Doomed, Said Nickle.

Do You Know That Hon. W. F. Nickle INSISTED UPON 4.4 BEER IN A FINAL ATTEMPT TO SAVE THE O.T.A.?

In introducing the Bill he said in part:

"Generally I am stating that in my judgment the people of Ontario to-day who want liquor are becoming whiskey and alcohol drinkers. I am trying to tell you, Mr. Speaker, that I am convinced that unless some relief can be obtained against this ever-growing tendency that the Ontario Temperance Act is bound to be destroyed. The pendulum is swinging against the Ontario Temperance Act and while the movement was caught at the full of the tide in 1916 and 1919, due possibly to the emotionalism of the War, to-day it is almost at the ebb of the tide, and as a Temperance man I am satisfied that unless something is done to relieve the stress, the Ontario Temperance Act is doomed to be destroyed."

Members of the Prohibition Union should have a copy of Mr. Nickle's whole speech on that occasion.

It might open their eyes to conditions that they refuse to believe exist under the O.T.A.

Another Piracy Case Off China, Is Belief

HONG KONG, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Wireless reports from the Chinese-owned steamer Hong Peng, which is en route from Singapore to Hong Kong, say there are 20 casualties aboard. It is thought here that it may prove another case of piracy, but the report received was too vague for any definite conclusions.

DOCTOR CLAIMS CANCER CURED

Michael Grabham, Madeira Physician, Says He Has Met With Success.

CONDUCTS INQUIRY.

LONDON, November 19. — Canadian Press. — Another claim to a cancer cure is under investigation by the medical research council of London, says the Daily Sketch. It was submitted with details of 17 alleged successful cures by the octogenarian doctor, Michael Grabham, who has practised for 60 years o the Island of Maderia, in the Atlantic, off the northwestern coast of Africa.

The effective agency, says Dr. Grabham, is a discharge from an irritation of the human eyelid, the efficacy of which was accidentally discovered by Dr. Fortunato Pitta, of Funchal, Madeira.

FOCH REPLIES TO BELGIUM KING

Feels That He Was Unworthily Treated Over Letter Questioning Statements.

1914 MOVEMENT.

PARIS, November 19.— Canadian Press. — Marshal Foch has replied to to the letter from King Albert of the Belgians which categorically denied Foch's quoted assertion that he persuaded Albert not to allow the Belgians to retreat from the Yser in 1914.

The marshal will probably allow sufficient time for the king to receive and consider the communication before permitting its publication.

Fosh is said to feel that he was unworthily treated in that the king letter, questioning statements attributed to the marshal by Stephane Lausanne in Le Matin, was published in the newspapers at the me time he received it.

(Albert's letter said that when Foch called upon him on November 16, 1914, his own proclamation to the Belgian troops that mention of retreat would be treason, was already three days old The king denied any recollection of the marshal leaving the memorandum against retreat, which Foch was quoted as saying he gave both to the king and to the British commander-in-chief.)

Crisis of War.

The tempestuous interview which is reported to have occurred between the king and Foch in 1914, continues to be discussed animately by friends of the marshal, who say he has talked more than once about the incident which in his judgment was one of the crises of the war.

"When I went to Albert's headquarters," Foch has said in substance to his friends, "the Belgian army was beginning to retreat from the Yser. I was obliged to point out the king with great earnestness that this was a fatal course—that he could not thus abandon the last bit of Belgian territory held by him; it were better to die on the spot.

Unusual Treatment.

"'No one has ever spoken to me as you are now doing,' said Albert.

"'There never before, your majesty, has been a situation requiring it,' I replied. I prevailed upon him to hold the line of the Yse."

It is said of Foch that he has never made the least imputation on Albert's personal courage but believed that the king's alleged order to retreat was to save his army so that it might rest in stronger positions farther back.

PREMIERS SEE LARGE DIRIGIBLE BUILT IN SECRET

Will Be Used on Experimental Flights Between India and Australia.

PASSENGER SHIP.

Has Same Accommodations and Comforts as Large Passenger Liners.

LONDON, Nov. 19 — The Dominion Prime Ministers who visited the Cardington royal airship works yesterday saw R-101, England's latest airship, which will be, it is claimed, the largest and most powerful airship in the world. It is one of two dirigibles which will be used on experimental flights between India and Australia with the view of establishing a regular service.

The design and details of the construction of the R-101 have been kept secret. The new airship will have a carrying capacity of 100 passengers, ten tons of mail, sleeping cabins with two and four berths lounges, smoking rooms and dining rooms capable of seating fifty persons at a time, promenade decks on which passengers can stretch their legs, kitchens which can serve seven-course dinners, shower baths, accommodation for dancing and games, and facilities for wireless entertainments which will be provided involuntarily by the countries over which the airship happens to be passing.

Airships hitherto have been based largely on the Zeppelin idea but the construction of the R-101 is a complete departure. Stainless steel has been used for the girders and it is said to be stronger for its weight than duralumin. Steel propellers also will be used. Five 600 horsepower engines, each housed in a car slung below the ship, will burn heavy oil instead of gasoline.

The R-101 will be 730 feet long, 130 feet in diameter and 140 feet high. She will be able to fly seventy miles an hour and will cruise at sixty-three miles an hour with a range of 4,000 miles.

It is understood that Premier Bruce of Australia, after inspection of the mooring mast at Cardington, decided to recommend the construction of a similar mast in Australia This will enable an experimental flight to be made from London to Australia in 1928. Premier Mackenzie King already has announced that Canada will construct a mast for similar purposes.

The Imperial Conference probably will finish its labors early next week. Premier Hertzog, it is understood, desires to leave next Wednesday and every effort will be made to accommodate him.

Crop Restriction Plans Now Extended To Tea

CALCUTTA, Nov. 19 (United Press) — Coincident with Cuba's restriction of sugar production, and in conformity with Great Britain's rubber restriction, Japan's silk restriction, and efforts to restrict United States cotton production, Northern India today was reported to be contemplating restriction of the tea crop.

Over-production of tea, it was said, may cause cessation of plucking.

Unknown Kills Self In Shooting Gallery

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—A man, so far unidentified, but thought to be a sailor on board the steamship Belcher, now in port, entered a shooting gallery in the east end Wednesday night, picked up a rifle and shot himself in the head. He died at the Montreal General Hospital. "To show you how I can shoot," said the man to the proprietor, 'place some matches as some of the birds and I'll light them." The proprietor went to the rear of the gallery to prepare the targets when he heard a shot. He turned and saw the man collapsing.

TO CELEBRATE DOMINION DAY

Local Committee Formed To Plan Diamond Jubilee Programme.

OLD TIME PARADE.

Canada's Diamond Jubilee will be celebrated next first of July all over the country, and Peterboro is going to stage a big celebration on that date. A citizens' committee has already been formed and arrangements are well under way for the staging of a monster Canadian Jubilee Celebration on Canada's sixtieth birthday.

The committee consists of W. H. Bradburn, ex-M.P.P., Alderman R. Denne, J. M. Greene, C. H. Ackerman and W. J. Hancock, ex-Mayor J. J. Turner, ex-Alderman R. N. Jones, E. F. Reid, J. H. Spence, T. Mark, James Ball, George Porter, Colonel J. W. Miller, Robert Hendry, and Frank Rathbone.

This committee is planning to have a monster old time Calithumpian parade for the morning, and a first-class programme of sports and vaudeville in the afternoon and evening.

All the citizens are requested to keep in mind that "You are wanted in Peterborough, your home city, on July first next."

ANNULMENT STILL UNDER DISCUSSION

British Clergy Feel That Action Weakens Marriage Tie.

LONDON, Nov. 19. — Canadian Press. — The annulment of the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough continues under discussion here in Church of England circles. The action of the authorities of the Roman Catholic Church in granting the plea of Consuelo, former Duchess, for nullification, is regretted as being inimicable to the sanctity of the marriage tie.

The Right Rev. Dr. E. A. Burroughs, Bishop of Ricon, in an address to the National Assembly of the Church of England, said that he considered it unusual to the old communion to which we are proud to belong.

The assembly cheered the utterance of the Bishop, but nothing further was said on the subject.

The Church Times, representing the right wing of the church of England, which is endeavoring to effect union between the Anglican and Roman Churches, comments as follows on the annulment:

"Assuming the marriage was effected by duress on one party, it cannot be denied it is invalid. On this point, however, the protests of the Bishop of the Diocese in which the ceremony is performed, must be considered.

"In any case, the parties had lived together many years. Children have been born, and to reopen the case so many yars afterwards seems hardly equitable.

"We deeply regret that the degree of annulment was made. We feel it has done much to weaken the sanctity of the marriage tie."

D'ANGELO GUILTY ON ONE CHARGE; FREED OF THREE

Jury Brings in Manslaughter Verdict on Death of Maybee.

DEFENCE HEARD.

Prisoner a Scapegoat For Those Who Supplied Him, Says Counsel.

MILTON, Nov. 19.—On three of the four counts of manslaughter charged against him, Bert D'Angelo, the Hamilton bootlegger, was acquitted last night by a jury at the Fall Assizes. The jury, which was out two hours and forty minutes, brought in a recommendation for mercy on the one conviction registered. Sentence was deferred, and may be passed on Saturday, when D'Angelo will likely appear on the second indictment standing against him: that of administering, or causing to be administered, to Patrick Lyons of Oakville poisonous ingredients.

Few of the spectators who had crowded the court-room all day were present when the jury filed in with its verdict at 8.13 yesterday evening. The single conviction was registered in the count arising out of the death of William Maybee, Oakville, wood-alcohol victim. The prisoner was acquitted on the three charges based on the deaths of George Gill and James Johnston, both of Oakville, and of Mrs. Olive Guertin of Toronto.

Says D'Angelo Scapegoat.

The whole afternoon was occupied by the addresses to the jury. Hugh John Macdonald took one hour and three-quarters with his passionate plea for acquittal. Mr. Macdonald declared that if D'Angelo did supply the wood alcohol alleged to have been the cause of the deaths, he supplied it unwittingly, and without knowledge of its harmful effects. He contended that nowhere in the case was there certainty beyond reasonable doubt, and pleaded that D'Angelo was only the scapegoat, the little fellow who had been caught, while the big fellow went free.

Charge of Mr. Justice Rose.

In his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice Rose said: "The law is that, if D'Angelo sold wood alcohol to be used as a beverage, he did an unlawful act; and, if any person came to his death by drinking the wood alcohol so sold, D'Angelo is to be said, in the words of the indictment, to have unlawfully slain or killed that person. So that, I think, as far as you are concerned, the inquiry limits itself to this: Did D'Angelo sell wood alcohol? Did the persons mentioned in the indictment, or any of them—because you will have to consider each separately—come to his death by the alcohol so sold?"

"Caution is needed in dealing with such evidence," said His Lordship, referring to the whole indictment.

"You won't let your abhorrence of the sale of wood alcohol, or your conviction that somebody ought to be punished for it, lead you into the decision that this man should be found guilty."

New Debt Conferences Requested By Poincare

PARIS, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press)—The Echo de Paris, says Premier Poincare will probably start fresh conversations with the London and Washington governments on the question of debt settlements. His object is to be able to present the debt question to parliament in the most favorable possible light when the time comes.

TRAFFIC SIGNS BEING ERECTED

Through Street By-law Will Be Effective When Work Finished.

NINETY REQUIRED.

The first of the new stop signs in connection with the traffic by-law requiring all traffic to come to a complete stop before entering certain designated streets, was placed in position by the members of the city engineer's staff this morning.

Ninety signs have been purchased, this number being required in order that every intersection coming under the new lay may be legibly marked.

The new signs are being placed at the edge of the sidewalk on the right hand side of the street going with the traffic. The signs which are abou two feet in diameter are placed about six feet above the level of the street. On each is printed "Stop — Through Street" in large letters.

The by-law will come into force just as soon as the last sign is erected.

Damages Granted For Eye Lost By Girl 6 Years Ago

WAUKEGAN Ills., Nov. 19 (United Press)—Six years ago, four year old Leonora Kingsley was attacked by a vicious rooster as she played in the yard of Emil E. Weineck. One of her eyes was so badly damaged that it had to be removed.

Today, after six years of litigation Weineck was ordered to pay the girl's father $1,250 for Suit in behalf of the girl was the loss of her eye.

Suit in behalf of the girl was brought for $20,000 and last winter a jury returned a verdict which awarded one dollar damages to the plaintiff.

However, Judge John Shurtleff ruled that the amount was insufficient and ordered a new trial.

PETERBORO' MEN GIVE ADDRESSES TO ASSOCIATION

J. J. Duffus, President Elect, and Mayor Holloway, Address Boards of Trade.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Canada on Verge of Better Times, Says Retiring President.

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—The future of Canada, as seen through the eyes of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, which met in the Council Chamber of the City Hall yesterday for the Association's fifteenth annual meeting, is one of glorious progress and boundless possibilities, the realization of which require only the faith and courage of her citizens. No whisper of death pervaded the deliberations of the assembled delegates, who could see in the vast resources of the country and the character of her people, the potential elements which will place Canada in the forefront of the Empire.

The Association is composed of some sixty Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of Ontario, and is therefore representative of the business element of every important municipality in the Province. The objects of the meeting, as outlined by President K. J. Dunstan in his opening address, are to study and discuss the various problems of national life, so that suggestions in the form of resolutions might be submitted to the Ontario and Dominion Governments for the assistance and guidance of the legislators. Among the subjects under discussion yesterday were the extension of tourist permits, immigration, Canadian coasting laws, taxation, highways construction and traffic, fire prevention and the question of a Canadian exhibition train to Great Britain. Some thirteen other important questions have been docketed for discussion to-day when the session resumes.

There were 90 out-of-town delegates in attendance at the meeting, and many more registrations are expected to-day.

In his opening remarks, President Dunstan noted with satisfaction that the Association had been strengthened during the past year by the addition of the Timmins and Barrie Boards of Trade. In speaking of the aims and objects of the organization, Mr. Dunstan said that the well-considered judgment of such a large body of business men should command the respect of the Dominion and Provincial Governments

Judge Murphy Helps Her Relative

THE advocates of a "wet" Ontario are spreading around lavishly—including the front page of Wenesday's Examiner—a letter by Magistrate Emily Murphy (Janey Canuck), of Edmonton, that would make it appear that everything is lovely under Government Sale in Edmonton. But there is something they neglect to tell us.

Magistrate Murphy is a cousin of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

And of course, blood being thicker than water, the Premier has called his relative to his aid in trying to bolster up his "wet" platform.

SOME REAL FACTS

Now hear what an old Cavan boy says about Magistrate Murphy's Province. Mr. R. E. Finley, of Clive, Alberta, says:

"Under Government Sale crime is on the increase. In 1925 the commitments to the two jails in Alberta were as follows:

Fort Saskatchewan	568
Lethbridge	764
Total	1,332

"Of these 415 were for infractions of the Government Control Act or for operating illicit stills. The last full year that Alberta had prohibition was 1923. During that year the same jails had as inmates as follows:

Fort Saskatchewan	107
Lethbridge	110
A total for the Province of	217

"As against 1,332 in the year 1925, the first full year that Government Control was in operation."

CONDITION UNDER GOVERNMENT SALE

Mr. Finley further states:

"I was in Edmonton on Wednesday night last week, Nov. 3, and I counted ten men within one block who were so drunk that they could not walk straight. Of the 330 hotels in the province who received a license to operate a beer parlor, 33, or 10%, had their license cancelled or suspended in the same year. What for? Well not because they were promoting real temperance. Do not be hoodwinked over the specious arguments of so-called 'government control'."

Judge Emily Murphy, being a Magistrate in the Juvenile Court, naturally would not meet with many cases of children and young girls violating the liquor laws.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB HEARS OF WORK

Y.M.C.A. Activities in Railway Towns of North Are Explained.

REGULAR MEETING.

Y.M.C.A. work among the railwaymen of Northern Ontario was discussed by the Rev. William MacDonald of Knox church, who addressed the members of the Y's Men's Club at their weekly meeting last night. He told of the appreciation the railways have for this work, leading them to establish and subsidize branches at their divisional points.

In Northern Ontario, said the speaker, the work does not progress along the lines familiar to Y.M.C.A. members of the more settled districts. There dormitory and club room accommodation are more important. Bowling and billiards are provided, with movies and Sunday evening song meetings.

Work is also done among the boys of these railway towns. This is much along the line of Tuxis Boy and Trail Ranger work in Old Ontario.

The Y's men's club is a service club connected with the Y.M.C.A., formed for the purpose of rendering service in connection with the work of that organization. William Herrick gave an account of a meeting of the Toronto club, held to welcome members of other Ontario clubs. The local club has just been organized. Roy White is the president.

... CHRONICLER OF FACTS ... SIFTER OF RUMORS AND OPINIONS ... MINISTER OF THE TRUTH THAT MAKES MEN FREE.

ARMISTICE DAY.

From some centres complaints are being heard as to a failure to properly observe Armistice Day.

The confusion that exists as to the proper occasion for Armistice Day ceremonies is in some measure responsible for this seeming neglect of a community responsibility.

While Armistice Day and Thanksgiving are combined and observed on a date that is not the actual anniversary of the former, there will be always a difference of opinion as to the most suitable time.

Thus some cities select the Sunday before Armistice Day for the anniversary ceremonies, while others defer the observance until Nov. 11, the actual date.

Instead of a nation-wide celebration of the occasion, interest is divided by reason of these different ceremonies and much is lost as a result.

ENLISTING THE CHILDREN.

The problem of arousing public interest in municipal affairs, especially in municipal elections, is not peculiar to Peterboro or even in this Province, for in Chicago there is a crusade going on at the present time that has as its aim the impressing upon citizens generally of voting.

In this campaign newspapers, civic organization and other organizations have been co-operating, but the most novel feature of the drive has been the idea of mobilizing thousands of school pupils behind the campaign.

The plan is to have children write essays on the importance of voting, and take these home as a reminder to their parents of the duty owed by the latter as citizens.

It is not expected, of course, that the reaction of this school children plan will be general, but it is hoped that in many cases at least the seed will fall upon fruitful ground.

At least some ideas of citizenship will be gained by the children during the process, and it is this angle that appeals to The Examiner.

Perhaps when subjects for essays are being given out in local schools the teachers may be able to try the Chicago plan and have their pupils write upon the desirability of a general use of the franchise.

HOCKEY OVER THE BORDER.

Reports from Chicago indicate that the advent of professional hockey in that city was a wonderful success, a capacity crowd filling the arena where the game was played, while radio enthusiasts who heard a play-by-play report could tell by the wild cheering how much the game was enjoyed.

There was nothing surprising in that.

In the first place, there are enough Canadian followers of the game in Chicago to ensure steady patronage.

And in the second, if there wasn't a Canadian in the Windy City we are confident in the ability of the game to sell itself to the sport-loving people of that city.

While there are manifest dangers to the future of amateur hockey in this and other Canadian Provinces as a result of the progress of the professional game, particularly across the border, Canadians are proud to contribute to the entertainment resources of their neighbors such a fascinating, virile and swiftly-moving game as hockey.

When it is called the fastest game in the world the description is not too enthusiastic.

We will not begrudge the United States having a share in the enjoyment of hockey, albeit Canadians generally will hope that the popularity of the game will shortly result in the American clubs being able to develop their own players.

A FREE CLINIC.

The local Board of Health is advising all citizens to protect themselves against smallpox by being vaccinated.

The warning should be heeded.

The danger of an epidemic is still sufficiently grave as to justify preventive methods.

So far as the school children are concerned, the threat is not so serious, for some 75 per cent. have been vaccinated.

The risk from now on will be divided between adults and children below the school age, and the Board of Health's warning is particularly for the benefit of these classes.

The beneficial results of vaccination among school pupils is shown by one case in which both parents have been stricken with smallpox while the children who had been vaccinated escaped.

The Board of Health, in the opinion of The Examiner, should not be content with publishing a warning.

The situation is threatening enough to justify the establishment of a free clinic where citizens who are unable to pay for vaccination can be protected.

Free vaccine is provided by the Ontario Government for such purposes, and The Examiner urges the Board of Health to provide facilities for those who cannot afford to pay.

If an epidemic is allowed to develop the results both from a health and from a financial viewpoint may be large.

INCOME TAX IN ONTARIO.

(From The Financial Post)

What action has been taken by the committee appointed to go into the matter of revising the existing Ontario Assessment Act?

For two years, it is understood, this committee has been meeting at regular intervals, but to date no details of the findings have been made public. Yet from time to time attention has been called to the inconsistencies of this piece of legislation, which should be corrected without further delay. An example of the unworkability of this act is the case of a Toronto business man, referred to in these columns recently. This man is now appealing to the county judge against the ruling of the Toronto Court of Revision in taxing him on the full amount of dividends received from his stock and bond holdings, without taking into consideration carrying charges.

The attitude taken by the municipalities is that, whereas the Dominion Government taxes a corporation on its profits, they only tax the income derived from dividends. If carrying charges were eliminated the contention is that revenue would be seriously curtailed. And here is an important point in the inconsistency of the stand of the municipal authorities. The Federal Government exempts all carrying charges on stocks and bonds, but on the other hand, the municipalities tax all carrying charges with the exception of loans made to pay allotments on a war loan issue of the Government of Canada. If an exception is made in this case, why not for all bonds and stocks?

Up to date many hundreds have experienced similar treatment at the hands of the municipal authorities, but as the amounts involved were usually small, no effort was made to have redress, as it is obvious that the cost of legal proceedings would more than outweigh the benefits received.

As the Assessment Act now reads, each municipality is allowed to fix its own tax. In the city of Toronto, for example, the rate is about 30 mills, so that the householder pays three per cent. on an income over two thousand dollars. Yet, in a neighboring municipality, the rate may be only 28 mills, or incomes may not be conscientiously assessed at all. This situation has resulted in numerous justifiable cases of "tax dodging." Why should a man living in Toronto pay more on his income than the man living just outside the municipality, when both earn their incomes in the city?

This unsatisfactory state of affairs has existed for some time, and punitive efforts have been made not infrequently to bring about an amendment of the act and put in force a uniform rate of municipal taxation all over the Province. This is undoubtedly a difficult problem, but it is one worthy of consideration by the Provincial Legislature. Whether or not some method of equalization of municipal rates can be effected, close attention should be given to bringing about a closer uniformity between the different municipalities.

WHAT SORT OF IMMIGRANT?

Immigration to Canada is on the increase. For the first nine months of the calendar year (January to September) immigration amounted to 112,835, as compared with 67,878 for the same nine months in 1925—a gain of 66 per cent.

That, so far as it goes, is to the good. But there is one feature about these immigration figures which provokes thought. It is the feature which shows that of the 112,000 immigrants that have come to Canada this year 41,000 were British, 16,000 were from the United States, and 54,000 were non-British.

It would be interesting to know whence came the 54,000 non-British. And it might be also interesting to know just exactly how many of this 54,000 went on the land.

We are not of those who believe that the British peoples have a monopoly of the virtues. We are prepared to believe—and Canada's experience has shown—that men from many parts of Europe make good citizens. But, conceding that, it still stands true that there are other parts of Europe from which this country should not greatly desire settlers.

It is not a question of racial superiority. It is a question of the ability of races to mix, of the capacity of certain peoples to adapt themselves to our institutions. This, after all, is a British country—British in laws, ideals, institutions. That being so, and admitting that we have the wish to keep Canada British, the question of the class of immigrants we get is an important one. The lesson of the United States should teach us that.

The British population of Canada today is less than 55 per cent. When that fact is considered, and when we remember in addition that our recent heavy emigration has been largely British, and that the proportion of British immigration is steadily declining, as well as the proportion of our British births, the situation compels thought. It may not be, as some writers like Dean Inge represent, a matter for panic, but, on the other hand, it gives no ground for complacency.

Advocates of the "open door" in immigration argue that any man who wants to come to Canada and work should be welcomed. Perhaps so; but those who argue that way are not very logical; they don't apply their standards to the Chinese or the Japs. The Chinese and the Japanese are anything but indolent. But we reject them nevertheless, and simply because they are of races that do not mix with our own. It is not that we think them inferior; it is simply that they do not assimilate.

The same argument, we think, applies to many Europeans. They do not understand our institutions; they have difficulty in adapting themselves to our standards; their traditions, their ideals and their customs are different from ours.

On that ground—and, considering the difficulties that confront a democracy in a country like Canada—it is important that care should be taken in the choice of immigration.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The warning of the Board of Health in regard to vaccination should not be overlooked.

Not many films get as much free advertising as Dr. Hart's prohibition slides.

With Hon. W. F. Nickle as a candidate, Kingston folks will have something more to think about than the fate of Queen's football team.

Down at McGill University the question of wet or dry is also causing some anxiety. But it concerns only the condition of the football field for tomorrow's game with Varsity.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—There was little demand from exporters for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday, but a moderate amount of business was done with local and country buyers. On account of the renewed strength in the Winnipeg market for oats, local cash prices were advanced 2 cents per bushel.

The feature of the Spring wheat flour trade was the improved demand from foreign buyers and a good business was worked. On the other hand the local and country trade was quiet but the undertone was firm. The condition of the market for Winter wheat flour was unchanged with a small trade passing.

A fair trade was done in all lines of millfeed and values were firm. Prices for standard grades of rolled oats were well maintained under a good demand.

The egg market continued active and prices were firm. The receipts were 2,490 cases.

The undertone to the potato market was easy at the late decline in prices noted on account of the continued mild weather prevailing which tended to check the demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Green Mountains sold at $1.80 per bag, New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.75 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.60 per bag of 90 pounds.

The demand for beans continued good and prices ruled firm. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $2.75 per bushel, and broken lots at $3 per bushel.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the butter market and the indications are that prices may possibly go still gher in the near future owing to the light receipts of fresh made goods and the steady decrease in the stock on spot of Eastern Townships make. The receipts were 1,461 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the local and export trade in cheese but prices were steady. The receipts were 1,930 boxes.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.83 3-16.
Sterling cables $4.84 1-8.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press). — Cattle 13,000; numerous loads short fed heavy steers $6.50 to $7.50; kinds at latter prices scaling up to 1,629 pounds; best heavies $10.25; yearlings $12.40; bulls unchanged; vealers weak at $11.00 downward to packers.

Hogs, 42,000; top $11.65; bulk desirable hogs $11.35 to $11.60; most pigs $11.25 to $11.75; bulk packing sows $10.00 to $10.65; few light weights $10.75; heavies downward to $9.75.

Sheep 11,000; top fed westerns to shippers $13.40; top natives to packers and small killers $13.25; fat range offerings up to $13.00; bulk desirable fat lambs $12.75 to $13.00; bulk fat ewes $5.25 to $6.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices tilted upward yesterday owing largely to North American export business that was estimated as high as 2,500,000 bushels. Active speculative selling developed on the advance, however, and partly wiped out the gains. Closing quotations for wheat were unsettled, 5-8 to 1 1-2c net higher; corn 1-8 to 1-2c up; oats unchanged to 1-4c better, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 27c.

Snow and cold weather over the greater part of the corn belt tended to give firmness to the corn market and also to oats. Corn receipts here yesterday were small, only 80 cars.

Better cash demand helped to lift most of the provision market, notwithstanding that hog values were weak.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

FLATTERY
By Dr. Frank Crane.

Do not be afraid of being a flatterer.

Accustom yourself to the habit of saying pleasant things to people and about people. For it is largely a matter of habit.

One can easily slip into the way of making disagreeable and cutting remarks to people, or saying them about people, and making trouble.

It is well to be genuine and honest and all that sort of thing, but you don't have to be disagreeable to be sincere.

There are pleasant things about every person. Nobody is wholly wrong, and if you look long enough you can find something good in everybody.

Make it a point to know these good things and speak of them.

Everybody likes a bit of flattery. If a man says he does not like it a sure way to flatter him is to tell him that he can't be flattered.

Of course flattery does not want to be laid on too thick. Then it defeats its purpose. You have to use judgment in this matter as in all matters, but it is well to get into the way of saying pleasant things about folks, just as it is well to form the habit of entertaining pleasant thoughts.

There are agreeable and disagreeable things in this world. There are beautiful and there are ugly sights. It all depends upon which way you face. Look toward the beautiful things and search out the agreeable things. This will have a reflex influence upon your state of mind and character and also do much toward increasing your popularity and holding your friendships.

Many a marriage has been saved by a steady and persistent resolve to say only pleasant things, and more marriages have been wrecked than we like to think by a habit of persistent fault finding and criticism.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

All communications on political questions must bear the signature of the writer for publication and must be received before 1 p.m. on the day before publication is desired.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear sir:

I want to address this letter to the young people of this city and surrounding country on the streets and around the corners and in the back shops we are continually hearing that our young people are going to the dogs, our young men are hip pocket flask fiends, and our young ladies are cigarette slaves. Now in a few days our young people will be able to show their resentment to the slander that is going, by every young lady that does not smoke cigarettes and every young man that does not meet his young lady with the smell of liquor on his breath or a flask in his pocket, rising in a volume and showing the world, and especially Ontario, that the noblest young manhood and young womanhood in the world is in our city and in our province.

Now, I would say that I feel that the young people owe this request to me as I have always been pleased to stand behind them regardless of politics or creed or nationality.

Thanking you, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. H. MERRELL.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Four centenarians died within a month in Ireland. What we want to know is what kind of armor they wore.

Every Home Needs ZAM-BUK

So delightfully soothing on a cut, wound or sore. So rapidly cleansing and healing. And how much safer and more efficient than crude ointments with their animal fats and harsh mineral drugs.

Being so highly refined and purely herbal, Zam-Buk is readily absorbed into the tissues. It thus naturally banishes deep-seated disease and grows new healthy skin.

Zam-Buk is well-described as "A Surgery in a Two-Inch Box." Use it for cuts, burns and other injuries as well as for eczema, salt rheum, pimples, boils, ulcers, piles, poisoned wounds, or other irritating skin or scalp disease. 'Rub it in' for chest colds, lumbago, rheumatism and muscular pains.

Zam-Buk is sold in 50c. boxes; three for $1.25. Of druggists and stores everywhere, or from Sole Proprietors: The Zam-Buk Co., Dupont St., Toronto.

FADS OF THE FAMOUS

DON EMILIANO FIGUEROA.

Don Emiliano Figueroa, the President of the Republic of Chile, is never more formidable or pensive than when he is playing Ombre, an old Spanish card game which requires even greater concentration than chess.

When national affairs perturb the President, he does not pace nervously up and down the floor, but summons two of his ministers and plays a concentrated game of Ombre, forgetting everything else for the moment.

"I can always think better after a good game of Ombre. It seems to quiet my nerves," he once explained.

The highest personal tribute that the President can pay anyone is to invite him to play Ombre at his home on Friday night. This round of cards on Friday is one of the inviolable rites of Sr. Figueroa and is never interfered with unless the most urgent duties of state demand his attention.

SORE THROAT?

DEAL promptly with the first sign of hoarseness, soreness or inflammation—it might be the forerunner of laryngitis, influenza or serious bronchial trouble.

The quickest, safest and most soothing remedy is Peps. As a Peps tablet dissolves in the mouth it gives off medicinal fumes that are breathed into the innermost recesses of throat and chest.

In their speedy direct way Peps thoroughly disinfect the throat and air-tubes, destroy mischievous germs, relieve any soreness, inflammation or irritation.

Take Peps whenever you suspect you need them. A Peps in the mouth filters the air you breathe, and fortifies against sudden colds and chills and the infection dangers encountered in trains, street cars and crowded assemblies.

Peps are equally good for obstinate coughs and colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, and other chest weaknesses of old and young.

REVOLTS HAVE BEEN RESUMED

Reported More Killed and Injured in West Java Uprisings.

MANY ARRESTS.

AMSTERDAM Nov. 19 (Canadian Press)—Communist disturbances which occurred in Java last week have been resumed in many parts of the country, latest advices from Batavia said yesterday.

Three Communists were killed and 20 wounded in an attack in the Bojolali region, while one was killed and two wounded in a surprise attack by a force of 500 dissidents in the Djokoja district.

Reports from many places in Java tell of the arrests or surrender of Communists, the entire executive committee being arrested at Bandoeng, and 465 persons being arrested at Weltevreden.

A report sent to the Dutch colonial ministry Wednesday by the governor-general said that except for a serious revolt in the Pandegland regency the situation through out West Java was satisfactory.

SHAW DECLINES AWARD MONEY FOR NOBEL PRIZE

Amount Be Used to Encourage Intercourse and Understanding in Literature.

ACCEPTS HONOR

Fund Be Established for the Translation of Swedish Works.

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—George Bernard Shaw, the veteran British playwright, who was awarded the Nobel prize in literature for 1925, yesterday notified the Swedish Academy that he was happy to accept the honor of the award but that he declined the prize money.

He suggested, however, that the money, which usually amounts to $35,000, be used to encourage "intercourse and understanding in literature and art between Sweden and the British Isles."

Referring with characteristic humor to the fact that most of the paper which came to Great Britain from Sweden had nothing printed on it and apparently was used chiefly to wrap Australian apples. Shaw proposed that a und fbe established to bring in important Swedish books and to support organs working for intelectual intercourse between the two nations.

Mr. Shaw's declination of the prize money was handed to the Swedish Minister in London, who forwarded it to the Swedish Academy at Stockholm, where the award was made. It read: "The award of the Nobel prize for 1925 to an English work is a very welcome reinforcement of the cordial understanding between British and Swedish culture established by the famous bequest of Nobel. It will not be lost on my native country, Ireland, which already claims one distinguished Nobel prize man (W. B. Yeates 1923).

"It is naturally very gratifying to me personally that it has fallen my lot to furnish the occasion for such an act of international appreciation.

"I must, however ,discriminate between the award and the prize. For the award I have nothing but my best thanks. But, after most careful consideration I cannot persuade myself to accept the money. My readers and audiences provide me with more than sufficient money for my needs; and as to my renown, it is greater than is good for my spiritual health. Under these circumstances money is a lifebelt thrown to a swimmer, who has already reached the shore in safety. I therefore respectfully and gratefully beg the Swedish Royal Academy to confer on me the additional and final honor of classing my works in that respect hors concours ('out of competition').

"Should this event have been unforeseen and unprovided for by the founders of the prize, it may have the effect of placing at the disposal of the Nobel directors a sum as to which they are not bound by the difficult and occasional impossible conditions of prize-giving. May I therefore seize this opportunity to call the attention of the board to the following consideration:

LONDON PAPER DENOUNCES BOOK

Daily Mail Prints Front Page Denunciation of New Book.

SCANDALOUS FAKE.

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press)—The Daily Mail prints on its front page a three column denunciation of the new book "The Whispering Gallery" as "a scandalous fake."

The Mail declares that "the whole thing is a reckless and impudent invention, containing vulgar errors of style and surprising ignorance of fact."

It incidences, among others, an incident in which the author mentions Lord Curzon "as making a jocular allusion to Pussyfoot Johnson before the word Pussyfoot was current."

The Mail prints quoted repudiations from the Earl of Balfour, Earl Oxford and Asquith, Viscount Cecil, Winston Churchill and Lord Reading, with reference to incidents and conversations in which, according to the writer ,they were concerned.

Alluding to the reference to the Czar of Russia, in which the late emperor is described as "a cad, coward, butcher and blackguard." and even more unsavory appellations, The Mail characterizes this as "an abominable slander" and adds that "this suggests the suspicion that the book may be an insidious piece of Bolshevist propaganda."

SEVENTH ANGEL IS OUT ON BAIL AWAITING TRIAL

Followers of Cult Have Rallied To Defense of Leader.

$120,000 BOND.

Attorneys Feel Confident That Purnell Will Be Cleared of Charges.

(By Edwin L Heckler, United Press Staff Correspondent)

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 19 — "King Ben" Purnell, known to his bearded followers as "the seventh angel of the Israelites," and to the state of Michigan as a "pious fraud," awaits arraignment December 22, on charges of bigamy and criminal assault upon young girls.

Under bond of $120,000, signed by eight Benton Harbor businessmen, "King Ben" has been allowed to return to the seclusion of his strange colony on the outskirts of Benton Harbor, there to await his formal arraignment, and the trial which is considered certain to follow.

His followers, including men and women from all corners of the earth, have rallied to his defense, and claim they will prove him innocent of any wrongdoing. They have shielded him from arrest for four years not because they feared his conviction, but because they believed he would be given unfair treatment, several members of the cult said.

Since the first "exposure" four years ago, of the religious colony known as the House of David, warrants have been out for the arrest of "King Ben." In virutally every state, even across the borders of Canada and Mexico, search has been made. During the last year, however, it was common gossip about Benton Harbor and St. Joseph that the cult leader never had left his colony, but was secreted in Shiloh,

REGRETS DECISION.

British Aviatrix Receives Many Requests To Reconsider Her Decision.

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Elliott Lynn, British aviatrix, who announced her intention last October of abandoning flying, because of the jealousy which had made her life as a flier "intolerable," has already repented her decision. At a club social yesterday she explained that she had received more than a thousand letters from all parts of the country, begging her to reconsider her decision. She had therefore accepted an offer, and will resume flying in April, when she returns from an African tour.

CONVICTS' PAROLE WILL BE DELAYED

Men Who Gave the Alarm Must Wait For New Trial.

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Nov. 19. — Four convicts who raised an alarm when Guard Earl enkins of the Penitentiary staff was brutally assaulted by Thomas McCoskey, a Russian, and who were slated for a parole this Christmas, will not likely receive their parole until next February as McCoskey, who was found guilty on a charge of murder and sentenced to be hanged on Friday next, Nov. 26, has been granted a new trial, and the trial will not take place until February.

PRISON A CLUB FOR SOME MEN

Prisoner Says Man Who Led Escape Bought Many Luxuries.

TREATED LIKE PRINCE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 19.—(United Press).—The pleasures of living in Tombs prison where one might "rule like the Prince of Wales" provided his bank roll was big enough, was disclosed Wednesday to a grand jury investigating an attempted break in which three gangsters were killed.

Hyman Amberg, wealthy criminal who engineered the foiled escape, was permitted to see women night and day in his cell and often escorted to a private room when the eyes of his mates became too prying, witnesses declared.

All the prisoners on his tier lived in luxury at his beneficence, according to A. J. Friedman, an inmate, who said he knew three days before that Amberg and his companions, Robert Berg and "Red" McKenna, would attempt to break out.

Two were killed in the Tombs courtyard after a gun fight with the police. One committed suicide after he had murdered the Warden and found escape impossible.

The grand jury is trying to determine how the men got their weapons.

WOUNDED BAILIFF PROGRESSES WELL

Doctor Now Expects Him To Recover—Lawyer Retained.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 19—W. C. Mikel, K.C., has been retained by Abraham Robinson, who is in jail here on a charge of attempted murder of Bailiff Charles St. Charles of Madoc while he was attempting to seize cattle for arrears of taxes on Monday morning last. Mr. Mikel has had several lengthy interviews with his client.

Dr. Eagleson of Madoc, who is attending the wounded man declared yesterday that he saw no reason why the bailiff should not fully recover. "He is progressing favorably, is much better, and his temperature has now been normal for two days. The cold which he had been suffering from is thoroughly broken up," he said.

Real Value in Ladies' Silk Stockings

There are many kinds of silk stockings, some with a long cotton top, some like fine gauze, some that fit poorly, and some that wear out in a few days.

Our new silk stockings are a big departure from the quality you will usually see at this price. They are made from specially good wearing silk thread, and are properly shaped. They fit correctly with daintily shaped ankle and neat foot, their quality is good, showing a smart, stylish appearance. They come in all the new shades and in all sizes.

The outstanding feature of these stockings is that they are extra long and are made with the silk right up to the top. There is no unsightly length of cotton at the top of the stocking to worry you.

SAINT AND SINNER

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CHERRY LANE, 18, a typical flapper, has a long list of admirers. One is CHESTER HART, a former beau of her sister, FAITH, the stay-at-home drudge for the Lane family.

Others are CHRIS WILEY, whom Cherry meets clandestinely; ALBERT ETTLESON, a traveling salesman, and BOB HATHAWAY, to whom Faith is also attracted, but who has eyes only for petite, copper-haired Cherry.

Faith's life is largely made up of getting JUNIOR, 21, and Cherry out of trouble and hiding their scrapes from their parents.

Chester Hart brings GEORGE PRUITT, erstwhile artist, and son of one of the town's richest families to call on Faith, and Pruitt admires Faith's tall, womanly body extravagantly. While Cherry is at work the next day, Faith receives a great box of American Beauty roses from Pruitt, which astonishes and pleases her enormously though her heart is already lost to Hathaway.

While AUNT HATTIE LANE, an acid-tongued, kind-hearted spinster, is helping Faith to make a new dress, the girl receives a telegram for Cherry, and hurries downtown to tell the girl, immensely worried at this evidence of an intrigue between Cherry and Albert Ettleson, who is evidently married.

She finds Cherry being made love to by her elderly employer, MR. CLUNY, and upbraids her. Cherry protests that Cluny means no harm, and lies about the meaning of Ettleson's telegram. When Cherry sees George Pruitt's roses she believes they are for her. When Pruitt telephones Faith to invite the two girls to a party at his home, Cherry is furious with Faith, and boasts that she can divert Pruitt's interest to herself.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI.

It was after one o'clock that night when Bob Hathaway's low-slung sports roadster drew up into sleeping Myrtle street.

"Come in for just a wee little minute, Bob," Cherry pleaded prettily, "and I'll give you a piece of Cherry-special gingerbread."

"If you made it, it must be good," he smiled at her as he climbed out of the car.

Cherry laughed happily, but neglected to explain that the gingerbread had been made by Faith. The delighted pressure of her small hand upon his arm he took for shy thanks for his compliment.

"Someone's still up—in the dining room," Cherry whispered, as they tiptoed into the dark living room. She snapped on the light in a heavily shaded floor lamp—which Junior had accused her of buying for petting purposes only—and then tiptoed to open the dining room door noiselessly.

"Why, Faith, you old darling, you're making my dress!" she whispered ecstatically. "Come on in, Bob. It's just Faith. Tuck up your hair, darling; it's simply licking your cheeks," she added, to Faith, as she leaned over to kiss her.

Faith's tired face flushed, as her startled eyes rested on Bob Hathaway, standing uncertainly in the doorway. "It's been so hot, and I've been awfully busy," she explained apologetically, as she rose hastily, dropping a soft pile of green chiffon, riotous with tulips. A slight breeze lifted two or three sheets of unfolded tissue paper pattern from the cluttered dining table and drifted them about Bob Hathaway's feet. He picked them up clumsily and handed them to Faith. The girl winced slightly as his fingers touched hers.

"Faith's a silly old darling, to sit up half the night making me a party dress, isn't she?" Cherry flung her arms about her older sister's shoulders and laid her tousled copper-and-gold curls lovingly against Faith's disheveled dark head. The contrast between the vivid, glowing, happy face of the little beauty and the tired, strained, untidy Faith was startling—and Cherry knew it. "You must go right to bed, you sweet, tired thing!" Cherry's voice was cooingly compassionate and tender.

"I can't go to bed yet," Faith said brusquely, for somehow the look of almost foolish fondness and admiration in Bob's eyes as they devoured Cherry hurt her intolerably. 'I've got it cut out and the bodice basted up, but I'll have to get it all ready tonight for a fitting in the morning, since you'll be working all day. I phoned Aunt Hattie, and she said she'd come over and help me finish up both dresses—"

"Isn't it perfectly adorable material, Bob?" Cherry snatched up a length of the chiffon and draped it deftly about her small body. ' 'l bought a beautiful blue and orchid pattern for Faith. We're going to knock 'em dead at George Pruitt's party, aren't we, —Faith?" But her eyes were laughing into Bob Hathaway's. "Oh, Faith, Bob's been invited to George Pruitt's studio party, too. Isn't that heavenly? He's going stag. I wonder why! Oh, he's blushing, the adorable child!"

She laughed and seized his hand. "Come on now, big boy. We'll tiptoe into the kitchen, so as not to wake up my sweet old Muggy and Daddy, and I'll give you a great, big, 'liscious chunk of gingerbread, if you'll be real good."

"I'm afraid there's not any left, Cherry," said Faith, who had seated herself and was again plying her swift needle. "Junior dashed in at eleven o'clock and before I knew what he was about, he'd dashed off again, with the cake box under his arm. He and Fay Allen ate it, sitting out in her car. I only made one pan, you know."

Cherry flushed painfully with anger and embarrassment. "The selfish pig!" she exclaimed, forgetting to keep her voice low. "Stuffing that terrible Fay Allen with our gingerbread! Fay Allen's that awfully fast high school girl that eloped with a high school boy last year," she explained rapidly to Bob Hathaway, in an effort to divert his mind from the fact that she had been caught in a fib about the gingerbread. "Their parents had the marriage annulled, you know, because they were both under age, and she's simply been town talk ever since. We're just scared stiff that she'll rope Junior in. I'm going to make Dad and Muggy put their foot down—"

"Cherry!" Mr. Lane's voice, unusually loud and harsh, called abruptly from the bedroom across the hall. "What do you mean, coming in this time o' night? What time is it, anyway?"

"Why, Dad," Cherry answered innocently, "it's only a little after eleven. I'm just trying to get Faith to go to bed."

"Well, cut out that palaver in there and get to bed!" her father grumbled. "We're workin' folks around here, and I for one have to get my sleep.'

"Isn't he funny?" Cherry tiptoed into the living room, where Bob Hathaway had retreated, twirling his hat between embarrassed hands. "He's really a darling j but he thinks he has to show his authority," she laughed indulgently. "We'll just shut the door and whisper; and he won't know you're still here."

"I've really got to be going," Bob Hathaway told her, avoiding her eyes.

"Oh, you're mad at me!' Cherry cried in a low, stricken voice. "Just because I told Dad a tiny little white fib. And Bob," she said, her tiny body wavering toward him, so close that a copper curl brushed his coat, "I wasn't fibbing about the gingerbread, when I said it was a Cherry-special, Honest, I wasn't! I—I made up the recipe myself, and I used to bake it every Saturday, before I had to go to work"—her voice trembled ever so slightly—"and now Faith, who stays at home, you know, makes it sometimes. But the family still calls it the Cherry-special gingerbread. Please don't be thinking bad old thoughts about poor little Cherry, Bob. I'm not perfect—"

"I think you are!" the man said in a low, thick voice. Then surrendering completely to the vivid beauty of her, his arms went around the tiny body in a crushing embrace. Cherry raised her face, stood on tip-toe, to meet his first kiss.

Her cheeks were rose-flushed, her eyes like yellow diamonds, when Cherry re-entered the dining room. Faith knew, at the first quick glance intoo that tremulously smiling, lovely face, but she could not spare herself the torture of asking:

"He kissed you, didn't he?"

"Didn't he, though!" Cherry laid a flushed cheek against her clasped hands and laughed a low, rich gurgle of happiness. "Oh, boy! Some sheik. And who would have thought it: He looks so quiet and steady—"

"Did he ask you to marry him:" Faith's voice shook in spite of her effort at self-control.

"Goodness, Faith, you sound like Aunt Hattie! Give the poor darling time! This isn't eighteen-umpteen! It's nineteen twenty-six! Gosh, I don't feel like I'd ever go to sleep! Thrills, thrills, thrills! Lord, I'm glad 'm young and little and beautiful! Aren't I beautiful, Faith:" She stretched her tiny, rounded white arms above her head, executed two or three dance steps, then flung herself upon Faith's lap.

" want to talk to you—seriously." Faith picked up her small sister as if she had been a child and set her upon the floor. "Go on and get ready for bed. I'll be in when I finish this seam."

But the seam took longer than any other seam Faith had ever sewed for the tears, to be denied no longer, gathered in her great, tired brown eyes and overflowed, blinding her. Every nerve in her body was quivering at the thought of Bob Hathaway's lips upon Cherry's. At last she folded up her work, dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief, and walked slowly and softly, so as not to awaken her parents, to Cherry's room.

Cherry, in a pale pink nightgown, was brushing her curls before the mirror of her dresser, her lips curled in a fond smile as she studied her reflection.

"Quit admiring yourself like that!" Faith's strong hands closed upon the pearly little shoulders and shook them. "I hate you when I see you doing that! Oh, Cherry, life isn't fair—you aren't fair! You take and take and take, and never give anything but a few insincere, sweet words, that make us all your slaves! God gave you everything in the way of beauty, and instead of being content, you take everything else you can lay your hands on. It isn't fair, Cherry—"

"Such is life!" Cherry impudently quoted her father. "To him that hath, you know. Don't be an old grouch, Faith. Aunt Hattie has a terrible influence over you."

"Cherry," said Faith dropped from the general to the particular, with a helpless gesture of resignation, "are you in love with Bob Hathaway?"

"Crazy about him!" Cherry answered flippantly, dipping her fingers into a jar of cold cream.

"Are you going to marry him?" Faith went on relentlessly, her face drawn with pain.

"Not if I can get George Pruitt," Cherry answered calmly, as she rubbed the fragrant cream into her cheeks with an upward rotary motion.

"You'll let him fall genuinely in love with you—Bob Hathaway, I mean—and you'll play him against George Pruitt, and break his heart without a qualm." Faith's voice was bitter and very tired.

"He's old enough to take care of himself. Besides, I may marry him if I can't land George and if Albert!—" She stopped short, bit her lips with vexation.

"If Albert Ettleson can't get a divorce from his wife, you mean?" Faith's voice was full of genuine horror. "Oh, Cherry, what on earth will you do next?"

"Wait till tomorrow night, and we'll see what turns up at George Pruitt's party," Cherry answered with angry impudence.

How do you eat wheat?

You must eat some wheat each day—it is your "staff of life"—but how do you eat it? It should be the whole wheat, not just the starchy center of the wheat berry which we call "white flour." The mineral salts and vitamins so necessary to health and normal growth are in six outer coats of the wheat berry. They are all in SHREDDED WHEAT and in a digestible form. Each shred is baked crisp and brown. No one has ever been able to improve or even approach our shredding process for making the whole wheat grain palatable and digestible. Eat it with milk or as a hot porridge made by cooking the biscuits in water or milk. Great for youngsters when toasted and served with butter.

CONFIRMATION AT LAKEFIELD

Sixteen Candidates Receive Apostolic Rite—Rev. W. Cox Preaches Farewell.

PARISH SOCIAL.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 19.—The apostolic rite of confirmation was administered in St. Johns' church on Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service when the Lord Bishop of Montreal confirmed a class of sixteen candidates, five adults, eight girls and three boys. Rev. A. W. Mackenzie acted as the Bishop's Chaplain, and the rector, Rev. Walter Cox, presented the candidates.

The Bishop delivered a forceful address which will long remain in the hearts of his hearers. He spoke of the church as the bride of Christ for which He gave His life. He urged on the candidates the practical value of the great virtues as only making one worthy of being a part of Christ's body. 'We are all members of that body and it is the duty and privilege of each member to so live that in no way shall there be any spot or wrinkle on the church, the Bride of Christ.

"There is not one standard of morality for the clergy and another for the laity and the pact of the members of the church is to make it known to others, to be faithful in attendance at all the services. When two or three are gathered together in His name, let each of you be there. Be present at the Holy Eucharist, the highest act of worship, when the Body and Blood of Christ are given you as a means of grace."

The Bishop is a very thoughtful speaker and his words were as applicable to the whole congregation as to the candidates. Each candidate was given a confirmation card specially designed by Bishop Farthing and contained the symbols and emblems of the Christian faith.

The church was filled to capacity for the solemn service.

Evening Service.

Rev. Walter Cox in his sermon on Sunday night, took his text from the 40th verse of the 11th chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews, viz: "God having provided some better things for us that they without us should not be made perfect."

"God moves us about for the betterment of ourselves and of those about us for we help one another for better or worse. Our lives are influenced by those with whom we come in contact and for good or evil each influences the other. Contact with good people has brought many sinners to a better life with a closer knowledge of God and many good people have been held back in their Christian work by the godless or indifferent people they may be thrown into contact with. Our influence goes on and on and God tells us that we can help those who are now numbered among the saints of God by our lives and faith we can help them to a higher state of perfection.

"One sees, as in a vision the long procession of standard bearers of the faith led by Abel, who put aside the first and best for God's service; Enoch too, is there with his life consecrated to God's service; Noah, whose faith showed that the love of God always survives the wrath of God; Abraham, who by his faith and that of his wife Sarah, was the father of the great Hebrew race and whose descendants are like the sands of the seashore. Isaac too is there, and Jacob, who always worked toward his own advancement but who learned that sooner or later God exacts a toll; Joseph, who in his public and private life set a high standard of morality; Moses, the exponent of democracy and the prophets, all are there, a vast procession linked to us by the Communion of Saints.

"We can by our prayer and faith attain a higher standard and help those who are gone before."

At the close of the service, just before the blessing, the hymn "God be With You Till We Meet Again", was sung as by next Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Cox will be at sea.

The church was filled to capacity and at the close of the service many friends took advantage of the opportunity to say "good-bye" and "bon voyage" to Mr. and Mrs. Cox, wishing them a speedy recovery to health in their native land.

Parish Social.

On Friday evening a social was held in St. John's Parish Hall under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. for the members and friends of the parish to give an opportunity of meeting Rev. and Mrs. Cox before their departure for England. The evening was a genuine parochial social which speaks of past and present good feeling and augers well for the future of the parish. There was a large attendance and a delightful evening was spent.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie spoke of the splendid work accomplished by Mr. Cox in the parish during his three years' residence and urged that the people be as loyal to his successor, who ever he might be, as they have been to Mr. Cox.

Mr. Mackenzie stated that the last months of this year were to see the parish say good bye to the rector and the reeve.

Rev. R. T. C. Dwelley of Young's Point spoke of the difficulties of a clergyman's life, for very often people forget that they are human and appear to think they should have a halo and wings, and do not make sufficient allowance for human faculties.

Mr. Cox replied thaking the congregation for their kindness and loyalty to himself and Mrs. Cox and assuring them of the pleasant memories he has for his Lakefield parish. As is always the case, some were more in harmony than others but that is to be expected in every human enterprise. Mr. Cox said that they expected to be back in Canada after three months' leaves of absence, when they would meet again. "Remember in connection with the new rector, who ever he may be, that he is a lonely man and neds your sympathy and your prayers," he said.

Mr. Cox closed by saying he hoped the parishioners would be as loyal to his successor as they had been to him and as kind.

Mrs. Todd, the organist of the church, presented Mr. Cox with an umbrella from the choir, as a token of their appreciation of his services and assuring him of their good wishes and interest in his welfare.

Mr. Cox thanked Mrs. Todd on behalf of the choir and assured her that one of the happiest memories of his life in Lakefield was that of last Christmas morning when the little Lakefield choir were robed. It had been a long cherished project and Christmas saw the dream become a pleasant reality.

The members of the A.Y.P.A. served refreshments in an efficient manner. Mrs. J. C. Strickland poured the tea and Mrs. L. H. Grahame the coffee.

NEW MINISTER IS INDUCTED

Rev. G. E. Lougheed Becomes Pastor of Havelock Presbyterian Church.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 19.—On Thursday afternoon of last week the Knox Presbyterian Church was the scene of a very impressive service when the Rev. G. E. Lougheed, of Warkworth, was inducted as minister. Rev. J. Grier, of Campbellford, interim moderator, had charge of the induction ceremony and addressed the minister. Rev. D. A. Thompson, of Hastings, addressed the congregation, and Rev. J. Riddle, of Millbrook, preached the sermon. Rev. W. R. Archer, of the United Church, was also present and was made a member of Presbytery for the service by a vote of session and Presbytery.

Mr. Riddle chose as his text Luke 10-41, "And Jesus answered and said unto her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things." We find here an incident in connection with the life of Jesus, he said. Jesus has retired to a quiet spot to visit Martha and Mary, and we would imagine anything He would say would be in connection with home life. Notice the difference in the reception given Him by the sisters. Martha makes quite an adieu about Jesus, while Mary does not seem to pay any attention to anything but Jesus. The words of Jesus can be applied to many today. We are very much like Martha cumbered about many things, so that we miss what really counts for the most in our lives and we come as it were mere machines. Among the issues which men become cumbered about today are: Industry, which has been the thing that has loomed before the eyes of men until capital and labor are so organized that a whole country suffers for it. Industry and commerce are not the barometer of the nation.

Education system has also absorbed the attention of men. We need education in connection with the life of this country, he continued, but education alone will not lead us to the best conditions for us.

Today there is a division among men. There is the modernist and the fundamentalist. While men are quibbling and having intellectual exercises in connection with their doctrines, they miss what is really of most value to their lives—the love of Jesus. It was no accident that Mary chose the good part. She knew what Jesus was to her. Possibly Martha did not have the same experience. We are so apt to be cumbered about many things, but the essential thing is to choose Jesus and the other things pass away, he concluded.

At the conclusion of the service a supper was served in the school room by the Ladies' Aid.

I.O.O.F. EUCHRE.

Successful Entertainment Given By Campbellford Lodge.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 19.—The I.O.O.F. held a very successful euchre in their rooms in the Ferris block on Monday evening. Progressive euchre was played, the following winning the prizes for the games: Ladies, Mrs. Dorie and Miss H. Potts; gents, Mr. R. Dunk and Mr. G. Salter. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Y.P.L. MEETING.

Good Programme Given at Regular Meeting at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov 19.—The regular meeting of the Young People's League of St. John's was held on Monday evening. There was a good attendance and an excellent programme was given. Mrs. Thomas Craighead took the chair and had charge of the following programme:

Scripture lesson, by Mrs. L. Stephens; vocal duet, Mrs. C. W. Turner and Miss Cherrie Turner; reading, Miss Irene Dunk; piano solo, Miss Cherrie Turner; the topic was then given by Rev. Mr. Elliott; reading by Donald Dunk.

After the programme all joined in community singing, after which the meeting closed with prayer.

CATTLE BOLT THROUGH PARK

One Drowned in Chemong Lake—Others Recovered.

ENNISMORE NEWS.

ENNISMORE, Nov. 19.—On Monday afternoon as Messrs. J. Holland, M. S. Crough, W. H. Crough and D. Crough were driving cattle through Bridgenorth three became frightened and took off through Chemong Park. Before the animals could be hindered, four of them jumped into Chemong Lake. Two men of Bridgenorth secured canoes and went in chase of the animals. They herded them toward the bridge, where the owners hauled them in. One belonging to Mr. D. Crough was drowned and three others, who were owned by Messrs. J. Holland and W. H. Crough, were badly paralized from being in cold water.

Mr. Michael Crough left on Saturday for Detroit, where he intends on spending a few holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Conway and daughter, Nellie, of Windsor, were called home on Monday owing to the serious illness of the former's mother, Mrs. John Conway.

Rev. Father McGuire, of Bracebridge called here to see his mother during the past week, on his way to Douro, where he has been appointed parish priest.

Obituary.

The death occurred Tuesday night at five o'clock of one of the oldest residents of this parish in the person of Mrs. John Conway. She spent a large portion of her life in this township and was highly respected by everybody. She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband, three sons and three daughters.

EUCHRE PARTY.

Successful Social Gathering Held By Havelock Companions.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 19. — On Wednesday evening of last week the members of Companion Court Prince of Wales, I.O.F. held a very successful Euchre party at the home of Comp. Mrs. Jesse Weymark. The rooms were prettily decorated with the lodge colors. Eight tables of cards were played and four ladies were tied for the prize, a handsome silver cake tray, which was won by Mrs. Fred Wrightly on a draw. The gentleman's prize, a set of embossed playing cards in leather case was won by Mr. William Woodbeck. The consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. Wellington Wilde and Mr. J. R. Bedford. A short musical programme followed the presentation of the prizes after which a dainty lunch was served, and with a vote of thanks to Companion Weymark for her hospitality, a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

LIBERAL RALLY AT ROSENEATH

Addresses Given by Northumberland Liberal Candidate and Fred Slade.

BROKE FAITH

ROSENEATH, Nov. 19.—Last night's downpour of rain interfered with the attendance at a Liberal rally held here last night in the interest of Dr. W. G. Robertson, Liberal candidate in Northumberland, but in spite of the elements a score of electors gathered to hear addresses from the candidate and from Fred Slade.

The latter, speaking first, condemned Premier Ferguson for breaking faith with the people on the liquor question, and for his frequent changes of mind on the question.

Dr. Robertson declared the question was one of principle rather than party, and expressed his regret that some Liberals were not standing behind him. He eulogized Hon. W. F. Nickle for the attitude he had taken on the chief issue of the day, and also referred to the fact that Major Belford had declined to pledge himself as a supporter of the Government policy and had retired from the field.

Arthur Tucker was chairman.

Detroit's new traffic ordinance besides forbidding "one-armed driving" and front sea crowding, also prohibits any one to drive with another person sitting in his lap.

CLOCK-LIKE REGULARITY HIS REWARD

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieved constipation of long standing

Mr. Charles R. Pollard, of Walworth, Wisconsin, will testify that habit-forming pills and drugs were even worse than useless in relieving his constipation.

"I am writing to tell you of the grand results I have received from using your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Before I commenced using your ALL-BRAN food I was obliged to take a laxative every night, and being a ruptured man aggravated this trouble and made it all worse . . . but since using your ALL-BRAN I have laid all my laxative medicine and pills away and my bowels are as regular as a clock."

CHARLES R. POLLARD
(Address on request)

Don't let constipation drag you down, and don't become a slave to habit-forming pills and drugs. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, eaten regularly, is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your money is returned, because it is 100% bran. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Use it in cooking with the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in London, Canada. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere.

JOINT MEETING WAS HELD IN BUCKHORN HALL

Conservative Candidates for Peterborough Riding and for Peterborough County.

UPHOLDS PREMIER

Discusses Grants Made to County Roads by Late Government.

W. H. Bradburn, the candidate for the City of Peterborough riding, and Lieut.-Col. T. D. Johnston, the candidate for the riding of Peterborough County, held a joint meeting in Buckhorn last night.

A continual downpour of rain which lasted during the entire night, interfered considerably with the attendance. Several cars were noticed in the ditch on the road between the city and Buckhorn.

John Jones officiated as chairman for the occasion.

Col. T. D. Johnston.

Declaring himself as being absolutely in favor of the Ferguson Government as to their policy of government as well as their temperance policy, Colonel Johnston spent some time in discussing the grants that had been made to the county roads by the late Government.

Under the Drury regime, he said, the total amount granted to that part of the riding under the Department of Colonization had been $15,674. Under the Ferguson administration the amount granted was $37,570. The Ferguson Government had also reduced the taxation. When they took over the reins of government they were confronted by a deficit of fifteen million dollars. To-day this has been reduced to the vanishing point, he declared.

Discussing the O.T.A. question, Colonel Johnston stated that this question had always been a bone of contention from the time of Noah. "Our opponents accuse us of everything short of murder when we mention it," he declared. He maintained that the Ferguson Government had done its level best to enforce the Act, stating that during the year 1925, the last year of the Government, they had spent $402,536, as against $390,510 spent by Drury in the last year of his administration. "We had a little less effective enforcement in 1925 just as Drury had a little less effective administration during 1922 than during previous years," he declared. One reason for this, he said, was that the fact that the people who had laid in a stock found that their cellars were running dry and their stocks had to be replenished on the open market. Another reason was that public sentiment was changing.

In the last plebiscite 74,000 voters in the Province did not vote. The Ferguson Government feels that the 74,000 who did not vote, coupled with the 49 per cent. who voted against the Act, leads to the belief that the moral support of the public is lacking. He took it for granted, he declared, that the 74,000 who had the franchise and did not vote for or against the Act represented people who did not care whether the Act was enforced or not.

Referring to Mr. Nickle, Colonel Johnston said that he was a man for whom he had a great deal of respect. Quoting a part of a speech delivered by Mr. Nickle on March 17, 1925, as follows: "If I had the power, some God-given power, by which, through the initiation of an Act of Parliament, I could sweep away all the pernicious effects of intemperance even by a declaration on prohibition, I would do so, but I realize, as I said on previous occasions in this House, that the public man must be a practical idealist. He does not live in a world of romance. He is dealing with human beings and the conditions that surround him. After giving careful consideration to the development of temperance sentiment in the province, to conditions that forced the Honorable ex-Attorney-General, and that face and will face those who may succeed me, if conditions remain as they are to-day—I can reach no other conclusion than if some redress, some easing is not given with reference to the O.T.A., the Act, much to my regret, would be doomed to extinction, because I believe the people of this province are being driven to becoming whiskey drinkers and drinkers of illicit liquor because they are not able to get a beverage that is palatable." Yet, continued Colonel Johnston, "when Mr. Nickle brought in the measure for 4.4 beer he caused quite a sensation among the clergymen in the province. If there was a large body of people in support of the O.T.A. the Ferguson Government would not touch it, but Mr. Ferguson realizes that the province is facing a moral breakdown as the disrespect for the present law increases, he said.

The same condition that Mr. Nickle talked about in 1925 still continues, only it is getting worse, he declared. Mr. Nickle is not to blame, neither is Mr. Ferguson, or the police—the real blame lies with the people of this province. In concluding, Colonel Johnston declared, "Consider the record of the Ferguson administration—it is your duty as voters—don't be blinded by the O.T.A. question. If you do it conscientiously I am sure that neither Mr. Ferguson nor I will have any reason to fear your verdict."

W. H. Bradburn.

"When the Ferguson Government came into power in 1923 it was confronted with an appalling state of affairs," declared Mr. Bradburn. During the Drury regime the province contracted a deficit of fifteen million dollars which had been reduced to practically nothing by the Ferguson Government. This, he maintained, was sufficient reason for the return to power of the Ferguson administration. "I am sorry to say that our opponents have made this election a wet and dry issue," he declared. The issue, as he saw it, was clear cut—true temperance as against prohibition. The speaker traced temperance legislation from the early days until the present, showing that the sentiment in favor of the O.T.A. had decreased with every plebiscite. Under the present Act as it stands to-day, he said, "Any person in the city of Peterborough who has the money can get liquor just as easy as they ever did." Would is not be better to put the liquor under the control of the Government than have it sold in the manner that now prevails, he asked.

Eighty per cent. of the doctors and druggists were sick of the script business and wanted nothing to do with it, he declared. Under the present Act you can fill your house from top to bottom with eighteen per cent. wines, but no attempt was made to stop this evil by Mr. Raney, yet he worked his head off against the 4.4 beer, he declared.

The Ferguson Government is working to the best interests of the province, and also in the interests of true temperance, he said in conclusion.

HUNTERS RETURN FROM WOODS

Report Fine Success in Bagging of Fleet-Footed Game.

DEER PLENTIFUL

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 19.—Deer hunters have started to arrive home and most of them report fine success. Wm. Ayrhart and sons Harry, Russell and Earnest, arrived Sunday from the north of Sudbury with a full quota of the fleet-footed game, and state deer quite plentiful in that section.

F. C. Bonnycastle, Olonga Dunk, Garnet Lloyd and Harry Free pulled in Monday from Taniff with four fine bucks, ranging from 180 to 230 pounds in weight.

The Campbellford Hunt Club, F. J. Smith, C. W. Smith, John Gay, Jack Nesbitt, Peter Nesbitt, H D. Atkinson, A. C. Connor, of town, O. R. Thompson and C. F. Maybee, Belleville, and Clarence Maybee, Toronto arrived from their camp on Dixon Lake Tuesday with seven fine deer. They report an amusing incident in connection with the bagging of a spike-horn buck. Mr. Buck being hard pressed by three dogs trailing him decided to take the water in Dark Lake, but on his arrival at the lake, found it frozen over, with the exception of a space under an overhanging cedar tret. So rather than turn back he jumped in the open water, a space about 20 feet square. The big foxhound stood on a rock at one side of the tree with the airedale on the other side, while a beagle scampered around on the ice to prevent his further progress that way. That was the scene confronting Cliff Maybee and Jack Nesbitt when they reached the lake, after breaking all speed limits in an effort to reach the lake before Mr. Buck could make the other shore. After watching the performance for a few minutes they shot the deer and all three dogs took the water after the deer. The airedale after taking a ducking from a wild swing of the deers' foot, dragged him to shore for the boys.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY KEPT

Former Residents of Campbellford Observe Day Surrounded By Family.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 19.—The following interesting report was taken from the Preston news of the "Galt Evening Reporter" and will be of special interest to many Campbellford readers who will remember Mr. and Mrs. Collard when they were residents of Campbellford:

"A very unique event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Collard, Argyle street on Saturday afternoon when the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Collard celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and the family re-united after eighteen years, the only ones absent being Mrs. W. Collard and daughter Beatrice of Campbellford, who were unable to be present on account of illness.

"It was on November 13, 1876, that Angel E. Underwood became the bride of Samuel Collard, Rev. George Bellry performed the ceremony at the Church of England, in the little town of Street, in Somersetshire, England. In 1907 Ernest, the eldest son came to Canada, and in June, 1908, Mr. and Mrs. Collard and family set sail for Canada on the S.S. Southward. They resided in Campbellford for three years, then in Galt, and in 1919 came to Preston where they have since remained.

"Mrs. Collard was born in Street, Somersetshire, on May 26, 1858, while her husband was born in South Petherton, Somersetshire on May 14, 1849. In England, Mr. Collard was a shoemaker, making the entire shoe himself. While in Campbellford he worked as a turn laster at the Weston Shoe Company.

"At the celebration on Saturday the following were present:: Mr. and Mrs. E. Collard, William Collard and son Charles of Campbellford; Miss Beatrice Collard of Preston; Mr. and Mrs. H. Keyse, Edith and Jack of Galt; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lunn and Jimmie of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. C. Collard, Yvonne, Alice, Gladys and Billie of Preston; Mr. and Mrs. G. Roth, Idella and Frank of Preston; Arthur and Sam Collard of Preston.

"During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Collard received many handsome presents. Mr. Ernest Collard made a short speech on behalf of the family after which Miss Beatrice Collard then presented each of them with a purse of gold.

"All then sat down to a delicious wedding breakfast. The rooms were tastefully decorated with streamers of gold and white with handsome gold and white 'mums. In the centre of the table was the bridal cake, decorated with the figures '50' in silver and standing under two golden ladders, each with fifty steps. Telegrams of congratulations were read from Mrs. W. Collard and Beatrice of Campbellford, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown of Toronto. Toasts were then proposed to the bride and groom. The evening was spent in music and games."

Mr. and Mrs. Collard are frequent visitors to Campbellford and their many friends will offer hearty congratulations.

FIVE OF CREW MISSING AFTER STEAMER BURNS

Other 35 Men of C. S. L. Vessel Montreal Reach Shore.

SOME INJURED.

Boat Burned To Water Line By Fire Starting in Hold.

QUEBEC, Que., Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Five men were missing early this morning following the burning of the steamer Montreal in the St. Lawrence River near Sorel. They were not present when a roll-call was made after the disaster, and due to the confusion following the conflagration, it was impossible to make a definite check. Many of the crew were slightly burned in making their escape, and three had to be taken to the hospital in Sorel. The latter are Montreal men: Louis Hinguette, Lucien Thiery, and Albert Paquette. They saved their lives by jumping into the river when the ship was one hundred feet from shore, while tongues of flame burned the clothing off their backs. There were forty men on board, and those accounted for made a hasty escape either by boat or by jumping into the river and swimming ashore.

The fire broke out before midnight while the vessel was en route from Montreal to Quebec on a freight carrying trip, her passenger season in the service of her owners, the Canada Steamships Lines, having been completed some fifteen days ago. The ship was beached.

The conflagration started in the forward hold where animals were quartered, presumably from a lighted match falling into a pile of hay.

Some of the trapped animals were destroyed. Spreading with incredible rapidity, the blaze took hold of the fore part of the ship, where most of the crew was asleep in their bunks. It is thought the missing men may have been trapped there by the flames, or lost their lives by jumping into the river.

Capt. N. McGlennon ordered the engine room to put on full steam ahead and the helm was thrown over to make the beach. Capt. McGlennon and Chief Engineer Pelquin were the last to leave the ship.

The fire spread rapidly over the whole ship and burned her to the water line.

Doctors were rushed from Sorel and cared for the injured. The survivors were accommodated at Sorel, or in the vicinity of the beaching.

The Montreal left Montreal at evening for Quebec at 8.20 o'clock. Towards midnight the signal service operator at Bellmouth saw the flaming steamer, first thinking the town of Sorel was on fire. The S. S. Brant County was coming up the river at the time and emitted a series of short blasts to attract attention to the burning steamer and stood off to render any assistance possible but as the Montreal had been beached her services were not required.

The Canadian Government steamer Berthier was ordered from Sorel to the scene.

The Montreal was built in 1904 at Toronto. She had a gross register of 4,282 tons and was 332 feet in length. She was a steel paddle vessel with a speed of 23 knots.

PEASANTS REVOLT.

Former Czarist Officers Behind Uprising Movement in Pakov District.

LONDON, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—An Exchange Telegraph Agency despatch from Berlin reports a peasants' revolt in the Pakov district of Soviet Russia.

Quoting news from the Estonian frontier, the despatch asserts that former Czarist officers are behind the uprising and that Soviet cavalry has been sent to suppress the movement.

The Children Will Catch Cold

Mothers should never neglect the first sign of a cold or cough where their children are concerned, for if they do some serious lung trouble is liable to follow.

Mrs. R. T. Hubby, 1022 Barrington St., Halifax, N.S. writes:—"The children are continually getting colds, but I have no trouble with them, for just as soon as they begin to cough I give them a dose of which breaks up the cold within a day or so. I get great results out of it and would not be without it for anything. I can highly recommend it to any one."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

OBITUARY.

MARFORD TUCKER.

STIRLING, Nov. 19.—Death claimed another of Stirling's older citizens in the person of Marford Tucker, who had resided all his life in this vicinity. Born in the 4th concession of Rawdon over 71 years ago, he following farming, and after his marriage to Miss Louise Cummings, who pre-deceased him three years ago, he settled on the adjacent farm to that of his father's, where he prospered and raised a family of three sons and two daughters, about ten years ago he disposed of his farm and moved to the 2nd concession of Sidney where he lived for a few years with his son, the late Anson Tucker. From there he came to Stirling, purchasing the large farm of the late Adam Cooney, at the west end of the village where he and his son Claude have continued the tilling of the soil since. Mr. Tucker has not had the best of health lately; was taken ill at the end of last week with a slight cold, which developed into acute pneumonia, which caused his death. He leaves two sons, Fred of Toronto, Claude at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Brown of Alberta and Mrs. Down of Calif. U.S., besides Mr. David Tucker of Stirling and Mark Tucker of Belleville.

The funeral service is being held today at 2 p.m. in St. Paul's United church and interment will be at Bethel cemetery near his old home.

CAR SMUGGLING

and little that is heard on that is new, most of it having been heard at the Parliamentary probe.

Definite Information.

No definite information can be secured as to whether alleged customs crookedness is to be considered at the present hearings. This afternoon's session was given over largely to consideration of liquor smuggling either to U. S. points from B.C. or one B.C. port to another for home consumption.

C. P. Blair was recalled and discussed the motor car smuggling situation, which is being probed by special officers all over the country at present. He said that he knew of cases where entry forms secured on one car on proper payment of duty were used for as many as a dozen cars on which the numbers were changed.

Mr. Blair said that Brennan, the U.S. officer supposed to receive information from Sarnia, had asked that it be sent to another man, and this was being done.

Never Heard Complaints.

The witness had never heard complaints from the U. S. of failure to transmit information from Halifax and Lunenburg of rum boat departures.

A special brand of rum trading had grown up on the Pacific, said Mr. Blair, U. S. boats were taking liquor from Prince Rupert, Vancouver and Victoria, supposedly coastwise.

Mr. Rowell suggested that a lot of this liquor found its way back to B. C., but Mr. Blair thought it would cost too much by the time its travels were ended. He thought it more likely that illicit supplies in B. C., came from shipments in transit which had not paid duty.

Mr. Rowell wanted to know if much liquor was shipped in this mysterious coastwise way from the three B.C. ports named.

"A very great deal," said Mr. Bliar. "The problem is a very serious one."

Certificate Not Genuine.

Complaints that certificates from foreign countries of landing of liquor were not genuine had resulted in many being held up.

"They seem to ship this liquor to countries where it is not difficult to secure landing certificates," said Mr. Rowell.

"It seems easy to get certificates in some countries," agreed the witness.

Joker In Treaty.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19. — C. P. Blair, general executive assistant of the Customs Department, at the investigation yesterday said that Canada did not clear vessels on high seas as Britain did. He did not know, but a definite destination must be shown. Fishing vessels were cleared for sea, but were only "allowed to take as much liquor as their work made necessary."

The treaty provides that vessels, for instance clearing from Lake Ontario ports for Cuba or Mexico, are made the subject of special reports to U. S. cusoms officers. All Canadian customs collectors must, since September 30, 1926, give full details of all vessels sailing with suspicious cargoes. The department had refused to disclose the names of Canadian exporters, though it went further than the treaty required in giving information.

Mr. Justice Brown suggested the treaty barred clearance of any vessels bound for U.S. ports with liquor.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Blair. "The public, I believe, has the idea, but a proviso in the treaty kills that prohibition."

The chairman read the proviso which was that clearance would be refused except to vessels "reasonably able" to make the voyages their clearance specified.

He laughed heartily as he spotted this joker.

Mr. Blair said there were frequent clashes over the ability of certain vessels to make long voyages.

SEVENTH ANGEL

palatial residence shared by "King Ben" and "Queen Mary."

Officers Surprised

Early Wednesday on the suggestion of Mrs. Bessie Woodworth, a former member of the cult, authorities surrounded Shiloh, broke into the long, winding halls of the "palace," and there they found "King Ben" as Mrs. Woodworth had predicted.

But the arrest was not without a surprise. From the tales that had been told of "King Ben" they had expected to find a physical giant; a ban of great strength and vigor, who ruled his colony with the authority of strength; a man whose strong body and comely countenance had lent young girls to his whims and fancy. Instead they found a withered, tottering man, pale and almost haggard, from long confinement within Shiloh, a man whose very physique seemed to belie the tales that had been whispered about the town.

Attorneys engaged by the colony told the United Press yesterday they were confident that "King Ben" would be cleared, that they would prove him physically incapable of the immoralities of which he is accused, and that the colony has been conducted "in decency and in order."

But the state of Michigan charges Purnell is a "religious impostor and a pious fraud."

SHAW DECLINES AWARD MONEY

"Some of the most advantageous sites in London are being rapidly filled up with agencies in which not only the British Dominions overseas but European Powers exhibit their choicest products and advertise the attractions and travelling facilities of their country. Fruits, cereals, stuffed animals and birds and fabrics of all sorts tempt the importer. The one thing that is rarely exhibited is a book. Sweden invites us to buy her paper, but there is nothing printed on it. The function of Swedish paper, it sems, is to wrap Australian apples in. And yet Sweden's most valuable export is her literature, of which we in Britain are deplorably ignorant.

"The Swedish Minister in London, Baron Palmstierna, who is a proved friend of British men of letters and an indefatigable champion of Swedish literature in our country, has informed me of Swedish books of great value which for lack of means cannot be translated and of organs working or intellectual intercourse between us which are in need of support. I therefore venture to propose to you that the money which accompanies the award be funded by the Royal Academy or by the Swedish minister in London and that the annual proceeds be used to encourage intercourse and understanding in literature and art between Sweden and the British Isles.

"It would be desirable for many reasons that the Swedish minister should be a member of the board controlling the fund."

--most hearers will not believe that such music--and so many kinds--can come from one musical instrument.

THE PERFORMANCE of the New Orthophonic Victrola seems incredible, even after you have heard it playing. Many who have first listened to this wonderful new invention through an open door or window,—or in the next room, or behind a curtain, have been unwilling to believe that a home musical instrument could play anything from a solo to a symphony the way the Orthophonic Victrola does it. But the facts remain. The new principle in music, "matched impedance", controlled by Victor, gives you the music itself. Any "His Master's Voice" dealer will arrange to deliver an Orthophonic Victrola to you on convenient terms. Prices from $115 to $385 according to model.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JOSHUA RENEWS COVENANT

Text: Joshua 24:14-25.

Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth: and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood and in Egypt; and serve ye the Lord.

And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.

And the people answered and said, God forbid that we whould forsake the Lord, to serve other gods;

For the Lord our God; he it is that brought us up and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed:

And the Lord drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore will we also serve the Lord; for he is our God.

And Joshua said unto the people, Ye cannot serve the Lord; for he is an holy God; he is a jealous God; he will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins.

If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good.

And the people said unto Joshua, Nay; but we will serve the Lord.

And Joshua said unto the people, Ye are witnesses against yourselves that ye have chosen you the Lord, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses.

Now therefore put away, said he, the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the Lord God of Israel.

And the people said unto Joshua, The Lord our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.

So Joshua made a covenant with the people that day, and set them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 21: Joshua Renewing the Covenant—Joshua 24: 14-25.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Our lesson constitutes the farewell words of Joshua.

There is always a deep impressiveness about the farewell words of a great leader. Men wonder instinctively what is going to happen after he goes.

Will someone rise to succeed him and carry on his work? Will those who have shared in his leadership and triumph feel a new sense of responsibility and determine to put forth greater effort to make good his loss?

It is a solemn time when one contemplates the fulfillment of a great work and the need of taking up a new enterprise, or when one anticipates the ending of a great life and the need of some new hero to carry on.

Surveys Past.

Joshua begins his farewell by surveying the past. He outlines the mistakes and the triumphs of Israel, and he indicates the way in which triumphs have been won. He challenges the people with the alternatives of a great choice, and he is clear and unequivocal in stating his own choice regardless of what others may do.

His words have beclme engraveno in life and history as applicable to every great moral and spiritual crisi —"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

Life constantly presents to men the plain alternatives that Joshua presented to ancient Israel. The form and superficial nature of the crisis may change but the inherent factors are the same.

On the one hand is right with possible sacrifices and dangers, and on the other side is wrong with possible allurements of gain, ease or pleasure. No matter if history reveals that the wrong ultimately brings disastrous consequences; to the individual or people at the moment the way of compromise with conscience may seem not only the easy way but the most profitable.

There are times when the way of right is inevitably associated with sacrifice, when it requires all the courage that a man or a nation can muster to maintain integrity of soul.

Unfaltering Stand.

There must have been for many in Israel a powerful inspiration in Joshua's own unfaltering attitude. Simply for one man to take his stand and declare himself is often the saving of a situation.

This is real leadership when a man stands forth and says to his fellows, "Regardless of where the rest of you go, I am going in this direction and I don't care whether you follow me or not." The man who speaks and acts in that fashion will always have followers sooner or later.

Even if he go the way of martyrdom, with no apparent success, men will rise up in a newer generation to glory in his character and achievement and to follow in his footsteps.

Life at its highest and best is established in the sphere of a great covenant. Its relationships are holy. Note in the lesson how Joshua associates the idea of service with the idea of holiness. It is necessary in life not only to make covenants but to renew them.

There are holy shrines in the experiences of every man which he should revisit that he may find new faith and courage. There are holy places in the life of a nation that need constantly to be kept pure and unsullied as sources of hope and encouragement.

Landmarks of Life.

The most sacred place in the life of an individual or in the life of a nation is the place where some great decision has been made. It ought to be marked by a shrine or a monument.

It ought to stand conspicuously, symbolizing a great achievement in character and purpose so boldly emphasized in after life that every ignoble thought may be rebuked, that every temptation toward cowardice or weakness may be overwhelmed by holy remembrance. It is by renewing our covenants that we maintain morale.

Every day should be a day when we hear the challenge of the Almighty, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." It is in daily decisions, in feeling that every moment brings a crisis that life is developed in spiritual power and stability.

THANKSGIVING IN UNITED CHURCH

Special Services Were Observed in Omemee on Sunday.

OUTSIDE SPEAKER

OMEMEE, Nov. 19 — Special Thanksgiving service were observed in the United Church on Sunday. With ideal weather prevailing and with such a prominent speaker as Rev. (Dr.) A. C. Crews of Toronto the morning service was well attended while in the evening every pew was filled, and many chairs were used to accommodate the large congregation which came for many miles distant.

The church decorations consisted of chrysanthemums in various shades, plants and flags and with the soft rare sunbeams streaming upon them or the glow of the electric light, presented a cheerful aspect. At the morning service the choir rendered two anthems "Great is the Lord" with solo by Mrs. Harold Laidley and "Rejoice, be Joyful in the Lord" with obligato duet by Misses Vera and Mary Lowe. Dr. Crews took for his text the words found in St. John 4:38, "Other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours," at the morning service. He spoke briefly of our forefathers who had labored so faithfully to clear the land, erect such fine churches, etc., and we are enjoying the fruits of their labour, and yet many feel that the church is a burden to sustain. The evening service was very appropriate to Thanksgiving the subject for consideration being taken from the 103 Psalm, verse 2, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits." Two anthems were well rendered by the Choir, "O, for a thousand tongues to sing" and "O Holy Peace," with solos sweetly rendered by Mrs. Cecil Corneil. A pleasing solo was well rendered by Miss Carrie Balfour, of Toronto, all of which was much appreciated by the large congregation.

Fowl Dinner

The splendid services of Sunday were but an introduction to the feast for mind and body which had been especially prepared by the ladies to take place on Monday.

The event, a hot fowl dinner, with a good programme following, attracted hundreds from outside points and close unto six hundred and fifty healthy appetities were appeased, even though the late comers had to be satisfied with cooked meats in place of the fowl.

It was the largest gathering of the years in which the event has been held and the ladies are to be congratulated on the splendid service given.

The auditorium of the church was filled to capacity, following the supper and while waiting for the programme to begin, they were right royally entertained by Mr. Treneer, the blind organist, of Toronto, who rendered several selections on the pipe organ. The programme was opened by Rev. E. W. Rowland by the hearty rendition of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," by all present which was followed by prayer. Mrs. Tucker, elocutionist, of Lindsay, delighted the audience with several numbers brilliantly rendered. Mrs. Corneil gave an excellent organ number which delighted the large audience present. Rev. Mr. Herrington of Warsaw, who is a former pastor of the Bethel charge was present and gave a short interesting address. Mr. Treneer favored the gathering with a beautiful solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" followed by "Crossing the Bar." This talented though afflicted artist played his own accompaniment, bringing out wondrous organ tones and later on in the programme he gave two difficult organ numbers, which were thoroughly appreciated and loudly applauded.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $330.00.

THREE DECK HANDS ARE STILL MISSING

May Be on Steamer Which Stood By Burning Vessel.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press). — Charles Edward Valois, St. Ignace de Loyola, J. Lamontagne, St. Nicholas, and L. LeBau, address unknown are missing and their fate unknown as a result of the fire which burned the Canada Steamship Lines freighter Montreal to the water's edge near Sorel, about fifty miles down the St. Lawrence from here, last night. It is presumed here that the men, the first two of whom were deck hands and the third a look-out, perished either in the flames or by drowning.

The loss of the steamship is placed at $600,000. At noon the fire on the vessel was still smouldering.

QUEBEC, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—At ten o'clock this morning it was reported officially that with the exception of three deckhands, everyone on board the ill-fated Montreal had been accounted for. Fears for the safety of these three, however, were expressed by the company officials, though thy were not prepared to admit that the men had been lost. As a matter of fact the missing men have two chances for life. They may be on board the "Brant County," which stood along side the burning vessel, or they may have succeeded in landing at one or other of the villages along the river bank. The names of the deckhands were not known at the local office of the Canada Steamships Company.

STEAMER LOST CREW MISSING

Anxiety Felt For Safety of Sailors in Lifeboat.

RESCUE RUMORED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press.) —According to information brought back to the Michigan Soo last night by the tug Alabama, of the Great Lakes' Towing and Wrecking Company, the steamer Cottonwood, owned by J. Davidson, of Bay City, which went ashore a mile north of Copper Mine Point in a gale on Wednesday, has been abandoned and is a total loss. Some anxiety is now felt for the safety of the crew, which was missing from the vessel in one of the lifeboats. There is a persistent report that the crew is safe at Batcewana, some fifteen miles south of the Point, where the disaster occurred, but this could not be verified.

ST. ANDREW'S FOWL SUPPER

Splendid Attendance at Successful Dinner and Concert.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

There was a splendid attendance of nearly three hundred people at the fowl supper served by the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church, in the basement of the Sunday School last evening, and many compliments showered on the ladies for the excellent supper served, which included delicious viands of every description and of plentiful supply. The decorations of the tables were very attractive, being carried out with blue paper, centrepieces of yellow 'mums, and blue and yellow candles in silver holders.

The president of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. C. R. Banks, acted as general convenor, with deputy convenors in Mrs. W. J. Henry, Mrs. B. F. McNeely, Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge, Mrs. G. A. Gillespie, Mrs. R. Cotton, Mrs. W. Young, and Mrs. J. W. Fraser. Members of the C.G.I.T. group of the church acted as assistants.

A fine programme was presented later in the evening, Mr. J. W. Fraser acting as chairman. Mrs. J. Forbes Allan and Mrs. L. M. Brooks had charge of the programme, which included violin solos by Roy Dome, vocal numbers by Mrs. H. Doig, Mrs. Ida Clark, and Miss Helen Lytle, with accompaniments by Miss Gwen Donley, and readings by Mr. J. John.

FREE STATE JAILS REPUBLICAN ARMY

Men Responsible For Raids On Barracks To Be Interned.

DUBLIN, Nov. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Leaders of a small body of men purporting to act as "the Republican army," who are held responsible for recent raids on army barrack in the Free State, will be interned, it was announced to-day. The number will not exceed 150.

President Cosgrave said that he did not fear any danger to the Free State as a result of the attacks and tht he was confident the State had been established on a firm foundation.

Pulpit Politics

The present contest is affording the unusual spectacle of an attempt being made to convert a political campaign into a religious crusade under cover of which a section of a political party is attempting to slip into power.

Some churches are being turned into political committee rooms. Pulpits are being given over to political speeches. Sunday is being devoted to attacks upon the government of the Province. In a fine spirit of tolerance clergymen who do not see eye to eye with the pastors of these churches are being denounced as "black sheep." Sir Joseph Flavelle than whom no layman has done more for temperance, is condemned as a "fat-fingered millionaire." Prayer meetings are being held not to pray for spiritual guidance as to the best decision but for the success of one Political Party. Women canvassers are being sent from house to house to coax, cajole or frighten other women voters into lining up in this crusade against government which is trying to solve a serious problem in a practical sensible manner.

The whole movement will fail for the simple reason that it runs into the stone wall of public intelligence.

THE PEOPLE KNOW that this is not a contest between the prohibitionists on one side and the liquor interests on the other.

THE PEOPLE KNOW that this is a political campaign, one of the issues of which is the question of the best method of handling the liquor problem.

The people are willing to accept religious guidance from the pulpit.

But the people as a whole resent being asked to accept political advice from the pulpit and resent the church being made an election machine.

They know that this question has more than one side.

They know that conditions have been created by the O.T.A. which are being ignored by the leaders of this church-political crusade.

They know that thousands of people who formerly supported the O.T.A. are convinced that something better in the way of liquor control must be found and that they are determined to give the Ferguson policy a trial.

And despite political sermons and prohibtionist demonstrations that are designed to defeat government candidates the voters have minds of their own and they are resolved to use them in deciding which way their ballots shall be marked.

Just as the intolerant methods of Hon. W. E. Raney in trying to enforce the Ontario Temperance Act created a rising tide of public opinion against that measure, the intolerant methods of some campaigners in the present election is creating a surging tide of resentment among many electors who object to the attempts being made to herd them and turn them over to a political party as so many automatic voting machines without any right to an opinion or a mind of their own.

That resentment in Peterborough City is being shown by the offers of support from every side for—the Government Candidate and by the enthusiastic workers who are making sure of his election.

W. H. BRADBURN

RUSH STARTED TO COPPER FIND

Many People Headed For Jamieson Township, Near Timmins.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

TIMMINS, Nov. 19.—Every available rig has been hired in the Porcupine camp, and for the past two days a steady procession of all kinds of vehicles, piled high with knapsacks and men, have passed over the Mattagami bridge headed for the Kamiskotia Lake gold area, where a spectacular copper find has been reported in Jamieson Township. At midnight yesterday two men were seen with packs slung over their shoulders hoofing it along the frozen road.

This new discovery has thrilled the Porcupine residents to an even greater extent than Red Lake did two years ago, and throughout the day small groups stand on the sidewalks in the centre of Timmins organizing private syndicates and discussing the rumors that are taking fresh life every minute.

That copper has been found in Jamieson Township is generally admitted. Assays were made of the samples in the Hollinger assay office and immediately the result was known Hollinger officials sent in a party of men to stake in the vicinity.

"If it's good enough for Hollinger it's good enough for me," said one prominent citizen when asked what expectations he had that copper in commercial quantities might be discovered.

Strike Made in Swamp Land.

So far as can be ascertained, the samples assayed by Hollinger were obtained near the Jamieson Township line bordering Robb. F. L. Finlay's report for the Provincial Government in 1924 shows Haileyburian formation in the vicinity. The actual strike was made in swampy land close to several claims known to have gold and silver veins running through. For a number of years this area has been well staked out, and during the past summer interest began to revive in the properties locally.

Less than a month ago the Jamieson brothers, who have properties in the township named after them, were known to be negotiating with a syndicate seeking an option on their properties, while in the Southwest Pete De Santi is reported to have made remarkable finds of gold quartz on his claims in Turnbull.

It is too early yet to speculate whether the latest find is of any material value, but being so accessible to the Porcupine camp there is reason to believe development work will proceed at a rapid pace in the spring of the year.

PETERBORO' MEN GIVE ADDRESSES

and be of material assistance.

Advertise Canada.

Following the president's address, the delegates devoted themselves to a discussion of the subjects on the agenda. On behalf of the Guelph Chamber of Commerce, a resolution was proposed favoring the sending of an exhibition train to Great Britain for the purpose of advertising Canada and Canadian goods in the Old Land. The resolution was carried by the meeting.

Two interesting matters relevant to shipping trade were raised by representatives of the Fort William Board of Trade in the form of two resolutions looking towards the amendments of the Canadian coasting laws. The proposals, with certain slight changes, were adopted by the meeting.

Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton, of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, aroused a lively discussion when he moved a resolution for the encouragement of immigration from Great Britain and the northern countries of Europe. It was decided, however, to leave this matter over until to-day, as the associated boards of trade of the Dominion had dealt with the subject very fully and it was thought advisable to draft a resolution which would harmonize with the one adopted by the Dominion body.

On behalf of the Toronto Board of Trade, C. L. Burton moved for a reduction of the existing business tax and to place this tax on a more equitable basis. It was also suggested in the same resolution that the present municipal income tax in the province be abolished. In this latter connection the speaker explained that other provinces in active competition with Ontario had no municipal income tax and this he felt, had attracted a great deal of business away from Ontario.

"Mining may be the most spectacular interest in Northern Ontario but in the north, as in south and throughout Canada, agriculture is and will continue to be the basis of all true prosperity," declared A. M. Dewar, president of the Northern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, at a banquet tendered by the Toronto Board of Trade to the delegates in the Toronto Board rooms last night.

Mr. Dewar gave the most striking address at the banquet, and his contention that Northern Ontario was not only noted for its mineral and timber wealth, but first of all for its agricultural possibilities, was described by other speakers from the southern part of the Province as "interesting to the point of amazement."

Mr. Dewar, who was responding to the toast of 'Sister Associations,' declared that Northern Ontario would ultimately become the wealthiest part of the Province.

"The national resources require development and that necessitates money," he said. "We prefer British capital but if that is not forthcoming, we will accept money from any source that will help to open up the country."

While the delegates evidently expected this voice from the Far North to dilate on timber wealth and mining possibilities, Mr. Dewar went on to declare that "Northern Ontario is the greatest agricultural centre in Canada. In the vicinity of Cochrane, 500 miles north of Toronto, there is a clay belt of over 16,000,000 acres, unequalled in Canada for growing grain and vegetables, their yield per acre exceeding that of any other part of the country." He went on to point out that, while only one million acres of this belt was yet under cultivation, the total number of acres assured for future cultivation was equal to three-quarters of the available land for cultivation in the three Western Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. In saying this, he declared that he did not discount or depreciate the enormous value of the mineral and timber wealth of the North.

He felt that Toronto and Southern Ontario did not realize the value of the market in the North, and he asked the members of the Boards of Trade to give the North their best attention. "Give us what we want and we will buy from Toronto instead of Montreal," he said.

Mr. George Wilson, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, presided, and the other speakers at what was a happy as well as an educational event including K. J. Dunstan, president of the Associated Boards of Trade; J. J. Duffus, of Peterboro, first vice-president of the Associated Boards; Mr. J. W. Curran, editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, who predicted that the world would soon hear "amazing news out of Algoma"; S. B. Gundy, president of the Dominion Board of Trade; Dr. W. T. Holloway, Mayor of Peterboro and president of the Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Foster of Toronto who welcomed the delegates to their annual convention.

CUSTOMS MEN HAVE FEW CARS

Only Four Available For Preventive Work on Prairies.

PROBE SESSION.

OTTAWA, Nov 19.—(Canadian Press).—There are four Customs Preventive Service motor cars on the eight hundred mile border between the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchwan, and Alberta and the United States. They are all stationed in Manitoba and there are consequently none in the other provinces.

In the city of Montreal the Customs Preventive Service owns only one automobile. It is a sedan and not very fast. When other cars are required to chase smugglers or for similar purposes they must be rented. Sometimes this results in delay.

These were some of the outstanding facts which were brought out before the Customs Investigating Commission yesterday when W. F. Wilson, chief of Customs Preventive Service, was under examination. Mr. Wilson's examination occupied a large part of the time of the morning sitting. He gave details in regard to the personnel and functioning of the service which is under his control. He explained that a number of Customs Preventive vessels on the Atlantic could not make ten knots an hour, the speed he considered necessary to chase and capture smugglers.

BLADDER TROUBLES BOTHER MANY PAST 40

Seven out of Ten are Victims, But Writer Tells How "Uratabs" Bring Swift, Amazing Relief With Renewed Vital Force

COST OF LIVING LTTLE CHANGED

Level in Britain in October Slightly Higher Than September.

DOWN FROM 1925.

The average level of the cost of living in Great Britain on the 1st of October, 1926 was 74 per cent about that of July 1914. This compares with an increase in the previous month of 72 per cent and of 76 per cent at the beginning of October 1925, according to advices just received by Bankers Trust Company from its British Information Service.

For food alone the increase at the beginning of October 1926 was 63 per cent, comparing with 62 per cent at the beginning of September and with 72 per cent at the beginning of October last year year. The increase over the month of September is mainly due to seasonal increases in the prices of eggs and milk, which, however, were partly counteracted by decreases in the prices of bread, flour and potatoes. The decrease from last year's figure is largely due to the lower prices of butter, eggs and potatoes.

Rents and clothing remain at about the same level as in September, 50 per cent and 120 per cent respectively above that of July 1914. At the beginning of October last year the rent index was about 48 per cent above that of 1914, while clothing ranged between 120 per cent and 130 per cent higher. In the fuel and light group the increased cost of coal and gas caused this item in October to reach 130 per cent above the 1914 level, compared with about 115 per cent in the previous month, and only 80 per cent last year at the same time.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR BAD STOMACH GIVES QUICK RELIEF

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet — Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meals or overeat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISURATED Magnesia—not a laxative.

NEWS OF BETHANY

BETHANY, Nov. 19. — Despite the inclemency of the weather on Tuesday, a fair crowd gathered at the farm of Mr. Fred Thompson, one mile north of the village, to witness the auction sale of farm stock and implements. Mr. Thompson is giving up farming and intends living retired. The Messrs. Jacksons, of Port Perry, had charge of the sale. Everything sold realized high prices, horses going as high as $150.00, and cows sold between $50 and $60 each. Over $2 000 was realized from the sale.

The mild weather of the past week is enabling the farmers to get caught up with their fall work.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

A "PLENTIFUL LACK"

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

Can a "lack" be "plentiful?"

A lack is a deficiency, a want, a need. "Plentiful" means copious, abundant, ample. It would seem, therefore, that the expression, "a plentiful lack," would be clearly what is known as a "contradiction in terms."

And yet one of the leading newspapers of America said, recently, in an editorial:

"There is no lack of courageous and honest men in American trade unions, but there is a plentiful lack of honest and courageous leadership."

We know what the writer wishes to say, but there is some difficulty in finding just the proper form of words. Perhaps one of the best ways in which to express it is as follows:

"There is a dearth of honest and courageous leadership."

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism and gout.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few days after beginning the treatment that the dangerous poisons are leaving your system through the natural channels. Rheuma should please you in a day and make you hopeful of quick recovery in a week or money refunded.

LAUZON.

Q. — Who was Lauzon?

A.—Jean de Lauzon was the fourth Governor General of Canada under the French regime, from 1651 till 1657. He was one of the original members of the company of the Hundred Associates, founded in France in 1627 under the direction of Cardinal Richelieu—an organization that had a monopoly of the fur trade for many years. The members inaugurated the feudal tenure or seigniorial system.

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

THELMA

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

No list of feminine names would be complete without the lovely Thelma. It is a Norse name, suggestive of the mythology of the Land of the Midnight Sun where Valkyries drive their gleaming chariots over the battlefield and conduct the glorious dead to their appointed places in Valhalla.

Little was known of Thelma and seldom was the name used outside of Scandinavia, until Marie Corelli, in her sensational novel of that name, presented the tragic love story of a beautiful Norwegian who was transplanted from the land of fjords to the center of London's smartest and most corrupt society.

From that time the number of Thelmas in England and America were legion. The name has had particular vogue in this country where the Scandinavian immigration is great. As a romantic and poetical name, Thelma is without equal, but her popularity has never extended beyond Scandinavian- and English-speaking countries.

Amber is Thelma's talismanic stone. It will guard her from all evil, especially from contagion. To wear it on a journey will preserve her from accident. Monday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

FOOD AND TUBERCULOSIS

Now that the time for the sale of Christmas seals is approaching, we will do well to take up just what we know about tuberculosis in general and food in particular. There may be no case of this disease in our own immediate circle, yet anything that we may do to help others will be time well spent.

The fact that such progress has been made in treatment of this disease means that the problem is on the way to being solved. On the other hand, this does not imply that we may relax our vigilance.

Most authorities are of the opinion that the old-time process known as a "stuffing" does more harm than good. Even a normal digestive system will rebel if over-taxed by too much food, how much more will one that is weakened by illness. Just as in normal health, the diet should be planned with due regard for individual digestive powers, so in illness this is particularly important. In the first place, we must remember that an excessive gain in weight above the normal is not to be sought for the tubercular individual any more than for the one who is well. With these principles firmly fixed in mind, we shall have greater success in planning our tuberculosis diets.

Since, when any disease is well established, a physician must be the one to dictate diet terms, we shall, perhaps, do better if we confine ourselves for the most part to the thinking about diet as a preventive of tuberculosis, children, for example, whose parents are tubercular, and who may be in danger of falling victims to the disease, offer an especially interesting side of the problem.

There must be present in the diet for such cases plenty of vitamins, especially the one contained in butter-fat. Plenty of whole certified milk, with judicious quantities of fresh butter, will supply this growth-promoting element. The other vitamins will be taken care of if the diet includes the following: One serving of potatoes, one of coarse or root vegetable, one of fresh or green vegetable and two of fruit daily.

Eggs are always thought of in connection with milk as being primarily tuberculosis food. It is true that they contain many of the most necessary food elements and, except in a comparatively few cases, they are easy of digestion. Just here there must be a word of warning. It has already been noted that the best authorities no longer stuff their patients. These same authorities are especially careful not to increase the number of eggs given daily. Eggs are very concentrated food, rich in fat and albumen, and the sub-normal digestion is, perhaps, more easily upset by too many eggs than by any other one food.

Finally, here is a summary of some good rules: Do not force food upon a patient. Remember that eggs and milk are rich in food value and do not allow their use to unbalance the diet as a whole. The daily three meals, with a light lunch in the middle of the afternoon and at bed time, is the most satisfactory diet plan for the average person, when tuberculosis has declared itself. Do not strive to increase the weight above normal. Remember that strict attention to the general laws of hygiene, fresh air, rest, cleanliness and cheerfulness are very important in helping the body to assimilate the food eaten.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

"STONEWALL" JACKSON AND ANNA MORRISON

"Stonewall" Jackson, the penniless orphan who became a celebrated hero, was married to Miss Junkin, daughter of a clergyman. Fourteen months after, Mrs. Jackson died and the future general's second wife was Anna Morrison, also a clergyman's daughter. This union was an extremely happy one and the letter below a happy reflection on their married life. It was written at the time of the defeat of the Federal troops on the fields of Fredericksburg. Jackson was resting with his troops and he also was expecting to hear of a new arrival at his home. So sacred did he consider these tidings to be that he gave orders that the announcement should not be transmitted by telegraph but sent to him by letter, and when the news of the birth of his daughter Julia arrived by messenger he took the letter and hurried away from his staff, telling none its contents and leaving them to learn of the event from other sources. His joy over the advent of his baby was boundless and he wrote to his wife:

"How thankful I am to our Heavenly Father for having spared my precious wife and given us a little daughter. I cannot tell how grateful I am, nor how much I wish I could be with you and to see my two darlings. But while this pleasure is denied me I am thankful it is accorded to you to have my little pet and I hope it may be a great deal of company and comfort to its mother. Now don't exert yourself to write to me for to know that you were exerting yourself to write would give me more pain than the letter would pleasure, so you must not do it. But you must love your esposo in the meantime.

"I expect you are just now made up with that baby. Don't you wish that your husband wouldn't claim any part of it, but let you have the sole ownership? Don't you regard it as the most precious little creature in the world? Do not spoil it and do not let anybody tease it. Don't permit it to have a bad temper. How I would love to have the darling little thing! Give her many kisses from her father. . . .

"I am so thankful to our ever kind Heavenly Father for having so improved my eyes as to be able to write at night. He continues to shower blessings upon me; and that you should have been spared and our darling little daughter given us fills my heart with overflowing gratitude. If I know my unworthy self my desire is to live entirely and unreservedly to God's glory. Pray, my darling, that I may so live . . . ."

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

WHAT SORT OF GIRL?

By Alma Whitaker.

I shall now endeavor to be thoroughly maternal and all-wise feminine. You see, Amy and Lerlie have asked me what sort of a girl the men like best!

I rather gather, between the lines, that Amy and Lerlie are emerging, probably just going to High School, probably meeting more young people than they ever met before. At all events the writing, which is Amy's, is eager, youthful, and she assures me that she and Lerlie are most anxious to be the right sort of girl.

That is, of course, the right sort of girl best designed to attract the right sort of boy. "Do they like a girl who is a 'pal?' Or do they like a girl who is rather proud and standoffish? Or do they like girls that flirt and make eyes at them? or do they like shy girls, the ladylike kind? Do they like slangy girls that make smart cracks?"

And, of course, the answer is "Yes."

But, like the shoe sale advertisements, "Not all sizes in every style" so to speak, or the dress sale advts, "Not all styles in every color," the boys, even as the girls, usually find it difficult to find their exact preference as to size, style and coloring in one combination. If they could secure their ideal girl (at the right price) she would probably be a beautiful young actress capable of filling every type of feminine role according to their immediate mood, and devoting herself exclusively to charming those every moods. It would not be at all good for them.

And Amy and Lerlie evidently feel capable of acting any role required of them. If they can do that they need no help from me.

I recall knowing a girl and her mother whom we met at various pleasure resorts one year. On the first occasion she was a stately dignified girl, essentially a drawing-room type, looking gorgeous in evening dress. So that we were surprised to find her strenuously athletic three months later, getting hot and dishevelled at tennis. Still later we met her on the Riviera dancy, flapperish, slangy. In each of these guises she attracted a totally different kind of man—and we rather suspected that mamma was taking her the rounds with the idea of securing a suitable husband.

We talked with a man who had met her as the stately drawing-room girl.

"Funny, I once worshipped that girl" he told us. "Her quiet dignity enchanted me. Who could have suspected she was just a common empty headed dance and flapper?" Lucky for me I did not quite lose my head that Spring—decided to wait, you know, till I could visit them in their home. . . ."

And there was probably another man who had approved her as the strenuous athlete—wholesome out-door stuff—who would have been equally disillusioned to meet her in either of the other guises! So, you see, dears, it just isn't possible to be all things to all men. Just as no man could be all things to all women, for that matter notwithstanding the dashing lady-killers of the movies whose charms are so all-embracing.

It is safer and much less wearing to just "Be Yourself," and make that self as natural, generous, charming and self-respecting as possible. Then when the right man comes along he will endow you with all the other attributes. And really now, speaking maternally, it is much better not to be too generally attractive to the boys at your ages. Boys can be such tiresome things, and infinitely more interesting in small doses. Take them exclusively as a condiment for some years to come.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Since this day belongs to Venus, the lapis lazuli, symbol of faithful love, is the talismanic gem. This lovely gem, so nearly a sapphire, was believed by the ancients to be a cure for melancholy that arises from disappointment in love. It was a much-prized stone among the Egyptians; indeed it was known as a "vamp" gem, and history records that Cleopatra and other famous sirens favored it greatly as an ornament.

The natal stone for today is the aquamarine which exerts its powers most successfully when the wearer is in good health. An old legend asserts that it ensures its wearer of freedom from small cares and worries.

Black is today's color. Especially advocated for wear to those frivolously inclined.

The purple aster is today's flower.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1926

This is read as one of the lucky days, for the Sun, Jupiter and Uranus are in benefic aspect. Mercury is adverse.

This is a day in which to use all one's best energies, for efforts will bring success under this planetary government.

It is a time to seek employment or financial backing, for persons in the Sun are likely to be friendly and helpful.

There is a sign of promise for all who lead in the world work and both men and women now little known are to gain sudden fame.

With the new year the old order will have passed to a great extent and the most progressive ideas will prevail.

Poets and philosophers are to be leaders as never before, it is foretold, for there is to be a great turning toward spiritual and intellectual interests.

Again, the stars smile on aviation and aviators. New inventions are to work many changes, it is prophesied.

England is to have new anxieties that threaten the solidarity of the empire, astrologers prophesy.

Great Britain is to have a prosperous winter, commercially, according to the stars, but British statesmen are to experience many vicissitudes.

The stationary position of Uranus and Mars is supposed to be one cause for adverse influences over Ireland, Italy, the Balkans and Japan.

New York, Rio Janeiro, Singapore and Cape Town are supposed to be affected by the malefic power of the two adverse planets.

Many sudden waves of public opinion may pass over the United States and the radio is to become a factor for good in some sort of a crisis, the seers foretell.

Persons whose birthdate is is may have a year marked by romance and much interesting news.

Children born on this day probably will be keen of mind and quick to learn. They are usually high-strung and imaginative.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Today's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S NUT PARTY

"Mother, may we have a nut party?" chattered Billie Bushytail, the boy squirrel, one day as he was going to school.

"Oh, that would be jolly fun!" cried his brother Johnnie as he frisked his tail about his neck like a fur muffler. "I know where there are a lot of butternuts that we didn't gather."

"And I know where there is a pile of hickory nuts," added Billie. "Please, Mother, may we have the party?"

"Do you mean now—stay home from school and have a party now?" asked Mrs. Bushytail, who was bringing in some fluffy stuff from the pods of the milkweed plant to line the house and make it warm for winter.

"Oh, no, not a party now!" laughed Billie. "We'll have it after school if you will let us."

"Why, I think it will be all right, after you do your work," said the squirrel lady. "You know you must help me bring in some more of this milkweed lining to keep us warm."

"We'll do that after school!" promised Johnnie. "Hurray for the nut party!"

"For whom are you going to have the party?" asked his mother with a smile. "Usually, you know, parties are given in honor of some one."

The two squirrel boys looked at each other puzzled like, and then Billie chattered:

"This party will be for us—for Johnnie and me."

Mrs. Bushytail was just going to ask her little sons if they didn't think that was rather selfish, to have a party all for themselves, when Johnnie thought the same thing and he cried:

"Our nut party shall be for Uncle Wiggily!"

"Oh, yes! I never thought of that!" added Billie. "We'll have the party for Uncle Wiggily."

Mrs. Bushytail did not want to spoil things by saying Uncle Wiggily never ate nuts, unless someone cracked them for him. Though a rabbit's teeth are made for gnawing the bark of trees, they are not so fashioned as to make it easy for them to gnaw through the hard shells of a nut which Billie and Johnnie could easily do. But the mother squirrel thought everything would turn out right. Now let us see if it did.

No sooner did they have permission, that Johnnie and Billie began planning for their party. First they asked Uncle Wiggily to be there, and the rabbit gentleman said he would. For, of course, as it was his party, without him it would seem very funny. Then Billie and Johnnie asked all the other animal boys and girls from Sammie and Susie Littletail down to Jollie and Jillie Longtail.

That afternoon the party was held under the trees in the woods. Uncle Wiggily was among the first to arrive, wearing his tall silk hat, his red trousers and black coat. Johnnie and Billie were there, you may be sure, and they had gathered many nuts, cracking the shells for such of their friends who could not do this for themselves.

"Girls and boys!" chattered Billie when all had arrived. "I now declare the party open! Begin to eat!" Johnnie gayly pulled his brother's tail. "What is it?" asked Billie.

"You forgot to say it was Uncle Wiggily's party," spoke Johnnie.

Uncle Wiggily was among the first to arrive.

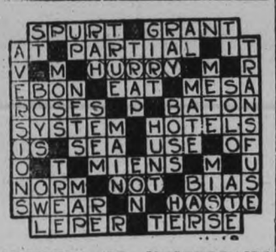
"Oh, yes, I forgot!" went on Billie. "This nut party is for Uncle Wiggily! Now eat!"

"And I'm for Uncle Wiggily, too!" suddenly snarled the Bob Cat jumping out of the bushes and leaping toward the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, stop him! Hit him! Bang him!" cried the animal children, and they began throwing nuts at the bad chap. But the hickory nuts, butter nuts, black walnuts, pecans, almonds and beechnuts were so little they did not stop the Bob Cat. Until, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily picked up a big, round cocoanut like a cannon ball.

"Take that!" he cried, throwing it at the Bob Cat. And the bad chap took the cocoanut right on the end of his nose.

"Wow, zowie!" he howled. "I've had enough of this party!" and away he ran, and then everything was all right. Baby Bunty said Mr. Longears was very brave. And if the eye of the needle doesn't wink at the apple pies growing on the huckleberry bush, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Tumble's top.



ANSWERS TO YESTERDAY'S QUESTIONS.

SHORT STORY

Where, where—Penfield asked himself—did she get it—the air of a young princess in masquerade, running wild here in the streets of the tiny dead-alive village? Tallish, slight yet softly rounded; lithe as a willow-wand, she was wholly unbelievable, notwithstanding he knew her name, pedigree, and estate in life, rather better than he did his own. She was Cousin Jane's daughter—poor, simple Cousin Jane, who had married, almost with force and the strong hand, a husband so good at a great many things, he was no sort of good at making a living. A master fiddler, magic dancer, prince of camp-hunters, also of camp cooks, full of life, and laughter, and stories that no one else could tell, he had accepted graciously the post of life's playmate, leaving it to his wife to make the family living. Celesta, their one child, adored him—yet had something over to spare for the ugly, patient mother. Her beauty, her grace, her elfin charm, made them humble worshippers.

She stopped midway the muddy, unpaved street, smiling impishly, yet wistfully, at Penfield and saying: "This way, Cousin? You're lookin' for Castle Granby? This way—round the corner."

"Sure I'm your cousin? Howd'ye know it?" Penfield asked.

"Why—it's as plain as—the nose on your face. The Penfield nose can't be counterfeited—it's distinguished, I know, but thank the Lord I haven't got it. Now I'm not asking what brings you here. I can see your flivver for myself—but I want to know what made you let it bring you?"

"Won't tell you—not till you tell me something," Penfield said soberly. "D'ye know, Cousin Jane, your mother is in a pretty bad way? In fact—she's got to go away for awhile. The family'll see to that—keeping her comfortable, letting her have a good rest."

"Deary me! When were the family made our guardians?" Celesta flung at him.

Penfield gave her a stern look, saying: "The day Providence permitted us all to be born of the same blood. We're going to save her—she must go somewhere—maybe to Arizona, before this thing gets too bad——"

"What—what is it?" Celesta whispered, her face suddenly gray.

"Tuberculosis!" Penfield said brutally. "Plus over work and the dregs of flu. Lucky I came on just now—going back West in ten days. Cousin Jane is going with me—I'll see that she is well cared for. But if she worries there's not much hope of her getting well—so it's got to be settled right now, what you can do—and where you'd rather do it."

"No need to ask that! If Mammy goes—I go. If she needs nursin'—I'm the nurse can do most for her," Celesta began steadily, but tears were gathering on the heavy lashes over her violet eyes.

Penfield stared at her. "Reckon you don't know the risk," he said. "Chances are that, slim as you are—a good wind could blow you clean away—you'd die—even before Cousin Jane——"

"I—I—hope so!" Celesta cried with big bursting sobs choking utterance. When they checked a little she whimpered: "Does Mammy—know."

"Not yet—and she mustn't—not till she's a lot better," Penfield tried hard to put comfort in his tone.

"She won't go without me!" Celesta breathed rather than said.

"She'll have to—it's life or death. But you shan't go West!! Understand—you shan't," cried Penfield.

She went, she stayed, faithful, fearless even when the thread of hope wore through. Patient, tireless, tender, she stood or sat or lay beside her mother, day after day, night on night. Nursing wore on her terribly, took away flesh and color, robbed her bronze hair of luster, put deep, dark circles beneath her violet eyes. Penfield watched her with steadily growing wonder. He had heard of her—unpleasant things—that she was selfish, a liar, a reckless coquette. Even darker things had been hinted—but never since seeing her had he let himself remember them. He wanted only what he saw—the woman, true, tender, brave to recklessness, thus returning many fold the love lavished on her from her cradle. Her beauty had faded—it might never come back. Indeed often looking at the wraith of her early self, his heart misgave him—she might sacrifice her life in this gallant hopeless fight. He besought her to have help—nurses day and night, or hospital care—never mind the cost. She withstood him stolidly, saying in a toneless voice: "We—we're costing you too much already—I know—I'm keeping books—for her. And I've promised—if I live longest—to see that you—that the family is paid in full. We may be thriftless—we Granbys—but we are not sponges nor beggars. She couldn't rest, even in her grave, unless she thought I'd clear the debt."

"You—you have more than cleared it—just being yourself," Penfield said huskily. "I love you—better than my life. Marry me right now. I'm going to ask her if she doesn't think we ought to do it."

Half carrying Celesta he made his plea. The sick woman smiled at him, saying in a thin whisper: "Sure you—want—my baby? And will you be good to her?"

"Not as good as she deserves—because no man can do that," Penfield said.

"Then—I'm happy—enough to—die," from Cousin Jane, spending thus her latest breath.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By Edson R. Waite Shawnee Okla.

THAT a city progresses only as its merchants and business men work in harmony for common betterment.

The two things every community desires to see is sound constructive growth and improvement of existing conditions. This accomplishment is largely dependent upon the retailers and business men who invariably are the leaders in progressive community movements.

In the promotion of any plans for development, a good newspaper plays one of the most important roles, serving as a banner for the leaders to rally round and selling the movement to every individual in the community.

* * *

What can be accomplished by such co-operation has been exemplified recently in our own city when the merchants and business men, with the active support of the newspaper, raised $15,000 for an advertising campaign to advertise Kalamazoo. This money not only is being spent with the idea of attracting new business but it will accomplish the important task of selling every citizen on the advantages of his own community.

OLD MASTERS

I travel'd among unknown men
In lands beyond the sea;
Nor, England, did I know till then
What love I bore to thee.

'Tis past, that melancholy dream!
Nor will I quit thy shore
A second time; for still I seem
To love three more and more.

Among thy mountains did I feel
The joy of my desire;
And she I cherish turn'd her wheel
Beside an English fire.

Thy mornings show'd thy nights conceal'd
The bowers where Lucy play'd;
And thine too is the last green field
That Lucy's eyes surveyed.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

©1926 MC. COY HEALTH SERVICE, LOS ANGELES- CAL.

QUESTION: F. W. M. writes: Will you please tell me through the columns of the paper whether the juice of fruit should be taken during a fruit fast, or if the whole fruit should be used? How long should the fast last?

ANSWER: If you are taking an orange juice fast, it is all right to use the pulp, as there is very little cellulose in the pulp. This is also true with other fruits. It is generally all right to use the entire fruit, only throwing away the pit of such fruits as the peach or apricot. The skin can be used, and should be used in every case, but must be washed carefully, before using in order to clean off all of the dirt, and microscopic life which clings to the skin of the fruit. It is impossible to tell how long any one should fast. That depends upon how long it is necessary for the body to go without food, before it can cleanse itself of the accumulated toxins

QUESTION: W. writes: I had my face, nose, head and ear terribly swollen six times during the last 10 years, but have never had a headache. This always happens in the fall or in the spring. Doctors call it "air siplis." What is the cause and how can I prevent it?

ANSWER: I suppose you mean you are suffering from erysipelas, which is a disease caused by hyper-acidity. First hyper-acidity of the stomach exists, and then the system suffering from acidosis throws out certain toxins. In the case of erysipelas these toxins are thrown out through the skin of the face. The cure depends upon curing an extra acid stomach. This is best accomplished through dietetics, using proper food combinations, etc. Read all the articles in this paper, and you will soon learn how to take care of yourself so you will have no return of your former troubles.

QUESTION: D. H. writes: Both of my knees are very sore, and when I try to exercise they squeek like rusty hinges. I am a working woman and sixty-five years old.

ANSWER: Your trouble is no doubt some form of rheumatism, and it can be cured by dieting, if you do not exercise your knees too much. Rheumatism cannot be helped very much, if you continue to exercise those parts which are sore. You can get rid of the toxins in your system in a general way, but as long as any local irritation exists, what remaining toxins you have in your body are bound to accumulate around the irritated places. You will probably have to give up your work for some time, and take a good fast to cleanse your system of accumulated toxins.

QUESTION: L. T. A. writes: I am nearly forty-seven years old, and am troubled with swelling of my right leg. It is very large compared with the left one. I have noticed this ever since I have had the menopause, and wondered if that had anything to do with it.

ANSWER: You are no doubt suffering from what is commonly called milk leg. This often comes on just after the menopause, and is caused by something which happened to you, during the time you were weaning one of your babies. The milk which accumulated in your breast because of not being pumped out properly, formed toxins which settled in your leg, and after many years you notice the results, in soreness in the leg, and a condition of distress which is very hard to cure. By careful dieting, proper exercise, and massage you will be able to help yourself to get rid of the trouble to some extent.

QUESTION: Mr. K. writes: I would like to have you tell me through this column how I can clear my face. It is full of pimples and blotches, and no matter what I take for it I cannot clear it. If you can give me the above information, I would be greatly obliged.

ANSWER: Such trouble as yours is always caused by a sluggish colon. You are probably eating too large a quantity of starchy, sugar and fat foods, and should cut down on the amount of these foods you use. You must also keep your bowels open, by using for the time being at least one enema a day to accomplish this purpose. Wash your skin thoroughly, and use any good grade of soap with a wash cloth, using a clean wash cloth every day. A flesh brush used on the face is sometimes very effective in getting the dirt out of the pores, thus cleaning the pores so that the toxins underneath can be thrown out.

QUESTION: C. M. writes: What can I do for nervousness and depression. I have a family of several children, and get depressed and it seems that nothing will help me. I am troubled with gas and have a good deal of indigestion.

ANSWER: The auto-intoxication which comes from the fermentation of food, is no doubt the reason why you worry so easily. This fermentation also makes the gas you are troubled with. Learn to diet so you will not worry so much, as gas pressure really has a strong effect upon the mental facilties, and interferes with your brain working properly.

QUESTION: Mrs. R. B. writes: Is nut butter as good to use as cow's butter? Every time I use it I seem to have a good deal of gas. How can you explain this?

ANSWER: Nut butter and cow's butter are entirely different in quality. Nut butter is artificial butter made by mixing refined and neutralized nut oil, chiefly cocoanut oil with peanut butter or peanut oil, and cultured milk. It is a good imitation of butter in flavor and appearance, but, of course, does not contain the butter fat and cannot be considered an exact substitute for butter. The chief difficulty seems to be that it cannot be used well with certain foods, because of the tendency to produce an excessive amount of stomach and intestinal gas, on account of the large amount of raw starah contained in it. However, it is perfectly wholesome in every way, and if you will learn how to use it in proper combination with other foods, you will not suffer any bad consequences from its use.

QUESTION: A. B. writes: Will you give me the names of some good health foods? There are so many on the market that I do not know which ones to buy.

ANSWER: I do not recommend any special kind of health foods. In fact there are no real health foods, anymore than there are specific foods for the cure of specific diseases. Health is the result of living in harmony with the natural laws, and cannot be built up by any special food. Many of the health foods on the market are in themselves such bad combinations of food, that they are not as desirable as plain, wholesome, well-prepared foods which are found on the ordinary table, in a home where some study has been given to diet.

QUESTIIN: Mrs. B. F. writes: One of my children has a very low forehead. Do you think this is a sign he will not grow up as smart as the rest of my children?

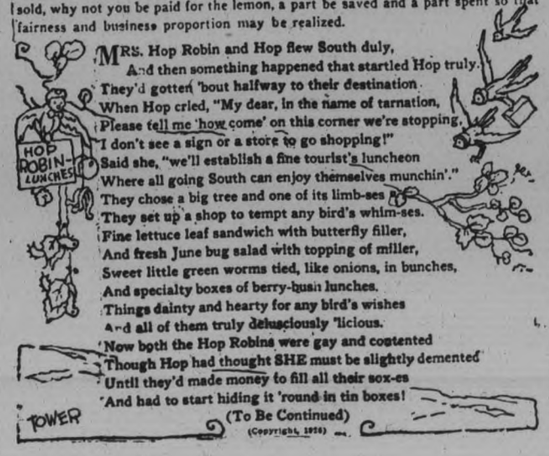
ANSWER: You need have no fear on the subject, as it has been quite well established that the size of the forehead has very little to do with the thinking ability of the brain. Some of the greatest fools have had the largest brians, and some of the smartest men have had very slanting foreheads.

The Hop Robins Go South

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

A STORY IN THREE PARTS—PART II.

THE spirit of commercialism has struck "the gang." They want a lemonade stand out on the walk, they've written for perfume and sachet to be sold with a whole catalogue of wonderful rewards, they have a play store where Daddies and Mothers are wheedled into buying products which used to be sample packages before they were salvaged, and store milk bottles have lately been mysteriously disappearing to come home as rubber balls, balloons and what not! Which is all fine, and good wholesome play, only, of course, there had to be a reckoning about the milk bottles. May the store and the perfume business flourish. It is wholesome play, busy-ness with a purpose and any possible income is perfectly legitimate. The point for consideration is what becomes of the pennies they collect? Are they squandered or budgeted? It's there grown-up supervision is needed to make the play worth while. If you furnish lemonade to be sold, why not you be paid for the lemon, a part be saved and a part spent so that fairness and business proportion may be realized.



MRS. Hop Robin and Hop flew South duly,
And then something happened that startled Hop truly.
They'd gotten 'bout halfway to their destination
When Hop cried, "My dear, in the name of tarnation,
Please tell me 'how come' on this corner we're stopping,
I don't see a sign or a store to go shopping!"
Said she, "we'll establish a fine tourist's luncheon
Where all going South can enjoy themselves munchin'."
They chose a big tree and one of its limb-ses
They set up a shop to tempt any bird's whim-ses.
Fine lettuce leaf sandwich with butterfly filler,
And fresh June bug salad with topping of miller,
Sweet little green worms tied, like onions, in bunches,
And specialty boxes of berry-luan lunches.
Things dainty and hearty for any bird's wishes
And all of them truly delusciously 'licious.
Now both the Hop Robins were gay and contented
Though Hop had thought SHE must be slightly demented
Until they'd made money to fill all their sox-es
And had to start hiding it 'round in tin boxes!

YOUR HOME AND YOU

You know, of course, that it is no longer fashionable to be merely pretty—sheer beauty isn't quite enough. There must be something more definite, more personal about your good looks. Time was when a single type of beauty was held up before our eyes. The fair woman was fair, and reckless women seeking beauty had their hair dyed and laid white powder and pink rouge over dark, pale skins. The blonde type seemed to have captured the imagination of painters and poets alike. To be fair, then, was literally to be fair.

Nowadays, the important thing is to be distinctive and women dress and make up to their own particular type. The girl with hair like an Indian's makes and feels no apologies. She wears it brushed smoothly back without waves or curls, cut in a severe shingle or coiled low at the neck. If she is by nature pale—and pallor with her does not indicate lack of health or spirits—she has naught to do with rouge and takes pains to keep her skin clear and smooth. If she is by nature olive-skinned she does not make the mistake of using white powder.

The important thing is to find your type. It may be perfectly obvious and, on the other hand, your coloring and contours may be such that any one of several types are possible. American women, with mixed ancestry, are more often of this nondescript type than the French, English or Italians. With a little skillful make-up and careful attention to details of dress the definite effect can be achieved. With straight dark hair and an olive skin you may become French or Spanish. If your hair and skin are light, you may be the blooded Gretchen type—which, if properly done, is extremely attractive. With dark hair and a pale skin you may be an exotic brunette. Then there is the baby-doll type, the boyish type, the demure type. The only thing that isn't tolerated nowadays is indefiniteness.

FASHIONS

THE WOMAN PAYS.

By HEDDA HOYT
(United Press Fashion Editor)

NEW YORK Oct. 19.—(United Press).—The woman who likes to feel that she is better dressed than the average little flapper must pay and pay. It's easy enough to dress in these days of $15 dresses and $30 suits but to be well dressed is quite another matter. There seems to be a shortage of in-between priced garments.

A few seasons ago one could buy an original model for around $50 but this is rarely true today since the $50 dress has the earmarks of the $14 in most cases. One must pay high prices to hear other women sigh, "Isn't she elegant!"

Since most women have a clothes allowance there seems but two ways of combatting the clothes question. Women who prefer changes above all else can content themselves with cheap frocks which can be replaced whenever they become "flivvers." They can have the latest silhouettes colors and changes enough to feel 'new' at all times.

Not all women, however, can wear inferior dresses. Many women prefer fine materials and workanmanship to faddish styles and colors. One costly gown means more to them than a dozen cheap ones. If their dress allowance is limited they purchase but one or two new gowns during a season but these gowns are models which will not be duplicated by every second woman on the streets.

Some women having hampagne' taste and beer money' want both changes and quality. Their only salvation is to align themselves with the 'sales hounds' who buy only during 'sales' seasons.

Towards the later part of each season high priced gowns and wraps are sold off at great reductions. Among these models are imports which will keep in style for several seasons owing to their advance silhouettes.

The selective buyer does not choose eccentric lines, seasonal colorings or dresses which are easily copied, for she buys with the idea of wearing until another 'sales' period.

One high-priced model outlasts 3 or 4 cheap dresses and one need have no qualms about appearing in the same dress often. One has confidence in the $150 gown that has been reduced to $65. Your daily newspaper is the means of keeping you in touch with approaching sales. The well-dressed woman is also well-read for she never lets a 'sales' ad escape her.

LAKE STATES PREPARE PLAN TO TALK BILL OUT OF SENATE

"Battalion of Death" Formed To Beat Measure Authorizing Mississippi Project.

MEETING HELD.

Great Bitterness Against the Chicago Steal Shown By Delegates.

BUFFALO, Nov. 19.—With their joint national heritage of the world's greatest inland waterways at stake, United States and Canadian representatives of five States and two Provinces met here and determined to fight the Chicago water steal to the last legal and legislative rampart.

The denouement of the 15-year struggle to end Chicago's illegal diversion of immense quantities of water from the Great Lakes basin is expected next spring, it was said here. It will come in one of three ways: Through judgment of the United States Supreme Court, which Great Lakes advocates are confident will be in their favor; in the enactment into law of the Rivers and Harbor Bill, which would spell defeat to all and destruction to some Great Lakes harbor municipalities; or in the success of a pending titanic fight against time in the United States Senate, which would be the equivalent of defeat to the Chicago interests.

Two hundred men of the lake cities, including C. Alfred Maguire of the Provincial Hydro Commission and Alderman George Ramsden, both of Toronto, and H. Fennell, Montreal's representative, eagerly listened to the campaign plan upon which they rest almost their last hopes for the preservation of the Great Lakes as the greatest commerce bearer in the world.

To Talk Measure Out.

The "battalion of death," as it was termed today by Congressman W. W. Chalmers, of Toledo, Ohio, composed of 17 United States Senators, has been formed, its ranks drawn, and its campaign laid out. The United States legislators meet on the twenty-first of next month to take up, as the first item, the "iniquitous" Rivers and Harbors Bill. The "battalion of death" will undertake the task of talking upon it "until the clock strikes 12 on March 4 next, when the sixty-seventh Congress of the United States dies."

"Four hundred legitimate amendments are ready," shouted Congressman Chalmers at the assemblage in the Statler Hotel as he raised his clenched fist above his head. "And that is our only hope. In my judgment the Rivers and Harbors Bill will not become law before 12 o'clock on March 4."

He explained the strategy by which even this last hope of the lakes cities yet lives. Defendants of the Great Lakes, he said, had to tie themselves to an agreement last session that at this coming session the Rivers and Harbors Bill would be laid on the table as the first order and remain the first order until disposed of. And they agreed that each speaker should be limited to 15 minutes' discussion of the bill "or any amendment thereto."

"That is where they thought they had us," said the Congressman. "But there is a host of clauses in the bill. And every clause can be amended three or four times. And on every amendment we can speak 15 minutes. And there are 400 amendments ready which are legal and in order. I think that will be enough. But if this bill becomes a law before the Supreme Court decides the case of impending water diversion our cause will be lost for generations to come."

Police Force Needed.

Next to this declaration of months of last-ditch warfare, the most impressive feature about the opening day's session of the Great Lakes Harbors Association of the United States and Canada Convention was the evidence of bitter resentment on the part of the Americans against the continued diversion. C. Alfred Maguire, who, as Vice-President, acted as Chairman, indicated that he felt the same as his American colleagues, but etiquette held him to moderate language, and his declaration on behalf of Canada was that Canadians wondered where in the United States was the "big policeman" who could compel Chicago to abide by the judgment of the nation's courts.

He was answered by Congressman Chalmers that in the United States there was no "big policeman" capable of bringing the delinquents to time.

"There is no way to stop them," he said, with vehemence, "except by brute force. We have got to hold the line, and we have got to hold it by brute force. You can't do it by argument; you can't do it by entreaty, and you can't do it by prayer."

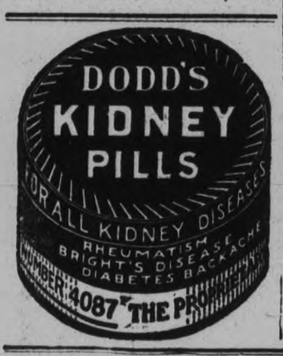
Supporters Are Harried.

In the earnestness of his entreaty that the representatives of each State there represented—Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, New York, and possibly others—should go after their Senators and "put pep in them," Congressman Chalmers risked tipping his whole hand to the opposition. He named "the battalion of death," the Senators from whom co-operation was promised, and Senators who, in his opinion, needed jacking up.

Accusations of astounding ferocity fell from the lips of this benevolent-appearing Congressman as he whipped the convention into a do-or-die fighting spirit.

"The crime of the ages," he termed the diversion, engineered, he said by "the master mind"—the Chicago Sanitary District—concerning whose financial operations he openly intimated wholesale corruption of army and civilian engineers, United States lawmakers, and sections of United States territory affected by the diversion. He spat the word "pork-barrel," explaining that the difference between "pork-barrel" and "boodle" was that the former was wholesale.

The Rivers and Harbors Bill itself he denounced as "the most wicked and iniquitous piece of legislation ever laid before a civilized Assembly."



CATARRH AND CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have catarrh and are troubled with defective hearing or buzzing, ringing noises in your head; if clogged nostrils, a partial loss of taste or smell and mucus dropping into the back of your throat are a source of daily discomfort and annoyance—you should take immediate steps to overcome this bothersome and highly unhealthy condition by using a little Geero Wormwood Balm twice or thrice a day.

This safe, pleasant and delightfully effective Wormwood treatment when applied into the nostrils gives quick and satisfying relief because its healing antiseptic vapors instantly penetrate into the air passages of the head, nose and throat. Then breathing is easier, your clogged nostrils promptly open up and your dull old head feels clear and clean. All good druggists sell Geero Wormwood Balm on a positive guarantee of perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Try it tonight!

DAIRYMEN WANT CREAM GRADED BEFORE EXPORT

Ontario Meeting of Association Passes Resolution Asking This.

75 PER CENT. FIRSTS.

Quality of Butter Shows Improvement Due To Grading.

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—With the largest attendance on record, the Canadian Creamery Association of Ontario discussed cream-grading regulations at considerable length, and passed a resolution that would require that cream purchased for export to the United States should also come under the grading regulations of Ontario.

John H. Scott, Chief Creamery Instructor, reported on the progress of cream grading during the past year, which showed that under the experimental work last year there were only 54.2 per cent. first grade and better, but this year under the compulsory grading scheme the percentage had been raised to 75.2. The lowest average for any week last year was 47.8, and the lowest average week this year was 70.9 per cent.

Better Quality Butter.

The encouraging feature was that the quality of butter showed a comparable improvement this year over last, bearing out the contention of the association that cream grading would improve the quality of butter and in that way increase he value of the dairy product.

George H. Barr, Director of Dairying, led a lengthy discussion on the cream-grading regulations, in which criticisms and adverse opinions were freely aired. He admitted at the outset that most of the troubles in enforcing the new section of the Dairy Standards Act lay in the fact that buying stations were permitted to grade cream. This, he stated, will be eliminated another year.

The point of export cream being bought in competition with Ontario creameries, but not subject to cream-grading restrictions, was brought up by W. Mac Waddell, of Strathroy, who urged the unfairness of this. By formal resolution the association endorsed the principle that all churning butter should be bought on grade, and this loophole plugged up.

The auditors' report presented in the morning showed the association to have a larger membership than for some years past, and a larger cash balance.

Dairy Butter Boxes.

Dr. J. A. Ruddick, Federal Dairy Commissioner, led a discussion on export dairy butter boxes, arising out of which the association recommended that a box 12 1-2 by 12 1-2, and of sufficient depth to hold 56 pounds of butter, be recommended.

BOOTLEGGERS USE COUNTERFEIT BILLS

U. S. Secret Service Uncovers Great Plot Among Rum Runners.

WASHINGTON, Nov 19.—(Canadian Press).—The United States Secret Service has unearthed a counterfeiting plot among master bootleggers.

It became known yesterday that federal agents had arrested one bootlegegr with sixty-one $100 bills, part of the output of a ring engaged in making spurious money wherewith to trafic in rum.

Evidence so far unearthed leads the powerful Secret Service under Chief W. H. Moran to believe it can run down more of the bootlegger-counterfeiters who not only cheat each other with false money but put some of it into general circulation.

But their task is perilous and difficult. Moran revealed that government operatives who go into underworld districts after counterfeiters are now suspected of being prohibition agents and are doubly watched by liquor law violators and counterfeiters.

To combat this new development, Moran will probably request congress to increase the Secret Service personnel.

AGAINST REGIME.

General Rebellious Movement Reported in Various States of Mexico.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—More than 20,000 men are in arms in various states of Mexico in a general rebellious movement against the Calles regime, Adolfo de La Huerta, former provisional President of Mexico, announced here yesterday. Leaders of every unit, with the exception of one, have proclaimed De La Huerta their leader, he said.

Skeptical View.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Informed officials here took a highly skeptical view last night of Adolfo De La Huerta's announcement in Los Angeles that more than 20,000 were in revolt against the Calles Government in Mexico, and had declared themselves for De La Huerta. Official advices from Mexico and the border do not reflect any such situation in that country.

BUSINESS SUCCESS DEMANDS USE OF MAN'S UNCONSCIOUS SPEAKER INFORMS KIWANIANS

Winnipeg Business Man Explains Fundamentals of Psychology in Commerce.

"I WILL" SPIRIT.

Plunkett's Party Contributes To Programme—Many Guests Entertained.

Kiwanis Club today was favored with the outstanding address of the year, when John Tully ,of Winnipeg, spoke on "The Psychology of Business" to a crowd that overflowed into the large dining room. It was an address sparkling with inspiration of the solid kind that urges men to get out and do things. It carried the audience into the realm of possibilities and pictured to them the successes they might be, if they only would.

Business is the most virile problem in the life of men, communities, and nations, the speaker declared. Business is the backbone of commerce and wealth, and underlying it must be the characters of people who can build strongly, steadily, and maintain their position. The general impression of those who are starting out in the business world is that they have a 50—50 chance of success, but statistics show that of 100 adults dying fully 85 per cent have not sufficient estate to pay for a brass breastplate on their coffins.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

The 50—50 delusion was explained by Mr. Tully in a story. A man started a rabbit pie factory in a small village, and his fame spread with his business until the village grew to a town and the town became a city... Then rumors came to the council that horses were seen going into the factory on their feet, but were not seen to come out. A deputation waited upon the manufacturer of.. rabbit pies, and after expressing appreciation of the work he had done in building up the community, asked how much horse and how much rabbit went into the pie filling. "Oh, about 50—50," he answered. Pressed for an explanation of what he meant by "50—50," the manufacturer said, "One horse to one rabbit."

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

Every man has native ability, the speaker affirmed, but there is required the introduction of another element into business life. The man who is successful unwittingly is using this principle.

"Man, Know Thyself!"

Man has studied everything but himself; he has explored the mysteries of the planets and examined their composition, but rarely has his mind turned itself inward to examine the power that lies behind the machinery of action. The only element that can make or break business is the element that drives the machinery that does things.

Explaining the meaning of psychology, Mr. Tully said that in the operation of business, men should come to those faculties which are necessary for the successful operations of business. A man digging a ditch first finds the place from which the ditch is to lead, and then the place to which it is to lead, and sets up his stakes. In between the two points may be a hill, and he may have to deviate, but he follows his stakes. He always knows of the direct way through, though he follows the devious route he has charted. So the business man must chart the road he intends to follow. Most men have a picture in the future, but sidelights attract them hither and yon, so that they lose sight of the ultimate goal. Every man has ability, the first requisite, but the measure of capacity is that natural ability enlarged by processes that are used for that purpose. The ability must be cultivated by the mental properties that operate through that particular field. Just as a muscle is developed by exercise until it works automatically, so the mental powers must be trained. If a faculty is left unused it will come to the place where it cannot be used, but if it is brought out into the forefront and used it will develop into the most highly advanced of a man's faculties.

Fear and Discouragement

Fear comes into being with every man, if evolutionists are to be believed, for the protection of the individual. The method of preserving life was in escape ,and every human life has an element of fear. Fear is a predominating element in the human race, few looking into the future with a certainty of fulfilment of the aims they have in view.

Discouragement is a product of fear, and this is where suggestion enters in to relieve the individual. If a happy suggestion predominates then the individual is happy, but at a funeral not many are happy. "And yet," Mr. Tully said, "there is nothing to be discouraged over in death. There is no death. There is a separation of the mental and physical from the spiritual element. The progressive element goes on in perpetuity."

There is another factor, self confidence. No one who hesitates about his next step is able to go out and take it with complete self confidence. But the man who calls on his powers of overcoming fear brings to the front a power that lies behind that inherent timidity. The unconscious mind is the seat of all knowledge; no fact ever passes the mind that does not pass into the realm of the unconscious. Every man has a perfect memory, for in this unconscious is stored everything that a man has ever learned. The difficulty is to bring it up out of the unconscious to the forefront of the conscious mind when required.

New realms of power can be reached through this unconscious, and from the unseen wealth of power that everyone acknowledges, enabling man to do things when he was never aware of having the power to do them. Every business man sells by suggestion; the mother's lullaby is a suggestion to her child that he go to sleep. And self confidence can be achieved by pouring that idea into the unconscious mind.

"Build into yourself the basic principle, 'I Can'," the speaker urged, advising the business men who heard him to relax at certain periods of the day and say to their unconscious minds, "I have confidence in myself; I can do that which I have set out to do," and repeat it in the easiest possible manner. When the mind is set along a certain line all the faculties rush to aid in that purpose.

"Find you native ability," Mr. Tully advised in closing. "Develop it, and then build into your unconscious the certainty that you can achieve your purpose. Then, if you chart your road and look toward an ever-growing ultimate, you cannot fail. THERE—IS—NO—FAILURE."

Visitors

Besides the visitors from the Plunkett Revue, which is playing in the Grand Opera House tonight, there were twenty-four members of the Prudential Insurance Co. staff present as guests of John I. Allen, Peterborough Superintendent. They were: Messrs Jeffries,McLaren, Best, Holden, Fair, Sedgwick, T. and R. Ross of Peterborough; West of Campbellford; Annis and Bennett of Oshawa; Sturgess of Whitby; Allen, Cane and St. Cyr of Orillia; White and Fleming of Barrie; Cockburn, Coffey and E. White of Cobourg; Trenouth of Port Hope; Harris of Bowmanville; Horslen of Lindsay; and G. W. Lanning and F. Moore of Newark, N.J.

The thanks of the club was expressed to the ladies for their entertainment by Charles Elliott, and to the speaker by John J. Turner.

Dr. John C. Green was booster of the day, and his prizes went to the two lady guests.

WORK PROMISED ON ROAD TO SOO

Hon. G. S. Henry Says the Highway From Sudbury Will Be Improved.

MAY BE EXTENDED.

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Work will be undertaken by the Ontario Government next year to make the Sault Ste. Marie-Sudbury trunk road a through highway of permanent character. Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways gave this assurance to a large deputation representing the Algoma Advisory Union, which waited on him at the Parliament buildings yesterday.

"You have more argument to fix the road up now that you had for building in the first place," Mr. Henry said.

The deputation requested that the road be built up and extended from Sudbury to North Bay, making its total length 270 miles. Mr. Henry said he would take the matter up with the branches concerned.

'AN AFFLICTED FAMILY.'

Play Presented By Cognawaga A. C. in St. James' Hall.

The Cognawaga Club presented their play last evening in St. James' Sunday School Hall. The characters in the play took their parts well in bringing forward the ailments of "The Afflicted Family," who are troubled with some disease.

The parts played by A. Vannest and G. Richardson were especially noticeable as humorous parts, and were acted in a very excellent manner.

Between the second and third acts Miss Mary Wood and Mr. Edwin Rowe sang a duet which was well received.

HOCKEY NOTES.

Mr. J. P. Bond, member of the O. H. A. Executive, R. M. Glover, Past President, O.H.A., and a member of the O.H.A. Advisory Board, are in Toronto to-day attending the final meeting of the O.H.A. for the past season, and will remain for the annual meeting to-morrow.

Mr. Cyril Haskill, representing the Peterborough Hockey Club, and Mr. Jos. Batten, representing the Wanderers' Hockey Club, are also attending the annual meeting to-morrow as delegates for their respective clubs.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

AN AWFUL EVENING

Nothing at the movies, that we haven't seen,
Not a show to go to, nothing good, I mean,
Nothing new whatever at the cabarets,
Just the same old dances in the same old ways,
Nothing at a concert but the classic stuff,
Nothing to amuse us, not with jazz enough,
Not a thing worth seeing anywhere tonight,
Honest it's a problem, really it's a fright.

Not an invitation from a single friend,
Nothing in the city, not from end to end:
Tried to think of something, anything will do,
But there isn't any place worth going to.
Not a soul has called us all the living day,
Must be ev'rybody else has gone away,
Looked in all the papers, hunted up and down,
But there's nothing doing in this awful town.

Ev'ryone is grouchy in the house, it seems,
Father's pretty touchy, Mother fairly screams,
People all around you snarling like a cat,
But you cannot blame them very much, at that.
Nothing could be meaner anyone could know
Than to have a night off, not a place to go.
Nothing you can think of, though your brain you comb;
What an awful ev'ning—doomed to stay at home!

ALTAR BOYS BANQUETED

Ladies of Sacred Heart Parish Provide Bountiful Supper.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The Altar Boys of the Sacred Heart Parish were royally entertained last evening by the ladies of the parish at their annual banquet. The affair was very successful. His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, who is keenly interested in things educational, was present to hear the youthful orators in what was for some of them their first public appearance as speakers, and to encourage them in their attempts. There were present also the pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. V. J. McAuley of Ennismore, Rev. K. A. Corkery, Rev. Gerard Maher, Rev. J. Garvey of Lakefield, and Rev. J. C. Moloney.

Joseph Collins, who proved an able and worthy toastmaster, presided, and the following programme of speeches, recitations and songs was very ably presented:

A toast to "Our Pope and Our King" ('Fear God, honor the King') was proposed by Roy Bacon, and spoken to by John Cairns, while P. I. Anglesey recited "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and a chorus rendered, "Vivat, Pastor Bonus."

The toast to "Our Country" ("This is my own, my native land") was proposed by Henry Jones, and spoken to by R. Creighton. A chorus sang "O Canada," Joseph Gosselin recited "In Flanders Fields," and "My Own Canadian Home," in duett, was given by G. Fleming and M. Corkery.

The toast to "Our Office" ("I have loved, O Lord, the beauty of Thy House") was proposed by Albert Guerin, and spoken to by James Fleming, with a recitation, "Pere Lalement," by Maurice Rogers.

The toast to "Our Parish" ("It seems the farther off I get, the louder sounds the bell"), was proposed by Joseph O'Connell, and spoken to by Joseph O'Toole, while the chorus sang "Home, Sweet Home," and James Moloney recited "The Christening."

The toast to "Our Pastor" ("He was a man to all the country dear") was proposed by Leo Masterson and responded to by Rev. J. J. O'Brien. Kenneth O'Toole gave "Father O'Flynn" and Gordon LaPlante "The Cure of Calumette."

The toast to "Our Mothers" ("A perfect creature, nobly planned"), was proposed by Francis Kirkcaldy, and spoken to by Herbert Masterson. Vincent Anglesey sang "Pal of My Cradle Days" and Bernard Rogers gave "The Quest."

The toast to "Our Guests" ("Should Auld Acquaintance be forgot"), was proposed by Bernard Jones, and responded to by the clergymen present. The singing of "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" was rendered in a chorus by Archie Barns, Omer Boucher, Roy Courneyea, Jack Collins, and John Rady.

His Lordship and the other clergymen spoke briefly, congratulating the altar boys on their splendid showing and placing before them the importance and dignity of their calling. The ladies too received well-merited commendation for the carefully-planned and skilfully served seven-course banquet of which the outstanding feature was a seemingly inexhaustible supply of spring chicken.

Before the toast to "Our Office" was proposed, five new altar boys, Bert Taylor, Joseph Ryan, Leonard Collins, Emmet Creighton, and Francis McGrath, were introduced and received a hearty welcome.

LOCAL COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Ladies Reiterate Belief That Woman Needed on School Board.

PAPER GIVEN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women, was held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., the president, Mrs. A. Stevenson, in the chair.

Mrs. Stevenson gave some information regarding the annual budget of the National Council, which requires the sum of $3377 this year to bring it to completion. The allocation to the Peterborough Local Council is $93, over and above the ordinary fees returnable to the National Council. The Local Council has the sum at present on hand of $103, to make up this allocation, and pay its own running expenses.

The following committee was appointed, to consider ways and means of raising funds: Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, Mrs. J. Wearing and Miss S. A. Tomkins.

Mrs. A. Mowat reiterated the strong belief held by the Local Council of Women that there should be a woman member on the local School Board, and a motion voiced by Mrs. W. R. Morris, and seconded by Mrs. W. J. Padget, was carried, again endorsing the prohibition plank in the platform of the National Council of Women.

The matter of a Nominating Committee was brought up, and a suggestion made that such a committee be appointed, to bring in a slate of officers, and work in conjunction with the former system in use by the Council, that of sending out blank lists to the affiliated societies to be filled in by them. Many of the affiliated organizations do not respond to this request, and the following Nominating Committee was therefore appointed: Mrs. A. Stevenson, convenor, Mrs. A. Mowat, Mrs. Fallis, Mrs. J. MacNabb, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, and Mrs. E. B. Clegg.

An interesting brief paper on "Citizenship" was then given by Mrs. K. S. Wightman, who outlined the change of ideas from the old rule that set a woman irrevocably in the home, to the new version which considers her chief round of activity as being still in the home, but does not forbid her to reach out for further work outside of it. "We as women have an obligation that certainly begins in the home, but does not end there."

Speaking of the bitter struggle which was waged in times past to gain for women the use of the franchise, Mrs. Wightman urged her hearers to "vote not only in your own interests but thoughtfully and earnestly in the interests of the whole Dominion."

An interesting resume of the work of the recent convention held in St. Thomas was give by Mrs. Edwards, a member of the Local Council and a recent arrival in the city, who is also National Convenor of the Committee on Equal Moral Standards.

Prisoner Strolls Away While Guards Watch Booze

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. —The 110-foot ex-submarine chaser Albertina and her $30,000 cargo of liquor to quench New York's Thanksgiving thirst, ran afoul the coast guard harbor patrol yesterday morning

The coast guard gathered her in with five prisoners. Then one of them walked out of custody.,

The Albertina and her crew were brought to the barge office at the Battery, where her cargo was unloaded and stored in the warehouse. The five prisoners stood glumly by, while some 30 laborers, watched by six armed guards, transferred the liquor. One of the prisoners calmly lit a cigarette, strolled up the stairs, walked out of the barge office, and disappeared. He was not recaptured.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Nov. 19.—On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Succee, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson and their daughter, Barbara, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Northey.

Mr. M. E. Hinton visited at the home of ex-Chief Robert Paudash on Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Paudash delighted their guest by telling a few of the old native legends. The father of Mrs. Paudash built or helped to build the present Mission Church at Hiawatha.

Mr. Donald T. Crawford, a former teacher and the superintendent of the United Church Sunday School before July, was able to be present on Sunday. He, in his usual obliging manner, assisted in the service by being the secretary in the absence of Mrs. H. Cowie. He spoke a few words of appreciation for the way that the work was progressing. He spent the week-end as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield Northey at Cedar Hedges farm.

The church service in the evening had a large attendance. Rev. Mr. Garratt spoke on the subject, "Running Straight." Text, I Corinthians, chapter 9, verse 24, "Run that ye may obtain." He told an interesting story for the juniors.

Miss Pauline Cowie visited Miss Lucy Paudash on Monday.

Messrs. James and Fred Kylie marketed a fine drove of cattle last week. They were in good shape and largely Durhams.

On Wednesday morning in the Public School a special meeting was held by the Willing Workers Junior Red Cross Society for the purpose of electing officers for the balance of November and the month of December. The elections were hotly contested. The fortunate pupils are: Marguerite Cowie, President; Alan Thomson, Vice-President; Irvine Drimmie, Secretary-Treasurer. The officers for last month were: George Paudash, President; Irvine Drimmie, First Vice-President; Max Northey, Second Vice-President; Rose Drimmie, Secretary-Treasurer.

Week-end guests at the Lakeshore House included Messrs. R. S. Van Vlack, Harry Cocke and J. McTaggart, of Toronto.

The weather conditions have, it seems, frightened the ducks away. It is to be hoped that they return again.

VARSITY SQUAD IS READY FOR SATURDAY GAME

Blue and White Have New Kick Formation For Match.

OFFER NEW PLAYS.

Balmy Feels Confident of Winnning Semi-Final Senators.

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—This Varsity senior football team may or may not have improved with the practices held this week but if they haven't improved in football tactics, they at least have improved in team spirit. That old "fighting spirit" of a team is a mighty asset, especially in close games. Varsity haven't had a lot of that this season. But in their practices this week there has been real "zip." A lot of the language used at those who gum up the odd play is by no means choice. Nothing is meant by it. It is simply a policy to keep every man on his toes and ready to put every ounce of effort behind the play.

Had Practice Game.

The Blue and White finished their practice yesterday afternoon. Argonauts, because of the lack of any more games, have hung up their suits, and the expected practices against Varsity did not materialize. However, Coach "Mike" Pearson trotted out his O. R. F. U. senior. The teams lined up, and it was a merry session they indulged in. Coaches McPherson and Blackwell drove that Intercollegiate squad, and anyone who made a mistake was told plenty.

Some New Plays.

It can be safely said that the practice was quite the best indulged in this season. Prior to the game with the O.R.F.U. boys the Intercollegiates put in a twenty-minute signal drill. They went through their work with smartness. What is more they showed some new plays, all more or less evolving around one particular formation. And it might be mentioned also that a close watch on the practice demonstrated that open field plays were given the most attention.

New Kick Formation.

But to the Varsity fans the most pleasing news is that a new kick formation is being used. It is, in fact, the Argo formation. The Scullers have found it affords Morris Hughes complete protection. It should do the same to Trimble on Saturday against McGill. Sinclair, Snyder, Carroll, Hargraft and one other drop back five yards or so behind the line of scrimmage and form a solid wall across in front of Trimble. The two outside men are slightly behind, thus giving Trimble protection on the side. Hargraft stands directly in front of Trimble, but far enough in front so as to not interfere with the kick. If this formation will give Trimble the opportunity he should have, then Varsity's offensive will be strengthened.

Rykert Going Well.

It would not be surprising if a change was made, perhaps, on the line, though the chances are that the regular team will at least start. 'Beer' Rykert, manager of the team, who did not intend to play this season owing to an injured leg, but who turned out in mid-season, is going exceptionally well. If he doesn't start, it is a sure thing he will get plenty of relief work. Stollery and Rykert were the best ground gainers in the heavy work against Queen's.

Get Early Lead.

Varsity's fault, if it can be called that, is their inability to keep going at a steady pace. In all their games they have flashed real form at certain stages. At other stages they were merely very ordinary. What they should do to-morrow against McGill, if possible, is to establish a lead as soon as possible, even if that lead is only one point. It makes the other fellow have to work, and work hard, to equalize that single point, and sometimes that task is a hard one, as Varsity found against Queen's.

TRAMPLE ON SENATORS.

TORONTO, November 19. — Those Ottawa supporters who feel so confident of winning Saturday's game with Balmy Beach down at Ottawa, the semi-final for the Canadian senior football title, would do well to modify that feeling. True, Ottawa won the Big Four title last year and followed it up by winning the Canadian title as well, trampling under the famous Queen's team. But victories last year don't count in this year's hunt. Ottawa have the edge in playing Balmy Beach down at the capital. Ottawa fans are real Ottawa fans. They support their own team and they support them with everything they have. But the games are won on the football field. Balmy Beach may not have the verbal support, but if they display their football ability then they may drag a black cloud over Ottawa.

Have Real Chance.

Those Beachers have a real chance to beat Ottawa. Make o mistake about that. They have the best chance a Balmy Beach team ever had to win a game in the Canadian play-offs. And this too despite the the fact that they will perform in Ottawa. Every man in that Beach squad is ready: "Teddy" Reeve had a slight "Charley Horse"—he says it is only a colt—but it isn't botherin. him much. He was out yesterday going around there as if nothing was wrong.

Daylight Practice.

And about this practice of yesterday. It was a daylight affair, one of the few Balmy have had. Their boys find it hard to get away from business early to practice, but all arranged to do so yesterday. Quite a gathering turned out to watch them. A lot of them who had visions of a Balmy Beach defeat on Saturday changed their opinion after they had watched the East Enders periorm. There are two complete teams in that Balmy squad. They lined up yesterday and went at it at top speed. No quarter was asked, and none given. This afternoon they boarded the train for Ottawa to get a good night's rest at the Chateau.

Hucky Wing Line.

Balmy will present to Ottawa the huskiest wing line in senior football. Huskiness doesn't always mean high class football, but these Beach huskies can play football as well as carry weight. Reeve at middle wing has added line plunging strength. In addition for a big fellow he has speed and can tackle. This means that the defensive end of the Beach team will be stronger. Ottawa will have the edge perhaps in experience on the backfield and at end wings, but their actual performers do not appear any stronger than those of Balmy Beach. It has been shown before that the young fellows can step into senior football and make their way. The Beach young fellows have had enough football to "know their onions."

JUNIOR GAME ON SATURDAY

Fast Game is Expected Between Petes and the Penetang Boys.

RIVERSIDE PARK

The fans on Saturday will be given their first opportunity this years of seeing a junior rugby game Two of the fastest teams in Central Ontario are going to meet at Riverside Park at 2.30 when the Petes clash with the boys from Penetang. Bobby Armstrong of Toronto is to referee the game, C. S. Browne will be the umpire, John Ward head linesman and Jack Deannard will be timekeeper. The Penetang boys have a very heavy line but Henry, who is considered the best tackler on the team and who was unable to go to Penetang last Saturday will be on hand for the game.

After the big game an exhibition one will be played between Cobourg collegiate team and the local team.

The juniors have had heavy workouts these last few nights and the errors which they had on Saturday last seem to be rectified. With a good fast field so as some of their end runs can be put in play the local team is sure of a win.

The line-up on Saturday will probably be as follows:

Halves — Westbrook and Bookhout.
Flying wings—Gore and LeBarr.
Quarter—Fraser.
Snap—Goheen.
Insides—Miller, Faucett or Barnett.
Middles—Yelland and Ashmore.
Outside Wings—Henry and Hall.
Subs—McLeish Fleming, Robertson, Ham, Mackness, Dobbin and White.

Tickets for the game may be secured at Y.M.C.A., McLeod's Drug Store and LeBarr's. They will also be on sale at the gate before the game.

GOLF DATES SET FOR U. S. OPEN

Dates for Title Fixtures Between British and U. S. Associations.

MIDDLE OF JUNE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 — Long-standing days between British and U.S. Golf Associations over dates for title fixtures, involving international linksmen, were before U.S. Golf Association executive for definite settlement. Dates for the 1927 open championship in the U.S. have been tentatively set for June 23, 24 and 25 at the Oakmont, Pennsylvania Club, the same week which the British have set for their open tournament.

Efforts have been made by U.S. golf officials for several years to have the British open played earlier in the season, arguing that the mid summer heat in the United States make tournament play unbearable, while the English courses reach their peak conditions much earlier than those in the U.S. Therfore, it is pointed out, it would be the sensible thing for the U.S. open to be held in June, and the British open earlier, allowing stars of both nations to compete in both tournaments. Heretofore U.S. golfers have thrown the open into midsummer in order to avoid conflict with the British, but it appears the U.S. open will be held next year in June, regardless of what date the British set for theirs.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

HARD BATTLES TO BE FOUGHT IN ALL DIVISIONS

Fixtures in English League Are Replete With Interesting Encounters.

FOR DECISIONS

All Games Will Constitute Serious Threats for the Leaders.

LONDON Nov. 19 (Canadian Press cable)—Saturday's scheduled fixtures in the English football League are replete with interesting encounters which extend beyond th first divison and include also the second and third. Several hard battles are down for decision and in all cases the games in which they will engage constitute serious threats for the leaders, Tottenham Hotspurs who were crowned following their victory over Cardiff at White Hart Lane a week ago, will encounter the stiffest opposition when they go to Burnley where they will face the team whom they dethroned. Until last Saturday, Burnley were leading the league, but a narrow defeat at Birmingham, where the margin was of the closest, served to tumble them from their proud position. Their opportunity to take revenge out of the team who replaced them comes tomorrow when, on their own ground, they engage the 'Spurs. Tottenham's progress to their present prominence has been somewhat labored and their early season's play scarcely gave hope of their climbing to the top of the ladder. But of late they have made a remarkable recovery, and except for the defeat sustained at Derby a month ago, their record within the past two months has been unblemished.

The same cannot be said of Burnley whose recent behaviour has been disquieting from the point of view of their supporters. They have been hanging on precariously for the past month. It is five weeks since they acquired their last full points, the five-one win over Blackburn on October 16 being the last game in which they tasted the joys of victory. However, Burnley's fans are looking for a comeback and are not deterred by the opposition on Saturday.

One of the season's best contests will be staged at Highbury where Sunderland journey to meet Arsenal. Sunderland are not outstanding for their strength away from home and have succumbed much oftener than they have won on strange ground. At the same time Arsenal have not yet been defeated at Highbury, and last Saturday at Huddersfield they played the league champions to a three-three draw. The odds are in favor of the home team, unless the climatic conditions are unchanged from what they were a week ago, when unusual things happened.

Huddersfield have something approaching a problem on their hands at Bramall Lane where they are the guests of Sheffield United. The humble position of the "Blades" is not a safe index of how they may be expected to fare against their ancient rivals for they can always manage to inject into their encounters against Huddersfield some of the vigor that seems to be lacking when they play anyone else. They have not been particularly brilliant this year—in fact it is several years since Sheffield United were the wonders of the League—but they have dropped only one game at Bramall Lane this season, when West Ham blanked them by a couple of goals, while until two weeks ago, Huddersfield had drawn every game they had played away from home Last Saturday's contest with Arsenal was Huddersfield's ninth draw out of 15 games played.

In the second division two feature engagements are scheduled, one for Stamford Bridge where the leaders, Swansea Town, visit Chelsea, and the other for Hull where Manchester City are the guests. These contests, added to the one at Preston where the North End meet the team who accompanied them to the second string, Notts Forest, make the divisional card one of the most interesting of the third division will see the leaders, Bristol City, playing the present runners-up, Brighton.

Other scheduled engagements in the first string are: The Wednesday at Aston Villa; Leicester at Bolton; West Ham at Cardiff; Blackburn at Derby; Bury at Leeds; West Bromwich at Liverpool; Everton at Manchester; and Birmingham at Newcastle.

BOSTON BRUINS WIN ANOTHER

Are First, in League Standing With Two Victories.

BEAT DETROIT.

WINDSOR, Nov. 19. — Boston Bruins defeated Detroit Cougars, 2 to 0, in the first game of the season for the Detroit sextette last night. The Cougars are playing all their home games in the Windsor arena until the new arena is completed across the river around Feb. 1. The game last night was fairly fast and the score is not a good indication of the strength of the two teams.

Both Boston goals were scored within three minutes of the start of the game on easy shots which slipped by Herbie Stuart, substituting in goal for Harry Holmes, who was taken sick two hours before game time. Stuart, who played with Edmonton last year, gave a sparkling exhibition in the nets after the first two shots got away from him.

Doc. Stewart, former Hamilton amateur, gave one of his finest exhibitions in the nets for the Bruins. By virtue of their victory the Bruins went into first place in the league standing with two victories and no defeats. About 4,500 people witnesesd the game. The line-ups:—

Detroit—Stuart, gaol; Halderson and Laughlin, defence; Frederickson, centre; Duncan, Sheppard, wings; subs, Walker, Foyston, Hart, Gordon, Meeking.

Boston — Stewart, goal; Hitchman and Cleghorn, defence; Keats, Galbraith, Cooper. Shore, Red centre; Oliver, Briden, wings; subs, Stuart, Herberts.

Referee—Cooper Smeaton.

The Summary.

First Period.
1—Boston.. Keats (Oliver) ..1.45
2—Boston.. Briden (Keats) ..2.40

SENATORS START WITH GOOD WIN

Beat Canadiens 2-1 in the First Game of the Season

AT MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19. — Ottawa Senators, runners up last year in the National Hockey League, made an auspicious start in their 1926-27 campaign when they defeated the Canadiens here last night 2 to 1. The game was played before a crowd of 8500 hockey fans who turned out, practically filling the Forum to welcome back the winter sport for another season.

Ottawa outlasted the Canadiens, and with their stone wall defence kept the game safe once they established a lead The Ottawa scores came in the first and final periods, and both were the result of smart play

Hooley Smith started the scoring, beating Hainsworth after passing by the Canadien defence The second Ottawa goal was the result of a clever shot to the upper corner of the net on a pass from Clancy to George Boucher

Canadiens' score came in the last five seconds of play, when Leduc carried a rolling puck through the Ottawa defence and beat Connell The tally came too late to be of use to the local team.

The game was a typical early season affair. Combination was ragged, and the players were not in their best condition. However ,therewere many brilliant plays by individuals to thrill the crowd.

Hooley Smith starred for Ottawa.

Line-up:

Ottawa—Goal, Connell; defence, G. Boucher Clancy centre Nighbor; wings Dennenay, R. Smith; subs, Finnegan Kilrea Adams Jackson Corman A. Smith.

Canadiens — Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Gardiner, Mantha; centre, Morenz; wings, Joliat, Gagne; subs., W. Boucher, Lepine; Lafrance, Larochelle, Leduc, Moran.

Referee; Dr. W. J. Laflamme.

The Summary.

First Period.
1. Ottawa ..... R. Smith 16.00
Penalties: Finnegan.

MAROONS WIN FROM NEW YORK

Broadbent Scores Only Two Goals of Game in First Period.

FAST HOCKEY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. — Two goals by Punch Broadbent, in the first period, gave the Montreal Maroons a 2 to 0 victory over the New York Americans in a scheduled National Hockey League fixture here last night. The veteran right winger of the world's champions got his first goal on a rebound, and his second when he stepped around the Yankee defence to bore in on Forbes, draw the goalkeeper out, and flip the puck into an empty net.

Last night's contest saw the Montreal team give a display which marked their games last season. There was "pep" to the attack while the defence in front of Benedict was like a stone wall. What American threats sifted through were ably handled by Benedict who was called upon to make several miraculous saves.

In the latter part of the game the visitors went to defensive hockey in a succesful effort to defend their two-goal margin. The homesters attacked valiantly, but their efforts, mostly individual, failed to make much of a dent on the Montreal rearguard.

On the whole the game provided plenty of fast hockey on the parts of both teams, with the visitors giving the more impressive display.

Broadbent Scores First

About 6,000 people were in the Garden for the start, increased to 9,000 by the middle of the period. The games started at a fast clip with both nets being threatened in turn. Benedict and Forbes, however, were on the job. Burch, McKinnon and Red Green were attacking for the Americans, but found a strong bulwark in the Maroon defence. Stewart and Munro tested Forbes with bullet-like drives but the shots were too far out and Forbes had no trouble. The ice was much better than on Tuesday night when the Maroons played the Rangers on a sticky surface, and both teams displayed good hockey.

Montreal—Goal, Benedict; defence, Munro, Noble; centre ,Stewart; left. wing, Siebert; right wing, Broadbent; subs., Phillips, Holloway, Dutton, Dinsmore, Emms, Carson, Rothschild.

New York Americans — Goal, Forbes; defence, Simpson, Langlois; centre, Burch; left wing, R. Green; right wing, McKinnon; subs., Bouchard, Randall, Roach, Himes, Scott, C. Boucher.

Referee—Lou March.

Summary

1. Montreal.....Broadbent 9.07
2. Montreal.....Broadbent 6.40
Penalties — Simpson, Siebert and Noble.
Second Period.
No score.
Penalties — Simpson, Red Green and Carson.
Third Period.
No score.
Penalties—McKinnon.

NEXT OLYMPIC TEAM WILL BE REPRESENTATIVE

Officials Commencing To Comb Dominion For Material.

SEEKING FINEST.

Big Meets Planned in Several Centres To Bring Out Talent.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 19.—(By Canadian Press).—Two big athletic meets in Western Canada during next summer are planned by officials of the Canadian Olympic committee for the purpose of sifting out the west's material for the Olympic games to be held in Amsterdam in 1928. One meet will probably be held in Winnipeg and the other in either Calgary or Edmonton. Every aspirant to a place on the Canadian Olmpic team will be given a chance at these meets.

At the same time trial meets will be held in Eastern Canada, probably one each in Montreal, Que., and St. John, N.B., the winners to meet at the central meet at Hamilton, Ont., at the time of the Canadian championship.

The western branches of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will convene at Winnipeg Nov. 15 to get full reports on the progress of the provincial organizations. This information will form a basis for the survey of western athletic material which was commenced this month by P. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, and J. A. McVicar, Winnipeg, president of the A.A.U. of Canada.

Thus the dominion will be thoroughly combed and extended meets will aid in selection of a first class track and field team ot represent Canada against the world at the great gathering.

Olympic Track and Field Programme.

The Olympic track and field porgramme will occupy eight days in the summer of 1928 at Amsterdam. The Canadian Olympic Committee has received a copy of the programme, which is as follows:

BALTIMORE, November 19. Canadian Press. — At least five dry dock workers were killed and 50 injured today in an explosion on the Norwegian oil tanker Mantilla, in drydock at Sparrow's Point.

The injured were being brought to Baltimore hospitals ,a distance of nearly ten miles.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

TOM MIX IN "NO MAN'S GOLD."

Tom Mix, with his large white sombrero and his wonder horse, Tony, is the hero of "No Man's Gold," the featuring picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week end. The popular gentleman who excels in portrayals of Western roles has a story of the usual type, in which there is a great deal of hard riding and swift action. He falls in love with Jane Rogers (Eva Novak) at the Los Alitos Rodeo, where he does a spectacular stunt in transferring the damsel to the back of Tony during the progress of a horse race, and then leaves his little foster son, Jimmy, in her care. Jimmy, however, decided to follow the fortunes of his patron when Tom goes to find the lost mine of the mointains, and the two run foul of a band of crooks who are looking for the gold. There are the usual thrilling episodes in the chase of Tomy by the bandits, and the rescue of Jane, who comes to warn him of their fell designs.

Tony does some special work as a rescue agent and there is the usual happy ending.

The comedy, "Who Hit Me?" is a hilarious mix-up with a befuddled gentleman and his lady friend, and there are the usually excellent short reels.

—Jeanette.

SCREEN CLASSIC
WELL REMEMBERED

Coming Monday Night—Picture that Brought Fame to Valentino Again in Universal Demand—Film is Ingram's Finest—"The Four Horsemen is still Unsurpassed as Artistic Record of its Time.

Rex Ingram's well remembered screen classic, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," one of the greatest films ever produced by the industry, has returned in triumph in response to a flood of requests from exhibitors all over the country. This picture, unsurpassed as an artistic record of its time, is the film that brought the late Rudolph Valentino to fame. Valentino plays opposite Alice Terry in this picture, and in it does some of the best work he ever contributed to the screen.

An enormous cast was employed by Director Ingram with phenomenal success in translating the popular Ibanez novel to the screen. Its first showing aroused unprecedented enthusiasm in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles and other film centres, where it was characterized by the critics as one of the great pictures of all time.

June Mathis made the adaptation for this Rex Ingram production for Metro-Goldwyn.

SEE THAT THE LIVER IS ACTIVE

You've heard it today—the story of the bright young woman, whose energy is sapped by bilious headaches and constipation. Complexion blemishes or sallow skin perhaps give the first warning. Then the attacks of headache become more frequent, and a chronic state of nervous depression ensues.

Women in business and in the home, in need of a gentle tonic and laxative that assists Nature in cleansing the system of poisons, and keeping stomach, liver and intestinal tract in a state of healthy activity find prompt relief and permanent satisfaction in the use of

WEDDING BELLS.

MORGAN—THOMSON
COBOURG, Nov. 19—(Special) —At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thomson, Crow Bay, on Saturday, Nov. 6, the marriage was solemnized by Rev. Charles D. Daniel of their elder daughter, Mary Agnes, to Mr. Percy Alto Morgan of Grafton, Ont. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white satin and bridal veil of French silk net arranged with orange blossoms. Her flowers were Sweetheart roses, and she wore a rope of pearls. Little Miss Rena Thomson, sister of the bride, in a jade green frock and carrying a bouquet of sweet peas, was flower girl. Master Willie Tohmson, the bride's brother, acted as ringbearer. A buffet luncheon was served by six of the bride's girl friends. The bride's cake contained the upper story of her mother's wedding cake used 24 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left later for a motor trip through Western Ontario, the bride wearing a dress of rosewood flat crepe, black hat and muskrat coat. They will reside at Grafton.—Toronto Globe.

OIL EXPLOSION CAUSES HEAVY LOSS OF LIVES

Norwegian Tanker "Montilla" Left Heap of Wreckage By Explosion.

WAS IN DRYDOCK.

Spews of Burning Oil Is Rained Upon Entrapped Workmen.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—A blast of fire which cut asunder the Norwegian tanker Montilla exacted an undetermined toll of lives as the vessel lay in dry dock at the Sparrow's Point plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation yesterday. Scores of workmen were caught in a flaming rain of death as an amidships oil tank exploded with a deafening report, to spew burning oil and twisted steel over the decks and surrounding scaffolding.

Official estimates of the dead ranged from 8 to 20. At least eight bodies had been assembled in a morgue at the plant last night. Some investigators reported that the shattered remains which rescue workers had gathered from the smoking hold would represent more than eight in Committee Asked To Consider Principles To Guide District Negotiations.

LONDON, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—More than half the membership of the Miners' Federation having voted against the Government's peace proposals, at least another fortnight must elapse before anything definite can be accomplished in the way of a settlement of the protracted coal strike.

Official figures given out yesterday show that the Government's terms for settlement of the strike were rejected in the district voting by a vote of 460,800 to 310,900, in spite of the advice of the Miners' Federation Executive that they be accepted. Consequently the miners' delegate conference there [illegible]

Discovered By Matron in an Unconscious Condition on Hospital Drive.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 20.—Her hands securely bound together with wire, gagged, her clothing torn, and in an unconscious condition, Miss Jones, nurse-in-training in the Belleville General Hospital, was discovered lying on the path in front of the hospital window on Thursday night at 11 o'clock. Shortly after recovering consciousness, Miss Jones told a coherent story of outrage. She stated that at about 10.15 she entered the dark kitchen in the basement of the building to prepare the midnight supper for the nurses when two men, clad similarly in blue overalls with grey hats and heavy masks of [illegible]

French Air Mail Pilot and Mechanic Slain, Third Flyer Is Seized, By Natives In Sahara

PARIS, Nov. 20—The first instance of where aerial mail men have had been victims of native African savagery is described in a brief report, received here yesterday, from the Madrid authorities telling of the death of a pilot and a mechanic and the serious wounding of a second pilot, all of whom had been engaged in operating an airplane of the postal service in the heart of French West Africa between Dakar and Casa Blanca.

Lost since Oct. 22, fear was felt that the French airmen might have fallen into the hands of the superstitious blacks who sometimes regard a disabled aeroplane as legitimate prey.

The message from Madrid gave no details, merely recounting the death of Henry, the pilot, and Pintado, the mechanic, and the wounding of the second pilot who is now in the hands of the natives. Their machine developed engine trouble, forcing a landing in a wild part of the Sahara desert in the low lying country near Cap Bojador in Spanish territory. The Spanish police operating in the Western Sahara have taken steps to obtain the liberation of the wounded man.

Bootlegging Under Government Sale!

"GIVE us Government Control and this will wipe out the Bootlegger," declares Premier Ferguson and many of his followers.

But will it?

British Columbia has Government Control. Let us see how it works:—

Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P., a prominent Conservative, in a public address in Vancouver, said:—

"Never in the history of this Province was bootlegging comparable in magnitude and murderous results to what it is today."

He quoted the case of "one man who got 60 barrels of beer in one month; another got 169 in the same period. A woman appeared in court in a suit to recover $18,000 from her partner in the bootlegging business, as her share of the profits of 16 months' sales!"

He added: "Drinking clubs have sprung up like mushrooms, everywhere. Hundreds of them exist all over the Province."

Where do the bootleggers get their liquor?

Some obtain it from the Government Dispensaries to sell to people who have no permits.

Others import the liquor direct from other Provinces, or from across the sea. And still others distil it for themselves.

BOOTLEGGING FLOURISHES IN MANITOBA

They have had Government Control in Manitoba for three years. Bootlegging and the illegal sale of liquor have become so flagrant it is a public scandal. In an effort to control it the Government was forced to change some of its regulations. In this connection the Winnipeg Free Press said:—

"The brewers did not make even a pretence at observing the spirit of the law. Beer was being sold illegally and in large quantities in Winnipeg hotels, and brewers could not but have known that they were parties to the law-breaking that was going on. They had a good thing in the legal sale of beer, but that was not enough for them. They had no regard for the law of the people."

ILLEGAL SALE IN QUEBEC

Now what about Government sale and conditions in the Province of Quebec. This is what Cardinal Begin says in a pastoral letter:—

"The scourge of alcohol unhappily seems to be reappearing now more or less in all parts of the Province. It is more than ever necessary to renew the agitation with vigor and perseverance and without delay if we desire that the advantages obtained at the cost of such struggles in recent years be not lost. Regarding particularly the clandestine importation, manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors, which already are prohibited by the civil law, we, by virtue of our episcopal authority, forbid the same within the bounds of our diocese, disregard of which will be considered grave disobedience."

SHAW'S LETTER RECEIVED

Interpreted in Sweden as Rejecting the Whole Award.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 20. — (Canadian Press).—George Bernard Shaw's letter to the Swedish Academy accepting the Noble prize but declining to receive the money carried by it, seems to be interpreted here as tantamount to a rejection of whole award.

"It's up to the Swedish Academy," said George Bernard Shaw, in telephone interview with the Associated Press yesterday, in which he was informed that his rejection on Thursday of the money prize connected with the Nobel literature award was interpreted in Stockholm as tantamount to rejection of the entire award.

"I'm not worrying," the dramatist answered. "Let them do that—but I am certinly going to be a most interested front row spectator in the discussion, which I hope will now develop around the question of giving prizes to writers."

Army tradition is against the naming of companies I or J, because of the danger of confusing the two in written orders, and because I and J were formerly represented by the same character.

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

WHY IS AMERICA SO UNPOPULAR IN EUROPE? That she is unpopular can scarcely be denied. The proofs are both plentiful and positive. Almost every newspaper and magazine we read at present bears evidence of this fact. Why this change of feeling toward a nation so popular as America was when she entered the war? There must be some reason, real or imaginary, for so radical a change of sentiment. For an answer to this question I propose going to one American who has recently given utterance to some words remarkable for their frankness. It is the utterance of a prophet rather than that of a diplomat. His words lead me to imagine that John the Baptist has come to life again.

ARMISTICE SUNDAY

The name of this prophet is Rev. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity Church (Episcopal), at the head of Wall Street in New York City. In his sermon on Armistice Sunday, he said that there had been much talk about doing away with war but the United States had withheld the one constructive thing that would help for world peace; that was, sympathetic help to the peoples struggling to escape another war.

He continued with these words which ought to be brought to the attention of every thoughtful person:

"Because the World War was the worst catastrophe that our civilization has ever experienced, the return to the way of peace has been made correspondingly difficult, and we can by no means see our way clear of those difficulties as yet. The establishment of world peace will inevitably depend in large measure on our attitude, on our good-will not only expressed orally but actively, on our continued generosity and on our spirit of helpfulness."

PETERBORO "ON THE AIR."

Among some of the members of the Peterboro Radio Club a popular topic is the possibility of a broadcasting station for Peterboro.

It is felt that it is high time that this important centre went "on the air" occasionally and let at least a portion of the vast army of listeners in know that Peterboro is on the map.

Small transmitting stations have been established in many Ontario centres, and those who advocate one here declare that the absence of any Peterboro broadcasts is not good advertising for the city.

Nothing very ambitious is suggested, of course; only a small station with a limited range that would permit of periodic programmes from Peterboro artists being broadcast.

These programmes would not be given often enough to interfere to any extent with local reception of the big stations, and local listeners it is believed, would enjoy the opportunity occasionally of hearing Peterboro talent through their loudspeakers.

MR. DUFFUS HONOURED

The conviction that when large responsibilities are looming for executive heads their grasp of affairs turns toward Peterboro is substantiated by the election of J. J. Duffus as President of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario, a very important body of public-spirited men for the presidency of which is indeed a high honour.

Mr. Duffus served his apprenticeship in Board of Trade work with the Peterboro Chamber of Commerce, in the establishment of which in its present substantial condition, he played a very prominent part.

From him as President during the next year the Boards of Trade of Ontario can look for continued faith in Canada, confidence in the ability of the people of this country to forge ahead, and a determination to make his term of office mean something to the organization.

Some sixty Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in the Province are members of the association, which serves as a Legislature representative of every important municipality in Ontario.

Mr. Duffus' election as President is a tribute to him upon which he is to be generally congratulated.

DOMINION DAY.

The announcement that Peterboro is to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of Confederation next year in appropriate fashon will be most welcome to those who have been lamenting the failure of our citizens to observe Dominion Day.

The formation of a Citizens' Committee at this early stage is indicative of the determination of those interested in the celebration to make the affair a memorable success.

It should not be forgotten that Canada's Diamond Jubilee is to be celebrated with unusual ceremonies in all parts of the Dominion, and that a movement has already been started to link up all these celebrations so that they will be similar in nature from one end of the country to the other.

With a representative committee functioning here Peterboro will be ready to join in this movement and to stage a Dominion Day demonstration that will be outstanding in the city's history.

The committee will, of course, need the help of the citizens generally, and the first step should be a decision on the part of all residents to spend Dominion Day in their home city.

LARGER IMMIGRATION IS PLANNED.

Canada may have a greatly increased immigration next year. At least serious consideration is being given the question not only on this side but in Britain. The reported offer of a loan of $125,000,000 to bring out 20,000 families in five years, although not acceptable to the British Government, is a sign of the times. Just what the offer is has not been made clear. Its main feature, however, is that not only would the families be brought to Canada but they would be taken care of until they were well able to take care of themselves. The weakness in Canadian immigration plans to date has been the dumping of people on the big open spaces and expect them as newcomers to win their way to success. The immigration officials of the two big Canadian railway systems have declared that this policy is no longer possible and there must be a certain amount of well considered paternalism toward newcomers until they are on their own feet.

Hon. Robert Forke says that the reduced fares will be asked for again, to induce Britishers to come. This, of course, is a substantial help, but is only one phase of the immigration problem. An important undertaking has been the training of British farm workers at home for Canadian farms. While many methods undertaken may seem to be expensive, they prove the most economical in the long run.

Ontario also expects to add to its potential farm population in the future, largely through the efforts of Hon. John S. Martin in the bringing of boys from Britain to be placed on farms in this Province.

Canada has had several immigration policies in the last few years. There has been no consistency, but it looks as if some intelligent direction would now be given to affairs. It is one of the most important problems of the Dominion, basically important, because on the flow of new population depends the solution of most other problems, particularly that of the railways. Our over industrialization would also be taken care of, and the home market for all sorts of products greatly increased. Canada would do well, however, to discriminate in the class of immigrant. Indiscriminate immigration over a period of years would bring about the same chaotic conditions as exist in the United States as to law and order observance. The idea of any country becoming a great melting pot for all the peoples has been proven as fallacious. Canada cannot indulge.—St. Catharines Standard.

"HOT DOG."

At the very moment when the cables are telling of a "hot dog" craze in London and the incorporation of the "Hot Dog, Limited," for the manufacture and sale of the little red-skin comestibles with their content of sausage and smear of mustard—at that precise moment comes word of a revolt against the American original. The school authorities of New York have not exactly put their foot down on the little steaming sandwich alone. They have declared that the time has come to put a stop to the very miscellaneous and purely commercial processes of catering to juvenile appetite.

The argument runs like this: The taxpayer goes into his jeans for millions with which to erect costly schools and pay the salaries of competent teachers so that boy and girl mentality may be under the best obtainable auspices discipline, stimulation and leadership. Meanwhile, anybody can haul up at the sidewalk and shovel foods and knicknacks of every kind into the girl and boy stomach at a penny or a nickel or dime a throw. Schools are pursued in the most notorious way by all the venders of this tidbit merchandise of eatables and drinkables. All of which constitutes a rather engaging embroidery of small commercial undertakings in the vicinity of most public schools, some housed in the nearby shops and many of the sidewalk and pushcart kind either anchored at the street corner or hugging the curb and moving about on wheels.

And there is some question about all this small-fry merchandising. So much so that Dr. William J. O'Shea, New York's Superintendent of Schools, has ordered that all these "uncertified lunching foods" be banned until they are brought under some effective supervision so that the school children shall not be at the risk of eating stuff prepared under any possible insanitary conditions. The food and lunch trade in the vicinity of every school tends to be profitable and sometimes a godsend to many small dealers. But that is no reason why children should be turned loose to consume these penny and nickel goods unless and until they are of a guaranteed standard of purity.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

CANADA'S FOOTHOLD IN SCOTLAND.

Before he returns to Canada from his attendance at the Imperial Conference Mr. Mackenzie King is to receive the freedom of Edinburgh. It is a distinction which has been conferred on several of his predecessors, the name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Meighen, besides those of other eminent Canadians, being already inscribed on the roll of burgesses of the historic capital of Scotland—and a matter honorable recognition not only of the services of the recipient, but of the memorable associations that link the land of the maple with the land of the thistle.

Among these associations is one not generally known, and one that adds a picturesque interest to the ceremony of which Mr. King will be the central figure. It would probably surprise the Prime Minister himself to learn that when he receives the ticket of "freedom of the Royal burgh" of Edinburgh, he could, with a certain degree of authority, claim that his foot was on his native heath, and that, in a sense, the formal act of making him a burgess was superfluous.

Nearly three hundred years ago there was enacted on the Castle Hill of Edinburgh a scene as curious as any recorded in the romantic pages of Scottish history. To enable Sir William Alexander to finance his scheme of colonizing Nova Scotia, King James I. had agreed to the creation, at a price, of a new hereditary dignity under the title of Knight Baronet of Nova Scotia. The scots who aspired to this honor were to receive large grants of land in the new colony, with certain feudal privileges, for a consideration fixed by Royal command at 3,000 marks.

Following the death of the "Scottish Solomon," the baronetcy plan was approved and put into operation by his son and successor, Charles I., and by the time Nova Scotia, or Acadia, was restored, or, as some historians claim, "sold" to France a considerable number of patents had been issued to ambitious Scottish knights and lairds, who were left to enjoy whatever rights attached to an empty title. But a difficulty lay in the way of their legal investiture.

The old feudal law of Scotland prescribed that the acquisition of heritable property must be attended by a process known as "sasine by infeftment" by which vassal and superior were called upon to appear on the lands about to be transferred, and exchange earth and stones as symbols of possession. The question that arose in the case of the Nova Scotia baronets was: how to comply with these formalities. They could not cross the tempestuous seas that lay between the Old Scotland and the New; the idea of facing the dangers and hardships of an ocean voyage in those days was not to be entertained, and, besides, there was the uncertainty of obtaining actual possession of the lands in far off Canada for which they had paid in good coin of the realm.

Scottish legal ingenuity was equal to the emergency, however. If the process of "sasine by infeftment" was impossible in the colony overseas it could be carried out in Edinburgh. Accordingly, the baronets were authorized to have "seisin and instruments of possession" taken on the Castle Hill, the soil of which was declared, with appropriate ceremonial, to form part of Nova Scotia. Some authorities claim that by this legal fiction Nova Scotia was annexed to the county of Edinburgh, others that the Scottish Capital was incorporated in the Canadian Province. Fortunately, perhaps, for the relations of the two countries concerned, the point has never been legally raised, but when Canadians visit Edinburgh they can at least claim, with a measure of historical authority, that they are not strangers within her gates.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The campaign is beginning to take on certain signs of liveliness.

A calithumpian parade is to be a feature of Peterboro's Dominion Day celebration. It will be a feature that will bring pleasant memories to older residents.

The Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario see better times coming for Canada. Representative of the business life of the Province, they should be trustworthy prophets.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Wheat tumbled down yesterday to a new all-around low price record for the season, but rallied to a fair extent later. Better weather in Argentina, dying out of export demand for shipments from North America, and signs of free selling on the part of Canadian growers' pool were largely responsible. Closing quotations here for wheat were unsettled 2 to 2 3-8c net lower; with corn unchanged to 3-8c up; oats at 1-8c decline to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 30 cents.

Corn and oats derived their strength from wintry weather in the corn belt, and smallness of corn receipts, together with improved shipping demand for corn.

An easier feeling prevailed in the local market for Spring wheat grades of flour, but prices were unchanged. A moderate amount of business was done for export account, but the demand from local and country buyers was quiet. The Winter wheat flour trade was also quiet but values were steady.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained with an active business passing.

The market for standard grades of rolled oats was stronger and prices were marked up 10 cents per bag. Sales of standard grades were made at $3.75 per bag of 90 pounds.

Outside of some shipments being made to the United States and to the United Kingdom, the movement of baled hay was small. Prices were unchanged.

The tone of the market for strictly fresh eggs continued strong owing to the small supplies available and although there has been no actual change in prices announced, dealers in some cases made sales of extras as high as 65c per dozen, while others are selling at 60c to 62c per dozen. The demand for storage grades continued good and prices were firm. The receipts were 1,117 cases.

The potato market was quiet but firm. Sales of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were made at $1.80 per bag, New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.70 per bag, and Quebec White stock at $1.55 to $1.60 per bag of 90 pounds.

URGE ABOLITION OF STAMP TAXES

Revision of Company Income Levy Is Also Asked.

BOARDS OF TRADE.

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Taxation and preparations for an official recognition of Canada's diamond jubilee of Confederation, came before the delegates to the convention of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade yesterday in the form of resolutions submitted by member boards.

The Toronto board of trade introduced resolutions favoring abolition of the stamp taxes, and revision of the corporation income tax and also petitioning the government to revise the schedule of income taxes to conform with those in force in the United States.

Later in the day the St. Lawrence waterway and power devlopment, Alberta coal, and standardization of Canadian products for export, were taken up. The convention concludes with election of officers.

MARRIAGE ILLEGAL.

Sonia Tolstoi's Claim Disqualified Because Yessenin Never Obtained a Divorce.

MOSCOW, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Sonia Tolstoi's claim to be considered the legal wife of Sergi Yessenin, eccentric Russian poet, who committed suicide last year, was rejected by the Provincial Court yesterday. It was held by the court that the marriage was illegal because Yessenin had never obtained a divorce from Isadora Duncan, dancer.

The Yessenin case came before the courts some months ago, when they were called upon to determine how the property left by the poet could be equitably apportioned among his three wives and other relatives.

His first wife was Zinaida Meyerhold, well-known actress. He then married Miss Duncan, and after they parted, Sonia Tolstoi, grandchild of Count Leo Tolstoi.

VAST POTENTIALITIES.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—The New England conference, the chamber of commerce of the New England states, meeting here just now, heard about the St. Lawrence waterway from Herbert Myrick, of Springfield, Mass.

He said: "While New England has been asleep at the switch, the St. Lawrence power project has figured largely in the economics and politics of New York.

"Thus far," Mr. Myrick continued, that state and the province of Ontario have worked in the matter, as though these two regions alone had rights in the St. Lawrence power, whereas New England and Quebec have equal rights therein.

"So vast are the possibilities of the St. Lawrence project that it makes Muscle Shoals look like 30 cents."

ORMISTON SAYS LETTER IS BUNK

Former Radio Operator Also Scoffs at Clues in Trunk.

REPEATS DENIALS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Edward H. S. Martin, counsel for Kenneth G. Ormiston, missing radio operator of Angeles Temple, Los Angeles, yesterday made public a letter purporting to be from Ormiston, who branded as "bunk" the "Dear, darling man" letter given out by District Attorney Keyes, and also the trunk of feminine finery found in New York.

It was Ormiston's first expression since the trunk contents and letter were made public. California authorities had announced their belief that finery found in the trunk belonged to Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, and that the "Dear, darling man" letter was a missive exchanged between Mrs. McPherson and the radio operator.

Ormiston, in the letter, repeated his denials that he was with Mrs. McPherson in a sojourn in a cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

"Duke" Peddling Coats Seized By Rude Police

DETROIT, Nov. 20. — John Hertog, self-styled "Dutch Duke," found himself in dutch yesterday because of the discovery by the police of some $1,500 worth of suits, overcoats, silk dresses, women's hosiery, cigars and what-not in his ducal dormitory at 259 Forest Avenue East.

The duke's presence in Detroit first came to the attention of the police when someone who has no respect for nobility telephoned the Trumbull Station that a dignified looking dude — not duke — was selling overcoats of excellent quality from a touring car on Michigan Avenue at $5 apiece.

The duke's business was interrupted, consequently, by a pair of patrolmen who had been sent to investigate his activities. He was taken to the Trumbull Station. Later Lieut. Thomas Cullop visited the ducal estate, discovering the unusually large, even for a duke, wardrobe.

Electric Bath Keeps Eggs' Youth Forever

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 20. — (Associated Press).—Electrified eggs, guaranteed to keep for years and designed to aid in keeping down the cost of living, have been placed on the British market.

This invention by which eggs are sterilized by means of an electrically heated oil bath makes it possible, it is claimed, to keep eggs almost indefinitely.

At a wine tasting contest in Wiesbaden Germany, it was found that, though hock is generally not believed to be preservable beyond 60 years, a large number of choice wines had retained their qualities over a hundred years.

TWO MEN DROWN IN RIDEAU RIVER

Swept Over Falls When the Swift Current Catches Pontoon.

BRIDGE INSPECTORS.

OTTAWA, November 20. Canadian Press. — Two city workmen, L. Jack and John Costello, were swept to their deaths over the Rideau Falls Friday afternoon. They were engaged in inspecting the city bridges before the freeze-up and had come down on a pontoon to the Sussex street bridge, about 30 feet above the Falls. The river is controlled at the latter point, and as the stop logs were out of one of the chutes the swift current seized the pontoon, making it unmanageable.

As it rushed through the chute the three men on it jumped off, one reaching the shore in safety, but the other two failed and were carried over the Falls.

LAND CLASSIFIED FOR SETTLEMENT

Toronto Forestry Expert Tells of Progress in Quebec.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 19.—(By Canadian Press)—Classification of the soils and forest types found in the Province of Quebec is progressing at the rate of some 225,000 acres a year under the direction of the Quebec Forest Service, states Dr. C. D. Howe, Dean of the Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto.

These surveys have been operating for the last ten or fifteen years in advance of new settlement and lumbering operations. The province of Quebec is thus able to direct land settlement intelligently and prevent the waste and despair occasioned by abandoned farms.

Forests are classified into types and their yield in merchantable wood is estimated. The soils are classified as sands, loams and clays, agricultural and non-agricultural. The information collected is placed in the form of maps where it is readily available.

Since 1922 the timber and pulpwood operations in Crown lands in Quebec have been required to make an inventory of their holdings. This has led to an extensive classification of the forest lands in that province and an accumulation of data that is of value to the Government service in administering forest lands.

Damages of 20 Cents For the Death of Two

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20 — (Canadian Press)—The price of a can of salmon is the limit of compensation which can be obtained by M. N. Putnam, a dentist, for the death of his wife and 10-year-old son from food poisoning, the superior court has ruled.

Ascribing their poisoning direct to the canned salmon, Putnam asked damages of $50,000 for the death of each. The California law provides that the measure of damages resulting from spoiled food is the amount paid for the food, in this case, 20 cents.

TRENTON MAN IS VERY GRATEFUL

SAYS THAT "FRUIT-A-TIVES" STOPPED NERVOUS HEADACHES

MR. R. A. BOVAY.

Mr. Roy A. Bovay of Trenton, Ontario, thinks very highly of "Fruit-a-tives" for removing the cause of nervous headaches.

"I wish I could tell every sufferer in the world what 'Fruit-a-tives' have done for me"—he writes—"For years I was much troubled by bad headaches, nervous dyspepsia and liver troubles. Then I commenced taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. Thanks to these wonderful tablets I am once more entirely well."

Are you, too, afflicted with nervous headaches? Quite probably they are traceable to lazy bowels, stomach, kidneys or liver. What you need is the gentle, natural help of "Fruit-a-tives" which is made from intensified fresh fruit juices blended with tonics. "Fruit-a-tives" is nature's own ally in promoting health and happiness. Enlist its aid for yourself, to-day. 25c and 50c, everywhere. 542

STEAMER IN PORT.

Vessel Feared Lost Arrives Safely at Sturgeon Bay.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., Nov. 20 (Canadian Press)—The steamer [illegible], missing since Wednesday night in a storm, came into port in the early hours of this morning. Captain Savage said the vessel ran into a terrific storm in Manitou passage on Wednesday night and was driven before it for hours. Several times the vessel was in danger of capsizing, he said, but managed to ride out the storm. WEDDING BELLS.

PATTERSON—ALLEN.

A quiet but pretty wedding of local interest took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Allen, Norwood, on Wednesday, November 17, at 7.30 p.m., when their daughter, Eva Mae, became the bride of Mr. [illegible] Patterson, of Detroit, Mich., youngest son of Mrs. Patterson and the late Archie Patterson of Cavendish. The nuptial knot being tied by the Rev. S. Moyer.

The bridal party entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Edith Calder.

The bride was becomingly attired in a pretty frock of rose cut velvet. A train of flowers in rose and gold hung gracefully at the left side. The only ornament was the groom's gift, a bar pin with diamond setting. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and maiden hair fern. Miss Ruby Allen was her sister's maid of honor and chose for her gown golden glow flat crepe with georgette and corsage trimming.

Following the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served to about fifty guests. The rooms were decorated in pink and white with bouquets of sweet peas and roses.

Mrs. Thomas Allen attired in bordeaux chifon velvet with platinum fur trimming, received the guests assisted by Mrs. A. Patterson mother of the groom, who wore black canton crepe.

The groom's gift to Miss Ruby Allen was an onyx ring with pearl setting; to Miss Edith Calder a gold pendant, and to Percy Allen, the groom's attendant, gold cuff links.

Later in the evening the happy couple left on a short motor trip. The bride travelled in a steel blue flat crepe dress, steel blue marvella dolman wrap with metallic embroidery and American Opposum fur trimming, blonde gloves, shoes stockings and hat to match.

The young couple were the recipients of many costly and beautiful gifts including cheques among which was a handsome cheque from the bride's father. Upon returning they will leave for western points enroute to Detroit where they will reside.

His talks to the Knights of Columbus, of which organization he was also a member, were always full of enlightenment and help, his forceful presentation and ready humor making irresistible appeal. As a young man he was an all-round athlete and was a prominent player on the Ottawa University team when they held the Dominion championship for three years running. In later life he was a great golfer.

TAKE THAT.

SCHOOLMASTER—Now Roger, what are you doing, learning something?

ROGER—No, sir, I'm listening to you.—Answers, London.

OBITUARY.

REV. FATHER FITZPATRICK.

The following article, taken from The Lethbridge Herald, is in connection with the late Dean Fitzpatrick, whose death occurred recently:

"Dean M. F. Fitzpatrick, of the Roman Catholic Cathedral here, died at the Mayo Hospital, Rochester, Minnesota, following a serious operation, early yesterday morning. His loss will be felt by thousands both in Canada and the United States. Although at a late hour last night no definite arrangements had been made for the funeral, it was expected that it would be on Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

"In failing health for the last two years, the reverend father was desirous of making another trip across to the United States on a lecture tour for the purpose of raising additional funds for his beloved church, and felt that an operation would give him the necessary relief to do this. He was one of the ablest preachers and public speakers in the country and whose great understanding of human nature and ready wit endeared him to people in every walk of life.

"Father Fitzpatrick was born in Norwood, Ontario, in 1864. He attended the University of Ottawa, and on graduating went for four years to Rome to study philosophy and theology, and further continued his studies in other parts of Europe. Returning to Canada, he commenced his work in the church at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro, Ontario, as a curate, securing his first charge of a church at Young's Point and Lakefield, mission stations. For about fourteen years he had charge of the parish at Ennismore, Ontario.

"After spending a year in Calgary on coming West, he came to Medicine Hat in 1916. He found that the people of the church here had sold their church during the boom days, and he immediately started a campaign to build a church on Riverside. It was a big undertaking and resulted in the erection of the present magnificent building. It was heavily mortgaged, and with the advent of war and many charges immediately following it, the load on the remaining parishioners was too heavy to bear. The father then commenced a series of lecture tours of the United States and Canada and managed to collect by this means the splendid sum of $40,000. A rectory was built and the grounds around the church put in first class condition. It was to secure additional money to help pay off the debt on the church that he was forced to regain his health to undertake the tour.

"A Requiem Mass will be sung by every priest in the diocese and those unable to attend Father Fitzpatrick's funeral will have an opportunity to pay their respects from 7 to 9 a.m. on Monday when the body will lie in state in the Cathedral. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick was well known in Lethbridge, particularly as a speaker. His death caused profound sorrow here."

MRS. T. H. THOMPSON.

MADOC, Nov. 20—The death occurred on Wednesday, Nov. 17, at the home of her daughter Mrs. J. N. Bentley in Belleville, of Mrs. Susan L. Thompson of Madoc, widow of the late Thomas H. Thompson, late member of East Hastings in the Dominion House. Mr. Thompson passed away a little over a year ago.

Mrs. Thompson has been in poor health for some time. She had gone to visit her daughter about three weeks ago. The funeral took place from her late residence on St. Lawrence street, Madoc, to the United church.

Mrs. Thompson leaves two daughters, Mrs. H. Hector of Picton and Mrs. J. N. Bentley of Belleville; three sisters, Mrs. J. Connell of Arthur, Mrs. William Kelly of Madoc, Mrs. William Sills, Belleville, and one brother, Archie Outfin of California.

SILVER WEDDING PRESENTS GIVEN

Community Celebrates Anniversary of Marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. Isbister.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 20 — On Monday evening about three hundred of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Isbister, met at their home at Centreville, and gave them a surprise party on the eve of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, and also presented the happy couple with a complete cabinet of silver, while the members of the Millbrook band, who were also present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Isbister with a handsome mantle clock.

A very suitable address for the community gift was ably read by Mr. George Berry, Jr., the address being as follows:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Isbister:

It is with a great pleasure that we, the members of this community, assemble here this evening to celebrate with you the twenty-fifth anniversary of your wedding. It affords us an opportunity not only of expressing our congratulations to you at such a time but also of showing our appreciation of your splendid work in the community.

There are times when we are prone to appear ungrateful for different acts of kindness which we receive and even for sacrifices that are made on our behalf. We doubt if there is any place where members of a community individually or collectively, receive the glad hand of welcome such as always awaits them at this house. Both you and your family have proved not only patient and tolerant, but kind and congenial at times which would be trying to most of us.

We can justly say that you have served your community in a very efficient manner. Anything worth undertaking has always received your earnest and sympathetic support. In church work and in social work, you have always extended a helping hand and the cheerfullness thus manifested was inspiring to all with whom you worked.

Your good-natured spirit has befriended you to the entire neighborhood. Nothing that you could do in the assistance of anyone seemed too dificult or of too much trouble and it is this character or quality within a man or woman that makes truly lasting friends.

When we look back upon the past twenty-five years we cannot help but notice how the spirit of goodwill amiableness and unanimity has pervaded this home and that in itself would be sufficient reason for our recognition of this event, so unique in your lines.

Acordingly, we ask you to accept this cabinet of silver, not only for its intrinsic value alone but as a token of your worth in the community and of our good wishes for a life imbued with length, happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of the community. November 15, 1926.

The address read by the members of the Millbrook Band, was ably read by Mr. Charles Thorndyke, as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. J. Isbister:

Dear friends:

Passing the twenty-fifth milestone on your journey of life together is an occasion calling for more than ordinary observance, and with many of your friends, the members of the Millbrook Band with whom you, Mr. Isbister, have been associated for many years, desire to have a share in the anniversary.

Your long association with our organization, your ready willingness to help, often at a real inconvenience to yourself, when any call for your service was made, your able assistance in keeping up the standard of our band, as we have played together at various times and places, have been keenly appreciated by us individually, and as a whole. Failing your help, there have been many ocasions and gatherings at which we should have been obliged to refuse attendance.

While offering our warmest congratulations to you both on this happy occasion we wish to mention particularly the pleasant personal associations which the members of the present day and especially the senior members of the Band, in years past, and now, have formed with Mr. Isbister through our "making music together."

The hospitality of your home, during the quarter of a century since it was established has on more than one occasion been extended to our organization, and these social gatherings have been one of most enjoyable features of our joint membership in the band.

On this silver anniversary of your wedding day we join with a host of your relatives and friends in extending our heartiest good wishes for "many happy returns of the day", and as a slight token of our regard we ask you to accept this mantel clock sincerely desiring that as it chimes the passing hours they may come to you both ladened with happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of your fellow members of the Millbrook Citizens' Band—Chas. Thorndyke, Geo. E. Burnham, Geo. A. Duncan, A. A. Birchard.

To both of these addresses Mr. Isbister on behalf of his wife made very suitable replies, after which brief addresses were made by the following gentlemen: Rev. Jno. Riddell acting as chairman, Messrs. George Berry, Sr., Thomas Donaldson, David Dodds, James McGill and Walter Coombe. The Millbrook Band also added greatly to enjoyment of the evening by rendering several band selections.

Mr. aind Mrs. Isbister celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home on Friday last, when many of their relatives were present, and many beautiful gifts were received among which were gifts from their only daughter, Miss Kathleen Isbister of Peterboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Isbister of Toronto, the former is the only son.

Mr. and Mrs. Isbister have lived in their present home at Centreville during their twenty-five years of married life, and their kind and hospitable manner have won them many warm friends throughout the entire community. Mr. Isbister has for many years been a most faithful members of the Millbrook Band, and also a splendid worker and member of the Presbyterian church and choir. Both he and his wife always took a keen interest in the activities of their village.

During the evening a dainty luncheon was served, after which the crowd made their way to the U.F.O. hall where the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in dancing.

Among those from Peterboro who were present were Mrs. A. Irwin, Mrs. R. Irwin, Misses K. Isbister and H. Akison, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone.

STORAGE OF FIELD ROOTS

Properly Built Root Pit Is Most Satisfactory Place.

VENTILATION NEEDED.

The late fall months frequently find the grower with a supply of field roots on his hands, but no satisfactory place to store them. Under such conditions the surplus of roots can be taken care of to good advantage by the use of a properly constructed pit. A satisfactory root-pit can be constructed in the following manner. Select a well-drained location, preferably where the soil is light. The next step is to dig a shallow trench about six inches deep, not over four or five feet wide, and as long as necessary to accomodate the roots that require storage. In this trench the roots should be carefully piled in such a manner that the the finished pile will narrow off to a few inches at the top, at a height of three to four feet. At the intervals of approximately five feet, ventilators should be built into the pile of roots, extending to the bottom of the pile. These ventilators are easily constructed, by using two six-inch boards, to the side of which slats six or seven inches in length and of convenient width can be nailed so that the openings on either side of the ventilators will be alternated. The resulting ventilator will be approximately six inches square, inside measurements.

The first covering to be placed on the roots is a foot of straw, and if the weather is mild at the time of pitting, no other covering need be put on for a few days. After that time the straw should be covered by about six inches of the surrounding soil. When this outer layer of soil has become frozen quite solidly but not entirely through, a second foot of straw should be put on and over this a second six-inch layer of soil.

Spreading a little manure around the pit after putting on the first layer of soil will keep that section of earth free from frost and make shovelling easy when the weather has become cold enough to make it necessary to put on the second layer.

Such a pit properly constructed will keep field roots satisfactorily over winter at a very small cost.

ORMISTON BRANDS LETTER AS "BUNK"

Repeats Denials That He Was in Cottage With Evangelist.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press.) — Edward H. S. Martin, counsel for Kenneth G. Ormiston missing radio operator of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, to-day, made public a letter purporting to be from Ormiston, who branded as "bunk" the "dear, darling man" letter given out by District Attorney Keyes and also the trunk of feminine finery found in New York.

It was Ormiston's first expression since the trunk contents and letter were made public. California authorities had announced their belief that the finery found in the trunk belonged to Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angelus evangelist and that the "dear, darling man" letter was a missive exchanged between Mrs. McPherson and the radio operator.

Ormiston, in the letter, repeated his denials that he was with Mrs. McPherson in the cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

KILTIE BAND SCOTCH CONCERT

Piping, Dancing and Singing Was Greatly Appreciated By Large Crowd.

"A Nicht at Hame," was spent last evening the Scots people of the city, in the Woodmen of the World Hall, under the auspices of the Peterboro Caledonian Club, when the Pipe Band supplied the entertainmen with band selections, which included "Barren Rocks of Aden," "Bibroch Donald Dhu," "Portee Bay," and the favorite waltz tune, "Mrs. Elder,s Welcome," that the company participated in the old-fashioned style.

The programme openec with the band members singing one of Robert Burns' favorite songs, "Duncan Gray," with three tenors taking the leading part that was followed in harmony throughout.

A favorite of all Scots' festivals is the Burns' masterpiece, "Ye Banks and Braes," was rendered by the band members and as an encore they gave "Annie Laurie."

To the strains of the bagpipes played by Piper Alex. Milne, the Sword Dance and the Highland Fling, was danced by Pipers Samuel Thomson and Alex. Burgess in full Highland regalia, which seemed to carry the thoughts of the assembly to their native heath.

In his usual inimitable style, Bob Hendry, the local Harry Lauder, impersonator, gave a number of the favorites, that brought forth applause, with many encores, and was "in his element" in every characterization; while Jack Smith and Bob Hendry completed the setting in dialogue with Scots that was new and up to date.

Pipe Major Smith was heard to advantage in the martial spirit of Scotch songs that he is an adept master.

As a closing number, the band members gave one of Baroness Nairns's songs "Will ye no Come Back Again?"

At the interval hour, refreshments were served to one of the largest gatherings of the "Land o' Cakes" by the energetic committee of the Club.

As a climax to the social evening, the company danced the eightsome reel to the strains of the pipes.

Mr. George Lowe, president of the club, thanked the band for such a splendid entertainment, also Mr. Chenhall as accompanist.

HOW WHISKEY BECAME WATER

ducted by the assistant deputy minister of customs and the chief of the preventive service, and the former made a report on it

The report was read yesterday by Hon. N. W. Rowell, commission counsel. It detailed how suspicion had been cast upon Todd and Brown because of information gathered from a man called W. C. Duncan, who was also the 'Nicholson' to whom the liquor had been consigned.

Duncan said that the substitution of water for liquor had taken place at the Caledonian Springs Water Company, which had a siding on their premises. He had been engaged by Todd to act in connection with the matter, Duncan said.

Yesterday a number of cheques payable to Duncan and signed by Todd were produced before the committee. Mr. Wilson said that Todd had explained these cheques by saying that some of them were "blackmail" and others for "charity."

The case will be resumed to-day when it is expected W. C. Duncan and possibly Hon. Jacques Bureau, may give evidence.

OIL TANKER EXPLOSION

cha, a workman, described how the ship "reared and plunged like a horse, and semed to lift ten feet from the dock."

Prucha was in the engine room. "I made my way to the deck," he said, "and saw men running around with their clothing on fire and crying. Some of them had their arms off and some lay on the deck with legs and head cut off."

Prucha said he was cut off by flames when he went into the bow to try to help some of the injured. He found a rope and slid down it to the dock. "I thought about the por fellows still back there in the Mantilla with the fire coming toward them," he said. "There wasn't anything anybody could do for them."

Women flocked in scores from the town of Sparrow's Point and the eastern section of Baltimore to the Bethlehem plant when news of the explosion spread. They stood in weeping groups behind police lines as sheeted forms were carried from the hulk and rushed to hospitals. The confusion was such that most of them were unable to learn the fate of their relatives.

No identifications of the dead had yet been possible.

The Mantilla was being overhauled preparatory to sailing Monday for Tampico in the service of the Mexican Petroleum Company.

WORKED TWO HOURS.

BALTIMORE, Md., November 20.—Canadian Press. — Chester Roston, father of six children, walked the streets for four months attempting to find work. Yesterday a contractor engaged in repair work on the Norwegian tanker Mantilla, hired him and two hours later, on the deck of the Mantilla, Rosten was caught in a belch of flame when the vessel's central tank exploded.

Hospital physicians said he would probably die.

ST. PAUL'S A.Y.P.A.

Held Well Attended Meeting In New Committee Rooms Tuesday.

MARMORA, Nov. 20.—St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. held another well attended meeting at their new committee rooms on Tuesday evening. Juvenile members in the persons of Roy Smith, Jack Hickey and James Rice were responsible for the program. This consisted of a short playlet, community singing, games and a contest. Next week's meeting is to be of a devotional character. Progress is being made with the play to be presented at an early date.

Harder than the Hardest Puzzle!

A widow at thirty-five, with two young children dependent upon her!

All she owns are the furnishings in the rented home and $4,000 insurance on her late husband's life.

Her husband's salary was $4,000, so that the life insurance just equals the family's former yearly income.

How can she make this $4,000 last until the children are educated and able to earn their own living? To her, this seems a desperate problem.

Would your wife be left in somewhat similar circumstances if you were to pass away?

If so, wouldn't it be well to increase your insurance protection? You can do so at low rates if you select certain types of Mutual policies—particularly low if Mutual profits are used to reduce premiums. As the Mutual has no stockholders, all the net profits belong to the policyholders, and the profits paid are extremely generous.

Any Mutual Life agent will be glad to help you choose a policy to meet your requirements.

SURVEY REVEALS RADIO TROUBLES

Many Reasons for Noisy Reception is Found.

TWENTY OF THEM

When your radio reception is interrupted some night, don't think unkind things about your neighbor, because below are listed a few of the causes for radio interference. True, he maybe one, but then there is possibility of even one or more of these causing the disturbance.

Almost any kind of fault on electrical apparatus may cause radio interference, which may be eliminated by repairing the fault.

1.—Telephone ringing apparatus.
2.—Telephone "busy test," "busy signal" and "howler."
3.—Telegraph keys.
4.—Stock tickers.
5.—Mechanical rectifiers of the vibrator type, used for charging batteries.
6.—Sign flashers.
7.—Many different types of apparatus in connection with the electric railway systems.
8.—Mercury are rectifiers, such as used for street lighting systems.
9.—DC motors, such as are used for elevators and other industrial purposes.
10.—DC generators, used for charging batteries and other industrial purposes.
11.—Rotary converters such as are used in theatres.
12.—Ignition systems of internal combustion engines.
13.—Ignition systems used in connection with oil and gas burning furnaces.
14.—Electric welders and electric furnaces.
15.—Electric ozonators used in connection with the ventilating systems of large buildings and the bleaching of flour in flour mills.
16.—High voltage test apparatus.
17.—Lightning arresters, when being charged.
18.—Electro-medical apparatus, such as X-ray and high frequency machines.
19.—Induction voltage regulators.
20.—Smoke and dust precipitators.

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where. . . .

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where. . . .
—Longfellow.

How prophetic of modern times was that little poem, "The Arrow and the Song," written eighty years ago! How many of our light hearted Radio entertainers have any conception of the destiny of the arrows and songs they breathe into the air at each broadcasting?

The most successful singers for the Radio have found the secret heart of the microphone. They seem to vision a cozy nest with Someone waiting and listening with a sympathetic ear. And, of course, there IS a Someone just like that, and there the arrow comes to earth.

Proper Way To Line Dry Batteries

The maximum voltage of dry batteries may be had by connecting them in series. The series connection is where the positive of one cell is connected to the negative of the next and the positive of that to the negative of the next. The positive is the centre contact of the dry cell.

FOR THE NOTEBOOK

A cheap grid will cause a set to be noisy.

An amateur should never try to improve on a manufactured set.

Employ flexible connections when experimenting with various hook-ups.

A good cone type of loud-speaker will give the most natural reproduction.

An emergency speaker can be made by fitting a telephone unit into a horn.

Odd pieces of wire stored away in an empty cigar or cardboard box will always come in handy in making temporary connections.

CLEANING AERIAL WIRES

An outdoor aerial should be cleaned every six months or so. Because the wire or wires become heavily oxidized, the over-all efficiency is greatly reduced. The most effective and a simple way of cleaning is to coil the aerial wire into a roll and place it in a large earthen ware dish, in which is poured about 25 cents worth of muriatic acid mixed with three parts of water. Leave it there for about an hour and stir the solution three or four times every 15 minutes or so. Next prepare a strong solution of soda and water in another large dish and place the roll of wire in this to neutralize the acid. Let the wire remain in this solution for about 10 minutes; then take it out and scrub off any remaining scales of oxidation with an old toothbrush. After cleaning, the wire will be found in the same clean condition as when purchased.

LIQUOR SHIPPED BY DISTILLERIES 'BONDED' IN BAGS

Customs Probe Told That Practice Aids Rum Runners.

AGAINST TREATY.

Narcotic Drug Smuggling Also Taken Up At To-day's Sitting.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press)—Liquor and narcotic drugs smuggling were the subjects before the Customs Commission yesterday morning, G.W. Taylor, acting deputy minister of customs, after telling the commissioners that the placing of liquor in flour or sugar bags facilitated its being smuggled stated that some Canadian distilleries were now permitted to ship liquor in cases "in bond" with bags.

Mr. Taylor said that in the month of June this year, he had become aware of the fact that a Canadian distiller was shipping liquor in cases with bags. This practice has been going on for months and he discovered that it prevailed among at least five out of nineteen Canadian distilleries. He had ordered the practice stopped either on instructions of Hon. H. H. Stevens, then minister of customs, or Hon. J. D. Chaplin, who was acting minister of customs during Mr. Stevens' illness, he was not quite sure which.

This order was a signal for protests from the distillery, witness said. Representations were made to Mr. Chaplin that the regulation was injuring their business.

Finally on instructions of Mr. Chaplin, the practice of packing liquor in cases with bags was permitted in case of shipments in bond where a genuine loading certificate was obtained. The change was made because of representations that this practice was permitted in Great Britain and that the regulation was hurting the business of Canadian distillers.

Mr. Taylor, speaking as a layman, said that he thought the shipment of liquor in bags was in opposition to the spirit of the anti-smuggling treaty between Canada and the United States. Cases would be broken by the smuggler, liquor transferred to the bag, which was usually a flour or a sugar bag and the goods smuggled across the line.

Earlier, F. W. Cowan chief of the Narcotics division of the Health Department, told of the existence of a great international organization for the smuggling of narcotic. Narcotics came into Canada by the "underground route" and 75 per cent through the port of Montreal. Generally they were consigned to fictitious persons. Also they were camouflaged in various ways, so that drugs perhaps worth thousands paraded as olive oil, books, woollens, or other innocent articles. He believed that the treaty between Canada and the United States was helping to break the activities of the "dope ring."

The commission continued yesterday afternoon.

SCOUT NEWS

The meeting of the Fourth Peterboro Troop, of course, opened with the flag and inspection. The Scouts then had a few games to wear off the effects of the weather. This was followed by twenty-minute instruction periods by the Scoutmaster and patrol leaders. Another game of observation was held. The council fire was opened with "O, Canada," followed by a song from the Crows. C. Jones gave a talk on the first Scout law, "A Scout's honor is to be trusted." Mr. Corbett then gave the fellows a few words of approval on the number of tests passed, namely: First aid, Gerald Corbett and Harold Chadwick; signalling, Gerald Corbett; fire-lighting, Harold Chadwick; tracking, Charlie Butcher; cooking, J. Heffernan. Gerald Corbett and Leslie Welch received their service stars. Charlie Butcher received his second-class badge. He is the first fellow in the troop to get it in a year. The council fire closed with the King.

Last week some of the troop crossed the muddy plains to Wallace's Grove and passed several tests shown above.

Competition points are: Owls, 145; Crows, 138 1-2; Foxes, 129.

Mr. Ferguson versus The People!

IS the Prime Minister of Ontario successfully to flout the decision of the people?

Is the verdict of the province, plainly expressed by ballots, to be set aside as nothing?

Are the brewers, the distillers, the rum-runners and bootleggers to rule this Province?

These are the questions you will decide by your Vote on December First.

The Ferguson Liquor Policy Is Not a Conservative Policy

In 1916, a Conservative Government enacted The Ontario Temperance Act.

In 1919, Conservatives had their part in securing a huge majority for the O.T.A. in a referendum.

In 1920, the Conservative Party, in convention, declined to receive two motions calling for a change in the O.T.A. The convention passed a resolution declaring for the carrying out of the law in accordance with public opinion.

In 1923, Mr. Ferguson asserted "the Conservative Party is not going back on its offspring" (meaning the O.T.A.)

In 1924, thousands of Conservatives again supported the O.T.A. in a plebiscite.

In 1924, at an Ontario Conservative Association meeting, a resolution calling for Government Control on a local option basis received only two votes.

In March, 1926, at a meeting of the Ontario Conservative Association, another attempt was made to move the same resolution. The man who was to have seconded it disappeared and it did not go to a vote.

In October, 1926, without a mandate from his party, and in opposition to the expressed will of the people, Mr. Ferguson announced a policy of Government Sale of Liquor, which would destroy the O.T.A.

In voting against Mr. Ferguson on December 1, Conservatives are not going back on their party. It is Mr. Ferguson who has deserted the party and the party's policies, evidence of which can be found in the resignation of Hon. W. F. Nickle, late Attorney-General in the Conservative Cabinet.

Where Did Mr. Ferguson Get His Mandate?

The Ferguson Government can't be trusted—It has broken its pledges to both drys and wets.

Plaits Outstanding Feature of Newest Frocks

Charmingly simple and smart is this daytime dress that presents the vogue for skirt fulness in the inverted plaits in front and is attached to a bodice with front closing in the becoming coat effect, while the back is plain. Long tight-fitting sleeves are finished with trim little cuffs, and a narrow belt fastens at the back. NO. 1440 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 3½ yards 39-inch or 2¾ yards 54-inch material. 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

The Women's Association of Murray Street Baptist Church held a very successful tea and sale yesterday afternoon and evening, at the residence of Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, Weller Street. The guests were received by Mrs. Breyfogle and the president of the Association, Mrs. D. A. Loomis. Mrs. Chas. Westbrook was in charge of the tea-room, where the table was prettily arranged with a large silver basket of pink baby 'mums, surrounded with pink tulle, and pink 'mums in silver bud vases. Tea was poured in the afternoon by Mrs. Alex. Scott and Mrs. Moulton, and in the evening by Mrs. C. W. Rose and Mrs. P. S. White, assisted by Mrs. C. S. Hetherington, Mrs. H. H. Tewsley, Mrs. H. H. Graham, Mrs. Jethro Graham, Mrs. Walter Fitzgerald, Mrs. Joseph Wearing and Mrs. L. J. Pettit. A sale of fancy work was in charge of Mrs. S. Cottingham, Mrs. Moulton, Mrs. B. Jackson, and Mrs. P. S. White, and a sale of candy was supervised by Mrs. R. Gavine. Mrs. W. D. Scott had the sale of home-made cooking. A pleasing musical programme, in charge of Mrs. J. Wearing and Mrs. W. H. Kidd, was rendered during the afternoon and evening, with instrumental and vocal solos by Miss Constance Lewis, songs by Miss T. Pearson and Dr. J. Graham, readings by Mrs. L. J. Pettit, and instrumental numbers by Miss Muriel Bridge.

MONA

(y The McClure Syndicate.)
By TheMcClure Syndicate.)

Mona has the unusual distinction of being a diminutive of a name whose original form is not in usage. It means "little nun" and, at first glance, it would seem that Monacella, the original form, should be the diminutive rather than Mona herself.

Monacella is a Welsh name, meaning honey-colored, or yellow. It was first made famous by Saint Monacella, a little nun who saved a hare hunted by Brocmael, Prince of Powys. She is buried at Pennant Menaigle and for that reason she is sometimes called Saint Melangell.

Mona is a distinctly modern appellative. The original name was never transported from Wales but Mona proved extremely popular with the English and is also much in vogue in this country. For some curious reasons, it is considered rather affected and is much used by romantic young ladies.

The opal is Mona's talismanic gem. Contrary to superstition, it will bring her good luck for the machinations of the wicked fairy, said to be imprisoned in the stone, will be directed toward her good fortune. Tuesday is her lucky day and 1 her lucky number.

ENDOWMENT FOR TEACHERS' SALARIES

Yale Will Devote New Fund To Increasing Professors' Pay.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—(United Press.)— The hard-working professor has come into his own at Yale University. The new proposed $20,000,000 endowment of the University will be devoted entirely to increasing salaries of professors and adding various courses, none going toward construction of new buildings, the usual procedure with College endowments.

NEGLECTED ANAEMIA.

Often Leads to a Decline—Enrich the Blood By Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

In their early teens it is quite common for girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time, for it is when strength is sapped by rapid growth that anemia develops. The first signs may be noticed by peevishness, languor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation follow, with low spirits.

At the first symptom of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to decline, but if you see your daughters blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure red blood created by these pills will build up your girl's health and ensure her a robust girlhood. Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her strong like thousands of girls who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Here is a bit of proof. Miss Mary Venditti, Catamount, N.B., says:—"Three years ago while attending a convent I studied very hard to graduate. The result was I became very nervous and got so thin and pale my teachers thought they would have to send me home. I took different kinds of medicine which my parents sent me, but my condition remained unchanged. At last one of my teachers gave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had hardly finished it when I could feel an improvement in my condition. I continued the use of the pills for some time longer, and I can hardly tell all the good they did me. I gained in strength and weight, and the color returned to my cheeks, and at the end of the term I graduated. I never fail to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my friends and acquaintances when a tonic is needed."

You can get these pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON AND HELEN BENSON

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

The ideal wife for Garrison, the American reformer, is stated by him as follows, in a letter to his brother on the first anniversary of his marriage to Helen Benson.

"I did not marry her expecting that she would assume a prominent station in the anti-slavery cause, but for domestic quietude and happiness. So completely absorbed am I in that cause that it was undoubtedly wise in me to select as a partner one who, while her benevolent feelings were in unison with mine, was less immediately and entirely connected with it—she is one who prefers to toil unseen—to give by stealth and to sacrifice in seclusion. By her unwearied attention to my wants, her sympathetic regards, her perfect equanimity of mind and her sweet and endearing manners, she is no trifling support to abolitionism, in as much as she lightens my labors, and enables me to find exquisite delight in the family circle, as an offset to public adversity."

Garrison's letters to his wife, therefore, are not of the kind that scorch the paper with their intensity. Before their marriage, he writes: "Hitherto, having none to care or provide for but myself, I have felt contented in merely getting my daily bread. But duty to myself and to you requires that I should make such arrangements with 'The Liberator' as shall afford me, if moderate, at least a sure income. . . . This salary ought to be no less than one thousand dollars a year, for any editorial abilities will readily command more than that sum if devoted to politics or literature. Still, I shall be satisfied with $800 for the present."

Another of the Garrison love-letters begins as follows:

"Yesterday (Sabbath) forenoon, I concluded not to go to church, because, to confess the truth, I had not replaced my torn pantaloons, and as the weather was too warm to justify the wearing of a cloak. . . ."

TROUSERS AND SKIRTS

BELIEF AND SUSPICION

Of course, it is very uncomfortable to be fooled, and, and sometimetimes quite expensive. It arouses one's ire, bitter reproach, even vengeance. Misplaced faith of any kind is sure to entail resentment.

But I think it is worse, much worse, to have wrongly suspected, wrongly accused, wrongly condemned a fellow human being. We should, I think, be more ashamed of that.

I am moved to this thought by my mail this morning. A few months ago, I wrote an article in defense of an accused woman, very much in the public eye. Although her case had not come into court, she was practically on public trial. Circumstantial evidence pointed the finger of suspicion at her. The cynics were promptly assured of her guilt.

Until that time, for seventeen years, her work and reputation had been above reproach. But she was a vivid personality, so that there were plenty to criticise her—on matters of taste, however, rather than on matters of morals.

I, too, had sometimes been guilty of this sort of criticism, based a little on mere prejudice. . . . "I do not like you, Dr. Fell, the reason why I cannot tell."

But, directly, the cynics stood so ravenously ready to judge her guilty, to invent a frightful array of suppositious crimes against her, to repeat wild hearsay gossip by which "A man who knew her well told these people who told it to me, but I won't mention any names", remarks were flying around all over town. . . . I was conscious of wanting to give her a square deal, of wanting to believe in her as long as the evidence against her lacked indubitable authority and proof. It seemed ghastly that so many people should be lusciously anxious to believe her guilty.

So, I wrote an article in that vein, marshalling every iota of evidence I could imagine in her defense, pointing out the good she had done, the virtues she had evinced. And many people were glad that I had voiced their feelings in that respect too and wrote to say so.

But this week more and more seemingly irrefutable evidence has been culled against her. So my mail is taking on another character. The cynics are taunting me for my recently expressed belief in her. They are quoting phrases from my article with satirical irony, with the obvious expectation of shaming me for my faith in this woman. There is extraordinary malice in some of these letters. One gathers that some of their writers are triumphantly exuberant to see the proof of her wrong-doing piling up.

The case has not come to court at this writing. But, even supposing she does finally stand condemned, I think I shall always be glad that I held my faith in her as long as it was humanly possible. I believe I have less to regret in being wrong on the right side, than if I had been right on the wrong side. I think if I had been swift to condemn her and later found her proved innocent, I should have infinitely more cause for shame.

"I knew from the very first that she was guilty as hell," says one jubilant phrase in one of these letters. I wonder if that is really a matter for pride?

No matter what happens at the trial, I think I shall feel happier in my conscience to be able to say, "Yes, I believe in her. It seems I was wrong, but I am glad I believed as long as I could."

All the same, of course, it is uncomfortable to be fooled. But the discomfort of always being suspicious must be worse.

FASHIONS

(United Press Fashion Editor.)

WOMEN ARE WEARING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(United Press).—Velour hats are a bit more popular as winter approaches than are felts. It is thought that smart women will choose velour for street wear and velvet for dress wear. Felts will undoubtedly regain the popularity next spring.

Several women have been seen at popular hotel dining rooms of late wearing one long pendant earring. This vogue for wearing but one earring began some time ago but until now the sponsors of this fad were few. Here's a hunch for the woman who has lost one of her earrings!

Have you seen the little kilts the young girls are wearing? Little bright plaid skirts of knee-length with black velveteen jumpers collared and cuffed in plaid? Black velvet tams aid in carrying out the Scottish idea. One must be young, however!

Glass boutonieres are the latest shoulder adornment for the Fall suit or wrap. Little bunches of grapes or clusters of fruit in natural fruit in natural fruit colored are worn by many women at present in preference to the more perishable silk flowers. Leather flowers are also occasionally seen, painted in colors or of shining patent leather with the inside of the flower petals stained with an opalescent substance. These novel corsages are purchased at the millinery counters.

Crystal hatpins are among the new millinery novelties. Often huge crystal balls are set in brilliant and fashioned into double pins which screw together. If the hat turns upwards in back, the pin may be used as a back trim.

Several of the smartest looking women on Fifth Avenue appear these Fall days in black velvet jumper frocks of simple type. Front vestees of ecru lace are used on some of these velvet jumpers and it is said that this effect is popular in Paris at present. Narrow belts occasionally appear at the hipline.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

One of the dressy type of hats that have appeared this season. This model is of black velvet with black and white pompons and the brim is faced with black-and-silver brocade.

When she had been in this country only a few days, the Queen of Roumania wore a hat that caused some comment—not because it was a very new-fashioned hat, but because it looked a trifle old-fashioned. At least even those who liked the hat admitted that it was not cast in the mould of the latest fashion, and that if Marie of Roumania had not been queen she would probably not have thought of wearing it. Frankly, it was a picture hat—made of black and light brown velvet with a fairly wide brim, and from one side trailed a full tan willow plume.

This hat was viewed with especial satisfaction by those who would like to see the picture-hat revived. For some reason or other, English women are especially fond of these dressy hats—no doubt, because they find them more becoming than the severe little hats that have been so interesting to French milliners for many seasons. Some of the French milliners have complained that English women who buy hats in Paris frequently ruin them in the wearing, because they add to their smart simplicity wreaths of flowers, plumes of feathers or other trimming in an effort to make them more becoming. There are American women, too, who find the picture-hat more becoming than the severe little hats that Paris adores. But it does seem rather foolish to pay a distinguished French modiste her high price for a hat that you are going to trim with feathers or flowers before you wear it.

The French idea at present seems to be that a hat can always be manipulated into a becoming shape for the woman who is to wear it. A little "movement" here—a twist and a bend there—a puff on this side and a bit of draping on the other side—it is the work of patience and a practiced eye, but the French milliner feels that the whole secret of becoming millinery lies in this trick of appropriate draping and shaping. Another, and possibly old-fashioned, idea is that though the bare shape of the hat is unbecoming, it can be made becoming by the right trimming, a feather on this side—flowers there, a bow there or a buckle here.

Perhaps neither view is entirely right. Perhaps there are some women who appear to better advantage in the hat without trimming—or with very little, while there are others who will always find trimming an advantage.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SHINY SHOES

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fuzzy Fox one day as he stopped at the dismal den where the Woozie Wolf lived.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!"

"What's the joke?" asked the other bad chap. "Have you been reading the funny paper?"

"No, but I feel funny," answered the Fox, "and so will Uncle Wiggily when he gets his shoes shined. Ha! Ha!"

"What does all this mean?" inquired the puzzled Wolf. "It sounds like a riddle, with you laughing and talking about Uncle Wiggily's shined shoes. What have they to do with us?"

"Quite a bit, as you will see when I tell you," went on the fox. "Listen here," he added, "I have just thought of the most wonderful plan to catch that rabbit—Oh, 'tis a marvelous plan."

"Let me listen to it," growled the Wolf. "You have made some bad mistakes in the past trying to catch Uncle Wiggily. We don't want him to fool us again. What is all this about shining his shoes? Are you to do it or am I?"

"Neither of us," barked the Fox. "The Monkey bootblack will shine the rabbit's shoes, and this is how it will happen. Surely we shall catch him this time. Come along," invited the Fox, "I'll tell you as we walk."

And when the two bad chaps were walking together out of the woods, the Fox said:

"Uncle Wiggily will go for an adventure trip today, as he always does. And he will walk along the path where the Monkey bootblack has a stand for shining shoes."

"So far all is good," grumbled the Wolf. "Say on."

"Well," continued the Fox, "you and I will hide in the bushes near the shoe shining chair which stands up high on a platform like the desk of the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School. And when Uncle Wiggily climbs up in the elevated chair to have his shoes shined, you and I will rush out to get him. Before he has a chance to climb down out of the chair, we'll grab him. Ha! Ha! Ha!

"Shine 'em up!" chattered the monkey.

"Wait a minute!" said the Wolf. "Don't laugh so soon. How do you know that Uncle Wiggily will get up in the high chair to have his shoes polished by the Monkey bootblack? How?"

"Why, that's the best joke of all!" chuckled the sly Fox. "Listen! Near the bootblack stand is a puddle of water. Whether Uncle Wiggily needs a shine or not, as he comes along I will throw a stone in the puddle and splash some bud on his shoes. Then he'll have to get a shine, and, being near the Monkey's stand, he'll climb up in the chair."

"It sounds like a good trick," agreed the Wolf. "I'll help you."

So the two bad chaps hid in the bushes near the Monkey's stand and pretty soon Uncle Wiggily started out from his hollow stump bungalow to go adventuring. He twinkled his pink nose and hopped along, thinking no harm and his shoes were clean. But when he reached the puddle near the shining place, a stone plopped into the water and mud was splashed on the rabbit gentleman's shoes.

"Shine 'em up!" chattered the Monkey, inviting like.

"I believe I will have a shine," said Uncle Wiggily. Up into the chair he climbed and settled himself comfortably. The Monkey began to polish the rabbit's shoes with brushes and a rag. Back and forth the Monkey rubbed the polish on until the leather of the shoes glistened in the sun. And then the Fox said to the Wolf, hiding beside him:

"Come on now! Let's jump out and get him!"

But no sooner did the bad chaps leap from the bushes than the sun, shining on Uncle Wiggily's polished shoes, struck in the eyes of the bad chap like the glare from a looking glass. Such a bright light shone in the eyes of the Fox and Wolf that they couldn't see. And their noses were tickled so that they sneezed:

"Ker choo! Ker coo! Ker fiddleum!"

"Oh, my goodness! Bad chaps!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and tossing some money to the Monkey, who had finished polishing his shoes, away hopped the rabbit before the Fox and Wolf could wipe the water out of their eyes, for the sun glinting from the polished shoes made them cry.

"Ha! Ha! I'm safe!" shouted Uncle Wiggily as he reached his bungalow, with his shoes nicely polished.

"Fooled again!" snarled the Wolf. "Fooled-'Ah, ker-choo-ker-chum!" Then the two bad chaps with no rabbit to nibble, went sadly back to the woods.

OLD MASTERS

When I have seen by Time's fell hand defaced
The rich proud cost of outworn buried age;
When sometime lofty towers I see down-razed,
And brass eternal slave to mortal rage;

When I have seen the hungry ocean gain
Advantage on the kingdom of the shore,
And the firm soil win of the watery main,
Increasing store with loss, and loss with store;

When I have seen such interchange of state,
Or state itself confounded to decay,
Ruin hath taught me thus to ruminate—
That Time will come and take my Love away:

But weep to have that which it fears to lose.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

IF YOU WISH TO WRITE WELL

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

Some rules of grammar that will be useful to those who wish to write well are given in "Handbook for Newspaper Workers," by G. M. Hyde:

1. Remember that clear, logical writing is the reflection of clear logical thinking, and that doubtful grammar usually evidences cloudy ideas.

2. Develop the habit of thinking out your sentences before you begin to write them.

3. Watch for bad grammar in the writings of others and practice correcting it, to develop the instinct for correct usage.

4. Learn the art of transposition. If a sentence is not smooth, correct and clear, juggle its parts around into the the proper places instead of trying to patch it up with commas.

5. Remember that English is the most elastic language in the world and that there is scarcely an idea that cannot be expressed in several different grammatical ways.

6. Notice that "a sentence badly started" is the most fruitful source of bad grammar. Instead of trying to patch it up, begin again in some other way.

7. When in doubt about the correctness of an expression, or a construction, instead of laboring with it and arguing about it, try some other form that you know is correct.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

(By Winifred Stuart Gibbs, Food Specialist.)

Even before diet and nutrition had been studied as we study it today, mothers were accustomed to say to their children, "You must have plenty of fresh air and exercises."

Today we know some of the reasons why this was good advice.

Perhaps the second step in developing a sound feeding program was the realization that rest has a good deal to do with nutrition. Little children, still in the earlier part of their growing period, were found to lose weight and to generally suffer from malnutrition if their rest was in any way broken into.

Going round in the circle from food to rest and from rest to exercises, we realize that there is a triple problem here. Certainly food will not be properly digested unless the one eating it exercises sufficiently to keep the blood in good circulation and to help in the elimination of waste. On the other hand, exercise that is over-done, and this sometimes happens in training for athletics, may do more harm than good. Just as the proper amount of exercise helps to rid the body of waste matter, so too much exercise creates more waste. It is a nice problem and one considered well worthy the study of some of our most experienced health workers.

It has been well said that exercise, undertaken for the simple purpose of exercising, does little good. Certainly, such mechanical activity helps somewhat in increasing the circulation of the blood.

On the other hand, with the psychological refreshment lacking exercises of this type can hardly fail to be unsatisfactory in its final results.

It is important, therefore, that in planning these exercises, which are to help digest the food and to keep the body well nourished, they should be planned in such a way as to rouse the child's real interest.

Thinking of the psychic effect of exercises brings us round to the psychic effects of food.

It is evident that we are facing a very complex problem when we consider this triple one of diet, rest and exercise. Such a study seems to bring us back each time to the well-known quotation,

"All are needed by each one; nothing is fair or good alone."

Food alone is not sufficient. Exercise alone is not sufficient. A proper adjustment of food, rest and exercise will go a long way toward bringing about that very desirable state known as complete nutrition.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Methods change in baby culture as much as in best sellers or sofa cushions. And the routine of bringing up a baby that was highly approved by the enlightened minority a few years ago has been thrown into the discard along with the romantic historical novels and the hand-embroidered pillows that we used to think quite modish. Really, though, fashions in bringing up babies change even more rapidly. Best sellers of five or six years ago and cushions six years old are not half so out of date as the routine we followed when six-year-old Tommy was in baby clothes. Nowadays unless your babies come very, very near together, you will have to learn the routine all over again if you do not want to be out of date.

Probably you know that it is no longer considered good to push babies in baby carriages. Baby carriages might just as well be made without wheels for all the good they do the baby. And once mothers considered it a virtue to walk miles and miles pushing the baby in his carriage or wouldn't engage a nurse who refused to push the carriage. It was so good for baby. And now, according to an accepted authority on such matters, the pushing of a baby in a carriage "is very bad for brain, spine, eyes and digestion."

Not so very long ago raw fruit was considered baneful for small children—and now tiny tots eat raw bananas and seem to thrive thereon. Onions, cauliflower and smaller vegetables were left out of the diet of children under five or six—and now some of the young baby doctors are recommending cauliflower to children under a year.

How mothers used to struggle over the flannel binder and what a satisfaction they took in the thought that it was kept on baby day and night! The very up-to-date mother has hardly even heard of such things. Only a few years ago mothers considered it part of the up-to-date method to wake babies on the minute for feeding, and now there are some experts on such matters who insist that the old custom of letting baby sleep was best after all.

TRADE REPORT.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited, reads as follows:

Halifax.—Provision houses report trade good and conditions improved. Hardware sales somewhat below normal owing to slackness in lumber industry. Retailers report business has been fair and collections normal.

St. John.—Wholesales report good volume of business. Retail trade good. Collections, however, are only fair.

Montreal.—A good volume of business is reported throughout the province by wholesale grocers. Dry goods reported a dropin volume since last week. A fair volume of business is reported by boots and shoes wholesalers. Gent's furnishings and ladies' wear report a very good volume of sales. The hardware trade shows an improvement over previous week. Electrical and radio dealers also report good volume of business. Many lines of smallware are in good demand for Christmas trade. Retail in the city is very busy. Country merchants report very fair volume of business. Wholesale collections fair. Retail city very fair and country good. Shipping in the Port of Montreal still continues brisk, with plenty of building in progress in Montreal City and many parts of the province.

Toronto.—Clothing ad dress manufacturers report good volume of business. Manufacturers of farm implements, automobiles and auto parts also very busy. Wholesalers generally report good improvement in business over this time last year. A very fair volume of business is being done by the retail trade, especially in the urban district. Collections generally show a considerable improvement.

Winnipeg—Wholesale grocers and rubber footwear report a very good week. Hardware satisfactory. A good volume of business in seasonable lines is being transacted by the city retailers, with an improvement in sales of heavy winter wear by country retailers. An improvement in collections is reported as more favorable weather is stimulating marketing operations.

Regina.—All lines of wholesalers report good volume of business. City retail during the past week has been good, with considerable improvement throughout country districts. Collections in the wholesale trade fair, retail city good and country retailers fair. Christmas merchandise moving very fast. Heavy staple lines of dry-goods beginning to move on account of cold weather. It is reported that approximately 95 per cent of the threshing in Southern Saskatchewan is completed.

Saskatoon.—A good volume of business is reported by the wholesale grocers and boot and shoe dealers. A seasonable reduction in volume is reported by the hardware wholesalers. Dry-goods sales during the past week have been fairly good. Sales of fruit and confectionery show a considerable improvement with the approach of Christmas. A good volume of business is reported in seasonable lines by the retail trade. Retail trade in the country just fair. Collections are steadily improving as proceeds of the crop are being received.

Calgary—Business in all lines continues satisfactory. Country points reporting slight increase over same period last year. Prospects for good winter business exceedingly bright. Collections improving.

BREATH CONTROL

We can live many days without eating and two or three weeks without drinking water, but only four minutes without air. The function of breathing is so vitally important that if the inhalation and exhalation of air to the lungs is stopped for only a few minutes death must take place.

Most of the oxygenation of the blood used in the lungs is the air passing in and out through involuntary breathing. It would be impossible for us to be constantly thinking of the necessity for taking deep breaths, but by systematic exercise of the breathing muscles, increased strength of these muscles can be attained and a better tone of the breathing apparatus developed

The principal muscle used in breathing is the diaphragm, which is a flat muscle separating the lungs from the stomach and intestines. This muscle is never at rest, but is either contracting or relaxing every minute of the day and night. The usual contractions are about eighteen times per minute, with, of course, eighteen periods of relaxation or expansion.

Because the diaphragm has not been sufficiently developed, many people take more than eighteen breaths per minute, due to the weakness of the diaphragm and the fact that only a small amount of air is taken in at each inhalation.

If systematic exercise of the diaphragmatic muscle is practiced, there will be a tendency to take deeper breaths each time, so that no more than sixteen or eighteen breaths per minute will be necessary to supply the lungs with all the needed air with its life-giving oxygen.

Such games as baseball, basket-ball, wrestling, boxing, etc. will induce heavy breathing, and in this way tend to develop the diaphragm by a violent form of involuntary exercise which is forced upon the body because of extreme exertion. Such a small percentage of people, however, take up sports which compel deep breathing that I want to urge upon those of you who are in the majority to start at once taking some form of breathing exercise to develop diaphragmatic strength and control.

One of the simplest exercises to take is inhaling and exhaling slowly while you are taking your daily walk. Contract the waist when exhaling and enlarge the waist and lower ribs when inhaling. Inhale slowly and swell up the waist and lower ribs so that your circumference around that section of your body is the very largest possible. Do this slowly while walking four steps, and while taking the next four steps force the air out of your lungs until your waist is of the smallest possible circumference. The last breath should be forced out with a kind of a grunt.

Every few days increase the length of time of inhaling and exhaling, so that you take five steps while inhaling and five while exhaling; then increase these to six and so on, until even as high as fourteen steps can finally be taken while you are drawing the air in, and the same number while exhaling.

This is an especially good exercise for those who are recovering from tuberculosis or asthma, and is all the breathing exercise ever needed if it is practiced each day.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchical asthma, bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu.

Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

EXCUSES

A funny old teacher, a queer little school
Were mine in the days of the past;
And yet I remember one regular rule,
And know that I shall be the last.
We sometimes were absent for some little thing,
But seldom without any use;
For, when we were absent, he told us to bring
A reason, and not an excuse.

Our dad might be easy, our mother be kind,
And let us stay home for a day,
Then give us a letter, all carefully signed,
Which said they had kept us away.
"For what?" asked the teacher. "To help with a task
Or merely to run around loose?"
Yes, when we were absent, he always would ask
For a reason, and not an excuse.

Forgotten some lessons he taught me, I guess,
But one of them never will dim;
And, if I have won any little success,
I give half the credit to him.
One lesson he taught to the lass and the lad
I've found of occasional use:
For, when I have fallen, I saw that I had
A reason, and not an excuse.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

(By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.)

That there are dozens of parasites in every community to every willing worker for the betterment of the community. The parasite is the person who joins the Chamber of Commerce or some other civic organization because he believes it to be an important instrumentality for the common good, but who is too lazy or too indifferent to bear his share of the responsibility.

Business men and professional men realize that as a city grows in population business and professional practice increase. They know that in the keen competition of to-day, active work must be done to forge ahead, yet the general experience is that in the organizations that must be depended upon to heighten a community's reputation only comparatively few willing workers can be found. The rest stop at paying the annual dues and they do that much grusgingly.

This type of laggard is on a par with the civic slacker who will not take the trouble to walk around the corner to vote, yet who is vehement in denunciation of government when it is administered incompetently or corruptly.

If the intelligent, capable people in a community took the interest in affairs they should take, there is hardly anything that could not be attained. The mossbacks and the pullbacks are an infliction perhaps as incurable as cancer. The activity of the willing workers stands out strikingly by contrast. All honor to them.

BLACK HEART OF POTATOES

The Tuber is Particularly Subject To Poor Storage.

AFFECTED BY HEAT.

The potato tuber, which is in reality a short, thickened plant stem, is peculiarly subject to certain injurious influences arising from improper storage practices. Abnormalities are thus created within the tuber itself which impair its itality and disfigure its appearance, thereby rendering it unfit for seed purposes as well as undesirable for table use. Among the abnormalities occurring from time to time is that commonly known as blackheart, an undesirable condition which appears as dark-brown or blackened irregularly shaped areas in the internal tissues of the tuber, particularly in the central region. While affected tubers may appear quite normal externally, an examination of the interior will immediately reveal characteristic dark areas. Blackheart is caused by exposure of tubers to two extreme, yet different sets of conditions. When potato tubers are stored for prolonged periods at extreme temperatures ranging from 95 deg. F. to 110 deg. F. changes occur within the tuber resulting in the death of tissues in the central area, thereby producing what has already been described as blackheart. Secondly, the subjection of tubers (at high or low temperatures) to conditions where the necessary amount of oxygen required for respiration is lacking also produces typical blackheart In the first case, mentioned, conditions might easily arise through storage cellar or heated car (intended for the conveyance of potatoes) being equipped with an improperly controlled source of heat. This would tend to produce extreme temperatures throughout the main storage room or body of the car. The second cause is brought about by storing potatoes in improperly ventilated pits and heated cars or piling in ordinary bins to depths unsuitable for adequate circulation of air.

Strict observance of the following recommendations by the Division of Botany, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, will in a large measure, prevent the occurrence of blackheart. (1) Avoid overheating a storage cellar or heated car by using a properly controlled source of heat from which the proper amount of warmth can be distributed and maintained with greatest safety. In the case of the cellar the source of heat should be situated preferably in an adjoining chamber to the main storage room. (2) Provide adequate means of ventilations, particularly if potatoes are stored in large pits or bins at greater depths than five feet, by placing ventilators so arranged that no tubers will be more than five feet away from an abundant supply of air. (3) Avoid piling potatoes to greater depths than three feet when the storage temperature ranges from 50 deg. to 70 deg., especially if the storage period is longer than a month.

A.Y.P.A. BANQUET HELD AT MILLBROOK

District Council Held Annual Meeting in Armouries on Wednesday.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 20.—The annual meeting of the A.Y.P.A. District Council was held in the Armouries, Millbrook, on Wednesday evening, the local organization in connection with St. Thomas' Church being host to the other branches of the district for the occasion.

The gathering took the form of a banquet, with covers laid for 150 guests, the tables being very attractively decorated with vases of flowers and baskets of rosy-cheeked apples and purple grapes, at intervals along their entire length. The A.Y.P.A. colors of blue and white were carried out in the decorative scheme of flags and streamers which adorned the walls, and also in the runners on the five long tables, while each dainty serviette was initialled "A.Y.P.A." in blue lettering.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the guests were seated, at the head table being the District President, Mr. J. Bent, of the Christ Church branch, Omemee; the guest of honor, Mr. W. R. Sproule, of Toronto, President of the Dominion Council of the A.Y.P.A., and other speakers of the evening.

Members of the St. Thomas' Church branch, under Miss Muriel Curtiss, convener, gave attentive service during the banquet hour, the menu including roast beef, ham, hot creamed potatoes and gravy, salads, jellies, rolls, apple pie, ice cream, fruit, coffee.

Among the clergymen present were Rev. Dr. Blagrave, vicar of St. John's Church, Peterboro; Rev. Mr. Gallagher, rector of St. Paul's Church, Lindsay; Rev. Mr. Weir, rector of Christ Church, Omemee; Rev. Canon Allen and Rev. P. C. Howard, of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan.

Mr. J. Bent acted as toastmaster, and after the toast to "The King" had been duly honored, Rev. Canon Allen, rector of St. Thomas' Church, delivered the address of welcome, creating a general laugh with his opening suggestion, "The better the supper, the shorter the oration."

"I am but expressing the feeling of the entire parish of Millbrook and Cavan when I say we are glad to meet with you, and I would like to couple with this expression, 'come again,'" the rector stated, adding: "This is the first time I have had the unique honor of addressing so large a gathering of young people in all my experience.

"We need the young people for zeal and enthusiasm in the church, and we also need the older folk for judgment and experience both in church and state."

Mrs. Jas. Colwell, of Perrytown, proposed the toast to "The Church," "the great heritage which our forefathers have handed down to us," and Rev. Dr. Blagrave, of Peterboro, responded, basing his remarks upon the text, "They continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread and in prayers."

Mr. R. Stone, of Millbrook, a past President of the District Council, proposed the toast to the "A. Y. P. A.," and Rev. E. O. Gallagher, of St. Paul's Church, Lindsay, responded. St. Paul's was the last church to have its branch affiliated with the Peterboro district, and a very warm welcome was given the large delegation present. Mr. Gallagher emphasized "the youthfulness and vigor of our Master" in his address, pointing out the example in possibilities of accomplishment to the young folk of the present day. "Serve for the mere joy of service, no matter what sacrifice be involved."

The roll call followed, each branch responding by a song from the hymn sheet, or by its group "yell." The response showed St. John's, Peterboro, 12 present; St. Luke's, Peterboro, 12; All Saints', Peterboro, 18; St. Paul's, Lindsay, 17; Christ Church, Omemee, 18; St. Paul's, Perrytown, 15; St. John's, Ida, 9; St. Thomas', Millbrook, had probably 40 in attendance. Lakefield and St. George's, Peterboro, were the only two branches not represented.

Mr. Howard Jordan, President of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' Church, proposed the toast to "The Ladies," bringing a chorus of protest by his definition of his subject as being in three words—the first, trouble; the second, trouble; and the third, trouble—yet "a world minus ladies would be like being in a desert island with a crossword puzzle and no pencil." Due credit, however, was given the ladies by the speaker, their usefulness being sufficiently stressed before concluding his remarks.

Miss Hope, of All Saints', Peterboro, replied to the toast, standing up valiantly for her sex, which, she averred, "is the fairest work of the Great Author; the edition is large, and every man should possess a copy."

The guest of the evening, Mr. Sproule, President of the Dominion Council, was accorded a hearty ovation, the entire gathering standing and singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Sproule is taking his theology course at Wycliffe College, Toronto, and is evidently well qualified for the high position he holds in connection with the Anglican Young People's Associations of the entire Dominion.

After expressing his pleasure in being present, and his regret that circumstances make it impossible for him to have other than infrequent contact with the branches of the Peterboro district, the speaker went on to say that consecration was the outstanding thing emphasized in all the addresses at the Dominion Council this year.

Tracing in history the course of government by autocracy, aristocracy, plutocracy and democracy, it was pointed out that best and highest of all is theocracy, government by God. "All the troubles of the world come from man's desire to put God aside and rule himself.

"What has all this to do with the A.Y.P.A.? Am I not saying in effect what our motto holds up as an idea. 'For Christ and the church?' If I could pass along this one thought, absolute rule by Jesus Christ in our lives and in our country, my message would be complete."

The marvellous development of the A.Y.P.A. during the six years since the Dominion Council had last met in Peterboro, was referred to by the President, who added: "Our aim now should be developing quality, since the quantity seems well assured; this I believe to be of vital importance.

"The greatest need of young people generally and of the A.Y.P.A. particularly is to keep constantly and clearly before us the vision of the absolute rule of God in the world, and the rule of Jesus Christ in our individual hearts and lives."

The District President announced that a rough sketch of future plans had been made at a recent executive meeting, the next district gathering to be the first Thursday in April, a Lenten service at St. Luke's Church, Peterboro, which is confidently expected to be very beneficial to the entire membership of the branches.

Messrs. Hope, of Peterboro, and L. H. Winslow, of Ida, moved and seconded the vote of thanks to the Dominion President for his very inspiring address, and three hearty cheers and a tiger was the response from the big gathering.

Community singing had punctuated the programme throughout, Miss Stella Graham, of Lindsay, presiding at the piano during the evening.

Rev. Canon Allen pronounced the benedction, which dismissed a very helpful and successful annual rally.

GOOD TO COME OF CONFERENCE

Premier Rhodes Very Hopeful For Maritime Immigration Proposals.

NEED CO-OPERATION.

HALIFAX, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—"I am very hopeful of the outcome of the conference and of the effect which the proposals will have when they are put into force. With the hearty co-operation of the Provincial and Federal Governments, I am confident that much will be accomplished."

Thus declared Hon. E.W. Rhodes, Premier of Nova Scotia, on his return from Montreal, where he attended a conference at which immigration as it affects the Maritime Provinces was the chief subject of discussion.

The conference, called at the invitation of E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was attended by Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration; Premiers Banter, of New Brunswick, and Stewart, of Prince Edward Island, together with representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and the Hudson's Bay Company.

The Fireplace

(By W. S. Limbery.)

Human culture may be said to have begun with fire, and the uses of fire increased in the same ratio as culture itself.

The fireplace is the oldest fixed method of heating known, having been in common use in the middle ages. The fireplace itself was at first built entirely of masonry and without a chimney, the flue extending only a few feet above the fireplace in the thickness of the wall. There is no evidence of chimneys having been built until the 12th Century.

Although in England and the older countries the fireplace is still the principal method of heating the houses, it is gradually being replaced with the central heating systems of warm air, hot water or steam.

In this country the central heating system has proved so dependable in giving adequate and even temperature, and can be installed at such a moderate cost in one form or another, that it has become the ordinary means of heating our homes.

On this account fireplaces for a time fell into disuse, and many houses were erected without them, or at least without the same careful thought given to them as formerly.

But the last few years have seen the fireplace come into the front ranks as a necessity, and a would-be purchaser of a home now insists upon a fireplace not only in the living-room but also in the family bedroom.

There is no article of furniture, however cosy and comfortable, that can take the place of the fireplace in the living-room. In fact, it seems itself to create the friendliness and warmth that truly furnishes the room. What helps more quickly to bring parents and children closer together than the confidences exchanged and the stories told around the home fireside, and nothing can assist us to entertain our guests so easily as its welcome brightness and sparkling crackle! Old and young alike come under the spell of its magic—one of the greatest forces for home-life that time has yet devised.

In order to thoroughly enjoy the pleasure to be derived from a fireplace, it should be built out of the line of travel through the room, and away from the entrance door; possibly at the end of the room. It should not be flanked by windows, as these would be apt to make a draughty corner; and it is not pleasant to face the light when sitting by the fireside when in use by day. Do not build the fireplace on the broad side of a room, as it reduces the practical width of the room by its projection, and also forces the floor rug to spread over the hearth.

The most serious fault to guard against in building a fireplace is a poor draught, which will result in the smoke at times pouring into the room. This can be avoided by the proper construction of the fireplace and the chimney.

A good draught depends upon the relative sizes of the fireplace opening and flue, and the height of the chimney. The area of the flue should not be less than one-tenth of the area of the fireplace opening, and the fireplace should have its own individual flue carried its full size to the top of the chimney. There should not be any connection to this flue from any other source, and the chimney should be carried at least two feet above the highest point of the roof.

It is necessary to place a damper in the throat of the chimney for regulating the draught. The best type is that known as the "dome" damper, made of cast iron, and which is a combination of throat, damper and arch lintel. Great care must be taken to gradually narrow the brickwork from the damper to the flue, and to provide a ledge or "smoke shelf" at the back of the chimney throat.

Wood makes the ideal fire on account of its sweet odour while burning. It should be placed on andirons, and the ash should be allowed to bank on the hearth in order to keep a steady glow. To use coal it will be necessary to provide a grate or basket, which can be placed over or between the andirons. Cannel coal will be found the best for use, because of its cleanliness and beauty of flame. Copyright, 1926, MacLean Building Reports, Ltd.

Question: What is the best kind of flooring for a kitchen?

We believe that most people prefer linoleum to any kind of wood as used for the surface of the kitchen floors. A wood floor is not as sanitary as linoleum and requires considerable more care to keep it in condition. If linoleum is used the base underneath can be a cheap grade of soft wood flooring. It should be set down so that the linoleum will finish flush with the adjoining rooms.

SPEEDIRON

AT last—after years of experiment and research a perfect, rapid, iron cooking element has been developed. An element which brings speed, lasting durability and absolute safety to electric cooking—McClary's Speediron!

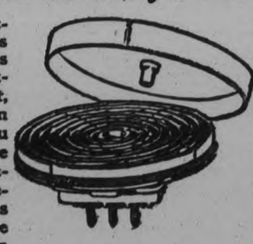
This wonderful, new, rapid iron element is as far ahead of all others as electric light is ahead of candle light.

McClary's Speediron is the only protected, removable, repairable element made. It operates on contact heat. This gives it marvellous speed and eliminates waste by radiation, which is one of the greatest defects of open elements. And the Speediron is durable. It cannot be injured by liquids boiling over, spilling—or contact with pots and pans.

The cast iron surface protects the coils year in and year out—and if the coils by any chance burn out you can replace them easily, inexpensively and quickly.

Now On All McClary's Electric Ranges

This great, new electric cooking feature is now on all McClary's Electric Ranges—making it the most efficient, satisfactory range on the market. And you also get the exclusive advantages of McClary's famous porcelain enameled "fireless cooker" oven—the oven which keeps on cooking even after the current is turned off.



Ask your dealer about a McClary's Electric Range. After you've seen him demonstrate the Speediron element, you'll agree that McClary's is far ahead of any other for economy, speed, strength and general satisfaction.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

CHAPTER XII.

"It's too long, Faith!" Cherry wailed crossly. "I told you I wanted it just to my knees, and it's two inches below them."

Faith, on her knees before the little figure in the new printed chiffon, pushed damp wisps of hair from her perspiring forehead with a weary hand. "But I keep telling you that a bouffant skirt can't be clear up to the knees, Cherry! When you dance, it would swirl way above your knees. Besides, there isn't time to do a thing to it now. It's half past seven and I've got to bathe and dress yet."

"No daughter of mine is going to wear a dress any shorter than that." Jim Lane walked from the cluttered dining table into the living room, spectacles pushed high on his forehead, the sheets of the afternoon paper trailing from his hand. "It's a sin and a shame the way you fool flappers are dressin' these days—"

"A lot you know about it, Jim Lane!" said Mrs. Lane, waddling heavily into the dining room, waving a palm leaf fan to cool her face. "If you're going to sew for Cherry, Faith, I should think you'd make her dresses like she wants 'em."

"Oh, Lord!" Faith groaned, sinking back upon her heels and flinging an arm across her eyes, as if to shut them all out. "Here I've worked all night and all day to get her dress ready, and this is the thanks I get for it! I wish I'd never stuck the scissors into it!"

"Faith Lane, how dare you talk to your mother like that!" Mrs. Lane bent over the girl and shook her fan in her face. "I've a good mind to slap your face for you, young lady, even if—"

But the sentence was never finished. Mrs. Lane's voice thickened queerly, then suddenly her big body lurched and fell, knocking Faith flat. The girl's arms went out, heaved at the fainting woman's body. Jim Lane was tugging, too, with all his strength. Between them, Faith and her father got the heavy, inert body into bed, while Cherry stood by, wringing her hands helplessly.

It was eight o'clock when the doctor arrived, and Mrs. Lane was conscious again, her lips purple, perspiration ice cold upon her brow.

Faith had worked over her mother steadily the half hour before the doctor's arrival, with Jim Lane awkwardly assisting. Cherry had fled, weeping hysterically, into her bedroom, with one last violent charge hurled at her sister: "Now look what you've done!" Junior was out, and Joy, playing in the streets, had not been summoned.

"High blood pressure, tricky heart, the heat," summed up the doctor's diagnosis, when he had administered a sedative and had given directions for Mrs. Lane's care during the night.

"Oh, Dr. Atkins—" Faith was startled to see Cherry, fully dressed, ready for George Pruitt's party, step out of her bedroom and accost the good-looking young physician. "Is there any—any—danger?"

"She'll be all right now—for tonight, at least." The doctor's appreciative eyes took in the coppercurled little figure. "If you were planning to go to a party, go right ahead. She'll be all the better for the quiet."

"I wouldn't go a step if I thought there was any real danger," Cherry told him, her golden eyes filling with tears. "It's just a little studio party at the Pruitt's—the Lincoln Pruitts, you know."

When the doctor had gone, Cherry whirled on Faith, who was looking at her with steady, scornful eyes. "Don't look at me like that, Faith Lane! I don't see any reason why both of us should stay at home! And you caused it all! If you hadn't made Muggy angry by sassing her, it wouldn't have happened—"

"That's not true, Cherry. I told the doctor all about it. He said it was likely to happen any time now. She's really sick. Cherry, awfully sick, I'm afraid. It's not fair of you to put all the blame on me. I feel like a dog anyway." She covered her face with her hands and began to sob heavily.

"Oh, Faith, I'm a little beast! I'm sorry! But you will stay with her and let me go to the party, won't you, honey? I—I just couldn't bear to miss it, and you don't like parties much anyway. Oh, there's a car now. I wonder if it's Chester or George? George said he was going to come early for you, before the other guests arrived, didn't he?"

"If it's George Pruitt, I can't see him, looking like this!" Faith lifted a corner of her kitchen apron, which she had not had time to remove, and wiped her eyes. "Tell him I'm sorry to miss the party. I don't suppose he'll mind," she added, with a tinge of bitterness.

It was George Pruitt, and Faith, her hand to her throat, listened at the closed door between dining-room and living room as Cherry's subdued voice explained.

"And Faith's awfully sorry she can't come, George. I wanted to stay with darling Muggy, but Faith says I'm so little I couldn't lift Muggy if she needed turning over in bed or anything like that. Faith's such a big strong girl, you know. Isn't it awful to be little and good-for-nothing like me?"

"And I planned this party for her!" George Pruitt's words sent the blood into Faith's cheeks. But, Oh, why couldn't it have been Bob Hathaway who had so quickly and unaccountably taken a real liking to her? In her humbleness, Faith did not dare use the words, "fallen in love."

When at last George Pruitt had gone and Chester Hart had come in his roadster and taken Cherry away with him, Faith refilled the ice bag and placed it gently on her sleeping mother's forehead. Then she slipped noiselessly out of the room, to her own bedroom, when she flung her arms about the pretty new maize chiffon, with its great, silk-petaled crimson flower, and gave herself up to grief.

At half-past ten she heard a car stop at the curb, but she did not leave her vigil at her mother's bedside. Two minutes later her father came tiptoeing to the door, beckoning Faith to join him in the hall.

"It's young Hathaway, Faith. He wants to see you—come from the party 'specially to bring you some of the refreshments. Pretty white of him, eh?"

"Tell him I'll be out — right away," Faith gasped, her eyes widening with incredulous joy. "Talk to him till I change my dress, Dad. Mother's sleeping."

Obeying, a sudden, mad impulse to make the most of this moment vouchsafed her by fate, Faith stripped off her bungalow apron, utilitarian white slip and underwear and, with hands that trembled with haste and eagerness, arrayed her body in her best silk combinations, a dainty pink crepe de chine costume slip, given her as a Christmas gift by Aunt Hattie, and over all the soft, cloudy maize chiffon dress she had finished that day.

She breathed a prayer that he failed to notice that her black satin pumps were breaking in the creases. Into the gleaming loop of smooth brown hair on the nape of her neck she stuck a high Spanish comb, studded with imitation emeralds.

It made her look queenly, she told her reflection in the mirror, holding her head with new pride. Darting into Cherry's bedroom, she rummaged in the top dresser drawer and found a lipstick that Cherry had discarded because it was too dark for her complexion. Stretching her lips as she had so often seen Cherry do, Faith emphasized the natural Cupid's bow of her lips with the rich crimson. The result was startling.

The warm pallor of her cheeks, dusky at the cheekbones with natural color, was immeasurably heightened by the vivid splash of color on the lips. Red-brown lights sprang to life in her great eyes, which looked serene in spite of her excitement, and a sheen glimmered on the smooth bands of hair drawn like a satin cap about her ears.

"Please, God, make him see me now—now that Cherry isn't here to dazzle him. Cherry isn't good for him, God. You know that! And I'd give my life to serve him, to make him happy." Although she had only uttered the words in her rapidly beating heart, she flushed suddenly, richly, as if she had let her secret out into a jeering world.

She found him in the living room, a hamper upon his knees. And at sight of his face she forgot the innocent scheme which had made her dress herself to attract him. He was very pale under the tan of his lean cheeks, and his mouth looked tight and twisted with pain. His blue eyes looked at her blankly, as if they had been wrenched from some dreadful vision. He rose slowly, setting the hamper carefully on the wide arm of the old wicker chair.

"George wanted to come himself, but he could hardly get away. I asked to be allowed to come, and I've brought our supper with me. George packed the hamper himself, and I think he put in enough to feed an orphanage, judging by the weight of it. Hope you're hungry." He smiled a faint caricature of that boyish grin which had so charmed her the first time she had seen him.

"That was awfully thoughtful of George—and you," Faith said gently, seating herself in the wicker chair. "Mother is sleeping, and I was so glad to know that I was going to have a bit of the party after all, that I put on the dress I had made for to-night."

He looked over the tall, erect figure, and slowly appreciation, recognition of Faith Lane as a person, dawned in his eyes. The shadow that had darkened their brilliance lifted for a moment.

"I say, you're looking wonderful!" he said boyishly. "What have you done to yourself, anyway? Oh, I didn't mean it that way! I'm an awful blunderer. But that's a peach of a dress. It's a shame George can't see you. He's — he's got you on his mind tonight, Miss Faith."

Faith smiled up at him without coquetry, but her eyes were flooded with radiance. "Shall I make a little spread on the library table here? And while we eat, you can tell me why you were looking so dreadfully unhappy when I came in —that is—" she became panicky at the tightening of his mouth — "if you want to—"

"I think I do," Bob Hathaway said slowly, his eyes suddenly very wistful and very young and very hurt.

New Vitality for Advanced Years

As age advances there is a tendency for the blood to become thin and watery.

The nerves are starved and the supply of nervous energy in the body runs low.

Neuritis, rheumatism, stiffness of the joints and other discomforts result from waning vitality.

Because it forms new, rich blood and restores vigor to the nervous system Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is especially appreciated by persons of advanced years.

It is not unusual for elderly people to experience trouble from poor circulation and weakness of the hearts' action. This is the result of the blood being weak and is overcome by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Every organ of the body is benefitted by this restorative and reconstructive treatment.

You will not be using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food long before you find that you are sleeping and resting better. As your vitality is restored the vital organs of the body resume their natural functions, pains and aches disappear and you feel better in every way.

The expression often used by older people who use this food treatment is, "I feel twenty years younger."

GAINED 20 POUNDS

Mrs. W. R. Davis, Delhi, Ont., writes:—"In the winter of 1922-23 I was ill with the 'flu', which left me in a very nervous condition. I could eat scarcely anything, would lie awake half the night and would jump whenever the door bell rang. I felt always as if something terrible were going to happen. As the Doctor's medicine did not seem to do any good, my daughter suggested that I take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I took six boxes of this treatment and although nearly 70 years of age, am feeling fine, and have gained 20 pounds in weight. "I also had a bad sore on my cheek which Dr. Chase's Ointment healed after everything else had failed."

HEART TROUBLE

Mr. John Tucker, Exeter, Ont., writes:—"I suffered for a great many years from nervousness, heart trouble and neuralgia. I could not sleep at all, and had frequent headaches. My appetite also became poor and I was bothered with indigestion. I finally commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it the best thing I ever tried. It relieved me right away and I soon got better. I cannot say too much in praise of this splendid medicine. My wife has also used it and we both think there is nothing to equal Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

ROBBERS SENTENCED.

Two Men Admit That They Held Up Ottawa Man.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— John Sandusky, confessed Ottawa bandit, was sentenced to twelve years in Portsmouth penitentiary by Magistrate Hopewell in the court yesterday. Harold Rooney was given six years, while Norman Gadde, another alleged bandit, was committed for trial. Sandusky and Rooney pleaded guilty to holding up an Ottawa street railway employee and stealing satchels containing more than $800. Gadde denied that he took part in the robbery.

NEW CANADIANS GOOD CITIZENS

Settlers in New Ontario Are Honest, Industrious People.

ADDRESS GIVEN.

Hiawatha, Nov. 20. — The social evening held at the Manse was enjoyed by many of the residents of the village and neighborhood. The programme was very interesting and instructive. Music and vocal selections formed the greater part of it. Some of the younger people gave short readings.

Mr. Hinton, the local public school teacher, spoke briefly on some of his observations in New Ontario, where he taught for two years. He claimed that Northwestern Ontario, between Lake Superior and the Province of Manitoba was really a second Europe in Canada. People from Finland, Sweden, Denmark, Russia, Holland, Germany, Poland, Ukrania, Bulgaria, Austria, and Italy are trying there to increase their fortunes and make a better living for themselves and their large families, which are the rule.

The land is as yet sparsely settled and the foreigners or new Canadians, as they now are, are doing remarkably well, considering the handicaps that are present in a new country.

The new Canadians, where there is suitable environment, are splendid, industrious citizens, and their children are just as inclined to love Canada and Canadian ideals as are pupils of English, Irish and Scotch homes. But the Red element, with no religion, no desire for the bettering of the community, no wish for advancement, could easily creep in if the Old English speaking people do not do their duty. These new settlers watch closely the daily acts of the business man both on market days and on Sunday. A great many of them have been cheated by grasping schemers because they did not know the English as well as they might.

Mr. Hinton stated that he had had the pleasure of writing personal and business letters for some of the Finlanders. They had a desire for exactness that was noteworthy.

His experience was largely confined to the Finnish and Swedish settlements. The home life is very happy.

The women visit back and forth more than the farmer's wife in Southern Ontario. Up there the telephone is yet to be installed and is greatly needed. The women do a great deal of the outside work. It was nothing to see a wife and husband with their family clearing land. In winter they do the chores and often cut the wood for the house fires, while the men are drawing cordwood to town to get ready money for taxes and necessities, which must be bought.

The home are snugly built of hewn logs to withstand the heavy frosts which settle down after Christmas. The Finns are expert carpenters and the interiors of the houses are fitted with homemade tables, shelves and benches for chairs. The timbers are chinked with moss that grows in the nearby muskegs. When the settler is very poor he may make the roof of poles in order that they may lap.

Every household, poor or rich, has its bath house. It is one of the secrets of their health. It is simply made of logs or of frame construction, and has two compartments; the inner one contains a stove or heap of stones. Before the bath is taken there is a fire started in the old stove or under the heap of stones. Steam rises which causes the person to sweat. With the sweat comes the dirt if there is any. This sweating assists the body in getting rid of the refuse which sometimes causes sickness or rheumatism. It was rare to hear of a sick man or woman.

The other secret of their freedom from disease was their diet. Rye bread was a great favorite with them. Their food was generally well cooked. They were fond of fish in the raw state, which they cured in a way that it would keep. They were not very fond of meat. Their principal drink was coffee and in it they soaked their toast. Every home has its own cow for making butter. The wife or daubhter almost always milked it and made the butter for private use. Buttermilk was often seen on the table as a drink. Some of the Finns were very fond of sour milk that was very thick.

The Finns and Swedes are very hospitable and it is rarely that a friend goes to their home without having a cup of coffee and other refreshment.

The readings were greatly enjoyed. Both Senior and Junior choirs of the United Church sang.

Rev. Mr. Garratt was chairman. He also made a short address about his visit to South America twenty or more years ago. He sang a Spanish love song and interpreted it for the gathering. During his address he wore a Spanish or Argentine costume. He also burned incense just as the South Americans did.

Much merriment and fun came when the guests drew tickets to see who they would have lunch with.

Mr. Lee Rockwell and daughter Annette, of Peterborough, were visiting Hiawatha on Saturday afternoon and evening.

Misses Marguerite and Mina Cowie were visiting their aunt, Mrs. H. E. Cox on Monday.

REPORT RECEIVED ON W. I. CONVENTION

Seymour West Branch Holds Regular Monthly Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 20. — The ladies of the Seymour West Women's Institute held their monthly meeting on Thursday, Nov. 11, at the home of Mrs. Martin McArthur. The ladies decided to purchase the material at once for the first aid kit, to put into the schools. During the day a handsome wreath of poppies was placed on the Memorial by the Institute in honor of Armistice Day.

The main attraction for the afternoon was the excellent paper given by Mrs. Douglas Rutherford on the Women's Institute Convention held in Belleville. The following is a synopsis of the report:

"The Women's Institute Convention was held in the City Hall, Belleville. The convention opened by community singing, Mrs. Weese presiding. An address of welcome by Mrs. Collins of Belleville and Mrs. J. R. Brown of Bonarlaw replying. Addresses were then given by the district presidents, giving accounts of relief work done by the different institutes. A solo was then sung by Mrs. Dask.

The address of the afternoon was given by Mrs. C. Field Robertson of Lanark, president of the Federated Women's Institute. She said the Institute was organized 27 years ago with the aim of giving the women of rural districts, greater social benefits, and had broadened to a national movement with higher ideals. Mrs. Robertson though there could be no better motto than "Jump in, stick to it: Get it done."

Miss White of the Canadian Farmer spoke, after which Mrs. Dask sang a solo, followed by a reading by Mrs. MacDonald of Stirling. After the session, the ladies attended the banquet at the Queen's Hotel. Toasts were proposed to the King and Our Country by Mrs. Milton Maybee.

The night session opened at 7.30, Mrs. G. H. Leury presiding. Community singing was led by Harold Holten, accompanied by Mr. F. R. Wotten. Mrs. J. R. Brown then gave a report on "Education and Better Schools," after which Mrs. H. J. Clarke, Inspector of Public Schools of South Hastings, gave a very interesting address on the problem of re-organization of rural public schools. Mr. Putman of the Department of Agriculture gave an address on "How the Institute can be of greatest value," namely to the individual, to the community, and to the province.

Mr. Roy Atkin of Stirling was the next speaker, taking as his theme, "How the Institute can co-operate with the Agricultural representative." Mr. Atkin's desire was to improve home conditions, better conditions on the farm, better farming and better business methods in connection with agriculture.

The second day of the convention was well attended, Mr. B. Finkle of Holloway, presiding. The program for the morning was mostly reports on activities of the district during the year. Mrs. Harris of Wellington read a report on "Health," and Miss Hopkins of the Department of Agriculture explained the points to be considered in the selection of foods, and packing of school lunches.

Our president, Mrs. McCulloch, spoke on agricultural work of the Institutes. The activities included co-operation with the school fairs, agricultural fairs, and planting shrubs and beautifying school grounds. We enjoyed Mrs. McCulloch's address very much and felt proud to think she was from our own community.

Mrs. Macoun spoke on how our Institute assisted at the school fair and agricultural fair. Mrs. M. Maybee of Trenton gave a report of community work of various branches; Mrs. Poiret sang a solo, and Mrs. J. McPhee of Belleville gave a short talk. Miss E. M. Chapman gave an address to the young girls. In the afternoon Mrs. McPhee was the presiding officer.

Miss E. Guest gave an address on "Programme Planning," after which Mrs. C. Macoun of Campbellford spoke on the basis of success in branch, district, and provincial work; Mrs. Macoun said the Women's Institute was the strongest women's organization in Ontario. She talked of the beautification of the highways. She also thought it was a wonderful thing for Canadian Women to be able to vote. A solo was then given by Mrs. Atkins of Stirling. A hat parade was a very unique feature of the afternoon sessions. The following were the prizes awarded:

1st, Mrs. Munroe; 2nd, Mrs Leury; 3rd, Mrs. Orvis.

Programme Prizes.—st, Bloomfield; 2nd, Rednersville; 3rd, Wooler.

Garment Making Club.—st Percy; 2nd, Wallbridge.

School Lunch.—st, Ivanhoe; 2nd, Rylestone; 3rd, Chatterton; 4th, Springbrook.

York Road took the prize for First Aid Kits.

ASKING HYDRO TO MOVE POLES

"ey Standards on Park Street Interfere With Lighting.

COMMITTEE MEETS.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission will be asked to remove the poles on Park street, north of Charlotte, if it is not intended to continue the street car service on that part of the street.

This was decided on by members of the Fire, Water and Light committee, who met last night, as they find that the poles now standing interfere with the erection of the new centre suspension lights with which it is proposed to light this part of the city.

Several petitions were received from ratepayers in various parts of the city asking for better lighting facilities and in all cases they were referred to the chairman with power to act.

237 CANDIDATES ALREADY NAMED TO CONTEST 112 ONTARIO SEATS

Conservative Party Leads With 111 Men Chosen For Nomination.

LIBERALS HAVE 52.

Cochrane North Has No Nominee in Sight For Either Side.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.— (Canadian Press.)—From one until two p.m. to-day official nominations took place in Ontario's 112 constituencies for the Provincial elections on December 1. About 237 candidates have been named to put in nomination papers. Deposits are not required in the Provincial elections.

With an Independent Conservative in Port Arthur, the total number of Conservative candidates named by party conventions is 111. Liberals at the hour for nominations number 52, Prohibitionists 27, Progresives 21, Liberal Progressives 12, Labor men five, and Independents four. The 53 Liberals include five who will support Premier Ferguson's Government control of liquor sale policy.

There are fifteen three-cornered fights throughout the province and in Toronto St. Andrew's four candidates are ready for nomination—Conservative, Independent Conservative, Liberal and Prohibitionist.

The candidates to be nominated to-day are fairly evenly divided between opposition to Premier Ferguson's government control policy and in support of it. While the 111 Conservtaives are opposed to 126 candidates of other party denomination not all the latter support the Onttario Temperance Act, following in this regard the attitude of four Liberal former members—E. P. Tellier, Essex North; J. A. Pinard, Ottawa East; Edmond Proulx, Prescott; and A. Belanger, Russel—and also Harry Marceau, Liberal in Nipissing. A sixth Liberal favoring Premier Ferguson's liquor policy is Zotigue Mageau, whose return to the field in Sturgeon Falls is however doubtful until official nominations have closed.

While the advance lists are heavy, three or four constituencies still lack contesting candidates. On the last day, Hon. Charles McCrea is the only candidate appearing in Sudbury, and J. A. Mathieu is as yet unopposed in Rainy River.

Zotigue Mageau's candidature in Sturgeon Falls being doubtful leaves the field open to A. A. Aubin, and in Cochrane North, a new riding, no candidate of either party has yet been announced.

THE ROSE BALL

The annual Rose Ball of the Rotary Annes took place last evening at the G.W.V.A. hall, with an attendance of about two hundred and fifty people. Excellent music was provided by Burton Till's six-piece orchestra from Toronto. Patronesses were Mrs. C. H. Rogers, Mrs. J. H. Seels, Mrs. G. D. McClelland Mrs. G. H. Thompson, Mrs. C. G. Graham, and Mrs. G. A. Wood. The entertainment committee in charge of general arrangements is composed of the following members: Mrs. Gerald Wood, convenor, Mrs. G. S. Matthews, Mrs. J. D. Fletcher, Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, and Mrs. Gerald McClelland. Mrs. J. H. Seels had charge of the decorations, which were duplicates of last year's very attractive rose novelties. Curtains of pink and green shredded tissue paper, topped by wreaths of artificial pink roses, were at the doors and windows with blinds of panelled black and white paper, centred with fetching silhouettes of dancing men and women. Black silohuettes of girls' heads, encircled with wreaths of pink wild roses, centred the large square pink paper shades on the electroliers, and an arch of roses formed the entrance to the orchestra stand, which was banked with large pink roses. A huge pendant drop of the same large roses fell from the central electrolier, and strings of pale green and black paper containing pink roses were placed at intervals along the walls and the same green and pink novelties decorated the upper rooms where refreshments were served, and the tables were covered with rose-studded cloths. The small retiring room at the rear of the hall was cosily arranged with wicker furniture and palms and ferns.

During the evening, two favor dances were included on the programme, with pretty favors for the dancers, and the evening was further enlivened by the dancing of little Jeanette Garrette of "The Revue of 1926" company, who, with a party from the troupe which included Miss Jean Ford Tolmie, Miss Patricia O'Shea, Miss Jean Haig and Miss Arlene Jackson, attended the dance.

Among those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Parlour, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dewart, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Coutts, Mr. and Mrs. Sproats, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Cadotte, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ANNUAL BAZAAR.

Ladies' Auxiliary To Canadian Legion Uses Funds For Relief Work.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, who have been well and favorably known in the city in years past under their former name of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association, are holding their annual bazaar in the Legion Hall on Murray street on Thursday and Friday next, November 25th and 26th.

This society has for its primary object and aim the welfare of the families and dependents of deceased and ex-soldiers, and it carries out its work with faithful and zealous attenton. Many different types of need come under the attention of the ladies who expend hundreds of dollars annually in their efforts to ameliorate conditions in connection with former soldiers and their families. They also visit the sick in the hospitals and do a great deal of general charitable work. The annual bazaar is a source of income to them, and the funds are used exclusively in good works.

GREAT BRITAIN AND DOMINIONS

of the group of self-governing communities composed of Great Britain and the Dominions may be readily defined. They are autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status and in no way subordinate one to the other in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by common allegiance to the Crown and freely associated as members of the British commonwealth of nations."

The report, briefly reviewing recent history, says the tendency of the Dominions towards equality of status is both rght and inevitable. Geographical and other conditions make this impossible of attainment by way of federation. The only alternative is by way of autonomy, "and along this road it has been steadily sought. Every self-governing member of the Empire is now master of its destiny. In fact, if not always in form, it is subject to no compulsion whatever."

The report continues: "But no account, however accurate, of negative relations in which Great Britain and the Dominions stand to each other can do more than express a portion of the truth. The British Empire is not founded upon negations. It depends essentially if not formally, on positive ideals. Free institutions are its life blood, free co-operation its instrument, and peace, security and progress among its objectives.

"The aspects of all those great themes have been discussed at the present conference and excellent results have thereby been attained and though every Dominion is now and must always remain the sole judge of the nature and extent of its co-operation, no common cause will, in our opinions, be thereby imperilled."

The report describes equality of status as the root of the principle governing Inter-Imperial relations. It then proceeds to apply this political theory to the common needs, observing that nothing is to be gained by attempting to lay down a constitution for the British Empire.

The report opens with discussion of the relations between the various parts of the Empire:

1. It proposes to change the title of His Majesty the King.

2. It declares that the governor-general should be the representative of the crown only, not of the British government.

3. It recommends the appointment of a special committee to consider the competence of Dominion parliaments to give their legislation extra territorial effect on other points arising from Dominion legislation, with a sub committee to deal with merchant shipping legislation.

With regard to relations with foreign countries the report seeks to give full application to the resolution on the negotiations of treaties which was adopted at the last conference: :

1. It recommends that in future treaties the British ministers shall sign for Great Britain instead of for the Empire, with each Dominion signing for itself, Canada signing immediately after Great Britain.

2. It recognizes that in foreign relations neither Great Britain nor the Dominions could be committed to acceptance of active obligations without the definite assent of their own governments.

In the change recomeminded in the King's title the term "United Kingdom" disappears. The change, it is explained, is necessitated by the Irish Free State becoming a dominion. The new title will read: "George Fifth, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the seas, King defender of the faith, Emperor of India."

The committee recognized as an essential feature of any change or development in the channels of communication that the governor general should be supplied with copies of all documents of importance in general and should be kept as fully informed as is the king in Great Britain of cabinet business of public affairs.

SEEK TO ATTACK PIRATES' BASE

Shipping Interests in China Seas Ask Aid of Powers.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20.—(United Press.) — Aroused by the recent attack on the steamer Sunning, shipping interests of the Far East are seeking a co-operative effort on the part of the foreign powers to destroy the pirates' stronghold at Bias Bay on the Kwantung coast, near Hong Kong.

Maritime records show that since October 1923, pirates have attacked fourteen Japanese, French, Portuguese, British and Chinese ships.

The attacks have resulted in nearly 100 deaths and the kidnapping of several hundred Chinese passengers. Financial losses resulting from the pirate attacks are said to run into millions of dollars.

SPIRITUAL GIFTS ARE CONTINUOUS

Frederick Bligh Bond Received Directions on Location of Chapels.

AUTOMATIC WRITING.

Mr. Frederick Bligh Bond, who is at present in the city and who will be the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club on Monday evening next, when he will address the members on "Discoveries at Glastonbury," is a forerunner, in a sense, of an absolutely new cult, or at least of a new manifestation of a psychical discovery. Mr. Bond recently startled his fellow-members of the Psychical Research Society and archaeologists the world over by recovering the lost chapels of King Edgar and Our Lady of Loretto amongst the ruins of Glatstonbury Abbey, doing this by the aid of automatic writing transmitted through a friend, John Alleyne, with whose assistance, and through mental concentration of an intense type, Mr. Bond received instructions in detail of the location of the long-lost chapels.

Mr. Bond explains that his method has nothing in common with spiritualism, which he characterizes as unspiritual and dangerous in the hands of the untrained enquirer; but is simply a demonstration of the continuity of spiritual gifts, especially the gift of knowledge, which has been lost, little by little, by the laxity of the church, since the second century, when abuses crept into its practice. Even the clergy are loth to acknowledge this gift which they possess, sometimes unknowingly.

For spirituality, combined with a humble attitude of mind, is the prime requisite for the attainment of such knowledge. Mr. Bond points to authorities in both the Old and New Testaments in support of his theory. King David, giving to his son exact instructions with regard to the building of the temple, says: "The Lord made me understand in writing by His hand upon me," and St. John, in his Gospel, also promises: "He shall give another Comforter, who will abide with you forever—the spirit of truth, whom the world knoweth not because it cannot see Him."

And again, St. John says: "But the Comforter is the Holy Ghost. Him the Father will send in my name, who shall teach you all things and bring many things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you."

The first message inscribed by the hand of John Alleyne was "All knowledge is eternal and is available to mental sympathy," and the attunement of the mind of the individual to such messages, with their consequent strange results in this case, is a proof, according to Mr. Bond, of convincing evidence of the immortality of mind, memory and personality.

Mr. Bond, who came to this continent under the auspices of the Psychical Research Society, has given lectures on this subject in New York, in Boston and in Minneapolis, giving eleven addreses in the last-named city, is returning to Boston after his Canadian visit, and to his home in England in the Spring.

Daughter Of Car Victims Killed By Automobile

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Nov. 20 (United Press). — Ten-year-old Beatrice Demers, whose father lost his life in an automobile accident before she was born, was killed by an automobile here last night.

TROUBLE ABOUT NICARAGUA ENDS

Break Between United States and Mexico Believed Averted.

(By A. W. Folger—United Press Staff Correspondent).

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—There was belief here to-day among most observers that a rupture of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico as a result of the Nicaraguan situation had been averted.

The opinion was based on the absence of any official Mexican declaration on the Nicaraguan episode coupled with the apparent easing of the situation in Nicaragua.

Unless the United States Government makes direct charges, which is considered unlikely, the incident appears to be closed.

The majority of Americans here are most hopeful that there will be no break in relations, and expect that steps will be taken toward the settlement of pending issues as soon as Ambassador Sheffield, who has been on leave, returns to Mexico City.

The press has been consistently supporting the Government and has been printing the traditional charges of the United States "dollar diplomacy" and "Imperialism."

The Kona coffee crop, grown on the southwestern side of the island of Hawaii, is expected to reach 50,000 bags this year, a record.

Death Of Wife Results In Arrest Of Wanted Man

TAUNTON, Mass., Nov. 20 (United Press).—Grief brought George St. Germain, 25, to the grave of his dead wife and incidentally into the arms of the law. After hiding three months to avoid arrest for alleged violation of the Volstead Act, he returned to this city to attend the funeral services for his wife, Nellie, who had died suddenly. As he stepped from the side of the grave into which the body of Mrs. St. Germain had been lowered, he was arrested on the three months old charge.

Why Not Discuss the Real Issue?

The Peterborough Prohibition Union and speakers on its behalf are filling the air with cries that Government Control has failed in Manitoba, in British Columbia, in Quebec, etc.

The majority of people in the five provinces under some system or other of Government Control don't agree with these statements.

But why don't the Prohibitionists stick to the issue?

THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO ARE NOT BEING ASKED TO ADOPT GOVERNMENT CONTROL AS THEY HAVE IT IN THE OTHER PROVINCES.

There is as much difference between the Ferguson policy and the system in force in Manitoba, British Columbia and Quebec as their is between the Ontario Temperance Act and total prohibition.

UNDER THE FERGUSON POLICY of Government Control there will be no taverns. No sale by the glass is permitted in Quebec.

Enemies of the Government don't tell you that.

UNDER THE FERGUSON POLICY of Government Control there will be no delivery of beer direct from the brewery to the consumer as is allowed in Manitoba.

Enemies of the Government don't tell you that.

UNDER THE FERGUSON POLICY of Government Control there will be no beer parlours, no club where liquor can be obtained as are authorized in British Columbia.

Enemies of the Government don't tell you that.

The truth of the matter is that the Ontario Government in seeking to provide a method of handling the liquor problem that would eliminate the evils that have developed under the O.T.A., HAS BEEN GUIDED BY THE EXPERIENCES OF OTHER PROVINCES, has seen the weak spots of other systems and has eliminated them, WIPING OUT SALE BY THE GLASS, BEER PARLOURS, DIRECT DELIVERY FROM THE BREWERY TO THE CONSUMER AND OTHER FEATURES THAT HAVE PROVED DETRIMENTAL to the satisfactory working out of a proper control system.

Ontario is thus offered a method of handling the liquor problem that combines all the good points and none of the weaknesses of the government control systems of the other provinces.

Why don't the Prohibition Union discuss the issue from that angle instead of trying to delude the voters into thinking they are being asked to support quite a different policy than the one actually before them?

Voters, get this fact straight in your minds.

The Ontario policy provides only one legal avenue for the purchase of liquor and malt beverages.

The sale is to be handled directly by the government under a permit system, with no sale by the glass and no beer parlours.

WHEREIN THEN LIES THE LOGIC OF ATTEMPTING TO BECLOUD THE REAL ISSUE STRESSING WEAKNESSES IN OTHER PROVINCIAL CONTROL ACTS THAT ARE ENTIRELY MISSING FROM THAT UPON WHICH THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO WILL VOTE ON DECEMBER 1ST?

The Ferguson policy is the most advanced and most reasonable method of dealing with the liquor situation that has ever been offered the people of this or any other part of Canada.

THOUSANDS OF PROMINENT CITIZENS IN ALL SECTIONS OF ONTARIO REALIZE THAT FACT, AND WILL HELP TO PUT THE POLICY INTO EFFECT BY VOTING FOR GOVERNMENT CANDIDATES.

In Peterborough City the Government candidate is

If We Really Meant What We Said

Let the Clerk read cot tae us what is between the lines." The worthy upholder of independence of course, meant what he said, but during all the remaining years of his life, he wished, that on this occasion at least, he had not said what he meant.

Probably in Ireland, more than any other country in the world, some exceedingly grotesque results would ensue, if those who gave utterance to some of the most delightful Irish colloquialisms really meant what they said.

The propensity of the Irish people to make "bulls" is undoubtedly a deep-rooted national characteristic and it will probably be one of their mental attributes to the end of time. This gift—for it is really something worth having, is not, as is commonly supposed outside the Emerald Isle, confined to the less educated sections of the populace. It is certainly more widespread among the humbler classes; but very often, amusing examples of it come tripping from the hasty tongues, and even from the leisurely pens of the educated. In the report of a benevolent society with headquarters in Dublin, the following sentence occurs, "Notwithstanding the large amount paid by the society for medical attendance and medicine, very few deaths occurred during the year." A Cork newspaper, published a report of an open-air political meeting in which this paragraph appeared: "Mr. A. A. Brennan next spoke at great length in his usual happy style, but from the distance, we were wholly unable to catch the purport of his remarks." In a Parliamentary Blue Book, containing one of the Reports of the pre-war Commissioners of Irish education, and signed by these august personages, the following titbit may be read: "The female teachers were instructed in plain cooking. They had, in fact, to go through the process of cooking themselves in turn."

But it is among the peasantry that the making of "bulls" prevails most widely. A country woman walking through the streets of Limerick caught sight of a small coffin displayed as a trade sign in the window of a funeral undertaker's premises. "Oh, glory be," she exclaimed, "can that coffin be intinded for any livin' crature?" The owner of a very valuable horse was indignant with his stable-boy for having allowed the animal when he had it out for a morning gallop to take head. "Not a bit of me could stop him, sir, for I had no spurs," was the boy's strange excuse. A doctor in the south of Ireland was awakened during the night by a rapping at the front door of his residence, and going to the window saw a laboring man. "'Tis me ould mother that's tuck bad, docther," said the man. "Have you been waiting long here?" asked the doctor. "I have, your honor," answered Pat. "And why on earth did you not ring the night bell?" "Sure, I was afraid I'd disthrub yer honor," was the man's perfectly sincere reply.

Failure to grasp exactly the meaning of words or phrases is often the primary cause of the "richest bulls." At an inquest held in a rural community in County Galway, concerning the death of a child under rather suspicious circumstances, a quack doctor, who had attended the child stated in the course of his evidence, that he had given ipecacuanha to his little patient. "You might as well have given him the Aurora Borealis," testily commented the coroner. Quack doctors are always slow to acknowledge ignorance, so the prompt reply was, "And sure, that was the very thing I was goin' to give him next, if he had 'nt thin just died." Most people have seen or heard of Charles Keane's picture of the stevedore at the hatchway of a steamer shouting down to the men in the hold, "Now, then, how many of ye is down there?" "Five of us." "Then, half of ye come up directly," bawls the stevedore.

"Is it a son or a daughter your sister, Mrs. Healy, has got?" asked a landlord of one of his tenants whom he met on the road. "The curse of the crows on me, but I don't know whether I'm an uncle or an aunt," came the immediate reply. At a review of a militia regiment in the south of Ireland, the sergeant-major approached the colonel and reported that all the ammunition was exhausted. "Then sound 'Cease Fire'," roared the commanding officer.

The boatmen on the Lakes of Killarney have long been responsible for the maintenance of the supply of "wise-cracks." A number of them were quarrelling about the division of tips and indulged at the top of their voices, in a great deal of profane language, all of which was repeated verbatim by the marvellous echo of the valley. "Arrah, look at that now, for a scandal," remarked one of the disputants; "teachin' the poor, harmless echo to curse and sware." In a Munster cemetery the inscription on one of the tombstones reads:

"Here lies the body of Jonathan Mound,
Lost at sea and never found."

Not infrequently, bad breaks and distorted sentences with obviously ludicrous significance are made during the course of social conversation, especially when the members of the company are imperfectly acquainted with each other, and there is a disposition on the part of some to stimulate the flagging interchange of ideas. It is a notorious fact that subjects for small talk are extraordinarily elusive just when we feel we need them most. Few of us have either the industry or ambition of the friend whom Lord Ribblesdale records in his memoirs, as "cramming" for a social gathering, much the same way as an undergraduate studies for examination. This man rarely attended a party without first fortifying himself with the study if all the latest reviews and current political and social history, with the result that he was never at a loss for something to talk about. Needless to say, he was something of a prig and a pedant, and was thoroughly unpopular with the male guests at least—and probably also with the other sex, for a woman would, at any time, talk gossip or dress, or of pleasure in preference to discussin the theory of relativity, or the possibility of life on Mars.

As a result of this general unpreparedness, it is not unusual to find a hostess, and, at times, though not so frequently, the host, busying themselves with attempts to agree with all that is said, with the idea that they are thereby doing homage to the tenets of etiquette, when in reality, nothing becomes more quickly tiring than incessant affirmatives no matter how pleasantly they be modulated. Nor can one of two conclusions be avoided when everything uttered receives such negligible acquiescence: either the speaker is confining himself entirely to uncontradictable platitudes, or the listener has no mind of his or her own, and in either case silence were golden. Not even the lover can fail to be bored at last by the constant lassitude of assent expressing itself in twin sentiments to his own. "Coquetting with an echo" is Carlyle's description of this ready and often insincere agreement.

Renan's favorite expression, in a conversation which did not interest him greatly was, "You are a thousand times right," but this endorsement did not prevent him from frequently, out of impatience or caprice, expressing himself, finally in sentiments diametrically opposed to those views to which he had previously given such hearty assent.

Judging from the nods and expressions of approval which we so often see in company conversation, the old saying that there are only two or three geniuses born in a generation is all wrong. There are scores of them—at every party.

Then there is always the retailer of all kinds of yarns, funny and otherwise, who, if he accepts the encomiums showered upon him by the seemingly extremely interested circle around him, comes to believe he has Stephen Leacock beaten to a frazzle, and Mark Twain completely obliterated.

With the anecdotalist, one tale leads to another; and ere long, no allusion, no plain statement of fact, no distressing private affliction, no public calamity, but what goes into this amateur social prestidigitator's hat to come out again with the introduction, "Oh, that reminds me," followed by an anecdote. The group of otherwise worthy citizens, shrinking from being cruel to be kind, without batting an eyelid, assure him that they never heard it before and, after a few more stories they wish that they could pay a little something and go home.

But just think what a topsy-turvy world we would have, if everybody meant just what they said, and if every cynical thought found its way to the outside world.

Some Good To Say

(By Douglas Malloch.)

If one can only say a word to make the face of sadness smile,
If someone else has only heard our singing for a little while,
We need not say when day is done that all the day was lived in vain,
Although no honors we have won, although no wealth we seem to gain.

I think the day that paid me best was not the day I made the most,
Though those were days I thought were blest and those the things I like to boast.
And yet the dollar that I made another morning I shall spend—
I know that I was better paid some quiet day I made a friend.

We cannot always win the race, we cannot always fortune find,
But I have never seen a place that had no chances to be kind
Whatever shadows may have crossed my path along life's troubled way,
I shall not hink the day is lost if I have found some good to say.

GOSSIP AND TALK !?!

Do Men Gossip?!! By Wilson Craw

That which A. G. Gardiner said about Lord Kitchener can truly be said about the great majority of the men of today. They live in deed not words. "No one in Kitchener's time has at once said so little and done so much nor did anyone of his time go farther with more entire reliance on his own merits and more complete scorn of the arts of advertising."

There were giants in those days but there are giants now also. The man of today is a firm believer in keeping still and the majority of them rival that reputation which General Grant enjoyed, of whom it was said, "That he could keep still in seven languages."

Conversation is an art for it takes training and experience as well as natural gifts to be a good talker. But we forget that silence is also an art for it takes training, experience and natural talent to say nothing. Silence is recommended by many as the best of all weapons. You can hurt a man more by just keeping still and saying nothing at times than you can by any roar or bellow or heated condemnation of his manner or views towards the subject being discussed. The idea is that when you say or do anything at all, it can be answered, but when you say and do nothing there is no way to answer.

There are monasteries in Italy inhabited by a kind of monks who never speak. All day and night they go about their rituals and never utter a word. This kind of performance always seems to be more acceptable in the sight of the Lord than long prayers and much outcrying.

Most good work is conceived in silence. Great scientists have been known to shut themselves up in their laboratories and work for weeks at a time on some great experiment without saying anything to anybody; for silence has proven itself to be the mother of ideas. Dexterity and quickness may be gotten when you do and say things and whn you meet people but you depth of thought which stimulates great actions, from being alone and saying and doing nothing.

Death is the greatest crisis in a man's life and that is something which he must face alone and there is no better plan for a person so as they may be able to put themselves in preparation for whatever fate has in store for them in this world; than to get used to solitude and to find entertainment within themselves.

Today here are two great passions within men, that of a passion for intellectual conquest and a passion for human liberty. That passion for talking and for good behaviour were left behind by men long ago. Men cannot be weighed in the same rigid scale as that which was used for their forefathers for progress has been made in all lines of life. The modern man of today in one case is like his forefather but to a much greater extent they live in deeds not words, their work is their own business and not their neighbors, so they only desire to be left alone to work out their own problems and their salvation. Other men today do not bother about their brothers' worries for they do not know what they are or anything about them. If a man is in financial trouble their closest friends very seldom know of it and they are sometimes tempted to rebuke their contemporaries by the hoarse, concerted and vigorous demand that they mind their own business.

But this does not answer the question "Do Men Gossip?" Webster says that a gossiper is one who runs from house to house or goes about tattling or telling news, and gossip, is idle personal talk. From the standpoint of men carrying on idle personal talk there are very few of them who do it and those that do are the ones who loaf about the streets and have nothing to do. The average man is more interested in his work, or his business and his family. When he talks with other men he likes to talk about the topics of the day and lately in this province he could have a good political argument anytime. In his spare moments he loves an argument and no matter what he believes he will take the other side so as he will be more fully equipped to uphold his own views when the times comes.

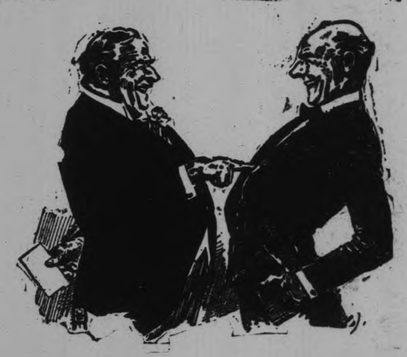
The average man knows nothing about the idle gossip that is going around and nobody knows it better than the newspaper reporter. He can not get them to talk they will drink in quietly all he has to tell them but when their turn comesmum is the word they go by and the ting they carry out in daily life.

The intelligent citizen wants to have nothing to do with such idle pratting and talk and they like to live as Tennyson did when the ordinary tattle of the town arrives not until it is stale. They do not believe the ordinary prattle and talk that is heard on the street corner and would much rather not hear it. They like to hear of inventions new works and things that are upbuilding to both community and citizens in general where they live. At nights they want to read their newspapers rather than crowd together in some little shop where the gossip of the street is discussed.

But there is a type amongst men who enjoy a gossip and mere street talk but they are far in the minority. They gather in the tailor shops and blacksmith shops in the small villages in the evenings and there men's characters are abused, idle stories are started, tales are told and the whole atmosphere of the place is not very uplifting or educating. On the street corners and market places in most cities and towns the same thing is discussed but this kind of man is missed by his absence when real men get together and talk.

There is also a third class of men, those who you can work with all day long and they will say nothing; what they know they keep to themselves, they will not argue, if they are well read you do not know it and they remind you of the story that is told of the three Canadian trappers. One morning at breakfast in camp one of the trappers asked, "Did you hear that dog?" Nothing was said but the next day at breakfast another man replied, "What dog?" The next day the third man was observed to be packing his things, making ready to leave. On being asked where he was going he said, "I am going away. There is to much rag chewin' around here for me."

Some men may gossip but the great majority of them live in deeds not words.



TELL ME WITH YOUR EYES - - - - - - By Eleanor Hope

CONCLUSIONS - - By JEANETTE

Mr. Isaac Greenhouse poked his nose cautiously outdoors. A little later, for it was a long nose, the rest of his countenance followed. He surveyed the morning with an air of contentment, and, abstracting a long foot from the cellar window, made his way noiselessly around the side of the house and lifted the window of the dining-room, just a short distance from the ground. His foot struck a flower-pot, tilted haphazardly on the sill, and it crashed to the ground. The family cat, browsing in the geraniums below after an unwary early rising bird, meowed suddenly and skittered around the corner of the house.

Mrs. Emanuel Jenks, Mr. Greenhouse's neighbor, looked out of her kitchen window in time to see the rear portion of that gentleman's anatomy disappearing through the dining-room window. She glanced at the clock, which registered exactly half past five (Mrs. Jenks rose early, for she was a virtuous woman, and believed that a part of the marriage contract that should be rigidly observed at all times was the partaking of one's meals in company with one's spouse) and then she scratched her nose with the hand that held the spoon which was engaged in stirring up the pancake batter. A large dab of batter fell on the floor, but she didn't mind. She nodded her head in a satisfied manner as she turned from the window.

Mrs. Lemuel Perkins was using her telephone. It was a party line and the lady who paid the other half of the monthly tolls jiggled her receiver up and down on the hook, in token of displeasure at Mrs. Perkins' long use of the instrument. Mrs. Perkins pursued her calm way, unheeding. She was calling up the ladies who belonged to the Weekly Bridge Club of Evansville, and nothing could stop her now but a steam-roller or a cyclone. She had reached the tenth lady and only five more remained. Evansville citizens believed in the hostess of a card party taking a hand in the game, and having the refreshments all ready for a sudden service toward the end of the session.

The lady on the party line, none other than Mrs. Emanuel Jenks herself, lifted her receiver and put it to her ear. If she were to be deprived of the use of the instrument, she might as well listen to the conversation. Mrs. Perkins was calling Mrs. Isaac Greenhouse, and Mrs. G., so the listener inferred, couldn't come to the party. She had a very sore eye and asked to be excused. Mrs. Jenks had the pleased look of the cat that has located the chicken bones on the pantry shelf, as she replaced the receiver. She went out on the porch with her tatting.

The returning guests from the bridge party filtered past Mrs. Jenks' porch and several of the ladies paused to retail their card adventures of the afternoon. Their hostess, who did not play cards, because she considered them immoral, waited for her own particular crony, Eppie Anderson, before she unfolded the story of the morning and the tale of the early rising adventures of Mr. Greenhouse. Eppie also had gleaned from the bridge party a few scraps of information. Mr. Greenhouse, it appeared, had been acting strangely of late. He had been seen on several occasions leaving his post at the saw mill at an untimely hour and hurrying home to disappear within the house, where he remained for long intervals. He had just the day before received a large and mysterious parcel at the express office and had manifested much concern over its safe delivery at the house.

And then there was the matter of Mrs. Greenhouse's eye. The two ladies nodded to each other as they discussed this. It was well known that Mrs. G. was an inveterate and skilled bridge player. It would take something in the nature of a catastrophe to keep her at home from one of the Weekly Bridge Club's meetings.

Did Mrs. Jenks think, enquired Miss Anderson, that Mr. Greenhouse might have quarrelled with his wife and given her a black eye? He had been making mysterious visits to Plainville, twenty miles away, lately. He might have cultivated another affinity there and be making preparations to leave the family roof? Mrs. Jenks said nothing, but her silence was almost affirmative. She was a Scriptural reader at all times, and she did not believe in actively spreading gossip. If Eppie Anderson wished to think things, and came to her for what little news she might have on hand, that was none of her business. She set her lips firmly, but opened them presently to recount once more the strange circumstances of Mr. Greenhouse's early morning appearance.

Presently her visitor departed. Mrs. Jenks retired within doors to prepare the evening meal. She carried in the dishes through the swinging door, pausing occasionally to look reflectively toward the Greenhouse residence. She had in mind the possibilities of an elopement by Mr. G. and the consequent sorrow and anguish of his wife. She decided to postpone a visit to her cousin, four miles out in the country, scheduled for the morrow, until another time. Events were approaching rapidly, she felt within her, and it wouldn't do to be absent from the scene at an important moment.

Mr. Jenks dried his hands on the kitchen towel. He was a careful small man of precise habits and speech, and she suffered from "nerves" to a certain extent. Sudden noises embarassed him terribly. He spent his life in avoiding, if possible, all manner of conflict, both physical and mental, so it was a particularly high jump that signified his instant reaction to a piercing detonation, followed by a high shriek, that came from the Greenhouse residence. Mr. Jenks rushed into the dining room and confronted his staring wife.

"He has shot her. That was what was in the parcel," said his spouse, sinking into a handy chair.

"Who's shot? What are you talking about," said Mr. Jenks, irritably, holding his hand somewhere in the region of his stomach, under the mistaken conviction that it was his heart.

"Isaac Greenhouse has been going on terribly lately," answered Mrs. Jenks. "I saw him this morning, climbing into the dining room window at half past five o'clock. Eppie Anderson says he has a girl over in Plainville, and he got a funny-looking parcel out of the express office yesterday. They said it was awful heavy, and he took particular care of it. I'll bet it was a gun and he's shot her. She had a black eye that he gave her today, too, and she couldn't go to the bridge meeting.'

Mr. Jenks, overcome with nervous tension and the shock of such unsuspected villainy on the part of a neighbor, was speechless. He said nothing as his wife proceeded to the telephone and informed Miss Eppie Anderson of the latest occurrence, but he volunteered the opinion that "now it will be all over the village in half an hour," as she hung up the receiver. The two gazed anxiously out of the window. There were no further signs of disturbance about the Greenhouse home. The family wash hung idly on the line and the family hens, undisturbed by the tragedy within doors, pecked at scraps in the family back yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenks speculated on the advisability of approaching the Greenhouse domicile, but they were of the opinion that it might be better to await developments. There should be a survivor somewhere. There had been only one shot and therefore either of the Greenhouses must remain intact within the house. They were unprepared, however, for the spectacle of the excited Mrs. G. who presently emerged from the kitchen door and made her way across the yard.

"She killed him. But she hasn't any blood on her hands," whispered Mrs. Jenks excitedly, her usual phlegmatic calm broken by the spectacle of a lady murderess advancing rapidly toward their peaceful home, with no prospect of anybody being able to stop her. "Perhaps she washed it off." She had a mental vision, somewhat envious in character, of the aplomb of a woman who had enough presence of mind to efface the stains of her evil deed before emerging into the open.

Mrs. Greenhouse burst into the Jenks' kitchen and sank onto a chair. Her two unwilling hosts stared at her in pale alarm. Her eye was black indeed. A pale purplish-green encircled it, and a bit of raw beefsteak, formerly enclosed in a linen bandage, had emerged from its wrapper, which had been shoved atop its late owner's head, and straggled in lurid fashion down her cheek. The effect of this straying bit of raw meat was terrible and bloodcurdling. Mrs. Jenks turned a pale lemon hue as she gazed at her neighbor, transformed in the space of a few minutes from a law-abiding woman of moral worth in the community "into a regular Lucretia Borgia" thought Mrs. Jenks, remembering the story of that historic lady and her victims.

Mrs. Greenhouse recovered her breath which had been coming in gasping sobs, and turned an enquiring eye on her neighbors.

"Didn't you hear that noise?" she demanded with some animosity. "I must say you don't take much interest in your neighbors."

Mr. and Mrs. Jenks eyed her in terrified reproach. This was almost enough. To have a woman kill her husband in cold blood and then emerge from the affray to taunt her neighbors with indifference, was going altogether too far. They nodded dumbly.

"Here's Isaac lying in the cellar, probably bleeding to death, and neither of you move a hand to help him," sobbed Mrs. Greenhouse, beginning to cry. She would be the sort of woman, reflected Mr. Jenks, who could do a thing like that and then weep over it. He eyed her in stony silence.

"My telephone is out of order, or the lines are busy, or something, so I came over to use yours, if you don't mind," said Mr. Greenhouse. "Isaac has been trying out a new beer-making machine lately. He saw an ad in the paper about it, and what success a lot of men had with the thing, and he went and bought one, over in Plainville. He got the electric motor yesterday by express and he stayed up nearly all night, rigging it up in the cellar. I was helping him this morning and the hammer slipped and gave me this terrible black eye, and then I was ashamed to go to the bridge meeting, on account of Mrs. Perkins being such a temperance crank and always calling beer one of the inventions of the devil. So I stayed at home and when Isaac got back from work, we turned on the motor and the contraption exploded. Isaac got a terrible cut on the side of his head and I can't stop the bleeding. If I could get hold of a doctor, it would be different—" She sobbed wildly into her handkerchief.

Mrs. Jenks rose slowly. She did not look at her husband. With an abstracted air, she went to the telephone and called the doctor.

Faults Are What Other Folk Have By C. J. Beauclerc

People talk about people. More than half the time when either men or women talk about anything it is about people. Even when they are discussing business or styles or housework the conversation seems to be on the human element.

Only when the subject of conversation is the speaker is the discourse entirely kind. It seems to be human nature to see the mote in one's neighbor's eye without noticing the beam in one's own. Witness the young mother: "I can't see why mothers can't see their children's fault." "Can you see the faults of your children?" is her friend's reply. "Why I would in a moment if the little darlings had any."

Let a woman have some fine clothes. Her friends will praise them to her face and may remark on them behind her back, but when she is gone the anvil chorus starts. One says she will drive her husband into debt; another avers that they are home made, and look it. No one speaks of the economies of the home or the extra work that provides the beautiful garments.

Again, let a man come to work driving a new car. His friends wil congratulate him, at the same time "panning" the particular make he favors. When he is out of hearing, envious tongues will comment on his luck or wonder where he borrowed the money or how he will keep up the payments.

A person is promoted in school or business, or elected to office in a lodge. "He copied," say fellow pupils. "He has a drag with the old man," say employees. "He tries to run everything," say lodge brethren. The studies of the pupil while others played ball, or the home efforts of the man while others were at the show, are not considered. The fact that the new lodge officer was always willing to visit the sick and was a regular attendant at meeting also goes by the board when members whose share in the lodge work is slight consider his success.

All good habits are misrepresented. The thrifty person is miserly, the studious person a bookworm, the careful housewife an old fuss.

The man who steps out occasionally is fast, if he seems free with his money he must be getting into debt or getting it by dishonest means. He who drives a careful bargain is a cheat, simply because he refuses to let anybody get away with anything.

So it goes. Whatever you do is wrong in some person's eyes. Those who don't like you will place a wrong construction on an ordinary happening. Those who disagree with the propriety of any habit or action, or are jealous because it is beyond them, will criticize. Those who have something good to say will keep quiet unless it is in their own interest to argue the matter.

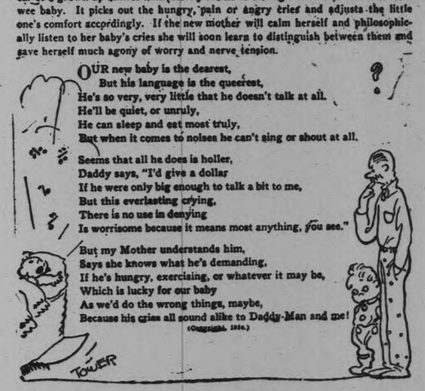
Baby Talk

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

FOR the first weeks of a baby's life his only mode of expression is crying. In the next stage he adds cooing, laughing and "aa-da" chatter. From thence he enters the stage of self expression by spoken words, but long before the child talks he makes himself plainly understood, sometimes vigorously so! The trained ear of a grown-up almost immediately learns to distinguish between the cries of a wee baby. It picks out the hungry, pain or angry cries and adjusts the little one's comfort accordingly. If the new mother will calm herself and philosophically listen to her baby's cries she will soon learn to distinguish between them and save herself much agony of worry and nerve tension.



OUR new baby is the dearest,
But his language is the queerest,
He's so very, very little that he doesn't talk at all.
He'll be quiet, or unruly,
He can sleep and eat most truly,
But when it comes to noises he can't sing or shout at all.

Seems that all he does is holler,
Daddy says, "I'd give a dollar
If he were only big enough to talk a bit to me,
But this everlasting crying,
There is no use in denying
Is worrisome because it means most anything, you see."

But my Mother understands him,
Says she knows what he's demanding,
If he's hungry, exercising, or whatever it may be,
Which is lucky for our baby
As we'd do the wrong things, maybe,
Because his cries all sound alike to Daddy-Man and me!

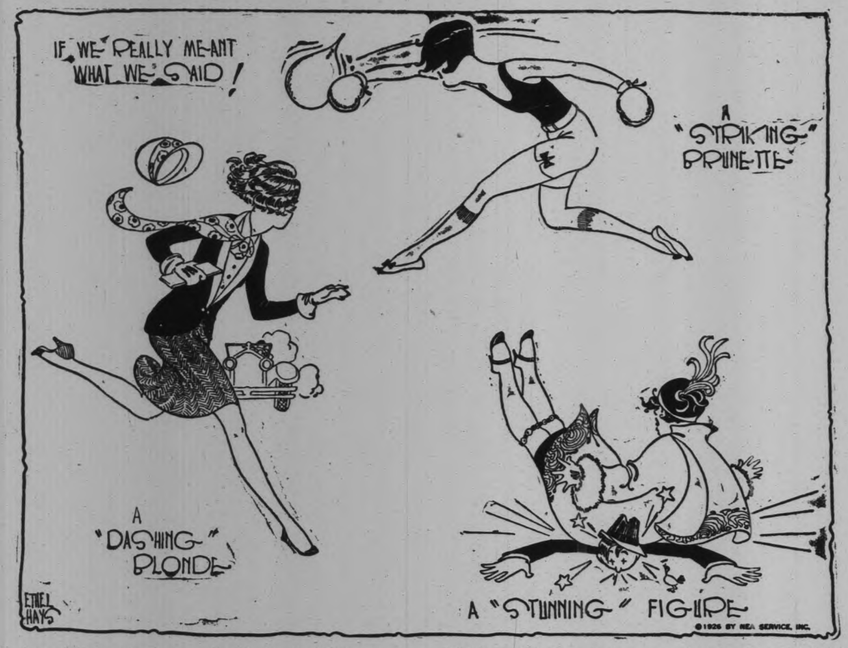
If We Really Meant What We Said

By Wm. Edgar



"Talking is one of the fine arts—the noblest, the most important, the most difficult, and its fluent harmonies may be spoiled by the intrusion of a single harsh note."

In these words Oliver Wendell Holmes in the Autocrat of the Breakfast-table voices his opinion of the chief diversion of the fairer and weaker sex.

Another American writer, Nathaniel Hawthorne, when acting as U.S. consul at Liverpool, probably conscious of his cultural "colonial" inferiority, thus expressed himself: "I wish I could know exactly what the English styl 'good conversation?' It is probably something like plum pudding—as heavy, but seldom as rich." Whether or not he succeeded in finding out the elusive secret is not recorded, nor are we enlightened as to the possibility of American conversation ever attaining to the high standard that seemed to prevail in the Old Land. But of this there is absolutely no doubt—that the Americans and possibly to a lesser degree the Canadians have injected into the English language a host of pithy and piquant expressions which, are often forceful and picturesque, if at times slangy and crude, and, in some rare cases, meaningless or even absurd.

In every generation there is always a greater or lesser proportion of extremely literally-minded individuals, who refuse to acknowledge the existence of imagery or symbolism in our language and who insist on interpreting every word, used in modern speech in its traditional meaning. A general relapse into this extreme literalism would have grotesque results, if applied to some of the choicest Americanisms and indeed to many favorite expressions long in use in all lands where English is the mother tongue.

Take for example, our crude but intensely descriptive colloquialism, "She fell for him," by which we mean to convey the inference that the lady in question, a spinster—at least we hope she is—has manifested an ardent amorous affection, reciprocated or otherwise, for an all-conquering male.

Pointed remarks get blunt answers.

For the benefit of future generations who may not fully appreciate our light, nervous style of phraseology, we feel constrained to leave on record some hints that may help future investigators to decipher the cryptic meaning of some of our everyday expressions. A hint from a contemporary may obviate misunderstanding as to the use of part of the equipment employed in one of our most popular pastimes. A tennis "racket" has nothing whatever to do with angry arguments or scraps, or anything so ungenteel as the use of the expression might indicate. In other words a tennis racket isn't a "racket," unless, indeed, it be used at one of the championship tournaments—Wimbledon, for example—and the excitable Suzanne, gives way to her temperament, they call it temper now that she has joined the ranks of the professionals, in which case there are tears and passion, angry words and uncourtly gestures, and the literalist has his innings. That other mystic pronouncement. "A date with a peach" has not, we understand, the slightest connection with fruit salads or vegetarianism; nor has "A date with a chicken" anything to do with the Poultry Show of the local Industrial Exhibition. The craze for dates has evidently extended to the Upper schools, for many are the laments from scholars in the Senior classes of the Collegiate, that numerous dates, unfortunately, do not necessarily ensure a pass in history.

When the future investigator reads of the action known as "Passing the buck," he will probably at first conjure up in his mind's eye a picture of a vigilant white cautiously passing the form of a painted and befeathered Indian brave; or by way of variety of the thought of an equally cautious hunter carefully picking his steps as he makes his way around the antlered monarch of the forest may present itself. The phrase ought really to convey one or other of the two suggested meanings—but it doesn't.

Then, think on the libel on fully one-half of the gentler sex that is suggested by the words: "A striking brunette." Brunettes don't strike—at least not when they are in good humor and when they get all their own way. "A dashing blonde." What do we mean by that? Surely the fair-haired, blue-eyed goddesses look ever so much better when in the attitude of repose. The "hurry-scurry" implication of the description leads to an erroneous conception. Equally mischievous for its inaccuracy, and undoubtedly calculated to bewilder our archeological friend of succeeding generations is that left-handed compliment which says the lady has "A stunning figure." Well may the inquiring mind ask—"Whom did she stun?"

Charles Lamb, in his own inimitable way, was wont, out of sheer boyish mischievousness to relapse into the ranks of the conversational literalists, just for the fun of the thing. During his many years of service in the India House, he made countless daily trips on the London omnibuses. Day after day, along with other overcrowded, perspiring passengers, Lamb looked and listened passively while the conductor glanced scowlingly and in vain, down the interior of the 'bus in search of vacant seats as he would shout out, "All full; all full." Obviously, the conductor was intimating to intending passengers that the 'bus was already crowded, but one day, Lamb, returning to the office after dinner, whimsically assuming the presence of a note of interrogation in the conductor's exclamation, responded blandly, "Well, I can't speak for the other passengers, but as for myself that last bit of pie filled me up all right."

Lamb's weakness of stuttering helped him on one occasion to say exactly what he meant and at the same time, deliver himself of a really good pun. Someone in his hearing was praising the Duke of Cumberland for his courage under fire on the battlefield. "No matter how perilous is his position," said the speaker, "the Duke is always remarkably cool." "Of course he is," retorted Lamb, "but then you s—s—see. h—h—he is the D—D—Duke of Cu—Cu—Cumberland."

This same affliction of stuttering at another time put Lamb in a rather awkward predicament. For the relief of some minor bodily complaint he was recommended by his physician to try the effects of sea-water. On a somewhat chilly morning, with the wind whipping the waves into fair-sized breakers, Lamb appeared among the bathers. His evident reluctance to take the plunge attracted the attention of two of his friends who were disporting themselves in the briny. Standing, shivering on the steps of the bathing box, Lamb explained the cause of his unexpected appearance on the water. "I—I—I am to b—b—be d—d—dipped," he announced. Swimmers are at all times ready to oblige anyone who wishes to be dipped and Lamb's friends, full of him with great good-will and plunged him under the icy waves. As his head appeared above the water, Lamb choked and spluttered and then gasped, I—I—I'm to b—b—be di—di—dipped." Again he was plunged under the water. When he recovered his breath he once more repeated, I—I—I'm to be d—d—dipped"—and the third immersion followed. As he rose for the third time he shrieked, "Only once!" He meant what he said, but he did not say it all quickly enough.

Many and varied are the mantraps into which public speakers fall during the excitement of a speech before a large audience. Still more dangerous are the pitfalls that beset the orator in the midst of a heated debate in the legislative chambers of the European or American nations. Woe betide the unfortunate who gets entangled in his own oratory to the extent of perpetrating a "bull." Innumbrable chroniclers are on hand, ready to preserve the "bon-mot" for posterity and the memory of "what he said" which is not necessarily synonymous with "what he meant" follows him wherever he goes. An excited patriot in the days when Gladstone presided over the Exchequer at Westminster and was introducing not a few innovations in the way of tax imposition, declared that the Chancellor of the Exchequer was one who, if he landed on an uninhabited desert island would not rest content until he had rifled the pockets of the naked savages who dwelt there. Sir Henry Lucy, in his "Lords and Commons," gives an instance of a rich "bull" taken from the address of a Rheinland mayor to the father of the ex-Kaiser, "No Austria, no Prussia, only one Germany. Such were the words the mouth of your Imperial Majesty has ever had in its eye." If this description was in any way accurate, His Imperial Majesty must have been well worth seeing. Two other similar mixtures of metaphors come from the Fatherland. A Prussian minister of Finance, von Scholz, by name delivered himself of the following: "This is the old vicious reasoning in a circle, that has long floated like an unlucky star over the Government's plan of reform, thrust forward like a folding screen, behind which men conceal themselves in order not to show their hands."

"The right honorable gentleman," said Bismarck on one occasion, "has, for the third time made an attack upon me, mounted upon that very ancient charger which dates from before the Middle Ages, and which he imbibed with his mother's milk."

About 20 years ago, when the city of Glasgow was attempting to extend its boundaries, a considerable volume of correspondence passed between the Glasgow Town Clerk and the Clerk of Rutherglen, a neighbouring burgh which has always successfully resisted the attempts made on its ancient independence by its gigantic neighbour. At a Council meeting of the smaller town, a letter was read from the Glasgow official upon which the local clerk commented that the importance of the letter lay not in what was actually said in the communication, but in what might be read between the lines. An impressive silence followed this pronouncement. Then one of the Rutherglen Bailies rose to a point of order: "Mr. Chairman," he said, "we'll hae no hole and corner work where the independence of the burgh is at stake.

MRS. GRUNDY, CENSOR - By Caeser

Censorship, practically a product of the Great War, has apparently come to stay. In those days it was the letters of the soldiers to their friends that bore the brunt of the burden; the people who were resident in Ireland probably being the next most unfortunate in that respect. Like the soldiers, every letter they wrote had to pass through the hands of some individual who had it within his power to destroy or delete perhaps the very essence of the missive.

Inconnection with soldiers' letters, one story was told with a certain amount of relish by an individual who had various reasons to abhor the censor. King George had just finished one of his visits to the front and had returned to England. About that time one tommy who apparently in his palmier days had had a passing acquaintance with the works of Kipling decided to write a letter.

At one stage of the letter, in a fit of eloquence he had made use of the quotation, "The Captains and the Kings depart."

You can readily imagine the feelings of the friend to whom the letter was addressed when he read the following—"The Captains depart." Some enthusiastic censor at the base, apparently fearing the original quotation might wreak havoc with his mother country if the news was to get out, had deleted "and the Kings."

The craze spread to bathing suits, pictures, books, in fact to practically every phase of the doings of the people who constitute the country.

In the United States, the most lawless country in the world, the art has attained a high state of proficiency; the morals of the people being guarded with a vigilance that would seem to ensure their being rendered proof against any chance evil that might beset their path.

Just what effect censorship has had on them might well be adjudged by picking up and reading any newspaper published in any of the various states of the Union.

Coming nearer home to our own Dominion we find that Censorship plays quite a part in the every-day doings of our people.

Within the past year several magazines have been banned rightly or wrongly; each banning having the effect of stirring up the "vox populi" column of the different newspapers to a violent protest against the actions of the Censors.

Most people however, are content to pursue the even tenor of their ways and go through life totally oblivious of the fact that their morals are being so carefully guarded.

In most communities however, there always seems to exist a group of embryo censors, probably better known as gossips or by the old fashioned name of Mrs. Grundy.

That they take their self-appointed tasks seriously there cannot be any doubt, and most people dub them as harmless until some day their vitrolic tongues get wagging in connection with themselves. That puts a different complexion on the matter.

Who has not heard the excited gasp of some shocked female of an older generation when she catches a glimpse of the 20th century girl as she steps down the street, garbed in the slim costume, that would have not even have passed for a bathing suit in mother's day. Another gasp when she gazes upon the powdered and painted face—and then the tongues begin to wag.

If it is not the dress they just as readily turn themselves to a discussion regarding the actions of some poor, unfortunate who may have come under their eagle eye.

It might be that John is attending lodge too often and leaving his young wife at home; or perhaps they have learned that he has started to take his lunch down-town—that connects him with a pretty stenographer right off the reel—but irrespective of what John does or thinks, their tongues have started to wag. You will find them at most pink teas and in the various organizations patronized by women. Chatting away as they drink their tea, the latest gossip and scandal is related with a care for detail that amazes the average man who is so familiar with their delinquincies. Little do they care that the unfortunate people whoqn they discuss have to live their lives as they do; that is the least of their worries as long as they get something to talk about.

Talking to a person who has lived in a small town or city and who has taken up residence in a large city a person can obtain a wealth of information regarding the activities of the modern Mrs. Crundy. Who has not heard a girl say: "One thing about this burg, you can do as you like; you can go out and every one in town does not know your business and where you were."

Nine out of ten city people will make this remark to you before you have been speaking to them as many minutes.

Peterborough, like every other city or town has more than its share of people whose chief aim in life seems to be the retailing of some rumour that; as it spreads from mouth to mouth; becomes considerably magnified until it reaches the ears of the organization or public authorities whom it concerns. Then the matter is taken up and disposed of by means of a statement through the press.

During the past year there have been notable examples in this regard. Not so long ago, talking to the man on the street, you would have learned that there was a small-pox epidemic in the city and in some cases the purveyor of the rumour placed his figures at between five and six hundred cases. Due to the publicity given the statements of the Medical Officer of Health, this rumour was effectually disposed of.

The last few years, however, has seen a decline in the personnel of the Mrs. Grundy club. This is possibly due to the ever increasing freedom of young people, and in no small measure to the press.

The newspaper, at the service of the community, is also at the service of the people, and as a result the wild rumours that used to be believed by the credulous public, are stifled in their infancy.

Where once Mrs. Grundy by reason of her nose for gossip was a figurehead in most activities, today she is losing ground due to the public being able to secure their knowledge of happenings by a more authentic method.

The Neighbors Talked If You Left Your Hat Off

By TOM SIMS

Reading from left to right we have: a daughter, her grandmother, a daughter and her mother.

But that isn't all, not exactly. The two daughters are dressed according to present-day fashions. The grandmother and mother are wearing the styles of "Once upon a time."

The girls have no hats. Mother and grandmother, however, would never have thought of going out on the street without their hats. Why, even when the fire wagon passed they always ran in to get their hats before following to see whose barn was burning.

If mother and grandmother had gone without their hats the neighbors would have talked. But now nothing is said if daughter is seen downtown on a shopping expedition—hatless and with about five ounces of clothes.

Of course the older women's dresses sweep the floor. There is a saying: "A new broom sweeps clean." The old dresses did, also.

And mother is wearing her shawl. It was a gorgeous affair, knitted by grandmother. The frills and tassels on it are almost as long as the numerous tucks in the bottom of her dress.

These styles, you must remember; were worn "once upon a time." Mother and grandmother dress differently now. You can hardly tell many of them from their daughters. As a Broadway comedian said, "I saw the famous Blank triplets down town today—mother and two daughters."

GOOD FOR NOTHING

There was a little girl and she had a little curl,
Right down the middle of her forehead—
When she was good, she didn't have much fun,
But when she was bad—
She danced at The Rits
With Larry or Frits;
Or went to the show
With Robert or Joe.
At restaurants she ate
Till the hour grew late;
Or rode out with Dan
In his nifty sedan—
All pleasures she would
Have missed if too good!

Baker's Breakfast Cocoa is Not an Accident

It is the result of a judicious selection and blending of cocoa beans, of which there are more than thirty grades; of most careful roasting, a very delicate operation; and its further preparation by the best mechanical processes (no chemicals) which preserve the delicious natural flavor and aroma and attractive color of the beans.

ETHEL - - - - - - - - - - - - - - GOAT GETTERS

NUMBER PLEASE - - - By C. M. C.

The fire crackled and glowed in the big, old heater. It cast a rosy glow over the old silver tea-pot on the sideboard and threw dancing reflections in the wide mirror. Mary Anne Saunders rocked comfortably in the big old chair and looked over her glasses at her neighbour, Sairy Barnum.

"There ain't nothing more cheering than a cup o' green tea, piping hot, on a cold November day," she observed as she sipped appreciatively. Sairy nodded. "Especially," said she, "when there's lemon cakes to go with it. I don't mind if I do try another. They're right good. Where'd you git the recipe, Mary Anne?"

Mary Anne hesitated. "From Marthy Black," she said at last, and added quickly, "did you hear Sandy McPherson was home?"

"Marthy Black!" exclaimed Sairy, ignoring the last question. "Marthy Black? Why, I didn't know as you and Marthy was good friends again, or maybe," she added tactfully, "it was some little time ago you got it, though I don't remember ever tastin' any here before, Mary Anne."

"No, it wasn't some time ago," said Mary Anne rather snappishly. "It was two weeks come Tuesday. I s'pose I may as well tell ye, I went to call up Mirandy Howe to ask her if Nancy Smith was still there. I want her to come over here and make me up that blue silk I bought in Peterboro' last week, and when I took down the receiver I heard Jinnie Jones sayin': 'Oh Mis' Black, them lemon cakes o' yours would fair melt in a body's mouth. I says to John, says I, there ain't no one on earth kin make cakes with Mis' Black. I'm a goin' to ask her kin I have her recipe. Not that I ever hope to make lemon cakes with you, Mis' Black. I know that wouldn't be humanly possible, but John, he's that crazy about lemon cakes, and I'd be so obliged if you'd give me the recipe.' You know that 'butter wouldn't melt in her mouth' tone Jennie kin put on," said Mary Anne, after mimicking Jinnie Jones in her cake—begging speech, while Sairy laughed silently and choked on a swallow of hot green tea.

"I ain't no hand fer listenin' in, Sairy Barnum," protested Mary Anne, "but the thought o' gittin' somethin' on Marthy Black was more'n I could resist. Besides, I'd always hankered after that lemon cake recipe, ever since I tasted them over to the Ladies' Aid meetin' at the church last May. Marthy was so set up over them cakes, a-bringin' the receipt back from Boston and seeh a fuss as everybody was a-makin' over them. I didn't make no fuss, I kin tell you. But anyhow, when I heard Jinnie Jones a-makin' such a palaver over the 'phone, trvin' to worm the receipt out o' Marthy, I thinks to myself, I'll just wait a minute and hear if Marthy's sich a fool as to fall for that flatterin' tongue. I ain't no believer in this listenin' to other folks' conversation; not, that I think there's any harm in it, Sairy. If I was a lone woman like you, I'd be tempted to listen. It must be awful lonesome for you, sometimes."

"No, no, 'course I ain't sayin' you do, Sairy," as the little woman indignantly repudiated the insinuation. "I ain't sayin' you do. I was only sayin' I'd be tempted to if I was you; but, o' course you can't when you ain't got 'no 'phone, though you are over to your sister's quite a bit."

"You're gittin' away from your story, Mary Anne," said Sairy mildly. "And I'm awful interested. Did you git the receipt?"

"Course I did," said Mary Anne proudly, "ain't you eatin' some o' the cakes now? Are they as good as Marthy's, Sairy?" she asked anxiously.

"M-m," said Sairy, and reaching out her hand, helped herself to a fourth biscuit. She tasted it critically, "M-m, they're pretty good, Mary Anne, a wee mite too much sody, maybe, but," she added hastily as a look of displeasure came over Mary Anne's face, "they're awful nice."

"You seem to be enjoying them," said Mary Anne tartly.

Miss Barnum laid down her half-eaten biscuit. A dull flush came into her face. "I ain't never begrudged you any o' my hermits, Mrs. Saunders, and I've seen you set and eat twelve at a stretch," said she in an injured tone of voice and half rose to her feet.

"There, there, Sairy, set down. I wasn't meanin' it, though I must say I think you're exaggeratin' somethin' turrible. I never eat twelve hermits at a stretch in my life, but there, it's all right. Maybe I was a bit hasty, but I was just a-thinkin o' what that cat, Jinnie Jones ses, after she got the recipe. I wasn't ever goin' to mention it, but I'll tell you, Sairy. I had just got the last teaspoon o' bakin' soda writ down, when I heard Jinnie say: "Oh, Mis' Black I do believe there's some one listenin' in. "I can hear a sound like a pencil scratchin' on a bit o' paper, and I hear that loud ticking' clock that everybody knows on this line. You know whose clock 'tis, don't you, Mis' Black, and I'm sure you wouldn't want her to have your recipe, would you?" mimicked Mary Anne, "and I was that mad, Sairy, at her darin' to insinuate that I was listenin' in that I just put up the receiver, and maybe, I didn't get that amount o' sody quite right. Do you really think, it's got too much in, Sairy?"

"Well, I dunno' as it has, Mary Anne" said Miss Barnum, soothingly, "but 'pears to me maybe a wee mite less and a pinch o' salt would be an improvement."

"Well, maybe you're right," said Mrs. Saunders agreeably. "I'll try that the next time."

Silence reigned for a few minutes, save for the singing of the kettle and the purring of the old black cat lying at her mistress's feet. Then little Miss Barnum ventured timidly:

"That was an awful story them Parker and Townsend boys told about the wreck, wasn't it?"

Mary Anne's eyes flashed.

"The idea!" said she, "and then to lay the blame on me. Me, what was as innocent as a lamb. I heard Doc Townsend's call and I thought, now, maybe that's Sam Nickle's little Judith that is worse, and if 'tis, why I ought to go over and help. So, I just took down the receiver long enough to hear if it was Sam, when I heard that Parker boy say: 'Oh, say Tom, did you hear about the awful wreck on the C.N.R.?' I could hardly keep myself from sayin', 'Where?'—I was that excited. But I hung on and waited, and then he says: 'Down there in the cut, this side o' Tomkins. They say there's three boxcars turned over, with twenty hogs in each one. Let's go down.' So as soon as soon as the line was clear, I called up Mis' Walker and told her, but she couldn't go down to the cut with me on account o' her washin'. She never will leave a thing she's doin', no matter how important another matter is. So I called Mirandy Howe, but she had visitors, and Mis' Thompson was doin' up fruit, so I had to call Jinnie Jones, and she was just as willin' to go as I was. So we walked down to the cut, and it took us half an hour, and when we got there, there wasn't a soul in sight, nor no train, nor box-car, nor wreck, nor nothin' else. I thought 'twas awful queer. It didn't seem they could 'a' got it all cleared up in that length of time, and Jinnie was real nasty 'bout it. She said that was what I got for listenin' in and she'd never pay no attention to nothin' I said agin. And I told her she hadn't no call to talk for she'd made a mistake herself and spread the report about Preacher Martin's house bein' a-fire when 'twas only Johnson's hen-house. I s'pose that's why she was so uppish about the lemon biscuits."

"I did hear," contributed Sairy, "as how Ned Parker and Tom Townsend was down there a-hidin' in the bush and laughin' fit to kill themselves."

"I'll get even with them some day," said Mary Anne, wrathfully. "You see if I don't. Whose ring is that, Sairy? Did you count?"

"Four and one, I thought," said Sairy.

"There 'tis again. No, it's six and one. That's Nick Armstrong's place. I wonder if they're gettin' word when Sally's comin' home. They're expectin' her any day. Mebbee she's home now and that's Jack Taylor callin' her up. Do you suppose he's goin' with yer yet?"

Mary Anne looked restlessly at the 'phone.

"Folks say she's got a beau in Toronto," said Sairy. "I'll best Jack'll be there just the same. I'd awful like to know if that's him callin' her."

"Would you, Sairy?" said Mrs. Saunders, brightening. "Well, it wouldn't do a mite o' harm for me just to listen long enough to find out if 'tis. I won't listen to nothin' they say."

She hastened over to the telephone, and took down the receiver. A look of perplexity crossed her face and then one of swift anger.

"I am not listenin'!" she shrieked in a shrill voice, and slammed up the receiver.

"What was it, Mary Anne?" gasped Sairy. "What's the matter?"

"Matter!" fumed Mrs. Saunders. "The idea! I never would 'a' believed it of Jack Taylor. I only meant to find out if Sally was home. You know I did, Sairy Barnum, and you urged me to it. I said I wouldn't listen to what they were say' and I wasn't goin' to neither, but I couldn't make out who he was talkin' to at first. And I hadn't hardly took the receiver down when Jack says: 'There's that darned Mrs. Saunders listenin' in again!' And I was that mad I never thought what I was sayin', and I ses: 'I am not listenin' in!' and then I hung up the receiver."

"Was it Sally he was talkin' to?" enquired Sairy.

"No, it wasn't. It was Dave Armstrong, but I did hear him say she'd be home to-night on the ten-thirty, and I'll bet Jack'll be at the station to meet her. Must you go, Sairy? Well, I'm awful glad you come over. Here, let me give you some lemon cakes. Come agin' whenever you can, Sairy. I wisht you had a 'phone in, but mebbe you'll be gettin' one some day!"

HARD-HEARTED MANEQUINS

No Charitable Motives Sway Models in Their Gold-Digging! Co-ee Supplements Their Education in the Clothing Houses

BY MARION HALE

The college girl with the knack of wearing clothes smartly floods the ranks of the professional fashion models

Yet she can never be mistaken for the girl who makes modeling her business. Her nails aren't as long, nor her skin as creamy.

We eight models were lolling around the dressing room of a wholesale house on West 37th street. Business was dull. The discussions ran from men, rouge, dresses and dates to "Where'd you come from."

"I've been modeling ever since I was 16," said a languid black-haired girl with white wax-like hands and artificial purple shadows on her eyelids.

Brains Don't Count.

Most of the girls were about 22 years old.

"Aw—I used to be a stenographer, but they don't pay for brains in this city. Give me a $45 a week salary and a job with tone."

This was the opinion of a pert girl with tiny freckles and bushy red hair. She wore the sport dresses.

Dolly, my blond friend, was one of a large group of chorus girls who model during an "off" season. Ruth had been a professional model but was now married and worked only a few weeks at a time to expand the household budget.

"I'm going to school but it doesn't do me any good," laughed a gypsy-like girl with sunburned shoulders, who boasted of having "made" every fraternity dance at Columbia University during the past year.

We all wore girdles, at the request of the manager. He said it made the dresses hang better. But the rest of our lingerie was meager enough, usually consisting of only a brassiere and step-ins.

No one rolled her hose. That was tacitly agreed to be "past time" and "off the line." Some wore no stockings at all, either for modeling or on the street, but covered their legs with a heavy bronze powder.

The New York fashion model can easily be picked out of a crowd on the street. She uses less make-up than the average shop girl and her clothes are usually a month ahead of the styles. A model who has been with a dress house for four weeks may buy any dress for three-fourths of the wholesale price, or at the end of the season have without cost several dresses which have been worn in the showroom and are in need of repairs.

None of the girls roll their hose, though some wear no hose at all.

The exercise which is necessary in putting on, showing and taking off several hundred dresses a day keeps a fashion model in excellent health. And if the girls go out on late parties two or three nights a week, they fall into bed early on the other nights.

For health means beauty, and beauty means their job.

The noon hour is their time for a bi-weekly manicure, a shampoo, a facial or a shingle.

They Eat and Run.

But sometimes the noon hour is put to other purposes—

"Listen, sweetheart," said an out-of-town buyer, who was going down in the same elevator with me at noon, "how about showing me a nice little restaurant for lunch, I don't know where to eat in this city, and I hate to eat alone."

Models aren't swayed by any charitable motives of brotherly love toward lonesome gentlemen. But many do take advantage of the opportunity to quench their appetites with full-sized, free lunch.

And when the poor out-of-town buyer thinks he has found a playmate, she thanks him for the lunch and disappears in the crowd, or else makes excuses of being heavily dated for the rest of the week.

THE TARDYS.

"He's always late."

"Yes, it's inherited. His father is spoken of as the late Mr. Brown."—Tit-Bits, London.

HEAVEN FORFEND!

"It's beginning to rain. You'd better stay for dinner."

"Oh, no, it's not raining hard enough for that."—Pele Mele, Paris.

The Beauty Spot - - - A Short Story

"The Beauty Spot" was the name under which Ethel Watson had decided to run the shop she was opening down in West Eleventh Street.

There was no doubt about its being a beauty spot from its golden yellow ceiling to its rich brown rugs. There were such glorious colors in batik work as to make one wonder if a human hand had painted them—cushions, lamp shades, kimonas, scarfs and in their midst sat Ethel, gazing upon her handiwork.

Then she looked into the mirror and shook her head.

"You'll never do in this shop, Ethel, Old Top—you queer the whole show. You're dowdy and insignificant and altogether a joke in this beauty shop." Her smile was cheerful. She didn't mind in the least being homely so long as her fingers and brain had the masterly touch that produced all the surrounding loveliness. "I certainly must have someone exceptionally good-looking in the shop and I think it had better be a man. I seem to get on better with men than women—in business."

And a few nights later at the Bachelors' Club there was a great roar going up and Don Watson was the goat. They had bet him a thousand dollars, pooled by ten of them, that he would not answer the advertisement one of them had discovered in the paper.

"Must be extraordinarily handsome, refined, genial. Abundance of brains not especially necessary," quoted Withers. "Don, old chap, you're the man—the right man in the right 'Spot' as it were."

"Old things," laughed Don, "you're on. But if I interview the owner of the Beauty Spot and take on the job you'll all have to swear never to squeal that it's been done in a joke."

"All round."

And because he was a first-class sport Don took on the bet and the evening saw him approaching Eleventh Street with determined but gradually slowing footsteps. The situation amused him and sent a curious little twist to his lips that still lay there when he met Ethel Watson in the Beauty Spot.

"There's no doubt about your good looks," frankly laughed Ethel, "you almost took my breath away."

Ethel was a person who either liked or disliked at once. She liked Don. "I hope," she said, "you will accept the work since you fit into these surroundings and would draw no end of the feminine contingent in to purchase my wares."

"I see—you want me for a sort of masculine vamp who can make people spend their money."

Ethel grinned. "That's the idea in a way, but mainly I want someone to take entire charge of the shop while I work—behind the scenes. I would have had a beautiful girl except that constant association with a beauty only makes me feel homelier. I resent a female having all the looks. I don't mind it in a man."

Don looked steadily at her for some time. "You're a silly little thing," he said as frankly as she had spoken to him. "It's only the utterly brainless that ever think twice about whether a person they like is ugly as sin or beautiful as a Madonna."

Ethel laughed, but couldn't have spoken at once if she had wanted to.

"But in my shop," she said finally, "I must have someone who tones in with all this beauty," and she waved a capable hand all about the place. "My artistic taste demands it."

Until that moment Ethel's queer personality had held his entire attention. Now he glanced about at the glorious array of colors produced by the owner of the shop and his eyes again traveled to meet hers.

"Now do you see how out of place I am here?" she questioned.

"No," said Don. Then a moment later he added, "I intend to take this job and keep it until you realize a thing or two."

"How does it happen that a man like you is out of work? You know," her wide mouth shaped into a grin, "I stipulated that brains were not essential—you have both good looks and brains."

"As a matter of fact," Don told her. "I am just lying low for a month or two waiting for a big job in the shipping trade, but I'm going to help you build up this Beauty Spot until you'll wish you had never seen me. In fact I'll get so many patrons down here that you will be forced to come from behind the scenes to keep them from getting peevish waiting to be served."

"That sounds good to me," laughed Ethel, "but when that time comes I will just put another advertisement in the paper for a second handsome man and—"

"When that time comes," put in Don, "you'll have nothing to say about it and let me tell you another thing. When a man falls in love with a girl—at least anyone calling himself a real man—he doesn't fall in love with a frame, having long eyelashes and slim ankles. He loves a heart and soul and brain and doesn't notice whether the girl is skelly-eyed and wears her hair in a tight little wad at the back of her neck." And having delivered this speech Willard laughed and told Ethel he would like to begin work as soon as possible.

"I'm not sure I will engage you," said Ethel, "I'm not keen on having anyone in the Beauty Shop who is so lacking in a sense of beauty."

"My sense of beauty is all there," said Don, "only mine goes far below the surface, while yours is merely external." And he looked at her so hard than an unfamiliar blush forced itself into the scene.

The Magazine Store

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

Using scissors for cut-outs is excellent training in muscle control for a child as soon as he's old enough to manipulate them. Scissors are fascinating affairs any way. They're usually forbidden, which enhances their attractiveness. Sometimes a grown-up leaves a pair around and snip goes a handful of hair, a dangling curtain, or whatever is handy and then there's trouble. Get the child a pair of not-too-sharp, blunt-end scissors and let him cut paper, teaching him to confine his efforts to legitimate plunder. Soon he'll begin to follow lines and then come hours of cut-out fun from magazines and catalogues. To a little girl, cutting opens the door to the entrancing world of paper dolls, and what could be more for rainy days or quiet playtime than to go shopping in the Magazine Stores!

MY paper doll lady has trunksful of gowns
Of lavenders, reds and the newest of browns,
With slippers and hats to match each.
She has parasols, handbags and hat-boxes, too
And an opera coat made of a wonderful blue
To wear with a dress of softest peach.

Her children have more than they need of fine clothes,
Of rain coats and mufflers for when the wind blows,
Of trinkets and playthings galore.
For when they go shopping they just help themselves
To things they may fancy and see on the shelves
Of the up-to-date magazine store!

THOMAS HARDY LECTURE AT "Y"

Professor A. E. Pratt Deals With Problems of Irony.

MISS MASSON SINGS.

The green room of the Y.W.C.A. was filled to capacity last night to hear the second lecture on Thomas Hardy delivered by Professor A. E. Pratt of Victoria college.

Miss Matilda Masson sang a solo before the lecture which was on Problems of Irony. Professor Pratt in dealing with this subject gave a brief history of irony and explained that there were two kinds; the one in which the writer or debater assumes ignorance, irony of argument and dramatic irony.

Hardy is considered one of the greatest masters of irony but his kind of irony belongs to the second class. The professor dealt briefly with irony of argument, the kind which Socrates, the great Greek philosopher, used in his debates. This kind consisted of an assumption of ignorance on the part of Socrates and when his opponent answered his questions he was forced in the course of debate to acknowledge that there were exceptions to the statement. Jonathan Swift was also a great master at this form of irony.

In dramatic irony the audience is the receiver and Shakespeare was a master with this form of irony. The Greek word for irony means saying and Shakespeare's irony is fully demonstrated in the Merchant of Venice where Shylock the rich Jew wants a pound of flesh for his bond and nothing else will do him. So when the judge grants it to him he say "O a Daniel, a Daniel come to judgment" but he soon finds that he can only have the exact pound of flesh and no blood; that is where the dramatic irony comes in. In MacBeth there are also many examples of dramatic irony especially where Lady MacBeth says a little water can cleanse up blood and then in the sleep walking scene she cannot get the blood washed off her hands.

Irony, said the speaker was a dramatic device in order to secure attention. All forms of irony came out in Hardy's works; he often likes to picture a tragic effect which is all unproportionate of the cause as when a man goes into a fight ten times as strong as his opponent but his opponent kills him with a pebble; that is irony said the speaker.

One of J. M. Sing's dramas was read in part showing how he was a master in exposition and a master in creating a wonderful beginning which makes the reader all enthused.

KNOX CHOIR CONCERT

(By Jeanette).

The annual concert by the choir of Knox Church was held in the church last evening, taking the form of a choral Thanksgiving concert, and proved a very successful event. There was a diversified and interesting programme of choral numbers, with vocal solos, duetts and trios by choir members and some beautifully played organ selections, rendered by the choirmaster and musical director, Mr. R. J. Dev[illegible] whose music was a distinct [illegible] to the programme, with its soft tone and exceptionally fine delivery. Mr. Devey played an organ prelude in the first movement from Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," a devoven's trio in three movements from one of Mendelssohn's Sonatas, and also, by request of several of his pupils, the lovely 'Flower Song.'

The choral numbers, directed by Mr. Devey, were very attractively rendered. This choir, although not over large in numbers, has a finely-balanced volume of tone, with a smooth, bright delivery and clear enunciation. Their singing is very pleasing.

The other numbers on the programme included several duetts and trios and solo numbers, with Mr. Sydney Willis' fine bass voice paramount in interest. An odd number was a composition by Stainer, entitled "The Wailing," and rendered by a quartette of ladies' voices. The different singers acquitted themselves very creditably in a programme of varied interest.

The first choral number was a bright rendition of "Come, let us Sing," with a duett, "O Worship the Lord," by Mrs. C. Scholey and Miss A. Cotton, followed by the chorus, "Come into His Courts," and Mr. Sidney Willis' solo, "Worship the Lord." A chorus, "Enter into His Gates," by the choir, was followed by a solo, "He Sendeth the Springs," sung by Mr. Stanley Willis, a duett, "He Causeth the Grass to Grow," by Messrs. Sydney and Stanley Willis, a carol, "Our Grateful Hearts," and a trio, "The Tender Seed," sung by the Misses V. Buckham and A. Crocker and Mr. Stanley Willis. The choir's choruses, "In Wisdom Hast Thou Made them All" and "The Lord Shall Rejoice," had a quartette, "The Lord is Righteous," rendered by Mrs. C. Scholey, Miss A. Cotton, Mr. Stanley Willis and Mr. A. Pitchford, and was followed by a carol by the choir, "Now Mindful of Thy Bounties," two solos, "Earth's Sowing Time," by Mr. Sydney Willis, and "Far, Far Away," by Miss V. Buckham, and the choral finale to the first portion of the programme, "I Will Sing to the Lord."

The second part of the program opened like the first, with Mr. Devey's organ solos, followed by the ladies' quartette, 'The Wailing,' sung by Mrs. C. Scholey, Miss V. Buckham, Miss A. Cotton and Miss A. Crocker, and a solo, "With Joy the Impatient Husbandman," by Mr. Sydney Willis, also a duett, "The King of Love," by the Misses Buckham and Crocker, and a quartette, "There is a Blessed Home," sung by Mrs. Scholey, Miss Cotton, and Messrs. Sydney and Stanley Willis. The choral rendition of "And the Glory," from Handel's "Messiah," concluded the programme.

At the conclusion of the programme, the pastor of the church, Rev. Wm. McDonald, spoke in terms of high appreciation of the efforts of the choir and the choirmaster, and thanked them heartily for the very fine programme presented, which, in its procession, was in the nature of a climax to the harvest season, and was "a generous programme, admirably arranged and finely executed."

Mr. Devey acknowledged the tribute to the choir and himself, and spoke regretfully of the absence, because of illness, of the president of the choir, Mr. H. J. McCannan.

MISSIONARY WORK LECTURE SUBJECT

Rev. P. C. Howard Tells of Life at Northern Station.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 20.— "Our ship was an ice breaker, but the fogs and giant ice-bergs encountered along the barren coast of line of Labrador in July forced our boat to drift with the current, so that we were back and forth over the same stretch of water a number of times," stated Rev. P. C. Howard in his lecture on his mission work in the far north, in the Anglican school house on Thursday evening, the room being filled for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard, three months after their marriage, sailed from Montreal for Rupert's House on James' Bay, on July 10, 1921, and eight weeks were occupied by the journey as far as Charlton Island, forty-five miles from the mainland. The Hudson's Bay Company apparently gave rather grudging consent to reserve room on their steamer for the missionaries, when the boat was making its annual northward trip.

A week of waiting in Montreal, during stifling weather, made the St. Lawrence river a pleasant change, though the atmosphere became too chilly for real comfort before the Labrador coast was reached. After rounding Cape Chudleigh, the most notrherly point of Labrador, a great ice-barrier was encountered in the Hudson's Straits, which necessitated the steamer going out of its course.

"One could not but wonder how grain is to be shipped by this route when the Hudson's Bay railway is completed; evidently it will have to be stored in elevators at railhead and shipped the following summer, when the waters of the bay and straits are sufficiently free from ice."

Polar bears, walrus and seals were frequently seen, and the travellers also had opportunity of becoming familiar with the Eskimo seated in the manhole amidships of his light kyak, his baggage being carefully bestowed in the covered space at one end, while his wife and children were tucked away with less care under cover at the opposite end. Once in place for paddling the Eskimo apparently shuts off all the available supply of air, and would not infrequently engage a walrus in battle, his family having of necessity to guess what was going on outside.

Touching at Fort Churchill, on the extreme north-west corner of Hudson's Bay, shallow water was encountered so that a landing was impossible, the vessel being stranded when the tide was out. Local steamers discharge the cargo when Charlton Island, in James' Bay, is reached, the larger vessel going no farther than this point. Mr. and Mrs. Howard were accommodated on a boat chartered by an American millionaire who was evidently looking for adventure, and suffered severely from sea sickness before Rupert's House, on the south-eastern corner of the bay, was reached.

"The Indians are the original Canadians," Mr. Howard said; "we have driven them from the lakes and rivers of Ontario and Quebec, and from the plains of Manitoba and the west, into the far north where they are out of their element. They now stand with their backs to the Arctic wondering whither they are to move next. On the east side of James' Bay I found the Indian knew absolutely nothing of a Canadian government, either Federal or Provincial; I had to smuggle a letter out, for the Hudson's Bay Company is preeminent, but the government responded and a treaty party now visits that shore and treaty money is paid."

Mr. Howard's lecture was illustrated with slides and was most interesting and instructive as he told of mission work, and living conditions, in the far north where mail was received but twice, or at the most, three times a year, its coming being keenly anticipated. The sending out of the mail, securely tied on a toboggan, with two Indian runners to take it over the snowy wastes, is an event of almost equal importance. Christmas mail is not received until the end of March.

"My parish was 100 miles from north to south, and 250 miles from east to west; so I did not call on my parishioners every day," the speaker said, mentioning also the fact that the Indian is very anxious to learn, and keenly receptive of knowledge.

At Fort Albany, when Mr. and Mrs. Howard were on their homeward journey after five years of service, a recruiting party was encountered, and forty-two Indians voluntarily enlisted for the overseas' conflict. "Was it fair, I wonder, to ask these men whom we have robbed of their lands, who have no franchise rights, who had but a vague understanding of the world struggle, to risk their lives for the empire?"

Mrs. Howard sang, in Indian dialect, the hymn, "O God our Help in Ages Past," and at the conclusion of the lecture, and Rev. Canon Allen voiced the appreciation of all present before pronouncing the benediction.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1926, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 2

In a preceding article, reference was made to a player in Chicago holding thirteen of a suit and the statement was made that such a hand would be held only once in about one hundred and fifty billion hands. The law of averages, however, seems to have slipped somewhere for another such hand—thirteen diamonds, this time—was held in Chicago, July 19, 1925, and is authenticated by affidavit. Why the law of averages seems to slip only in Chicago is still a mystery, but slip it does and that means that the rest of us will have to keep on holding stupid hands for many years before another player gets even a chance of holding thirteen of a suit again. The incident is not only noteworthy because of the unique holding but also because of the fact that the holder of the thirteen diamonds did not win the final declaration. Here are the hands of all four players:

	Hearts—K, 9, 5, 4, 2 Clubs—J, 10, 9, 5, 2 Diamonds—none Spades—9, 6, 2
Hearts—A, 10, 8, 7, 6 Clubs—A, Q, 4, 7, 6, 3 Diamonds—none Spades—10, 4	Y	Hearts—Q, J, 3 Clubs—K, 4 Diamonds—none Spades—A, K, Q, J, 8, 7, 5, 3
	A B Z
	(dealer) Hearts—none Clubs—none Diamonds—A, K, Q, J, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2 Spades—none

The dealer, Mr. John Donahoe, bid one diamond, A bid one heart, Y passed and B bid one spade. From then on B and Z bid up the hand until Z bid seven diamonds and B overbid with seven spades, even though his partner, A, had doubled both the six and seven diamond bid. Z opened the king of diamonds and if B had trumped in A's hand with the ten of spades, discarding the trey of hearts from his own hand, he could have made a grand slam. He was so excited, however, over the bidding, that he discarded a heart from A's hand and trumped in his own hand. As a result he lost his contract by one trick. It really is a most unusual hand and one for all auction players to remember. It is authenticated by affidavit so that there is no doubt as to its actual occurrence. Another interesting point in connection with it is whether or not Mr. Donahoe's bid of one diamond was the correct bid. It was either a case of one diamond or seven diamonds. If he had bid seven diamonds, A would undoubtedly have doubled and it is very questionable whether B would have bid seven spades. If you want to start an argument, ask your friends how they would have bid the hand. It is a close question but the writer is inclined to a bid of one diamond. It conceals the strength and if forced to a very high bid is more apt to force a double. A bid of seven with such a hand gives too much information. It indicates to the opponents that the bidder has an invincible hand and practically advertises: "Don't double for I can make my bid or if you want to save game, overbid and take a penalty." Think it over and discuss it with your friends.

Answer to Problem No. 1

	Hearts—Q, 5, 4, 3, 2 Clubs—A, K, 8 Diamonds—A, K, 6 Spades—10, 9
Hearts—A, J, 9, 8, 7 Clubs—Q, 3, 2 Diamonds—10, 4, 3 Spades—Q, J	Y	Hearts—K, 10 Clubs—J, 10, 9, 4 Diamonds—Q, J, 9, 8 Spades—7, 4, 3
	A B Z
	Hearts—6 Clubs—7, 6, 5 Diamonds—7, 5, 2 Spades—A, K, 8, 6, 5, 2

No score, first game. 2 dealt and bid one spade. A passed, Y bid one no-trump, B passed and Z bid two spades. All passed and A opened the ace of hearts. He then played the queen of spades. How can Z so play the hand that he can win the balance of the tricks against any defense? Z should win the trick with the king of spades and lead the deuce of diamonds, winning the trick in Y's hand with the king. He should then lead the trey of hearts from Y's hand and trump with the deuce of spades in his own hand. He should lead the ace and eight of spades. On the sixth trick, A cannot discard a heart, for if he does, Z can set up Y's heart suit. A is forced, therefore, to discard either a diamond or a club. It makes no difference which he does for Y must discard the same suit that A does. Suppose that A discards the deuce of clubs at trick six. Y should discard the eight of clubs and B follow suit. Z should now lead the [illegible] of clubs, the suit A discarded, winning the trick in Y's hand with the king of clubs. Y should now lead the ace of clubs and follow with the queen of hearts. B should discard the nine of diamonds and Z the five of diamonds. Y should then lead the four of hearts. B should discard the ten of clubs and Z should trump with the five of spades. Z should now lead the six of spades. A cannot discard a heart for if he does, Y will discard a diamond and his heart is good. A must, therefore, discard the four of diamonds. Y should discard a heart and B is now up against the discard. If he discards the jack of diamonds, both of Y's diamonds are good. If he discards the jack of clubs, Z's seven of clubs is good. In either event, therefore, Y-Z must win the balance of the tricks. As an interesting variation, have A discard the trey of diamonds at trick six instead of the deuce of clubs. It is a clever little problem and should be carefully analyzed.

"It's the very latest—"

To most women nothing is so old as last year's hat. Unless it be her last year's dress, or coat, or skirt-length.

Men can't understand it. They laugh genially at such simple-minded folly. And while they laugh, they are thinking of how queer the old car looks, even though it's only two seasons old, and how old-fashioned last year's neckties make a man seem.

In other words, men are just bout the same as women when it comes to wanting "the latest." It's a deesire shared by everybody who is young in spirit, eager to be in on everything new and different. It's the most human thing in the world—to want the newest, the latest, the best.

The surest way to know what is the latest is to read advertising. The advertisements in this newspaper show you what the new styles in millinery are. They'll settle the question of skirt-lengths. They'll show the newest models in overcoats; in touring cars and sedans and roadsters.

And they'll keep you posted on the latest developments in everything that makes up life. The newest theories of nutrition, the most recent additions to radio, the latest tooth-paste and silverware and household appliance. . . .

Read the advertisements in the newspaper faithfully. Get the habit. Not tomorrow—but today, at the very latest.

No advertisement dares to be out-of-date

Veteran Players Have The Call In American League

VETERANS TAKE HONORS FROM YOUNGER MEN

As Most Valuable to the Club During the Year.

CATCHERS OUT.

Walter Johnson Only Pitcher To Be Awarded the Prize.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—The general cry of fandom in baseball seems to be for younger stars to replace the fading veteran, but since the American league decided to annually select a most valuable player it is the vetefan stars who have won the glory.

George Burns, of Cleveland, the most valuable man to his club in the 1926 race, is far from being a youngster. Burns finished his thirteenth season in the big tent, when he learned he had received his diploma.

Ty Cobb, with somthing like 20 years of active campaigning to his credit, is another American league winner of the most valuable man trophy.

Jot down the ancient names of Roger Peckinpaugh, Walter Johnson and Eddie Collins, and you have three more veteran stars who have captured the diploma.

Babe Ruth and George Sisler, of the Yankees and Browns, are the youngest American league players to be so honored, and neither can be called youngsters. Ruth is a veteran campaigner, while Sisler has spent over 10 years in the big show.

A youngster may flash through the sky like a meteor in flight in the world series, but its the veteran player who is declared the most valuable man to his club in the season run.

Curiously enough, all departments of a ball club have won the American league's most valuable player award save the catching department.

Walter Johnson is the only pitcher so far to take the laurels. Peckinpaugh, Sisler Collins and Burns are infielders while Ruth, Cobb and Speaker represent the outfield patrol.

Ray Schalk brilliant White Sox catcher, passed the zenith of his flaming career behind the plate before the most valuable player award was born, costing him a great opportunity to gain the fame of such an appointment.

LADY BOWLERS ELECT OFFICERS

Mrs. J. N. Bacon is Chosen President—Prizes Presented.

BUSINESS SESSION.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club was held this week at the residence of Mrs. T. G. Loudon, Brock street, when the business session and election of officers was prefaced by a very enjoyable banquet, and followed by a pleasant social hour, when instrumental selections were played by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade and vocal solos given by Mrs. T. E. Curvin and Mrs. G. R. Coleman.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. J. N. Bacon; Vice-President, Mrs. C. Perry; Secretary, Mrs. F. E. Miller; Treasurer, Mrs. T. G. Loudon; Executive, Mrs. R. French, Mrs. M. Chenhall and Mrs. Jean Tucker.

Prizes were also presented for the season's games, as follows: Rink games—1st prize to Mrs. Bacon's rink, with Mrs. J. N. Bacon skip, Mrs. George J. Johnson vice, Mrs. T. E. Curvin second and Mrs. T. G. Loudon lead; second prize to Mrs. French's rink, with Mrs. R. French skip, Mrs. M. Chenhall vice, Mrs. A. W. Greenslade second and Mrs. L. Yeotes lead. The two prizes for doubles went to the first prize winners, Mrs. G. Coleman skip and Mrs. Charles Wright lead, and the second prize winners, Mrs. H. Graham skip and Mrs. A. W. Greenslade lead.

TUNNEY CONFERS WITH PROMOTER

Over Possible Heavyweight Championship Match Next Year.

BAN LIFTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.h. — Gene Tunney conferred with Promoter Humbert Fugazy on a possible heavy weight championship match next year. The title holder denied that he was bound to fight exclusively for Tex Rickard, as announced after his victory over Jack Demsey.

The ban which has been on Charley (Phil) Rosenberg in New York for almost a year for failure to defend his bantam title as directed by the State Athletic Commission, has been lifted by the commission, and the world's champion will meet Bushey Graham in Madison Square Garden January 7.

MAORIS COME FROM BEHIND

New Zealand Rugby Team Plays East Midland To Draw

ON SODDEN FIELD.

NORTHAMPTON, Eng., Nov. 2 (Canadian Press Cable)—Coming from behind in the second half of a game that was played in wretched weather and on a sodden field before 9,000 spectators here yesterday; the New Zealand Maoris played the selected East Midlands Fifteen to a six-point draw in a game under the auspices of the Rubgy Union. The Antipodeans were three points in arrears at half time and remained in that situation until near the end of the game, when a brilliant try by Falwasser brought the equalizer.

The East Midlands started off at a great pace and in the first twelve minutes had the Maoris pinned down to their own ground, but a break away from the New Zealand territory brought relief which ended in Lockwood dashing over for a brilliant try. The attempt at conversion failed.

Underterred by this setback, the English fifteen continued to press and Millward, a few minutes later, evened up the score when he touched down for the homesters. The game continued fast and furious and just a few minutes before the interval Birch, with a lovely swerving run, romped home, putting the Englishmen ahead.

The resumption for the second period found the play mostly in the hands of the Maoris, who kept the English defence busy, sturdy tackling, however, on the part of the East Midlands held down the scoring. They were frequently hard-pressed, but at all times were equal to the occasion. For a time it looked as if the New Zealanders were going to drop the game, but defeat was averted when Falwasser dashed over the line, thus bringing the count to East Midlands, 2 tries (6 points).

Maoris, 2 tries (6 points).

M'BRIDE WAS NOT MADE MANAGER

President of Toronto Baseball Club Emphatically Denies Report.

TORONTO, Nov. 20—A Detroit newspaper came out Thursday with big headlines that George McBride was appointed manager o the Toronto Baseball Club.

Mr. Solman emphatically denies that McBride has been appointed.

The Toronto Ball Club president is very disappointed in Steve O'Neill and his attitude of silence regarding the ball club's last offer.

From all indications it appears now as if O'Neill is off the list.

Wants Major Berth

It appears that Steve O'Neill would rather pass up a record minor league wage in order to get back in the big league.

Mr. Solman has a hundred applications from men in every branch of organized baseball who want to manage his club for the coming season, but the arrow is now pointing to the name of Frank O'Rourke.

It was whispered around the ball club headquarters late last night that President Solman has plans for another trip to Detroit in the very near future and may make an effort, the report claims, to get O'Rourke to lead the Leafs.

McBride Not Wanted

One prominent official in discussing the McBride story, had the following to say: "How can McBride be appointed when he was never an applicant, and besides McBride is not the type of baseball leader that is needed here in Toronto."

O'NEIL IS SILENT ABOUT CLUB OFFER

Fails To Give Toronto Club Answer Within Allotted Time.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—The fat is still in the fire.

Steven O'Neill failed to give the Toronto Baseball Club his answer in the allotted time to their latest offer, for the management of the Leafs next season.

The Ball Club officials have heard nothing from O'Neill since he interviewed Mr. Solman in Detroit last week-end.

Directors Divided.

The directors of the club are divided as to what course to take. One gentleman wants to give O'Neill a little longer to decide, another wants to send a representative to visit O'Neill in Cleveland and get a definite answer.

Still another well-known member on the Ball Club's executive feels that O'Neill's silence means that the popular Stephen has decided to join Dan Howley at St. Louis, and the only thing left is to hunt up a new man.

Action Soon.

Some action will be taken in the very near future as the Ball Club must have their leader appointed before the annual meeting of the International League, which will be held in New York City during the first week of December.

HARVARD AGAIN TO MEET PENN.

After Twenty Years Football Rivals Will Resume Play.

NEXT JUNE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—(Associated Press). — Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania, gridiron rivals of 20 years ago, have agreed to meet once more, and presumably, restoration of the Big Three is deferred for two years at least.

Pennsylvania, which has accepted a two-year home and home series, will replace Princeton on the Harvard schedule. The first game will be played at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, November 5, 1927.

The Harvard schedule, now complete for 1927, includes Indiana and Purdue.

Prior to 1905 Harvard and Penn played football almost annually. In 20 contests Harvard won 13 and the Quakers 7.

Interest in the Harvard-Pennsylvania game once was as great as any aroused in more recent years by Harvard-Princeton games.

When the series was broken off in 1905 there were charges of rough tactics by Pennsylvania, which had triumphed in the final game by a 12-6 score. Princeton severed relations with the Quakers after a succession of hard played contests ending in a match in 1894 at Trenton which was characterized as one of the most rugged ever witnessed in American football.

LAST INCH SOLD AT MINNESOTA

Final Games in "Big Ten" Will Attract Packed Stadiums.

OHIO FAVORITE

DETROIT, Nov. 20 (Associated Press).—The Western Conference football season is almost over, but Big Ten schools dusted off their extra stadium seats to permit a record-breaking volume at to-morrow's finale.

Every available inch in Minnesota's big stands already has been claimed by fans looking for a battle royal in the second clash of the year between the Gophers and Michigan, one of the two undefeated elevens in the conference fight.

Fans stood in line through the night when the final block of 4,500 went on sale and advices from Minneapolis say that the pasteboards can't be had for love or money.

At Illinois, Zuppke's men seem sure to draw a capacity crowd to watch their attempt to climb in Big Ten standing at the expense of Ohio which dropped from the top by a one-point victory for Michigan. The Buckeyes rule a slight favorite over Illinois now.

The Wisconsin-Chicago game is an annual classic for their two hometowns, and even with the elevens fighting to keep above the cellar this fall, Chicago looks for one of the biggest crowds of the years. Both teams are in the midst of a late-season change to radical shift in play, stressing the aerial game, and anything can happen in their meeting.

Iowa Has Hopes.

Half of Iowa turned out to overflow the Hawkeye stadium once this fall, and there are prospects of an approximation of the crowd when the Iowans seek Saturday to rise and spoil undefeated North-Western's chance of tieing Michigan.

The Hoosier civil war between Indiana and Purdue is a crowd-drawing attraction, and there, as elsewhere, the final appearance of familiar stars is a feature of the closing day of the season.

SARGENT PICKS 'BIG 4' OF GOLF

Hagen, Travis, Vardon and Taylor Did Most for Game.

CONTRIBUTORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The four outstanding contributors to golf, in the opinion of George Sargent, retiring head of the Professional Golfers' Association, are J. H. Taylor, Harry Vardon, Walter J. Travis and Walter Hagen.

He explains:

Taylor introduced the methods of approach universally used by all good golfers to-day.

Then Vardon gave the game the upright swing, and finally Travis brought the game from the fairways to the greens with a new emphasis on putting.

To Hagen is attributed the most unique contribution of the four — that of mental relaxation. When Hagen found nothing left in the way of mechanics to improve upon, he adopted the attitude of playing the game always the same regardless of how things were going.

NATIONAL LEAGUE WILL HAVE KEENEST FIGHT IN ITS HISTORY

Addition of Three U. S. Teams To League Will Add Great Zest.

TWO SECTIONS.

Canadian Teams, With N. Y. Americans, Form One Division.

MONTREAL Que, Nov. 20.—(By Canadian Press)—With three clubs added to the circuit since the close of last season, the National Hockey League, major professional hockey loop in Canada and the United States, started its 1926-27 campaign on Tuesday night next as a 10-club league. The growth of the organization from a four-club group has taken place in the last three years and has raised the Canadian national winter sport from a national pastime to one of international scope, six of the 10 clubs in the league this year representing leading cities of the Eastern United States.

The increased strength of the circuit has necessitated a division of the loop into two sections. In one division are the four Canadian teams, Montreal Maroons, Montreal Canadiens, Ottawa Senators and Toronto St. Patrick's with the New York Americans the lone entrant from the United States. The other section is composed entirely of United States teams, the five being New York Rangers, Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit. The teams in each section will play three home and away games with the clubs in the other section, making 44 games in all for each club during the season. Play-offs for sectional titles will be held at the end of the season, with the divisional champions meeting later for the league laurels and the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world championship, at present held by the Montreal Maroons.

Shake-Up of Players.

The increase in the number of clubs—New York Rangers, Chicago and Detroit are the newcomers—led to a switch in the playing strength of many of the clubs, the changes being the most considerable in the history of the league. Some of the leaders of last year have added but little new material to their playing strength, Montreal Maroons, Pittsburgh and Ottawa Senators bolstering up only one or two positions.

Other clubs have signed or bought many new players, including Montreal Canadiens, Toronto St. Pats, New York Americans and Boston. The three new clubs, New York Rangers, Chicago and Detroit will introduce new players to the National Hockey League but they are seasoned stars for the most part obtained from clubs in the now defunct Western Hockey League. Chicago bought the former Portland Rosebuds, outright besides a few other western stars. Detroit purchased the Victoria, B.C. team, Western Hockey League champions in the past two season, while the Rangers built up their Gotham team by individual purchases of western players and the signing of promising amateur stars.

Canadians in U.S. Teams.

Thus, the great majority of the players on the United States teams in the major pro. hockey circuit are Canadian players. New York Rangers will be managed by Lester Patrick, of Victoria, who has been prominent in Canadian hockey for over 20 years. New York Americans will be managed by Newsy Lalonde of Montreal, famous both as a lacrosse and hockey star and one of Canada's most colorful athletes in his prime 10 to 15 years ago. Detroit will be managed by Art Duncan, former Vancouver defence man. Pete Muldoon, who was associated with the Patricks in their western Canadian hockey ventures will head the Chicago entry. Art Ross, former Wanderer star of Montreal, will again pilot the Boston club, while Odie Cleghorn, one of the greatest centre players in his day, will manage the Pittsburgh team.

Included in the stars who will play for the United States teams this year are such stars as Frank Boucher member of the famous hockey family of Ottawa, who will play centre for the New York Rangers, with the two Cook brothers formerly of Saskatoon, on his flanks. The Dertoit club 11 purchasing the famous Victoria team obtain the veteran and sensational goalkeeper, "Happy" Holmes; the two Icelandic stars Frederickson and Halderson, members of the Canadian Olymic championship team of 1920, Russell Oatman and such cagey veterans as Jack Walker, inventor of the hook check, and Frank Foyston. The Boston Bruins strengthened materially by adding Eddie Shore, former Edmonton defence man, rated the best cuter guard in the old Western league.

Western Players In It.

Western players remaining with Canadian teams are Red Dutton, former Calgary player, who has been signed by the Montreal Maroons; George Hainsworth, spectacular Saskatoon goalie; and Herb Gardiner, Calgary defence man, signed by the Montreal Canadiens; Bourgeault, Corbett Dennenay and others who are now with the Toronto St. Pafricks, who this year will be directed by Mike Rodden famous rugby football and hockey coach.

With the general shake-up in teams speculation is rife among hockey players as to the ultimate winners, the general impression being that the championship this season will be decided only after one of the keenest fights in the history of the league.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Just so some of the customers can stop talking about the O. T. A. for a while I want to remind them that the Petes is entered the S. p. A. serious again, and next week will see them in action. The boys ain't in no mid-season form, and a 60-min. battle is going to be pretty tough going, but they figger the S. p. A. serious is good training stuff and they'll try and hang on as long as they can. I imagine Mister Eddie Wright'll be the busiest man in the arena keeping a stream of subs headed for the ice. At that, however, the fans will remember that 2 seasons ago the Petes went up to the Queen City with hardly no practice and copped the silverware.

Mister Bailey made his pro debut in Chicago Wed. night. They ain't been much in the papers about how the Toronto pros performed, while me and a lot of other hockey bugs heard the game over the radio in the Windy City, the announcer which broadcast the play evidently had no chance to get introduced to some of the boys there ain't no use he seemed to know a few of them by name. However, the grade with plenty to say about Mister Bailey. He oughta to make is and steps on the gas. when he shakes down to the company he

The O. h. A. moguls had their We, all of us, had panned the Ontario ual gab fest in Toronto today. we thought the brakes was going against a 1 time or another when gotta hand it to Mister Bill Hewitt and them bnds, but after all you sociation going strong against all opposition and supp keeping the ashockey bill o fair for all parts of this fair Province, as a attractive put it. Like every one else, the O. h. A. makes the odd mistaliticians it weren't for the way the game has been handled by Mister He if and Co, a whole lot of joy woulda been taken out of the winter months.

Well, Mac, I hope to give the Petes the once over before my next letter, and then I'll be able to give the customers some new dope. Meanwhile, ta-ta.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

MICHIGAN HARRIERS SELECTED FOR RACE

Farrell Picks Seven Men To Run at Minneapolis.

ANN ARBOR, Nov. 20—(Associated Press). — Seven men were named by Coach Steve Farrell of the Michigan cross-country squad as Michigan's representatives in the annual Big Ten cross-country race to be held at Minneapolis, tomorrow morning. Captain Briggs and Hornberger, each appearing for the third time in the conference competition, will be the leaders of the Michigan squad. Iskenderian, a member of the last year's team, and Lamont, Monroe, Wuerfel and Hill, new men, make up the squad.

Six of the seven men named will start, the first five across the line making up the Michigan team. The first of the Michigan men finishing also will be named as the winner of the annual Harpsam trophy race, one of the oldest of the intra-school competitions at Michigan.

British Strike News Sends Wheat Price Up

CHICAGO, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—Wheat rallied quickly today from an initial downturn. Advices that the British coal strike was practically ended were construed as bullish regarding wheat on this side of the Atlantic, although the reason for lower quotations at Liverpool.

Starting at 1-8 cent to 7-8 cent decline, wheat here soon rose to above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions also developed firmness, corn starting at 1-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up, and subsequently scoring general gains. Opening prices were:

Wheat — Dec., 1.32 5-8; May, 1.36 5-8. Corn—Dec., 71 5-8; May, 80¼. Oats — Dec., 41 3-4; May, 46¼.

O.H.A. FORBIDS PRO, COACHES

Permission To Employ One Must Be Asked of Executive.

FINANCES GOOD.

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (Canadian Press).—No hockey club which is a member of the Ontario Hockey Association may employ a professional coach without the approval of the O.H.A. Executive. This was the conclusion reached by the delegates to the 37th annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association here today after a lengthy discussion on this amendment.

The Association's finances are in excellent shape, the treasurer's report declared. At the end of the fiscal year, November 16 last, the Association possessed a balance of $15,564, in addition to $5,000 in victory bonds.

P. J. Mulqeen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, was unanimously appointed an honorary member of the O.H.A. Executive.

The high spots of the Association's work during the last season were touched on by William Easson, Stratford, the retiring president, in his address to the delegates. He declared the Ontario Hockey Association would continue in its efforts to eliminate the "tourist" player from the ranks of the Association. He congratulated New Hamburg on capturing the Intermediate title last year and Peterboro on winning the Senior title.

The amendment to raise the age limit for Juniors from 20 to 21 years is one of the most important subjects before the meeting, and much discussion will be held on this suggestion, made at the recent meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in Western Canada.

BETHANY PERSONALS

Mrs. William Lee spent Tuesday with her friend, Mrs. Fred Thompson.

Mr. William Lee spent a few days in Toronto this week attending the Winter Fair and visiting friends.

Mr. Douglas Driver and party of friends motored to Toronto to spend a day at the Winter Fair.

The Young People's League had a splendid attendance on Wednesday evening, Miss Olive Nelson's group having the largest attendance, with Mrs. Bert Monk's coming a close second. Miss Cummings, Third Vice-President, took the chair and the following interesting programme was given: Reading by Mrs. Leslie Challice, duett by the Misses Pauline Darrock and Pearl Swanson, reading by Miss Verna Belle Lee, solo by Mr. George Smith and duett by Karl Monk and Harold Jackson. Mr. William Brown took the topic for the evening. The first prize for the contest making the most words out of the word "citizenship" was won by Miss Olive Nelson, while the consolation prize was won by Pauline Darrock and Pearl Swanson. Next Wednesday, which is social night, the programme will be in charge of Miss Hazel Jackson, Fourth Vice-President.

FIVE NEW CLUBS ENTER O.H.A.

Executive Clears Decks For Annual Meeting To-day.

CHANGE OPPOSED.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—With President William Easson, of Stratford, in the chair, the Executive of the Ontario Hockey Association held its final meeting of the year in the Telegram Building last night, when applications of new clubs for membership were passed on and preparations made for the thirty-seventh annual meeting, which takes place in the Temple Building this morning, commencing at 10 o'clock. The following were present:

President—William Easson, Stratford.

Immediate Past President—W. A. Fry, Dunnville.

Past Presidents' Advisory Board — D. L. Darroch, Collingwood; James T. Sutherland, Kingston; H. E. Wettlaufer, Kitchener; A. E. Copeland, Midland; R. M. Glover, Peterborough; Sheriff J. F. Paxton, Whitby.

First Vice-President—George B. McKay, Kitchener.

Second Vice-President — Richard Butler, Lindsay.

A.A.U. of C. Governor — W. W. Davidson, Toronto.

Secretary and Life Member—W. A. Hewitt, Toronto.

Treasurer—Sheriff J. F. Paxton, of Whitby.

Executive—Frank Hyde, Woodstock; J. Percy Bond, Peterboro; Angus Campbell, Cobalt; Dr. J. M. Mitchell, Collingwood; George B. Dudley, Midland; Alvin Schlegel, Preston.

The following new clubs were admitted to membership: Elmira A.A.A., Weston A.A.A., Danforth A.C., Toronto; Paisley A.A.A., Peterboro A.C., 12th Battery, London.

M.C.R.R. Refused.

The application of the M.C.R.R. Athletic Association, of St. Thomas, for admission, was refused under the rule which prohibits the admittance of clubs with commercial names. If there is an application from the City of St. Thomas for admission it will receive favorable consideration.

The application of the London East A. A. for admission was laid over until further particulars are secured.

The annual meeting to-day promises to be one of the best in the history of the Association. The order paper contains a number of questions, all of which should bring out some interesting debates. The delegates are certain to come out very strongly for the retention of the present age rule in the junior series. Several of the branches of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association are very much in favor of raising the age from twenty years old, January, to twenty-one years.

George McKay New President.

The senior officers have all been elected by acclamation but there will be a contest for the four places on the executive. George B. McKay, a former star player in the O.H.A. and long a very valuable member of the Association, succeeds William Easson of Stratford as president, while Richard Butler of Lindsay becomes first vice-president. Frank Hyde of Woodstock advances from the executive committee to the second vice-presidency.

Mr. Easson's two-year tenure of the president's chair brought about considerable constructive legislation that strengthened the Ontario Hockey Association's position as the outstanding amateur organization in existence. The bars against the tourist player have now been raised so high, that that type of athlete is rapidly disappearing as far as the O.H.A. is concerned. During the past year a number of roving hockey players along with several offending clubs, passed into the professional ranks where they undoubtedly belong.

Passing of Bill Fry.

With Mr. MacKay graduating to the presidency, Mr. Easson becomes immediate past president, and that means the passing of W. A. Fry from the executive committee, though he will continue a member of the past president's advisory board. Mr. Fry will be missed. Advancing step by step from the executive to the highest office in the Association, Mr. Fry showed wonderful ability in sport legislation. His broad but sound judgment in all matters pertaining to hockey and the welfare of the O.H.A. was at all times in evidence. It is fortunate, that as a member of the advisory board, Mr. Fry's splendid advice will always be available.

THEATRE

AT THE GRAND.

CAPTAIN PLUNKETT'S REVUE.

Captain Plunkett's Revue of 1926, is a real honest-to-goodness sister of the Dumbells, a charming, winsome, merry and lively little sister, who promises to be as popular with the playgoers of Canada as her better known big brother. The new Plunkett production visited the Grand last night and captivated a big audience with a sparkling performance that was another proof of Captain Plunkett's showmanship and his judgment in selecting casts.

The revue, true to its type, has a little bit of everything, and every little bit is good.

There is a clever squad of principals, a chorus of eight pretty and youthful girls who can dance and bow, a liberal dash of comedy, three or four spectacular numbers, typical Plunkett effects in staging and lighting and, as an added attraction, Canada's representatives at the Atlantic City beauty contest, Jean Ford Tolmie (Miss Toornto), and Patricia O'Shea (Miss Winnipeg).

The production was indeed so full of worth while features that it is just a little difficult to decide which should be mentioned first, so let us start with the youngest member of the cast, clever little Jeanette Garrette whose all-round dancing was a surprising and altogether delightful contribution. This diminutive youngster was featured in the Perfume number, where she danced the "Perfume of Youth," and later gave a charming number, "A Winter Episode," followed by an exhibition of modern "hoofing" that registered a tremendous hit.

Arlene Jackson, a captivating little comedienne "checked" in every one of her numbers. She started off right with her "Gimme a Little Kiss" number, and maintained the pace throughout, her pianologue being a feature.

Rance Quarrington's clean cut personality, pleasing voice and smooth acting, made him a stand out. He scored in "Eileen," a duet with Miss Haig was equally effective as a comedy number with Aileen Jackson, sang "Woman' in real raving style, and recited "A Game of Cards," with complete success. Quarrington was given plenty to do, and that was good judgment, for he is a find.

Another member of the revue who registered high in a quite different role, was Jimmy Reid, a Scots comedian, who out-Lauders Sir Harry. He had two comedy numbers that were screams, and then he showed his versatility by a straight rendition of a spirited Scots song, in which he revealed a most pleasing baritone.

A trio of fun-makers, Fred Kaino, Ermie Bruce and Curley Nixon produced a lot of new comedy stuff that caused many a laugh. Each had his own method but they all tickled the audience. Bruce in his monologue on his war experiences, made one of the biggest hits of the programme.

Jean Haig, possessor of a fine soprano, contributed several most enjoyable vocal numbers, and with Val and Vera Johnston, was heard to fine advantage in three trio offerings, "No More Worrying," "No Fooling," and the always popular Barcarolle from "The Tales of Hoffman."

Dancing there was in abundance. The chorus performed like eight Tiller girls, scoring a real hit in their Jockey dance and being equally successful in other numbers. Hilda Palmer earned hearty applause for her Spanish dance offering, and for her dancing in the finale scene, and Evelyn Geary was equally successful in her "Belle Nuit' number. The Card dance, a cleverly conceived and staged novelty, with Jean Haig as the singer, and Hilda Palmer, Evelyn Geary and Evelyn Moore as the dancing cards ,was a high light of the performance.

Miss Toronto and Miss Winnipeg, two types of beauty that are in striking contrast, were seen in the beautiful Perfume number, and in the finale were introduced in the bathing garb they wore in the beauty contest. Both girls were given a hearty reception.

Captain Plunkett has built up an altogether pleasing and decidedly clever production in his first revue of the kind, and it is safe to predict that the good things last night's audience have been saying about it to-day will ensure a capacity attendance at the Grand ot-night when the local engagement of the new Plunkett attraction comes to an end.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"YOU NEVER KNOW WOMEN" YIELDS HEART PHILOSOPHY

Perhaps the girl you want to marry merely thinks she doesn't love you.

Deep in her heart, almost unknown to herself, there may be a consuming devotion that only needs some litle incident to make it appear on the surface.

An illustration of this is splendidly shown in "You Never Know Women," a story by Ernest Vadja, famous Hungarian dramatist, that bares many of love's hiddent secrets and motives.

Florence Vidor, the star, didn't knew she loved Clive Brook, leading man, until he was thought lost forever,—dead. And Brook had given up his quest for her heart and hand too soon.

An amazing situation develops, one of suspense and danger, of crushed hopes and renunciation. But at the crucial moment those gods who guide the destinies of sweethearts bring about a meeting under circumstances that will thrill you to the depths.

Lowell Sherman and Clive Brook are featured. A complete vaudeville bill is part of the picture. William Wellman gets credit for an exception fine piece of direction. "You Never Know Women" arrives at the Capitol on Monday next.

AT THE REGENT

FILMING OF "THE FOUR HORSEMEN" A GIGANTIC TASK.

Twelve Thousand People in Cast of Ingram's Greatest Film—Is Praised Universally—A Vividly True Picturization of One of the most Popular Novels of all Times.

To the vast ,multitude of theatre goers who are witnessing the picturization of the immortal story of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," a Rex Ingram production for Metro-Goldwyn with Rudolph Valentino, and Alice Terry in the leading roles, its magnitude and costliness can be only partially appreciated. This triumphant return of this screen epic picture is now being celebrated at the Regent Theatre.

In this transferring this historical romance to the screen from the pages of the world famous novel of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, whose 166 editions have thrilled more than 20,000,000 readers Director Ingram undertook an artistic task whose gigantic nature was apparent even before the opening scene was "shot." In making this million dollar cinema premiere as adapted by June Mathis, practically every known record of the motion picture industry was broken.

New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, three key cities, representative of the middle and coastal sections of the country, immediately acclaimed "The Four Horsemen," as the greatest of cinema productions, rivalling in dramatic power and intensity the best offerings of the speaking stage. The popular verdict of these three widely separated cities, is being just as emphatically endorsed by other great municipalities where it is being presented.

The setting up of new records for motion picture producers of the future to equal or surpass, has come about through the very bigness of the story of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." Its characters work out their destinies on two hemispheres. From the Argentine, with its far flung ranges, to the capitals of Europe, the characters in this master work of fiction are faithfully portrayed on the screen as the story works out its tense human drama against the background of a world in arms.

A total of 12,500 men and women, or the adult population of a city of 60,000, participated in the filming of the picture, either before the camera or as workers on the big sets. The cast interpreting the roles in the most widely read book of all time, excepting the Bible, contains two two dozen principals, who in other productions would be rated as stars.

C.G.E. LADIES HOLD BANQUET

Softball Team Winds Up Season With Enjoyable Function.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Members of the C. G. E. Ladies' Softball team, with their parents, were the guests of the club at a banquet held last night, in the Paragon Hall. About 50 were present, and a splendid meal was enjoyed.

After all had eaten, W. J. Nelson, president of the club, gave a short resume of the history of the C.G.E. club, since its inception 5 years ago, and also told something of the 1926 season, which ended somewhat disastrously, the team dropping out rather than play two games in the Ontario series in Toronto on one day.

Miss Littlefield, of the Y.W.C.A., was the next speaker. Mr. Nelson in introducing her, remarked on the great assistance she had given the team, in caring for visitors. She congratulated the players on their success and clean play, and said she hoped to be able to put a team in against them in the 1927 campaign.

H. T. McFadden, president of the Central Ontario Baseball League, and Vice-President of the local Central League club, spoke of the seeming cycles in sports, speaking of the days when Peterboro teams won several O.B.A.A. team titles in a year, and expressed the hope that after the baseball depression existing at present, new blood would take hold and a prosperous period ensue.

J. E. Sullivan, president of the Peterborough Men's Softball League spoke of the necessity for co-operation and respect for authority in sport. He urged the girls to give obedience to their manager and to the umpires.

Jimmie O'Brien, business manager of the club, said that the C.G.E. ladies had been the best playing, best acting and best looking team in Ontario.

C. E. Curtis, who was in charge of Riverside park for the city, and Jim Coursey, who acted efficiently as an umpire, were also called on to say a few words.

Jack Pilling, manager of the team, spoke of the harmony that had existed all through the series between himself and the players, and urged that they give the same assistance to his successor He then called on Messrs Nelson and O'Brien to come forward, and Miss C. Taylor and Mrs Nixon made a presentation on behalf of the team.

The financial report of the year, presented by the secretary and treasurer, Misses Mabel McLaren and Annie Burns, showed a balance in the treasury.

The election of officers resulted in the return of all the honorary officers of last year. Active officers are J. O'Brien, president, W. Folger, vice-president, Florence Greer, secretary, and Manel McLaren, treasurer.

Dancing was indulged in for a short time before the gathering dispersed.

Each member of the team received a sweater coat.

The service will be in charge of the pastor, the Rev. J. D. Richardson.

O.T.A. is enforcable, says ex-Attorney-General Nickle. Mr. Nickle says: "While there are and would be difficulties to combat and overthrow, I am confident that the recognition by the trade and the electors of the determination of governments to acknowledge the fundamentals of the law, and to require observance, would surely and steadily win respect and compliance." This points the way to the sane, safe and statesmanlike treatment which the problem demands.

WEDDING BELLS.

KIDDELL—TENNANT

At St. Martin's Church, Montreal, by the Rev. Canon Howard, Annie E. Dixon (widow of the late John Tennant) late of Peterborough, to William Frederick George Kiddell, of London, England, now of Montreal.

WEDDING BELLS.

ROBERT JOHN YOUNG.

There passed away this morning at his home, 580 Bethune street, Robert John Young, after a long illness. The late Mr. Young was formerly employed by the Quaker Oats Company.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, two sons, Charles and Joe both of this city, and one sister-in-law, Mrs. James E. Slaughter, of 596 Donegal street.

CHARLES J TABER, JUNIOR

The funeral of the late Charles J. Taber, Junior, of Orillia, formerly of Peterborough, took place on Friday morning from St. Peter's Cathedral to St. Peter's Cemetery the Requiem Mass being sung by a cousin of deceased, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, and Rev. J. Finn officiating at the cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. George Rutherford, Roy Dixon D. Quinlan, P. Young of Toronto, Leland Wade and R. Walsh.

The deceased young man was the possessor of a very high character and was held in much esteem and love by a large circle of friends, who regret his untimely death. Many floral tributes and spiritual remembrances were received, among them a wreath from Cleveland, Ohio, several from friends in Orillia and a handsome sheaf from the National Hardware Company of Orillia.

IN POLICE COURT.

Pleading guilty to a charge of attempted suicide by stabbing himself with a pair of scissors, a local man told Magistrate O. A. Langley that he had been imbibing a quantity of home brew beer and blamed that for his temporary lapse.

KILLING METHODS ARE DEMONSTRATED

Great Attention Given at Market—Prices Fairly Stationary.

A demonstration of proper method of killing and dressing fowl, which was given at the market hall this morning, attracted a great deal of attention from vendors and patrons alike. Prices for dairy products were fairly stationary, eggs, which were very scarce, being priced at 60 and 65 cents a dozen, and butter at 35 cents a pound. Ducks and chickens were quoted at 23 to 25 cents a pound and geese at 25 cents. Clover honey was 12 cents a pound and amber honey 10 cents. Clover sections were 25 cents apiece.

Downstairs, on the open market, potatoes were priced at $2 and $2.25 a bag. Pork was 20 and 22 cents a pound and beef 10 and 12 cents. Pears were 40 cents a peck, Mann and Pippin apples the same price, and Baxters were 45 cents a peck and $4.50 a barrel.

Will "Life Long Tory" Please Answer These Questions

Under a two column heading in large letters in the Toronto Star Thursday appeared an interview with a PETERBORO MAN who was described as a life long Tory and who warmly attacked the policy of Government control.

Frankly there seems no limit to the extent to which this "uplift" organ of the Raney party will go in trying to bolster up its cause.

There are Conservatives who do not endorse the Ferguson policy. With them we have no quarrel.

It is every voter's privilege, indeed, it is every voter's duty, to take a stand on the important question before the people.

But we do object to a man being described as a life long Conservative who in election after election in this constituency has worked against the Conservative party and is having his views broadcasted over the province as the views of a Conservative who has just left his party on the present issue.

WILL THE GENTLEMAN SO QUOTED PLEASE ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS:

In what election did you vote for a Conservative candidate in Peterboro?

Did you not vote and work against the Conservative party in Peterboro in at least four campaigns?

Did you not sign the nomination of the Liberal candidate in the last Federal election here and speak for him at one of his country meetings?

Do you think it fair fighting and legitimate tactics to allow yourself to be described as a life long Tory, with the obvious purpose of deluding voters in other ridings? Is it fair to pretend that your desertion of the Conservative cause was of recent date and precipitated merely because you did not agree with the Government's present policy?

Do your associates approve of this trick?

Much of that sort of thing is being done on behalf of enemies of the Ferguson government in the present campaign and voters are warned to be on their guard against cheap tricks of this kind.

M'ARTHUR AND ROBERTSON ARE NOMINATED IN NORTHUMBERLAND SEVERAL SPEAKERS AT MEETING

Candidates Affirm Respect For Each Other as Battle Opens.

FRIENDLY CONTEST.

Sam Clarke and Mayor Nickel, of Belleville, Discuss Issues.

WARKWORTH, Nov. 22. — Northumberland's nominations here Saturday ran true to party plans in the proclamation of the names of the two candidates—

Frederick John McArthur, merchant, Cobourg, Conservative.

William George Robertson, dentist, Colborne, Liberal

Major J. F. B. Belford, last Conservative member for East Northumberland, who was again nominated, but resigned because he would not pledge his support to the Ferguson government control policy, was not present Saturday. John H. Noble, of Camborne, returning officer, presided, and announced that O. F. Allison, of Cobourg, was the financial agent of Mayor McArthur, and F. J. Wilson, of Colborne, represented Dr. Robertson.

In the post-nomination proceedings the two candidates spoke, and also Sam Clarke, ex-M.P.P. of Cobourg, for Dr. Robertson, and Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, for Mr. McArthur. Perhaps it was the approach of Christmas that was foreshadowed by the spirit of good will that pervaded the crowded hall and by the friendly, pleasant atmosphere in which both parties declared their reciprocal respect. In fact the combatants fraternized like the soldiers on parts of the western front in France under the universal emotion of Christmas.

Two light squalls interjected diversions that caused more amusement than excitement. They were mere zephyrs compared with the tempest at the federal nominations in September.

The name of W. F. Nickle, of Kingston, former attorney-general, provoked both incidents. Mr. Clarke had spoken of Mr. Nickle's fidelity to the O.T.A. and alleged that he had not been supported by the rest of the government.

In his five minutes' reply, Mr. Nickel began: "Why didn't Sam line up behind Nickle when he was in the House?"

Mr. Clarke got up and started to walk toward Mr. Mikel and the Referee's Whistle Blast Marks Opening Of Service

KINGSTON-ON-THAMES, England, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—One sharp blast of a referee's whistle from the pulpit startled the congregation in St. Paul's Church, Kingston Hill, when the Rev. A. Wellesley Orr arose to deliver his sermon. Instead of prefacing his remarks with a text of Scripture, the vicar explained that the whistle would serve as such, as many of the listeners were members of football clubs of the Kingston district.

"This whistle strikes terror into many of you, as I noticed by the way in which you jumped," the minister began. Pointing out out that he himself as a young man had been an association referee, the vicar proceeded:

"My refereeing appeared to annoy some of the players because they began to swear; so I gave it up, as it is no use making a man swear on Saturday afternoon and trying to do a bit of good on Sunday."

The pews of the church were decorated with football jerseys

U. S. OPINIONS ABOUT EMPIRE VARY GREATLY

Some Diplomats See New Power From Conference Proposal.

BREAK-UP FEARED.

Politicians, Diplomats and Officials Studying New Situation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press). — Interpretations ranging from the "beginning of the breaking-up of the British Empire' 'at one extreme to the "Beginning of a new epoch of power and influence" were expressed at Washington in commenting on the report of the Imperial Conference, says Carter Field, in a despatch to The Herald-Tribune.

Mr. Field's despatch continues:

"Diplomats, state department officials, and Senators were absorbed in a study of the new situation presented, it generally being regarded as of more tense interest and more widespread significance than anything which has happened in international affairs for a long time.

"With the United States outside the League of Nations and the World Court, the British Empire has been recognized here as the dominating influence in both. Hence, there is a great deal of speculation as to what the effect of greater autonomy granted the Dominions, and, incidentally, Ireland, will have on Britain's influence in world affairs, due to the concentration of the United States on the Western hemisphere.

"There are those who contend that Britain will become tremendously more important. Those holding this view say that by the new 'Magna Charta,' as one writer described the recommendations, Britain has eliminated most of the friction and many of the embarrassments which have handicapped her freedom of action in the past. From now on, those holding this view assert, she will be able to act with far less fear of the possible consequences of her action.

"Those holding a more pessimistic viewpoint to the inevitable conflict due to the natural differences of economic interests as between Britain herself and the Dominions. These are bound to occur, the pessimists point out, and will lead to a gradual drifting apart which may easily result in the final breaking up of the Empire when some particularly irritating conflict develops."

Press Comment

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—New York press comment on the Imperial Conference recommendations, in nut shell, follow:

"The theory of the veto power over Dominion legislation vasted in Great Britain—for years no more than a theory—goes on the dump heap."—New York World.

"Close inspection of the report shows that little is proposed except to make the old Empire move easily in the New World."—New York Times.

"The British Empire will probably go ahead in the old way, untroubled by theories and abstractions, renewing the vitality and tenacity which have given it prosperity and made it one of the greatest world states."—New York Herald-Tribune.

"The Dominions are young, strong, and growing. Now each Dominion is made officially the equal of Great Britain; the Dominions and Britain form an alliance, not an Empire with Britain ruling."—Arthur Brisbane, New York American.

Turks Ban Charleston As Ban To Health

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22.— (A.P.) — All kinds of maladies attributed to too much dancing of the Charleston have resulted in its being banned by the municipal authorities "as a hygienic measure."

Just to show that the authorities do not favor the Orient more than the Occident, the Minister of the Interior at the same time forbade public exhibitions of an Oriental dance which has been a favorite national amusement from time immemorial.

The dance is now considered "uncivilized,' 'although its devoteees assert it is actually mild compared with America's Charleston.

BRITISH PAPERS MAKE COMMENT

Some Express Disapproval, While Others Are Pleased With Report.

SUITS HERTZOG.

LONDON, November 22. Canadian Press Cable. — Commenting on the report of the Premier's Committee on inter-Empire relations, the Daily Express says "The report means a great deal less than many people are inclined to think. It introduces no great or far-reaching change. The report is largely designed to meet the position of Premier Hertzog, but it is plain that on the greatest of all Imperial subjects, the conference has accomplished practically nothing."

The Daily Chronicle says each Dominion is entitled to have its own ministers at foreign capitals, and the Daily Mail states that the right of the Dominions to make treaties with foreign countries is recognized, and thinks that with good will "there is no real reason to be alarmed."

The Laborite Daily Herald characterizes the Premier's report as a "masterpiece of evasion," while the Manchester Guardian says it is "truly British procedure and will be applied in the spirit of high statesmanship to the greatest and most original achievement of political genius.'

HERTZOG SATISFIED.

LONDON, November 22. Canadian Press. — Pronouncement of equal status for the Dominions in the report of the Imperial Conference, will satisfy South Africa, Premier J. B. M. Hertzog declared to-day.

"I feel that the object set before me to achieve at the conference has been attained," he said.

TWO ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION IN NOMINATIONS

Hon. Charles McCrea Returned in Sudbury—W. D. Black in Addington.

BOTH CONSERVATIVES.

Will Be Conservative Candidate in Every Riding Except Waterloo South.

TORONTO, November 22. Canadian Press. Two acclamations resulted when, in 112 constituencies of Ontario, official nominations were held on Saturday for the provincial elections on December 1st. Both those elected were Conservatives. Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, was returned without opposition in Sudbury, and W. D. Black was declared elected in Addington. The latter's election is protested by F. A. Anglin, Prohibitionist candidate in Addington, whose nomination was refused because of irregularities in his papers.

Candidates in favor of Premier G. H. Ferguson's policy of liquor sale by government permit, are in a slight majority among the 243 candidates oficially nominated. To the 111 Conservative may be added as likely to support his policy, eight independent Liberals, practically all the 8 independent-Conservatives, who are independent in that they are campaigning without sanction of the riding associations, and three Labor candidates.

There is a Conservative candidate in every riding except Waterloo South. In Port Arthur and Prescott two Conservatives oppose each other, and in each of these ridings a Liberal candidate is running. D. M. Hogarth and Frank H. Keefer, secretary for northern Ontario, are the contesting Conservatives in Port Arthur. Each was nominated at a Conservative meeting, and Mr. Hogarth would not withdraw when Mr. Keefer declined to. In Grenville, Premier G. Howard Ferguson is opposed by James A. Donaldson, prohibitionist. Kingston sees a straight fight between W. P. Nickle, Prohibitionist and T. A. Kidd, Conservative, following the withdrawal on Saturday of Mayor Thomas Angrove.

There are 17 three-cornered contests, and four candidates are nominated in Toronto St. Andrew's, while six candidates are contesting Toronto St. George's.

The 243 candidates in the 110 contested constituencies, are as follows: Conservative, 111; Liberal 52; Prohibitionist 29, Progressive 11; Liberal Progressive, 10; Independent-Liberal 8; Independent-Conservative, 8; Labor, three, and Independent, one

Leaps 555 Feet To Death From Top Of a Monument

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. A man, believed to be Henry Anderson, recently a patient at Soldiers' Home Hospital, jumped 555 feet to his death Saturday from the top of the Washington monument.

The man, a cripple, was shabbily dressed. He was waiting at the monument when guards arrived on Saturday morning, and went to the top of the elevator on its first trip of the day. Six tourists were passengers with him. When the elevator carried the tourists down, the man refused to go, saying he would wait until the next trip.

When the tourists reached the ground they found monument guards gathered around the body of the man they had left at the top.

RELIEF OFFICER RESIGNS OFFICE

F. W. Miller Wishes To Quit at End of Year.

EFFICIENT OFFICIAL.

City Relief Officer F. W. Miller tendered his resignation to His Worship Mayor Holloway to-day, to take effect December 31st. Mr. Miller is resigning on the grounds of ill health.

Mayor Holloway, on being asked about the resignation, stated that it would likely be accepted by the Council, and that the city would be a great loser, for Mr. Miller had been a most efficient officer for 30 years. His duties were not the most pleasant, but he carried them out in a manner that was always above reproach. He was trusted by the City Council, and what he recommended was always acted upon. It is the third time that Mr. Miller has wished to be relieved of this office, as he felt that his health would not allow him to administer the affairs of this important post properly.

FRENCH FRANC FLUCTUATES IN PARIS BOURSE

Rises on Wild Rumors From 27.69 To 26.37 To Dollar.

THEN SLUMPS BACK.

Suddenly Changes Policy of Five Weeks—Begins Heavy Selling.

PARIS, Nov. 22.— Saturday's session of the Paris Bourse seems likely to become historical as one of the liveliest ever held.

During short morning session the franc rose from 27.69 to the dollar to 26.37, nearly 2 francs better than the closing price of the previous day. But at noon, when the official exchange market closed, a sudden selling wave began which by 2.30 o'clock had sent the franc down to near Friday's rate and even beyond it.

Events moved at a speed which has rarely been equalled even in the French exchange market. At 9.30 o'clock this morning sterling was being quoted at 134.25, but for half an hour afterward it lost more than a point every ten minutes, reaching at 10 o'clock 130. Just before midday the lowest figure was touched, 127.75 to the pound and 26.37 to the dollar.

Wild Rumors Sweep the Bourse.

Then the selling movement began and the wildest rumors swept the Bourse. It was stated that the Government had taken a sudden decision to stabilize at 140. Amsterdam was credited, with some truth, with having begun to offer francs in enormous quantities and having completely altered its policy of the last five weeks.

When the stock market opened the effect of the rumors and of the sudden fall in exchange showed in hectic excitement quite different from the usual Saturday trading. Stocks which had been offered at a slump price suddenly became in brisk demand, all shorts rushing for cover. The market was just the reverse of the last three days. French rentes, which had been recovering with the rise of the franc, finished feeble, the 3 per cents falling back from 51.25 to 50.30, and the 6 per cents from 72 to 71. All foreiegn stocks with exchange value rose sharply, as did also French bank shares, rails and industrials.

The reaction is in many ways

THE FUTILE ATTEMPT OF THE PROHIBITION UNION TO DISCREDIT MRS. EMILY MURPHY ("Janey Canuck") HAS ADDED INTEREST to HER STATEMENT

"Before Government control became the law of Alberta I opposed it vigorously, both on the platform and by my pen. I was fearful that our last state would be worse than our first. It seemed only logical that if the restrictions were removed there would be more drunkenness and crime. No living person could persuade me to the contrary. I had a fine line of arguments on the subject, too.

After a period of several years in which I have been called upon to enforce the present Liquor Control Act, both as a city and provincial magistrate, I am bound to acknowledge that my fears were largely unfounded. There was not even a rush of inebriety as I had predicted, the people showing a remarkable degree of restraint. The condition was steadily improved—again, I say, not from any degree of spiritual enrichment on the part of our people—but because the law was well conceived and is being well enforced."

NO WONDER THE PROHIBITIONISTS DESIRE TO DISCREDIT THE STATEMENT OF THIS EMINENT TEMPERANCE WORKER!

Tonight's Rally in the Grand Opera House

REMEMBER the big rally tonight, by the young people—but open to old and young alike—in the Grand Opera House. It is being held in order to protest against the aspersions publicly cast during this campaign upon the morals of the young people of the province.

Main Speakers—Rev. Murdock MacKinnon, formerly of Regina, Sask., now of Toronto, and Harry S. Dodgsoni the young man who was chairman of the recent big meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto.

Come out and get the facts.

PREMIER FERGUSON AND "JANEY CANUCK"

In Saturday's Examiner appeared an emphatic denial by Premier Ferguson that he is a cousin of Magistrate (Mrs.) Murphy of Edmonton, as asserted in this department on Thursday. Before publishing this statement the Publicity Committee of the Prohibition Committee was informed by responsible parties in this city who have been personally acquainted with Magistrate Murphy for many years that this relationship existed and who assumed responsibility for the statement. These parties are making further enquiries. In the meantime we accept Premier Ferguson's denial of the relationship and express our regret for its publication.

INCREASED CRIME NOT DENIED

Notice this.

When the local Conservative Committee so quickly denied the relationship of Premier Ferguson and Magistrate Murphy, that was all they did deny. They did not deny that commitments to the two leading jails in Alberta—Premier Ferguson's ideal Government Sale Province—have increased over 500 per cent. under Government Sale.

In 1925 under Government Sale the commitments were...1332
In 1923 under Prohibition they were..... 217

Increase.....1115

Yet Premier Ferguson and his party hold up such Alberta conditions as a model for Ontario to follow.

MISREPRESENTATIONS BY CONSERVATIVE PARTY

In Saturday's Examiner the Conservative Publicity Committee published a statement by Sir Joseph Flavelle in an effort to mislead people into believing that he is opposed to the O.T.A. and in favor of Government Sale.

Why did they leave out the first sentence

The statement by Sir Joseph Flavelle, which they omitted reads as follows:

"If the responsibility were mine I would not choose Government Control, as now stated, as a reform for existing evils."

Quite a difference!

In letters to friends Sir Joseph Flavelle states he will be pleased if it is shown that there is strong backing for the O.T.A.

Why misrepresent Sir Joseph Flavelle's real attitude?

PREMIER THANKS THOSE WHO TRY TO MURDER HIM

Ballistic Attentions Have left Him Altogether Indifferent.

GETS BILL PASSED.

Promises Senators That Capital Punishment Tribunal Will Be Strong.

ROME, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press) —Thanking all those who have made attempts on his life for their "ballistic" attentions, which left him altogether indifferent, Premier Mussolini, in a brief statement in the Senate yesterday, asked and received approval of the extraordinary law of the defence of the state.

The Senate approved the law, which comprises several measures, among them the death penalty and trial by military tribunals, by a vote of 183 to 39.

This measure was approved by the Chamber of Deputies on November 9. It provides for the death penalty for attempts against members of the Royal family or the Premier and drastic punishment for opposition to the Fascist regime.

"The special tribunal authorized to inflict capital punishment will be appointed by me," said Mussolini to the Senate. "I can guarantee it will be composed of persons absolutely above suspicion, so that the tribunal will not be used for revenge but for severe justice."

FEELING IS HIGH IN VICTORIA S.

Charges Against Progressive Chairman Cause Some Excitement.

TOO MANY SCRIPTS.

LINDSAY, Nov. 22. — A storm has swept over the political field in South Victoria as a result of the sensational statement made by Mr. Joseph Boxall, a former Sunday School Superintendent, and one of the First United Church in this town. Mr .Boxall was chairman at the political meeting in the armories on Friday night, at which Hon. Howard Ferguson was the principal speaker, and in explaining his reasons for his belief in government control, charged the Liberal-Progressive party in the riding of being unwise in their selection of a chairman for the Drury meeting held during the week. Mr. Boxall read a statement charging that the gentleman referred to had, during November of last year issued 168 scrips; in December 307 and in January 127. He had an assistant in his office and between them, it was charged, they had issued 1,075 scripts in three months. The statement containing the figures was signed by the chairman and secretary of the Provincial License Board.

Never in the history of Victoria County has the feeling run so high as the result of the announcement made on Friday night.

U. S. CHURCHES TO USE DAILIES

Find Out How Many People Believe in God.

ELEVEN QUESTIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Churches of the United States are to use daily newspapers to find out how many people in this country believe in God.

The question, "Do you believe in God?" and eleven others will make up a questionnaire to be submitted to newspaper readers all over the country by the Church Advertising Department of the International Advertising Association early in December, it was announced yesterday.

The questionnaire to be submitted, besides asking "Do you believe in God?"; will ask these questions.

"Do you believe in immortality?'

"Do you believe in prayer as a means of personal relationship with God?"

"Do you believe in prayer as a means of personal relationship with God?"

"Do you believe that Jesus was divine as no other man was divine?"

"Do you regard the Bible as inspired in a sense that no other literature could be said to be inspired?"

"Are you an active member of any church?"

"Do you regularly attend any religious services?"

"Would you be willing to have your family grow up in a community in which there is no church?"

"Do you regularly have 'family worship' in your home?"

"Were you brought up in a religious home?"

"Do you send your children to any school of religious instruction?"

"Do you think religion in some form is a necessary element of life for the individual and the community?"

Newspapers are to be asked to print these questions daily and publish daily totals of the religious poll.

EXPERTS CRACK BELLEVILLE SAFE

Take $65 From Plant of the Coca-Cola Company There.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—Professional yeggmen blew the safe at the Coca-Cola Plant on Great St. James Street Friday night and secured $65.00 in currency.

The job was pulled some time during the night and was not discovered until employees of the plant arrived on Saturday morning. The door was completely wrecked by the explosion. The work is that of men well versed in the art of safe-cracking. They gained an entrance by means of a window in the garage where a hammer was secured which was used to break the combination.

Following this operation the burglars placed soap around the door and made a cup at the top in which glycerine was placed and detonated and the explosion ripped the door off, and the thugs seized the only cash available. In the course of the search they disturbed some papers that were in the safe.

The experts used gloves in their manoeuvres and left no clues for the police to work on.

The manner in which the job was pulled indicated that the men were experts in safe-cracking. The police are working on the case.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads—dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and rub with hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe and sure method.

DEGREE FOR PREMIER.

Cambridge Makes Mackenzie King Doctor of Laws.

LONDON, Nov. 22 (By cable from George Hambleton, Staff correspondent of The Canadian Press) —The University of Cambridge today conferred on Premier Mackenzie King, the honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws.

Tomorrow, following the official close of the Imperial Conference, Premier King will go to Edinburgh, where he will receive the freedom of the city.

On Saturday the Canadian Prime Minister will proceed to Paris, where he will take a few days' rest prior to sailing for home.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Rub it on with your finger-tips. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

PREMIER THANKS THOSE WHO TRY TO MURDER HIM

Ballistic Attentions Have left Him Altogether Indifferent.

GETS BILL PASSED.

Promises Senators That Capital Punishment Tribunal Will Be Strong.

ROME, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press)—Thanking all those who have made attempts on his life for their "ballistic" attentions, which left him altogether indifferent, Premier Mussolini, in a brief statement in the Senate yesterday, asked and received approval of the extraordinary law of the defence of the state.

The Senate approved the law, which comprises several measures, among them the death penalty and trial by military tribunals, by a vote of 183 to 39.

This measure was approved by the Chamber of Deputies on November 9. It provides for the death penalty for attempts against members of the Royal family or the Premier and drastic punishment for opposition to the Fascist regime.

"The special tribunal authorized to inflict capital punishment will be appointed by me," said Mussolini to the Senate. "I can guarantee it will be composed of persons absolutely above suspicion, so that the tribunal will not be used for revenge but for severe justice."

FEELING IS HIGH IN VICTORIA S.

Charges Against Progressive Chairman Cause Some Excitement.

TOO MANY SCRIPTS.

LINDSAY, Nov. 22. — A storm has swept over the political field in South Victoria as a result of the sensational statement made by Mr. Joseph Boxall, a former Sunday School Superintendent, and one of the First United Church in this town. Mr .Boxall was chairman at the political meeting in the armories on Friday night, at which Hon. Howard Ferguson was the principal speaker, and in explaining his reasons for his belief in government control, charged the Liberal-Progressive party in the riding of being unwise in their selection of a chairman for the Drury meeting held during the week. Mr. Boxall read a statement charging that the gentleman referred to had, during November of last year issued 168 scrips; in December 307 and in January 127. He had an assistant in his office and between them, it was charged, they had issued 1,075 scripts in three months. The statement containing the figures was signed by the chairman and secretary of the Provincial License Board.

Never in the history of Victoria County has the feeling run so high as the result of the announcement made on Friday night.

U. S. CHURCHES TO USE DAILIES

Find Out How Many People Believe in God.

ELEVEN QUESTIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Churches of the United States are to use daily newspapers to find out how many people in this country believe in God.

The question, "Do you believe in God?" and eleven others will make up a questionnaire to be submitted to newspaper readers all over the country by the Church Advertising Department of the International Advertising Association early in December, it was announced yesterday.

The questionnaire to be submitted, besides asking "Do you believe in God?"; will ask these questions.

"Do you believe in immortality?'

"Do you believe in prayer as a means of personal relationship with God?"

"Do you believe in prayer as a means of personal relationship with God?"

"Do you believe that Jesus was divine as no other man was divine?"

"Do you regard the Bible as inspired in a sense that no other literature could be said to be inspired?"

"Are you an active member of any church?"

"Do you regularly attend any religious services?"

"Would you be willing to have your family grow up in a community in which there is no church?"

"Do you regularly have 'family worship' in your home?"

"Were you brought up in a religious home?"

"Do you send your children to any school of religious instruction?"

"Do you think religion in some form is a necessary element of life for the individual and the community?"

Newspapers are to be asked to print these questions daily and publish daily totals of the religious poll.

EXPERTS CRACK BELLEVILLE SAFE

Take $65 From Plant of the Coca-Cola Company There.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—Professional yeggmen blew the safe at the Coca-Cola Plant on Great St. James Stret Friday night and secured $65.00 in currency.

The job was pulled some time during the night and was not discovered until employees of the plant arrived on Saturday morning. The door was completely wrecked by the explosion. The work is that of men well versed in the art of safe-cracking. They gained an entrance by means of a window in the garage where a hammer was secured which was used to break the combination.

Following this operation the burglars placed soap around the door and made a cup at the top in which glycerine was placed and detonated and the explosion ripped the door off and the thugs seized the only cash available. In the course of the search they disturbed some papers that were in the safe.

The experts used gloves in their manoeuvres and left no clues for the police to work on.

The manner in which the job was pulled indicated that the men were experts in safe-cracking. The police are working on the case.

DEGREE FOR PREMIER.

Cambridge Makes Mackenzie King Doctor of Laws.

LONDON, Nov. 22 (By cable from George Hambleton, Staff correspondent of The Canadian Press) —The University of Cambridge today conferred on Premier Mackenzie King, the honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws.

Tomorrow, following the official close of the Imperial Conference, Premier King will go to Edinburgh, where he will receive the freedom of the city.

On Saturday the Canadian Prime Minister will proceed to Paris, where he will take a few days' rest prior to sailing for home.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Rub it on with your finger-tips. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

M'ARTHUR AND ROBERTSON, ETC

crowd roared "Sit down, shut up." The uproar continued four or five minutes. Apparently Mr. Clarke was trying to say "I did."

Finally he sat down and Mr. Mikel resumed, "And why didn't he help Hearst?"

This time Mr. Clarke remained seated and interrupted, "Of course I did; I voted in the House." He was heard and was obviously satisfied. Meanwhile Mr. Mikel was speeding along intent on packing those few minutes with crushing comment.

Mr. Clarke had referred to a sale of timber under the ministry of Hon. Mr. Ferguson, and charged that the province lost a million dollars on the deal and that the money was ordered to be repaid.

Said Mr. Mikel—Not a cent of that money ever touched Ferguson's pocket.

"How do you know?" some one interrupted.

Mr. Mikel—Because your party had their watch dogs there and if he had they'd have found it out.

Mr. Mikel dashed that off with an air of "that will hold you" and some shouted, "What about Nickle"

"Mr. Nickle is a perfect gentleman," Mr. Mikel answered. He wasn't hurying along just then.

"I have not aword to say against him. Did you say time was up?" (turning to the chairman).

Mr. Noble assured him it was and that ended the discussion.

A Clean Campaign

"This is going to be the cleanest campaign in the history of Northumberland," Mr. McArthur began, "Dr. Robertson and myself are the best of friends and it is going to be a gentleman's game all the way. Nothing can be said against Dr. Robertson personally, and if there could be anyth g I wouldn't say it. We differ on some points but we agree on one point—temperance for Ontario. Some people are calling this a "wet and a dry" campaign. The words are used to create a certain impression. The question really at issue is the best way to handle the liquor question. I believe Dr. Robertson is sincere but I am just as sincere. We differ on the way this question should be handled.

I admire Howard Ferguson because he is standing four square on his policy of government control. He could have gone to the country on the record of his government and his personality and come back with a sweeping majority and not have touched the liquor question at all. He had promised a plebiscite, and decided to make this election a plebiscite. He didn't need it to get back into power but Mr. Ferguson said, 'I would rather retire than not have this question put fairly before the people and settled."

Mayor McArthur said that when the O.T.A. went into effect there were scarcely any commercial trucks in use and for one automobile then there were hundreds now. Conditions have had their effect, and "after ten years' trial," Mr. McArthur continued, "we feel the O.T.A. has not lived up to the standard we thought it would. That is why we are asking you to try something else, but even that something else will not clear up liquor drinking."

Advises Preachers

Speaking to the churches and to the people generally Mr. McArthur said, "We are attempting to get at sin from the wrong end. You must get at a man's heart and soul if you want him to live as he should. You can't legislate him into it; but you can legislate conditions and improve them. I am not trying to bring religion into this, but the preachers should realize that if they would spend more time preaching the gospel from their pulpits and less time trying to reform men by legislation more good would be accomplished."

Mr. McArthur said that unbelief in the world today was a vastly greater sin than intemperance. A weakness of the O.T.A. was its lack of that public support which laws against murder and robbery and other crimes received.

"I don't try to laud myself because I don't take a drink. Not one cent will be handed out in my behalf for bribery and corruption. I told my father I would do my best to come out of politics as clean I weit in. There will be no bribery or corruption by me or my workers. That is one of the worst of sins and the man who has to buy his way illegally into parliament shouldn't be there. I'd rather have one hundred clear votes than ten thousand you had to buy.

I solicit the support of the people and I'll be delighted if you do so. If government control is on the books I'll vote for it and if it is not twenty-five per cent better legislation I'll be the first to stand up and say this must be repealed."

Dr. Robertson

"I congratulate my opponent on receiving the nomination and I thank him for the very kind words he has expressed about myself. The sentiments he expressed toward me are exactly the sentiments I wish to express toward Mr. McArthur. When this election is over I believe the people of Northumberland will say that both candidates conducted themselves as you would wish of them.

In accepting the nomination of the Liberal party I felt assured that I had the hearty support of the Progressives and that I ould be endorsed by the temperance people. I mad my first hundred dollars as a farmer. In calling on all three it is possible that I may be your next representative.

In a criticism of the Conservative leader, Dr. Robertson said that Mr. Ferguson did not seek or take the advice of the rank and file of his party men like Major Belford and Sweet of Dundas. "Had he done so he might not be in the position he is in today."

When the Liberals went out in 1905 the province's expenditures were $6,000,000 as against $55,000,000 last year and the debt which was virtually nothing in 1905 was $320,000,000 in 1925. As to the government control policy Mr. Ferguson after taking his time in considering it, allowed only forty-one days for the people to discuss it.

"And he expects you and me to deal honestly and conscientiously with this question," Dr. Robertson remarked.

Mr .Ferguson's revision of his policy from time to time, said the doctor, did not commend the plan to the people. He had dropped the "beer parlors" and had shifted his position toward home-brewers.

Admires Youth

"What do you think of his attack on the young womanhood and manhood of this fair province Can you wonder that the young people in Toronto rose in protest and are spreading out into the country to show that the better living of our young people is right. There are always a few of both sexes willing to lead in the wrong direction. I admire the stand of our young people in showing Ferguson how he misjudged them."

"If you elect me it will be a pleasure for me to join hands with Mr. Nickle to see that the O.T.A. can be made a success. He left the government because he knows he can make a success of the O. T. A. To Conservatives I say you will find me behind Nickle. You need not fear about him having the cause at heart.

"It makes me sore to hear that some Liberals are deserting the party at this time, men I have fought shoulder to shoulder with in many campaigns. I believe they are sincere, but it hurts me to think they are not with us."

Dr. Robertson said he did not know how the "wet and dry" phrase worked itself into public speech and use.

With The Dry Dries

"Where do I expect to get my votes From the dry Liberals, dry Progressives and dry Temperance people." (The words dry temperance people were greeted with 'ohs' and laughter by the wits in the hall.

"The government control votes will be from the wet Liberals, wet Progressives and wet Conservatives. In the one case you have dry dries and in the other you have wet dries, seeing that the question is temperance vs. temperance. I expect the help of the dry dries. Mayor McArthur is a dry but he is a wet dry, and he'll have to wiggle and waggle in the Legislature if he gets there.

"If you elect me I shall do all in my power for sane legislation and the support of the O.T.A.

Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C.

"The doctor says we have had only 41 days to discuss this question," Mayor Mikel began. "Why we've been discussing it for four years. It seems to me that in press and pulpit the merits of the O.T.A. and government control have been considered for years. And I think 41 days are enough time for the people to realize what it means. If the doctor doesn't understand it I'll take him down to Belleville and give him a few instructions and if I can't I'm sure my friend Sam Clarke can.

"In regard to young people being led astray it is a good thing we have some one courageous enough to tell us," said Mr. Mikel. The publicity given to conditions did not originiate with Mr. Ferguson but with the Toronto Star weekly in a feature story December 26th last in which the details of the pocket flask method adopted by young people. Mr. Mikel told of having seen a socially prominent Belleville girl drunk at a public dance.

"In my day when I went to parties and dances I never saw such a thing. People who say I am slandering young people are shutting their eyes to facts. In know there are people who don't know these things. But when the Toronto Star publishes it when we ourselves see it, are we going to sit quiet? We are going to try to stop it. Of course there are people who say it does not exist. We'll never get any help from them who ostrich-like stick their heads in the sand and refuse to see.

Dr. Robertson made little substantial criticism of the Ferguson government and therefore that is a good reason why you should return them to power."

Mr. Mikel returned to the temperance question and stated that the distillery at Belleville has increased ten-fold since the O.T.A. was pased. Five million dollars worth of liquor is sold annually under that act and there are 33,000 homebrewers making a batch of five dozen bottles once or twice a month.

"We never heard of home-brewing before the O.T.A. The Dominion government permits it. We have not ontrol over the making of beer or liquor. It is foolish to shut our eyes to all this amount of liquor. You couldn't stop it with an army of policemen." Mr. Mikel said wines containing 19 per cent alcohol were also sold in this province.

"If there was anything wrong with government control in the five provinces that have it wouldn't some party take it up, put it in their platform and campaign with it? They'd be glad to take hold of it if it was unsatisfactory. This means that on the whole government control is working satisfactorily. It may be true that here and there you find an individual who doesn't like it, but the vast majority say it is working satisfactorily and the only opinion you can hope to get is that of the vast majority.

"Howard Ferguson is absolutely sure to be elected with a bigger majority than before," Mr. Mikel concluded.

Sam Clarke — Have you any money on that?

Mr. Mikel—Yes.

Mr. Clarke—I'll take some of it.

Sam Clarke

"Are these your notes?" Mr. Clarke began calling Mr. Mikel's attention to some papers he had left on the table.

Mr. Mikel (gathering them up)—My notes have upset Sam's speech altogether.

Mr. Clarke—Bshaw! If I couldn't make a better speech than you did I'd go and die. I'd never make another anyway. (Laughter). I knew my friend when he was younger and didn't make so much noise and flap his hands so much. I had some hopes for him, but I have none at all now."

Mr. Clarke's introductory "wise-cracking" kept the audience in laughter.

"Those of you who were here two weeks ago will remember that I told you Belford wouldn't go to the polls. Well, he's not going to the polls. The Tories made a beastly mess of things in their first convention. Major Belford beat them all, even my good friend, Fred Boggs, who opposed me three times.

Poor Fred had a mighty hard time of it in West Northumberland when he ran against Sam Clarke and now when the sun seemed to be shining a little brighter, if he got the nomination for the whole of Northumberland, he's turned down.

That's the gratitude of politics. Thank God I wasn't turned down, for I got out." (laughter).

Mr. Clarke said none of the Conservatives voted to abolish the bar, and Hearst introduced the O. T.A. because he was nearly scared to death by the committee of One Hundred in Toronto. Hearst brought in the O.T.A. and every Liberal voted for it.

"We've heard a lot of talk about today about what the clergy should preach, and that they should not touch temperance. If there is anything next to the church it is temperance and without temperance you can't have a good religious body. Go wet if you will, but don't try to handicap the church in its work."

Mr. Clark said Howard Ferguson proposed to "give you all the liquor you wanted and put you on your honor. Well I wasn't born yesterday. I was born 70 years ago. I knew this riding when every four corners had a hotel. There were three here and even Fenella had one. People got all the liquor they wanted but they got darned good and drunk. If any man tells you that conditions in Ontario are worse than they were twenty-five years ago, he doesn't know what he's talking about.

If you let slip your grip on conditions as you have them in Ontario today and Howard Ferguson has control of affairs your temperance question is gone. Now is the time for honest temperance men and women to come out and pull the old chariot along, not get behind and drag on it.

"Are you going to vote for a government control shop in all the towns? So they'll get all they want and yet they'll all keep sober. If you think of it that way it's the rottenest kind of legislation. Remember for fifteen years you have been trying to improve this province."

"You noticed that Mr. Mikel did not say much about Mr. Nickle? There's not a man in Ontario who understands the O.T.A. beter than W. F. Nickle. He enforced the Act for the last three years and he knows it can be made good. He may tell you when he speaks that it didn't make good because he had no sympathizers in the government."

Mr. Clarke said he heard it remarked that two churches were against the O.T.A. However, he had made investigations and learned that the United Church in Northumberland represented two-thirds of the total vote.

"I don't know what the United Church is going to do. I am sort of mixed up since we got Union, but after all it is two to one in this riding. Where is the United Church? Some one says it should stop out of politics. This, however, is a moral issue. It is left with you."

SAINT AND SINNER

CHAPTER XIII.

"I'm afraid you don't like anchovy," Faith said with her slow, sweet smile. "Won't you try the chicken salad? It's delicious. Mr. Pruitt was awfully kind to send all these lovely things. I wish you'd eat. You make me look like a glutton." Which was the grossest of exaggerations, for she had scarcely tasted the food.

"Was that anchovy paste?" Bob Hathaway grimned ruefully. "I couldn't have told whether it was deviled eggs or humming bird tongues. The truth is, Faith—you don't mind if I leave off the 'miss,' do you?"

"I've wanted you to—Bob," Faith said, and hoped her voice did not betray the quiver of delight that made her heart beat crazily for a moment. "The truth is—?" she prompted him gently, rising to go to the davenport couch, abandoning all pretense of enjoying the feast that George Pruitt had sent from the supper tables of his studio party.

"I'm afflicted with an urgent desire to talk about myself, to spill a lot of confidences upon you, if you'll let me. You brought it on yourself, you know," and he came to sit beside her.

"You're the sort of girl that spends most of her life listening to other folks' troubles, aren't you? You know something—I've been thinking about you a lot, off and on," he said with unconscious cruelty, but the girl did not wince visibly. "I've just been reading Eugene O'Neill's 'The Great God Brown,' and there's a woman in it—not a good woman, I suppose a girl like you would say, but she proves a tower of strength to the troubled soul of a man. Dion, his name was. He called her queer names —'Mother Earth'—things like that. I don't suppose I'm making myself clear. Faith, but that's a little how you seem to me, and yet I've only seen you three times altogether. Odd, isn't it?"

He looked at her with shy, wistful blue eyes, and ran an embarrassed hand through the crisp waves of his hair.

"I think I know what you mean," Faith nodded. "And—thank you. Now tell me the sort of things that your Dion could tell his 'Earth Mother.' I'll try to be—understanding."

"You couldn't help being that," Hathaway told her seriously. "Funny how I know that so well, isn't it? It's—it's about Cherry, Faith. You won't think I'm a cad if I talk about her a little?"

"No." Faith's lips stiffened, but by a supreme effort of the will her big brown eyes were still serene as she looked into his flushed face.

"You see, Faith, it's this way with me: I don't fall in love easily. There has been only one other girl, really, a cute little thing that I was crazy about when I was in college. I—I wanted her to marry me, and she—she promised. I found out—it doesn't matter how—on the day I graduated that she had collected ten fraternity pins that year. Engaged to ten men in one year, Faith! It—it almost broke me up. I've been off women"—he was unconscious that in his youth and inexperience he sounded humorous—"ever since then. Oh, I've gone about with the girls here and in Detroit, where I worked until a year ago, but nothing serious. I didn't want to fall in love—afraid of it," he confessed unhappily, clasping and unclasping his long brown hands as they swung between his knees.

"And now you're afraid you've gone and done it," Faith helped him out. But her heart cried, "Oh, he's being hurt, he's going to be hurt more! I don't want him to be hurt!"

"I—yes, I'm afraid I have." His voice was husky, a strange voice for a man confessing his love. "Last night—God knows I was never so happy in my life as I was last night! I—I kissed her, Faith, and she kissed me.

"God! I—I was crazy with love! I drove until dawn, couldn't bear to go to sleep and lose the feel of her lips on mine. And I was planning over and over how I'd ask her to marry me—tonight. I made up a thousand different proposals, like a silly schoolboy. And then—then—tonight—" He gripped his hands together so hard that the knuckles cracked.

"What happened tonight, Bob?" Faith asked gently, one of her strong white hands going out to touch those straining, locked hands of his. "Did she refuse you? I wouldn't take it too seriously—" She leaned toward him until her lips almost brushed the clean-scented, crisp hair on his bowed head. If he had looked up then he would have known—would have seen that her eyes were humid with love and pity and prayer for him. But he did not look up—

"I—I didn't have a chance to ask her. It was just before supper was served, over in the dining room of the big house, you know. Our party was in the new garage, where George has a studio fixed up. I had danced with her twice, and then I had missed her—someone said she had gone to walk about the grounds with Chester Hart. But Chester was in the studio, dancing with George's sister, Selma.

"I went out looking for her with a flashlight, to tell her to come in to supper. I thought she'd be my supper partner, if she hadn't already promised Chester. Faith," he broke off suddenly, as if he could not go on with a straight narrative of what had happened, "why did Cherry let me kiss her—like that—why did she kiss me if she was engaged to another man, if she loved someone else?" His eyes were tortured, filled with bewilderment.

"I don't know what you saw," Faith answered slowly, avoiding those stricken eyes of his, "but you mustn't take a kiss too seriously, Bob, whether it is given to you or whether you see it being given to some other man. Girls these days—"

"I've heard all that before; everyone's saying it," he interrupted her fiercely, "but I won't believe it, accept it. Why, I swear before God I wouldn't marry a girl who would kiss—like that—and not give her real love with her kisses. As Balzac says; 'When a woman gives her mouth she gives everything.' If Cherry is in love with that rotter, Chris Wiley—"

"Chris Wiley!" Faith sprang to her feet, her eyes blazing with sudden anger. "Was it Chris that you saw her with—kissing?"

"It was Chris Wiley," Bob Hathaway groaned. "The whole town knows about him and Helen Bailey. Oh, Faith! I feel like a rotten cad, telling you this. It will only worry you. I shouldn't have—"

"Yes, you should!" Faith told him fiercely. "My father had forbidden Chris Wiley to come to this house. I believe he would shoot him if he found him on the place. What happened, Bob? Tell me!"

"That's all," he told her dully. "I turned my flashlight on them by accident, looking for Cherry. She was in his arms—close—and he was kissing her—her arms were around his neck—"

"Did they see you?" Faith demanded, her eyes dilated with fear.

"I turned the flashlight out instantly Bob explained heavily. "I'm sorry I told you. I thought they were engaged, and my sorrow was that Cherry hadn't told me, had let me fall in love with her, had let me kiss her—"

"Cherry isn't engaged to Chris Wiley, Bob," Faith told him, her mind racing ahead of her tongue trying to find a way to ease the pain and to shield Cherry at the same time. "She has refused to marry him. I know that for certain. I believe he had lain in wait for her at the party tonight—I'm sure he wasn't invited; just saw her arrive with Chester, may be—I believe he hid in the grounds and waited for her to come out, then forced his attentions upon her.

What is your title to this picture—itcontains 19 words.

"I honestly believe that, Bob, for reasons that I can't tell you. I know she's afraid of him—despises him. You know how it is in the movies some times?" she went on rapidly, seeing relief spread slowly over his haggard face. "The man gets only a glimpse, it looks compromising, he jumps to the wrong conclusion—" She felt that she was being foolish, but in her desperate need to shield Cherry—whom she loved better than anything in the world, in spite of Cherry's selfishness—and to wipe that look of torture from Bob Hathaway's face, she could think of nothing better.

"Maybe you're right," he said huskily. "Maybe I've just jumped to conclusions. You—you're awfully good, Faith." Clumsily he caught at her hand, laid it against his hot cheek for a moment, as if to draw comfort from its coolness, then, looking ashamed and embarrassed because of all he had revealed, he groped for his hat.

"Bob, promise me one thing." Faith laid a detaining hand upon his arm. "Promise you won't go back to George Pruitt's party. You didn't take a girl, did you? Then go on home and sleep on this and don't take life so seriously —" she smiled at him with shy humor "—not even kisses.

"Whether you like it or believe it, girls do—flirt, you know. I don't mean," she hastened to say, because his eyes were clouding with pain again, "that Cherry was flirting with you. I know she likes you—a great deal. But she's young, and I wouldn't—rush things, Bob. She has a lot of beaus, and she likes several of them—a great deal. Be patient with her, Bob. Make her love you, if you can. It will be good for Cherry."

When he had gone, his promise given, the exultation of self-sacrifice, of shielding the irresponsible little sister that she loved, died down, leaving her heart pinched with pain. She flung herself upon the davenport and pounded a cushion with clenched fists, in an agony of grief and self-pity.

She had saved Bob for Cherry, who probably would not want him, who certainly would not marry him if—as she had boasted—she could land George Pruitt. She had given the man she loved over to certain misery. Even if Cherry should come to love him, should marry him eventually, she would crush the heart out of him, strangle his dear, boyish idealism, complete the job that that other little flirt had begun of making a woman-hating cynic of him. If there had been no Cherry, he might have loved her, Faith. He had come to her in his pain. He had said she was like that 'earth mother' in the play. She could have made him happy—

"Your Ma's woke up, honey. I think you'd better give her some of that medicine the doctor left. He told you how to fix it, didn't he!" Her father, looking dead tired and very old for his fifty years, stood blinking at her from the doorway.

It was after one o'clock when Cherry came home, flushed with excitement, brimful of news and gossip.

"And say, Faith," she concluded, yawning prodigiously, "what have you done to George Pruitt, anyway? Cast a spell over him? All he talked about when he danced with me—darn him! —was Faith, Faith, Faith! He says he's coming over tomorrow afternoon, this afternoon, rather—" she cast a quick glance at the clock, whose hands registered two o'clock—"and kidnap you for a drive, whether you want to go or not. I won't be working. Can I go along with you, honey?"

(To be continued.)

FOUR YEAR TERM GIVEN D'ANGELO

MILTON, Ont., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Four years in Portsmouth Penitentiary was the sentence imposed by Mr. Justice Rose on Bert D'Angelo, of Hamilton, who was convicted two days ago on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of William Maybee from drinking poisonous alcohol last summer.

Hugh John MacDonald, counsel for D'Angelo, pointed out to Mr. Justice Rose that the jury had recommended mercy, but His Lordship refused to accept the recommendation. The defense counsel had pleaded that D'Angelo sold the liquor to Maybee at the latter's urgent request. D'Angelo had given up selling liquor. His Lordship declared that D'Angelo had no right to sell liquor knowing that poisonous alcohol was in the vicinity at the time.

MONDAY, NOV. 22, 1926.

. . . REPORTER OF THE NEW . . . REMEMBRANCER OF THE OLD AND TRIED . . . HERALD OF WHAT IS TO COME.

IT MIGHT BE AWKWARD.

An eminent authority on constitutional law whose opinion on such matters is frequently quoted, declares among other things that the new status of the Dominions of the British Empire that may result from the proceedings of the Imperial Conference would mean that one portion of the Empire could remain neutral while the rest was at war.

That would be very satisfactory if the arrangement could be explained clearly to the nation with which the remainder of the Empire was at war.

Suppose, for example, that Canada decided to remain aloof from the struggle.

It might be just a little awkward to make the enemy of the balance of the Empire understand that we were out of the fight—in fact, we might get mussed up a bit before we succeeded in convincing him that we really meant what we said.

THE KINGSTON FIGHT.

It is safe to say that the returns from no other riding in the Province will be awaited with greater general interest than those from Kingston where Hon. W. F. Nickle, former Attorney-General, is running as an Independent Conservative against Ald. T. A. Kidd, the Government nominee.

Mayor Angrove, who had announced his candidature as an independent supporter of Government control, withdrew, the Liberals did not choose a standard-bearer, and the fighting has been left to Mr. Nickle and his opponent.

In his decision to stand in his home city Mr. Nickle has once more displayed the courage that is characteristic of the man and that has won him the respect of political foe as well as of political friend.

No matter whether they agree with his views on the O. T. A. or not, most people will admire the fighting qualities of the former Attorney-General as demonstrated by his refusal to accept nomination in a riding where an O. T. A. champion would be much more sure of election than in Kingston, which voted thumbs down for the O. T. A. in the 1924 plebiscite.

THE FULL-STOP BYLAW.

It will be a relief to motorists to know that the traffic signs to mark through streets are being placed in position, and that the bylaw will at last come into force.

There has been a considerable amount of confusion over the full-stop regulation.

Some drivers have been stopping on entering through streets, others who knew that the law would not be in effect until the signs had been erected have crossed as usual.

The result has not been altogether satisfactory.

However, the stop signs will soon be ready, and when the work is finished the regulation will come into force.

It will be the duty of every driver to obey this rule, and it will be the duty of the police to make sure that drivers who fail to observe the bylaw are dealt with.

The success of this regulation as a safeguard depends absolutely upon the manner in which it is observed and carried out.

It has accomplished much elsewhere, and should work equally well here.

CHRISTMAS CHEER.

With Christmas rapidly drawing near and the question of Christmas relief work soon coming prominently before the many local organizations which endeavour to provide Yuletide cheer for families in needy circumstances, the desirability of better teamwork in this most worthy task should be evident.

Most certainly some sort of a clearing house should be organized to link up the work of the different organizations so that there will be no overlapping, and what is more important, so that no family should go unprovided.

Neither of these two most desirable results can be assured under the more or less haphazard hit-or-miss system that has been followed in the past.

The task can surely be co-ordinated without dulling in any way the keen edge of the organizations' desire to serve.

The common slogan should be, "A happy Christmas for every family in Peterboro," and only by team-work can that slogan be made a reality.

Before the Christmas season arrives The Examiner hopes that a get-together conference will produce definite results along this line.

CANADIAN ATTRACTIONS.

Peterboro citizens had the unique experience last week of having four evenings of entertainment provided by visiting organizations, neither of which came from across the border.

The visit of the Australian National Band, followed by Captain Plunkett's all-Canadian revue, made this record possible, and the fact that the experience is unusual shows how dependent we are upon American producers for most of our theatrical fare and how much we owe to Captain Plunkett for giving us two such capable home-made entertainment organizations as The Dumbells and the Plunkett Revue of 1926.

These companies show that there is plenty of latent talent in Canada, and it is possible for Canadian producers to build up attractions that compare favourably with productions of wider fame.

And being home folks, they bring with them a touch that is as truly Canadian as the maple leaf itself.

The success of Captain Plunkett's ventures may encourage other Canadians to show what they can do in this line.

There is room for more productions of the same kind.

PSYCHOLOGY AND THE H. C. L.

Apropos of our remarks regarding Mr. Peter Heenan's one-cent-a-month victory over the cost of living, an erudite correspondent writes to us to say that the high cost of living is not a problem for economists at all, but for psychologists. Well, we're not sure that he isn't right.

Take, just for argument's sake, the cost of education. For some reason or other education has always been considered as enormously expensive. Nearly all of us remember the time when the Provinces did not furnish free books for their free schools; parents furnished the books, etc., while the Province furnished teachers and buildings. Under this system father had to dig down into his jeans for three or four dollars annually. The burden was terrific. Every September the heavens reverberated to paternal groans. Education, it appeared, was driving our beloved country into bankruptcy. The extortionate geography and the ruinous arithmetic were dragged into the arena for public excoriation. With tears of appreciation fond fathers gathered together to toast the coming freedom. Sometimes it happened that a fond father toasted the equivalent of two geographies and four arithmetics; but in the hour of victory, what matter? The Provinces were lifting the burden; democracy was being vindicated.

And take the present. The boys one sees driving grocery wagons or working on farms to purchase education are invariably hailed as heroes. Few persons doubt but that many of them will become Prime Ministers. At the very same time, however, one sees many other boys perform incredible prodigies of labor to purchase bicycles, tennis racquets, or radios. But these labors attract very little attention because bicycles, tennis racquets and radios are cheap. One can buy a radio for fifty dollars. A book may cost all of three dollars! And for some reason that three dollars seems much more than the fifty. Why, we do not know. It is a question for the psychologists.

All sorts of book are expensive—always have been. Years ago novels at one dollar each were luxuries for the well-to-do; people in moderate circumstances borrowed them or waited weary months for them at libraries. This condition has not changed. When a set of books is advertised for sale, if the cost goes above ten dollars it is customary to offer a contract for payment on the instalment plan. Few of these contracts call for more than two or three dollars a month. That is just about all anybody can afford, partly, of course, because of the high price of gasoline. And gas, of course, is terribly expensive; though automobiles are cheap. They are so cheap, in fact, that the possession of one costing less than one thousand dollars marks the owner as a poor man. No alert bond salesman bothers much over the owner of a flivver, but just let him peer into a home which has two hundred books, and what a prospect he sees!

Anthracite coal is another commodity that has never been cheap—from the point of view of the purchaser. We all were madder when we paid eight dollars a ton fifteen years ago than we are in paying sixteen dollars for it today. The coal merchant was as much of a robber then as now; his prices equally an outrage. Yet movies, somehow, are always cheap. Five cents was the first price most of us paid to see a moving picture. Presently the pictures cost ten cents, fifteen cents, twenty-five cents, half a dollar. Yet we never complained.

Likewise silk stockings. Twenty years ago silk stockings were rarer than knee skirts, silk socks still rarer. Good cotton ones could be had for twenty-five cents; for half a dollar one perched upon the pinnacle of luxury. Then came silk, and every girl, rich and poor, had to have it; and everybody thought silk cheap. The man who will threaten his wife with divorce if she buys more than one hat a season will think nothing of paying two dollars for a pair of silk socks. What is an economist to do with that?

And so with shirts. Within our lifetimes we have seen shirts go up from 75 cents to five dollars. But, somehow, one never hears much complaint about the price of shirts. Men like good shirts; just as they like good tailoring. So they buy on uncomplainingly. Yet they are different about cigars. The old-fashioned 5 cent cigar is as dead as King Tut. But while men love good cigars, do they willingly pay a quarter? Not on your life! They are so violent about the cigar outrage that millions of them have gone over to cigarettes. The cigar manufacturers can make out as good a case for their increase as anybody—and cigarettes are more expensive, anyway. No matter. Cigar prices are an outrage.

Men, taking them by the thousands, have a fierce, warlike resentment against any restaurant that charges them for bread and butter. These items, both expensive, they insist should be served absolutely free. They would never think of demanding a free glass of milk with their meal; but they want butter, lots of it, without cost. But they will gladly pay one dollar for a meal with butter thrown in that not so long ago they would have demanded for a quarter. It is strange.

Sport, too, is cheap. It has risen at least four hundred per cent. in our time. As youngsters we gladly paid a quarter to see football or hockey or baseball. Now we pay a dollar or a dollar and a half—and never complain. Some things never get high.

We could go on through a score of illustrations. But we have said enough, we think, to show that there's a great deal in our correspondent's contention that "high" prices are divorced from economics, and that, in most cases, it is our emotions that are paramount.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Apparently there is no lack in Toronto of people who would be willing to serve their fellow-citizens in the Legislature.

Everybody will be doing it this week. Making election forecasts, of course. Even the fellow who was a mile off the mark last time will try it again.

If we can get a hearing with so much clamour over the O. T. A., we'd just like to remind you that the Christmas shopping season is here.

Cecil Armstrong is once more a candidate in a Toronto riding. The former Peterboro boy must be going after Jimmy Simpson's record.

Messrs. Raney and Drury are campaigning together in Prince Edward. That is what you might call "Hiving the Progressives."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Wheat moved upward in price here Saturday, despite lower quotations at Liverpool. Expected broadening out of European demand for wheat because of virtual settlement of the British coal strike was something of a stimulus. Chicago wheat values closed firm, 1-2c to 3-4c net higher; corn 3-8c to 5-8c off; oats unchanged to 3-8c up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 15c.

Weaknes, which the corn market showed toward the last on Saturday was ascribed largely to undoing of spreads, a progress which involved selling of corn and buying of wheat. Besides, weather over the corn belt was better. Oats were responsive to smallness of receipts.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

All communications on political questions must bear the signature of the writer for publication and must be received before 1 p.m. on the day before publication is desired.

Editor Examiner,
Peterborough, Ontario
Dear Sir:

It seems we are to have a "Monster Meeting" in Peterborough of the Youth of the city and its environs. A sort of replica on a smaller scale of what was done some days ago in Massey Hall.

That's a pulpiteers' conception of ethics in politics!

I have just been shown the figures of the Massey Hall affair. I'm sure that we all agree that it is to all right minded people a pleasing sight to see an assembly of 7000 young men and women who are succeeding in living decent and sober lives, but we nevertheless feel that there are features in connection with affairs of this kind which furnish very serious cause for misgivings and harassing doubt.

The latest published Toronto census that I have seen, gives the city a population of 745,236, and the most recent figures that I have been able to obtain of the number of young men and women of student age is 139,100,—a trifle over 21 per cent of the entire student age population.

Mr Dodgson who was the chairman at the big meeting, is credited with having said that there were at Massey Hall 3,500. In the overflow meetings there were 2,500 in Metropolitan church and 1,000 in Cook's church—a total of 7,000 happy, clean living boys and girls.

I find that these 7,000 are of the entire 139,100 boys and girls of student age, just exactly 4.4 per cent. One would almost think that Hon. W. F. Nickle himself had engineered and arranged the meeting.

The pleasure in seeing this 4.4 per cent is really marred, when one gets to wondering about the 95.6 per cent who were not there, and I am sure that there were many times 4.4 per cent of fathers and mothers in Toronto that night, who were not made very happy over the fine show that was pulled off in Massey Hall.

Is this not a pretty complete vindication of the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson?

Even if only 10 per cent of the youth of Ontario have become victims of the silver flask, and its poisonous contents, is it not high time that the O.T.A. were made to give way to a better measure

The meeting in Massey Hall does not prove that 10 per cent of our best youth may not have fallen by the wayside—it only makes us wonder if even 10 per cent would cover the ghastly total.

The man or woman who first named the sabre toothed tiger as the personification of cruelty, had not met a professional prohibitionist, as we have come to know that variety of the genus homo today.

It would really seem that there is absolutely nothing that he will not do or say in order that he may acquire power and be able to force his ideas upon his fellow man.

What matters it to the professional prohibitionist that he break a thousand hearts, if he can only have his stupid way?

The ministerial section at least of the prohibitionist class have told us that they were called to preach, and that is what most of us ordinary mortals ave grown up to believe.

Why don't they preach temperance? Why the resort to law?

Good progress was being made along temperance lines, during the 40 odd years that I have been observing events, and true temperance was making giant strides until the birth of the O.T.A., and now all the good work of decades has been destroyed.

Why not let this old earth go trundling along as it's been doing these millions of years past

The farmer tilling the soil; the manufacturer and the merchant producing and vending their wares, and those who profess to have given up all for God, will find that there is still plenty for them to do, if they but just carry out the Divine command and go forth and preach the Gospel.

"Love thy neighbor as thyself, but leave his wife alone", is not exactly a Divine command, but it is Divine in its conception just the same.

There is just one other thing that I would say to all and sundry, viz:

It is bad enough that we see in such a large percentage of the youth, so much evidence of want of respect towards all people and all things; it is infinitely worse that youth should be encouraged in this want of respect by pulpiteers and professional prohibitionists, who feel that they require to use them as pawns in their game. But it is absultely unpardonable that these pulpiteers and professional prohibitionists, for the sake of temporary political gain, should incite in the minds of the young an attitude of disrespect in either thought, word or deed toward those whom the people of this Province have chosen to be their leaders.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson is the Prime Minister, and is going to continue to be the Prime Minister of the Province of Ontario. He is the chosen and elected representative of over 2,000,000 people of the finest Province in the entire British Empire, and it ill becomes any man, much less a preacher of the Gospel to refer to him other than with respect. In doing contrary to this, you follow in the footsteps of Russia. That is the way that they produced their "Reds" and it began there too with prohibition.

Yours very truly,
A. E. GUIDAL,

GRAIN MOVEMENT HEAVY THIS WEEK

Large Number of Trains Coming East To Relieve Elevators.

LINDSAY, Nov. 22.—A heavy movement in grain through Lindsay and Peterboro over the C. N. R. from the terminal at Tiffin is reported by local railway officials. During the past week a large number of grain trains have been passing to and from Belleville, and railwaymen are hoping that the traffic will continue for some weeks. All depends upon weather conditions on the upper lakes. The elevators at Tiffin are full of grain, while there are a considerable number of boats in storage. Congestion of grain in the three elevators at Tiffin is holding up the boats, in some instances the delays amounting to three days. This week the big freighter Glenrose arrived at Tiffin with a cargo of wheat. It was intended that she should retain it as a storage cargo, but it was later decided it should discharge and return for another load. One hundred and fifty cars are loaded in the C. N. R. yards at Tiffin to provide more room in the elevator.

C. P. R. officials stated today that the grain movement from Port McNicoll through Lindsay and Peterboro to the East was moderate and could not be termed a rush. Considerable flour is passing through from the West, and the grain shipment will continue until navigation closes on the upper lakes.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

HUMAN—LIKE US
By Dr. Frank Crane.

Do you know why pictures of a presidential candidate always show him trotting a baby on his knee, patting a dog, holding a fishing pole, pitching hay, or shaking hands with the man who shovels coal on his campaign special?

If you don't, I will let you in on the political secret.

It is not because being a first-class farmer, fisherman, nursemaid or good fellow insures that he will be a good president.

Not at all.

It is all because of a formula. And a formula that is not to be sneezed at.

It is: "Human—Like Us."

When it comes to votes, it is more important to have the constituency say, "He is like us; he is human"— than for them to say, "He is an awfully smart man."

Which opens a trap door revealing the inside working of human nature.

If you happen to live in Wichita, Kansas, you are more interested in a happening on the corner of Main and Douglas than you are in one in Times Square, New York City.

The reason: YOU are nearer Main and Douglas.

The pole of interest is yourself. As things get farther away from YOU your interest in them decreases.

So we are most interested in a great man when his life touches ours, when he does something we do, likes something we like, has little eccentricities like ours.

Thus the charm of anecdotal literature.

We like to read about the great Samuel Johnson turning around to touch a post because it was his habit to touch every post on his way down the street.

We like to know that the reason a millionaire newspaper publisher always wore a beard was because he was ashamed of a small chin.

We like to read that Stephenson, the inventor of the locomotive, got his relaxation in wrestling with his help behind his shop.

We like to hear that Henry Ford as the richest man in the world, spent days rigging up an old threshing machine he had used as a boy, and helped thresh the wheat on his farm.

We like to read these unimportant little details about great men because they bring them closer to us and our interest.

They make them seem human—like us.

No Home and no Friends

An all too common occurence in the police courts is the sentencing of a helpless old man for vagrancy.

"You see me here—a poor old man,
As full of grief as age; wretched in both"

He had money at one time. He earned good wages. He had his chance as other men had. But, repeatedly, any little surplus he managed to save was swept away.

Not at all a surprising condition when statistics show that 97 out of 100 men are still dependent on their daily wages or upon charity for support when they are 65.

Can you look ahead with confidence to your financial condition when you reach 65?

Deposit a small sum each year on an Imperial Endowment Policy and it will pay you a guaranteed monthly pension to keep you in comfort and independence after you are 65. Or it will provide a monthly income for your family should death call you early.

ACCUSE O. T. A. SUPPORTERS OF UNFAIR TACTICS

Government Speakers Complain Deceptive Literature is Circulated.

A BRADBURN RALLY

Judge Murphy Incident Basis of Another Charge Against Opponents.

Criticism of what they termed unfair tactics on the part of some of their opponents featured the addresses of the speakers at the rally in Mr. Bradburn's interests in the Conservative Committee rooms on Saturday night. The meeting was notable for the presence of lady supporters, who followed the speeches with evident interest. Addresses were given by the Government candidate, W. H. Bradburn, E. A. Peck, M.P., J. F. Strickland and V. J. McElderry, the latter acting as chairman, and all four speakers discussed the liquor question at some length, although they pointed out that there were other important issues that should be considered by the electors.

Mr. Bradburn commenced his speech by confidently predicting that the Government would sweep Ontario on December 1st.

The Government candidate then proceeded to deal with what he declared to be unfair methods by some of those opposed to his election. Reading from a circular which he said was being distributed throughout the city, and which dealt largely with the results that might be expected from the sale of beer by the glass and the establishment of beer parlors, Mr. Bradburn raked his opposition for attempting to delude the electors and becloud the real issue. He explained in detail the Ferguson policy of the sale of liquor and malt beverages through vendors on a permit system, and emphatically declared that the Government plan did not include the sale of beer by the glass. "I am sure that not one of us," he said, "would want to go back to the old days of the open bar, but the conditions are such in Ontario under the O.T.A. that something must be done to bring about an improvement. I don't believe the O.T.A.

KINGSTON, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press). — Mayor T. B. Angrove, who had declared that he would be an Independent candidate in Kingston in the interests of Government control, announced on Saturday his withdrawal from the field. This leaves the contest in Kingston a straight fight between W. F. Nickle, late Attorney-General, and Ald. T. A. Kidd, who is official nominee of the Conservative party.

W.M.S. ADDRESSED ON FORMOSA WORK

Missionary on Furlough Gives Talk To Roseneath Branch.

ROSENEATH, Nov. 20. — On Thursday evening of last week the W.M.S. was favored by a very beneficial address from Miss Haig of Balitmore, who is home on furlough from Formosa. Also the three appointments of the Roseneath branch furnished an excellent programme. Mrs. Fred Talling, Fenella, gave a splendid reading entitled W.F.M.S., What those letters mean:

W.F.M.S.—Women Folk Mean Something.

W.F.M.S. — We Find Money Scarce.

W.F.M.S.—We Find Many Souls.

W.F.M.S.— Welcome From My Saviour.

The meaning of each was brought out clearly and a good lesson given on Women's Foreign Missionary Societies.

A duet by Mrs. Albert Nill and Mrs. Howard Mackin, "Bread of Heaven."

Solo—"If You Could See Christ Standing Here Tonight," by Mr. Willis Dowler.

Reading by Mr. M. Davey, "Victory of the Sabbath-Keeping Western Indians".

Duet.—Mrs. Lily Turner and Mrs. J. A. Brown.

Mixed Quartette— Misses Jessie and Berenece Smith; Messrs. Eric and Alvin Kelly, entitled "Sinners Jesus Will Receive."

Duet—Misses Jessie and Berenece Smith, "It Was Spoken for the Master."

In Miss Haig's address she told of some of her work in Formosa and the ways of the people. There are twenty-five missionaries with two stations. There is always sone one away on furlough. "It seems a small number, but when we return home we see what a strong force is behind us, not only officers but also Auxiliaries," she said. Formosa is to be a mission under the Continuing Presbyterian Church. The people in Formosa are Chinese. The island belong to aJpan. It is 700 miles from Japan and is four days' journey from Japan to the island. It has a Japanese government. Thirty-two schools are managed by policemen. No mission work has been done among the Aborigines, who inhabit part of the island, and who are known as head hunters. The Japanese government will not allow any mission work to be done among the Aborigines, but some day the Japanese church may undertake this work.

There are five Japanese hospitals and public health doctors and mission hospitals. A hospital is one of the most efficient evangelistic agencies in Japan. It has a good medical staff, with women's and men's wards, and it is hoped to have a children's ward in the near future. There are some native helpers and an evangelist, who devotes whole time to the work for out-patients and who has a little chapel service for them. Policemen see that the mossionaries are protected and properly taken care of.

Formosa is somewhat advanced to what many foreign fields are. They have good roads ,electric lights and water system on all parts of the island. They have demolished foot-binding among Chinese since education is becoming greater among them. The Japanese are more clean than the Chinese and are more eager to learn the duties of housework and missionary work.

Formosa has a house-cleaning season. The policemen go about from one street to another and notify the inhabitants of a certain day to do their thorough house-cleaning, when all furniture, etc., is brought out on the street while the house is being cleaned. One street at a time is cleaned, and the policemen inspect their work before the furniture is replaced. It it is not satisfactory, they are told to do it over again. Some have learned the system of always keeping their houses clean, so that the work is gradually becoming easier. Opium is now under government control and is being done away with.

Miss Haig told of an old lady who came down from the forest, and was three weeks in the hospital and heard enough religion to think she did not want any more idol worship. She took home a character hymn book. She ceased to worship idols but could find no one to read the book to her. After a few years a man moved into the village who had been in connection with church work and who read to her, so that she learned and believed in Christ. Twenty years later some Chinese men passed through and they stopped for a meal. She invited in the people and held a service. Later a room was rented and a native preached is there now. Fifty are asking for baptism. The old lady was determined to learn to read and grew to be a close follower of Jesus Christ.

Miss Haig mentioned about the farming and had a miniature plough and many other curios from the Oriental land. She also told about the public sulphur baths, and that 80 per cent of Canada's sulphur supply comes from Formosa, also other products. What the Japanese are very proud of is long life, wealth, children, and many grand children. Miss Haig concluded by saying she was pleased to learn of the work done here by the Women's Missionary Societies and that Formosa would sometimes be remembered by the people from this district. Rev. Wilding acted as chairman. A silver collection was taken at the door, and amounted to $20.

The regular monthly meeting of the Anglican W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. J. T. Drope, and was especially well attended. President Mrs. Drope conducted the meeting, which opened repeating the W.A. prayer in unison. A hymn was sung. A Bible reading was given by Mrs. Thomas McCracken. Secial singing by Mrs. Braithwaite, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Blodgett.

Moved by Mrs. E. Timlin, seconded by Mrs. W. Coyle that a social evening will be given to the children on December 28th. Carried.

Moved by Mrs. Braithwaite, seconded by Mrs. G. Parker ,that Mrs. Coyle, Mrs. J. Timlin and Mrs. J. Webb be a committee to look after arrangements for the evening.

Moved by Mrs. Braithwaite, seconded by Mrs. T. McCracken, that Miss Marion Coyle and Mrs. E. Timlin be a committee for the play, "The Open Window." Carried.

Readings were given by Mrs. R. McCracken, Mrs. Braithwaite, and Mrs. Webb.

Arrangements and programme for the next meeting were discussed and the meeting closed with a hymn.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a social half hour was spent.

TWO MEETINGS FOR HASTINGS

Liberals Tuesday Evening and Conservatives on Wednesday.

HUNTERS RETURN

HASTINGS, Nov. 22.—Messrs. T. A. Walsh, J. F. McCarthy and T. A. Coughlan of the Hastings Hunt Club arrived home Saturday evening from Crooked Lake in Hastings County. Their party shot twelve deer, their allowance, and had a pleasant outing with no untoward occurrences except that one of their companions had to spend one night in the woods. Darkness surrounded him before he could make camp and he was forced to sleep under the stars. In the morning he saw that he was only half a mile from camp. The other members are due today.

Probably the last political campaign for four years will spend itself locally with meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Dr. W. G. Robertson, the Liberal candidate, will speak here Tuesday, accompanied by Sam Clarke, and Mayor McArthur of Cobourg, the Conservative nominee, is billed for Wednesday night with Frank Regan and G. R. Shepperd of Toronto.

Mr. McArthur is at Keene to-night; Hastings and Harwood on Wednesday; Campbellford on Friday, and probably Woodlee on Thursday.

Mrs. John Gorman and Mr. Patrick Jones were the winners at the progressive euchre party by the Catholic Women's League last Wednesday night in E. J. Lynch's Hall.

Former Duchess Says She Was Not Forced To Marry Duke of Marlborough.

STEP WAS HERS.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.)— While the former Duchess of Marlborough is reported to be in Southern France, 'The People' described in its title as "a weekly newspaper for all classes," publishes what it professes to be an exclusive interview with her in Paris, but undated, which throws a new light on the annulment of the Marlborough-Consuello Vanderbilt marriage.

The writer of the interview says he was able to obtain it "because of my long association with her family," he quotes Consuello, now Mme. Jacques Balsam, as declaring indignantly: "I say once for all that the suggestion of undue pressure is the foulest slander that could be uttered against my father and mother, both of whom thought only of my happiness, and would never have been party to the match had not they thought they were studying my welfare."

Admitting that she may have been a little romantic and easily persuaded in her own heart under the glamor of a first love that it was for her own happiness she was taking the step, she went on:

"But I want you to be clear. The step was mine and I alone was responsible for it. Disillusionment came soon, but that is my business, and does not concern the public. It is only because my parents have been attacked that I speak out now."

Consuello refused to discuss the decree of annument and added that although she had been besieged by reporters, she had given no other interview.

LINDSAY FAVORS BUYING SYSTEM

Council Will Not Recommend Purchase of Power Plant, Too.

LINDSAY, Nov. 22.—The citizens of this town will not vote on the proposition to purchase the local distribution plant from the Hydro-electric Commission at the forthcoming municipal elections, which take place on Monday, December 6th. The Council has held its last regular meeting of the year, and it was announced that the purchase bylaw would not be ready for submission to the electors until early in the new year. The Hydro submitted two propositions to the municipality—the purchase of the power plant proper at Fenelon Falls and the local distributing plant or the purchase alone of the local distributing plant. The Council felt that it had no assurance that the plant at Fenelon Falls was able to generate or provide electrical energy sufficient to meet any increased demand, and that it would be better business for the municipality to purchase the distributing plant and purchase power from the Hydro.

The members of 1926 Council have all signified their intention of seeking re-election, and the likelihood is that the Council will be returned by acclamation.

The Tone of the Music Itself is the tone of the Orthophonic Victrola when it plays the new V. E. Process Victor Records.

LITERALLY, of course, the Orthophonic Victrola has no tone of its own. The tones you hear are the tones of the singer or musician. The new Orthophonic Victrola neither adds to nor takes away.

Victor tone is the tone of the music,—not too thin, not "pinched" not too loud, not unnatural.

Correct volume that comfortably fills the living room. Not blaring, nor glaring like an unshaded lamp. Sweet, natural tones that fall pleasantly upon the critical ear.

The thing that makes this possible is "matched impedance", the new scientific principle of uninterrupted sound-flow applied to the tone chamber. This principle (never forget) is exclusively controlled by Victor. No other musical instrument contains it.

HOW THE PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVES LOCAL CHILDREN

Miss Hood Tells Rotarians of Work of Juvenile Department.

MANY QUESTIONS.

24,000 Were Dealt With in Reference Section Last Year.

That the juvenile department of the Peterborough Public Library answered 2,400 reference questions last year and that the circulation of books in the department had increased to 34,000, were interesting facts disclosed by Miss Gertie Hood, Children's Librarian, in a splendid address to the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today. Miss Hood's explanation of the work dong in the department was full of interest to the Rotarians, many of whom were unaware of what is being acomplished for children at the local library.

Miss Hood explained that the juvenile department had begun its work here in 1919. She stressed the value of children being early taught to like reading and of the importance that their inclinations along this line should be developed in the direction of a love for what is best in literature. She told the Rotarians of how the little children were started with a series of worth-while picture books and then introduced later on to fairy stories and folk lore. Interesting indeed were her references to the varied tastes of the children. Boys, she said, mostly preferring stories of adventure, although one boy asked for a love story, but protested it was for his sister. Miss Hood related some amusing stories of the mistakes in titles made by the children in asking for books.

She explained the system under which children were admitted to membership and were initiated into the mysteries of locating the books they wanted. The reference section of the juvenile department was much used by school children, she said, and altogether last year 2,400 questions were dealt with. In this connection she pleaded for greater support from teachers on behalf of the juvenile section of the library.

Miss Hood almost deat with the story hour held every Saturday morning during the winter months, referring to it as the hour most appreciated by the librarian, as it brought her closely into contact with the children. To parents who worried that the child's imagination might be over developed by the story hour, she would say that there was much more danger that there would not be enough development without such a stimulus.

Past President Jack Seels presented Miss Hood with a package of sweets, in expressing the thanks of the club to her for her splendid address.

Among the guests today was Mr. Frederick Bligh Bond, the distinguished English architect, who is to address the Women's Canadian Club tonight. Mr. Bligh Bond addressed the club briefly, pointing out that even if libraries were destroyed it might be possible to regain all the knowledge that was thus lost.

The Peterborough Rotary Club will hold an inter-city meeting at Lindsay on Thursday night.

KIRKWOOD FINED.

ORANGE LODGES ARE COMBINED

Two Campbellford Branches Will Operate Under Older Charter.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Campbellford Loyal Orange lodges held a joint meeting last Friday evening, which was presided over by P. G. M. Bro. H. A. Graham, of Kingston, the Grand Organizer, and was very largely attended. It was decided to amalgamate the two lodges which was done on Tuesday night, and a large gathering of Orangemen was present. The meeting was called to order by County Master Bro. William Goodfellow, of Codrington, assisted by Bro. P. G. M. Graham. They decided to accept the warrant issued to L.O.L. No. 36 in the year 1867, it being the thirty-sixth warrant issued in British America by the Grand Lodge, which the members considered a great honor to have in the town. The District Master, Bro. George Donald, then took the chair for the election of officers for the year of 1927, which resulted as follows:

W. Master—Robt. Innis, P.C.M.
Dep. Master—Stewart Nelson.
Chaplin—S. Abernethy.
Rec.-Sec.—J. I. Adams, P.C.M.
Fin.-Sec.—R. J. Wilkinson, P.M.
Treas.—S. Maguire.
1st Lect.—J. B. Stillman, P.D.M.
2nd Lect.—W. J. West, P.M.
D. of C.—R. J. Bibby, P.M.
Tyler—Thomas Hooper.
Committeeman—Wm. Goocher.

The officers were duly installed by P. G. M. Graham and will be the means of greatly assisting the Orange Order in Campbellford.

The lodge is holding its next meeting on Nov. 26, 1926, with a large number of candidates to be initiated into the order.

STEVENS FAR AWAY WITNESSES TESTIFY

Was 58 Miles From Scene of Murder, Several People Declare.

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—All witnesses at the morning session of the Hall-Mills murder trial testified that they saw Henry Stevens, one of the defendants, at Lavallette, N.J., the night Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were slain, four years ago.

Three witnesses, Arthur Applegate, Mrs. Applegate, and Howard Price, said they saw him about 10 o'clock or a little later. The murders are said to have been committed at New Brunswick, 58 miles from Lavallette, about that time.

Mrs. Anna Evanson, cook in the Stevens home, and John Piar, of Philadelphia, said they saw Henry Stevens earlier in the evening of September 14, 1921.

The state, on cross examination, attempted to show that witnesses were mistaken as to the date.

PEARL CONTEST.

Miss Grace Hawkes Winner of First Prize in Competition.

The "Bluebird Pearl Contest," which was running in the jewelry store of C. S. McClelland and Son during last week, aroused a great deal of interest, and guesses to the number of nearly 700, were received from all over the city. As the majority of those hazarding guesses did not give a reason for their choice, it was decided to draw out the slips in turn, the first three slips drawn bearing the correct number to receive the prizes. The sealed envelope contained a slip giving Pearl Number 43 as the real gem in the collection of one hundred pearls. There were exexactly thirteen lucky guessers of this number, the first three slips drawn out, bearing Number 43, getting the prizes, as follows:

First prize, Grace Hawkes, 216 Woodbine avenue; second prize, Ethel Telford, 78 McDonnel street, 3rd prize, Mrs. T. Davies, 215 Barnardo avenue. The prizes are three strings of lovely Bluebird pearls, in handsome cases, the first prize of course, being the best of the three.

Other guessers of Number 43 were Mrs. Karl Harrison, 30 George street south; Miss Frances Hynes, 368 Smith street; Miss Franky Dorris, 91 London treet; A. Brumwell, 201 Rubidge street; Arthur Hancock, R. R. No. 2, Mrs. George Record, 13 Cricket Place, Mrs. Pearson, 618 Chamberlain street, Mrs. W. Pomeroy, 171 Douro street; John Krogh, 114 Hunter street east, and Enid Watson, 182 1-2 Hunter street.

The lucky numbers were drawn from the box by Miss Catheleen McCarthy, of the Examined staff, and Mr. W. E. Jackson.

HOOVER URGES BROADER POLICY

Says To Spend Money on Waterways, Rather Than on Law Costs.

TELLS OF BENEFITS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—A broader national policy toward the development of the country's inland waterways and its water resources generally is now in course of promulgation.

This was disclosed in a prepared address to-day by Secretary Hoover here as the principal speaker on the Mississippi Valley Association programme.

After sketching the possibilities offered by the creation of a 12,000-mile water transportation through the heart of the country by the utilization of the Mississippi system, the Great Lakes, and the projected canal to the Atlantic, he touched upon the controversies involving the latter project with a plea for the expenditure "of money on cement and steel rather than upon courts and political agitation."

Engineering structures to maintain the desired levels of the Great Lakes he declared to be entirely possible and he estimated that a unified programme for completing the opening of the Mississippi system would cost $120,000,000 more than has already been appropriated.

Benefits to the whole country would come, he asserted, in many ways, one being better distribution of population, since relief from freight burdens would check the tendency of people to leave the interior for the seaboard.

ALBERTA CROPS GOOD.

Mr. Harry Long who recently returned from an extended trip in Central Alberta, reports excellent crops for the entire district. The rain, he said, had interfered somewhat with the harvest and as a consequence the grain threshed damp.

One farmer at Irma obtained a yield of 92 bushels of wheat to the acre. The variety he grew was "Supreme," which Mr. Long sold to him.

From beyond Edmonton, as far east as Sudbury the entire country was covered with snow on the homeward journey.

KING BENJAMIN DENIES CHARGES

Says Those Accusing Him Wish To Loot House of David Treasury.

BEING PERSECUTED.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—King Benjamin Purnell's girl accusers are "trying to loot the House of David treasury," the 65-year-old cult leader has charged in the first interview granted by him since his arrest last ... on charges of criminal assault.

Propped in his sick bed with a white night cap crowning his long silvered hair, the "seventh messenger angel" and "brother of the Savior" yesterday excoriated Mrs. Bessie Woodworth, former colony member whose tip to the officers led to the "king's" arrest, and the Bamford sisters, who swore to the warrants on which Purnell was sought for four years.

"People will do anything for money," said Purnell. "All my life I have had to fight against attempts to blackmail me, made by those whom I have sheltered.

"I am innocent of the charges against me. I hope for an early trial that I may prove it. They (his accusers) all lie. They have tasted the flesh pots of Egypt. They will do anything for gold."

Purnell attacked the character of the young women who charged that the "king" had taken advantage of them under the cloak of "blood purifying rites," while they were girls in the colony. He repeated the assertion of his followers that he is being persecuted. He declared he is the brother of Christ and that he is immortal.

Every deplorable situation in Ontario under O.T.A. is duplicated daily many times over in Government sale provinces. Bootlegging, illicit drinking, arrests for drunkenness. But Government sale has never produced the general sobriety and decency which is seen everywhere in Ontario.

FRIENDLY HOUR.

About Forty Girls Attend First Gathering of Season.

The first "Friendly Hour" of the season was held at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday, and enjoyed by the forty girls who attended. Miss Brownscombe led a helpful service on Friendship, taking Jesus as the Master Friend, and also spoke of the world fellowship programme of the Y.W.C.A. The following half-hour took the form of a song and story programme. Miss Gertrude Graham gave a very interesting story, Miss Velma Scott gave a piano solo and also played the hymns, and Miss Lillian Simmons sang a solo. Tea was then served around the fire and the girls left in groups for church.

An invitation is extended to all girls in the city and especially those ... home, to attend the next "Friendly Hour" on Sunday afternoon, December 5.

SALES AND BAZAARS

MARK STREET LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid Society of Mark Street Church held a very successful and well-attended bazaar and service of afternoon tea and supper, in the basement of the church, on Friday last. There was a splendid attendance, and the ladies netted a nice sum as the result of their efforts. The president of the society, Mrs. A. J. Throop, acted as general convenor. Mesdames. Matchett, Morton and Doxsee had charge of the sale of aprons; Mesdames Finnie, Payne and Cox of the fancy work; Mesdames Nigh and Spicer of the home-made candy. The service of tea and supper was supervised by Mrs. Ed. Wand, assisted by Mesdames Pomeroy, Clarke and Marshall. A "touch and taste" counter, with numerous mysterious parcels, was in charge of Mrs. R. T. Richards, and Mrs. I. Weir.

TIMES ARE GOOD SAYS MR. ROBB; GETTING BETTER

Finance Minister and Acting Premier Says Tide is Turning.

SHORT SESSIONS.

Thinks Parliament Will Not Be Anxious For Protracted Sittings.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—"One at Ottawa trying to put his finger on the pulse of the country can not but get the impression that signs of good times are not lacking," Hon. James Robb, Minister of iFnance of the Dominion, said in an interview during his visit here. "And it seems just as certain that still better times are in store for us during the coming year."

"Good times now here and in the future are largely due to a natural turning in the tide" Mr. Robb said. "We have the country with the resources behind it to demand our share of prosperity." Mr. Robb, who is acting Prime Minister, was of the opinion that there would not be two short sessions of the House of Commons this fiscal year. He believed the address from the throne, to be delivered December 13, would be disposed of by the day after. "If that is done", he said, "it is fair to assume that considerable latitude will be allowed in discussions when the House resumes after the Christmas holidays." He believed the House would agree to an adjournment after the different parties have caucused. "The last two sessions having been unusually protracted, the House of Commons ought to be in a mood to go through with this session's business in short order", he concluded.

BIG PAPER MILL BEING PLANNED

Abitibi Company Will Build 200 Ton Plant at Cochrane.

TO EMPLOY 500.

COCHRANE, Ont., Nov. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines in Ontario, has announced, on behalf of Premier G. Howard Ferguson, a large new enterprise for Cochrane in the shape of a 200-ton paper mill, which will be part of the expansion programme of the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company, which now owns and operates the 550-ton paper industry at Iroquois Falls.

The projected newsprint mill will employ 500 men and, exclusive of woods operations, the payroll will be approximately $650,000 yearly. Negotiations for the establishment of this industry at Cochrane have been carried out between Premier Ferguson and Alexander Smith, President of the Abitibi Company, and construction will be begun as soon as plans and details are completed.

FRENCH FRANC FLUCTUATES

natural. Ten points recovery of the franc in twenty-four hours was in itself complete indication of the instability of the situation and its openness to attack. The movements, however, during the session took larger proportions than that of normal checks. For a time the curious phenomenon was apparent of the franc rising in Paris and falling in London. At the end of the day, however, there was a tendency toward calm and the closing prices were less indicative of agitation.

In the press, discussion of the situation produced by the rise of the franc has during these last few days shown itself remarkably free from prejudice or interest. Among the manufacturers and those who while the franc was declining invested in foreign securities there is of course considerable outcry against too rapid improvement. The general public, too, is puzzled by the fact that prices are showing no signs yet of following the improvement in the national money.

But in general M. Poincare's preference for what he calls "revalorization within the limits of possibility" to any abrupt or premature stabilization has public approval. This waiting attitude has its disadvantages, as Saturday's session of the Bourse showed, for it leaves France exposed to speculative attack and abrupt alterations of value which are disastrous to steady business. On the other hand, the Government has assured by its large purchase of foreign valuta against any sudden attack driving the franc again to the depths from which it has been raised.

CARS COLLIDE AT BAILIEBORO

Big Car Passing Through Hits Light Vehicle Turning Round.

NO PERSON HURT

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 22.—On Saturday evening Donald Lang, of this village, was turning his touring car around in front of R. Harper's store when a big car coming from the north at a great speed turned in on the same side of the street. It struck the touring car near the front wheels and turned it completely around on the road. Before anyone could realize what had happened, the big car had taken its flight, and in the excitement there was no one present who succeeded in obtaining the number of the car.

Mr. Lang had driven up to the store and filled his car was gasoline, and was just turning around when the accident happened. Fortunately, he was uninjured, with the exception of being badly shaken up. One front wheel and the steering rods were broken, while the lenses were knocked out of the headlights.

Y. P. S. Met.

The regular weekly meeting of the United Church Y. P. S. was held in the form of a temperance meeting on Tuesday evening in the church. There was a good number of the young people present, and H. Dean presided during the devotional period.

Mrs. J. Jewison gave a splendid address on the O. T. A. policy, bringing out very clearly advantages of supporting and working to enforce to the best of the young people's ability the Ontario Temperance Act.

At the conclusion of the address the roll was called, each member having to get up and give some reason why they considered the Ontario Temperance Act to be the best policy. Many very interesting reasons were given by the members on why the Act should be sustained in Ontario.

WEDDING BELLS.

SARGENT—SCHROTER.

A very quiet, but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Schroter, on the upper Dutch Line, when their only daughter, Margaret Mae, was married to John Wesley Sargent, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sargent, of Warsaw, in the presence of the immediate relatives, Rev. Wm. Parker officiating.

The bride, who entered the beautifully decorated room accompanied by Miss Dorothy C. Jarvis, who acted as bridesmaid, was attired in a very pretty dress of blue satin-face crepe, with a wreath of orange blossoms set neatly on her head. Mr. Robert H. Schroter, brother of the bride, filled very acceptably the part of best man.

Following the signing of the register, a very sumptuous wedding breakfast was served, after which the party adjourned to Scott's Hall, Gelert, where an impromptu programme of vocal and literary selections was rendered, Mr. H. H. Hannah in his pleasing manner acting as chairman. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing, with supper served at 10.30.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a gold compact, and to the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

The happy couple were the recipients of a large number of valuable and useful presents.

The best wishes of the entire community for a long and happy life is extended to them. The young couple will reside in Lakefield.

MURPHY—LEAHY.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place on Tuesday morning at half past six in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, when Bridget, eldest daughter of the late Bart Leahy and Mrs. Mary Leahy of Douro became the bride of Mr. Vincent Murphy, son of the late Timothy Murphy and Mrs. Murphy of Ennismore. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Leo Leahy, of Madison, Sask, wore a lovely dress of grey canton crepe, trimmed with silver, black picture hat, seal coat and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses, and maiden hair fern.

The bridesmaid, Mary Leahy, sister of the bride, wore a dress of poudre blue flat crepe, black hat, muskrat coat and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses.

Mr. Frank Murphy, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left amid showers of confetti for Toronto Niagara Falls and Buffalo, and on their return will reside in Ennismore.

HOW TO FEED A GROWING CHILD IN WINTER.

Medical science teaches that properly fed children are never sick.

There are two classes of foods, "acid-forming" and "alkali-forming". These should be fed in proportions of one-third acid or two-thirds alkali, to keep the blood normally alkaline.

When too much acid-forming food is eaten acid accumulates in the blood and sickness is inescapable, in child or adult.

Dr. Robert G. Jackson, at 55 a physical wreck, is at 67 a vigorous forward-looking, youthful man planning years of strenuous effort. His great health change resulted from eating natural foods; nuts, fruits, vegetables, Roman Meal, milk. These can do even more for children in their developmental period. Dr. Jackson is dietetic editor, "Archives of Therapeutics", New York, a physicians' journal; advisor to "Defensive-Diet" League," a physicians' association. ACCUSE O.T.A. SUPPORTERS is enforceable. Raney had four years to try it. Do you think he enforced it?"

Mr. Bradburn, dealing with the question of doctors' prescriptions, read the figures from year to year, indicating an increase in spite of the fact that the number of scripts that could be legally issued by each doctor had been reduced. "There is an alarming amount of sickness in Ontario, especially around Christmas," he commented, as he read the statistics. "I believe that at least 80 per cent. of the doctars want to wash their hands of this business."

Briefly, the situation was that the sale of liquor was in the hands of the bootlegger and of the doctor and druggist. "We have no control," he remarked. "Don't you think it is time we had?"

Referring to the statement published by the Prohibition Union that Judge Murphy was a cousin of Hon. G. H. Ferguson which, he said, had been proved to be an absolute falsehood, the candidate declared that some of his opposition were not playing the game.

"This is a question of temperance versus an attempt at prohibition," said Mr. Bradburn. We are expected to be temperate in all things, but I am sorry to have to say that some of those opposing are not very temperate in what they say."

In conclusion, he pointed out that the only alternative to returning the Government to power was four more years of Raneyism. "Haven't we in this province had enough of Raneyism and Druryism?"

E. A. Peck, M.P.

Mr. Ferguson's Government control policy is wise and suitable legislation," declared E. A. Peck, M.P., the next speaker, who devoted the major part of his speech to a discussion of that issue.

First, however, he declared that the Government was entitled to be returned to office on its record and achievements which he pointed out were not being criticized in the campaign. It was important for the electors to consider how the Ferguson administration had cleaned up the mess left by the Drury Government, put the affairs of the province in good shape and given the people wise legislation."

Of the O.T.A. issue, Mr. Peck said the situation in Ontario was whether sale of liquor should be carried on through a legitimate or through an illegitimate channel.

"It is no difficulty for a person to get liquor under the present system if he's able to pay for it," declared the Federal member. "Here's an Act that hasn't been enforced because it couldn't be. Didn't Mr. Raney do his best to enforce it, and he's a fanatic on the question?"

Mr. Peck reviewed the progress made toward temperance under the Whitney plan of a gradual drying up of the province, moving step by step with public opinion, and declared that the O.T.A. had failed because it was intended to be prohibitory and there was not a sufficient measure of public opinion behind a prohibitory measure to make it enforceable. He pointed out the difficulty, even when cases were brought into court, of getting a conviction because of the reluctance of witnesses to tell the truth in such cases.

J. F. Strickland.

Mr. Peck's statement in regard to the difficulty of getting at the truth in charges laid under the O.T.A. was endorsed by J. F. Strickland, the next speaker, who declared that as a result of his experience in prosecuting under the Act, he had found that men whose word he would take on any other subject would go into the witness-box and tell the mast fantastic stories in liquor cases.

Mr. Strickland condemned opponents of the Government in Peterboro City for circulating literature dealing with beer parlors when they knew that the sale of beer by the glass was not part of the Government policy, tactics which he thought came with ill grace from those who professed to take a lofty attitude on the issue before the people.

Dealing with the difficulty of enforcing the O.T.A., the speaker declared that to tighten up the measure, as some people advocated, would intensify the trouble. "In that case we ought to be building an addition to the jail instead of to the Court-house.

Mr. Strickland asked his hearers to consider what kind of a Government there would be in Ontario were the Ferguson administration to be defeated. "A return of a Raney Government would be a very serious thing for the province," said the speaker.

V. J. McElderry.

"We have been endeavoring," said V. J. McElderry, president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, who was the last speaker, in presenting the issues in this campaign, "to be fair and to deal with facts. I wish I could say that for all of our opponents."

The speaker, pointing out that Judge Murphy had worked all her life for temperance and moral reform, said that her testimony on behalf of Government control as she had watched it work out in Alberta, was of so much importance because of her Dominion-wide reputation, that it had been considered necessary by opponents of the Government to attempt to destroy its effectiveness. The method chosen was to issue a statement to the effect that Judge Murphy was a cousin of Premier Ferguson's, and that her opinion had been given out to help her relative. This statement had been shown to be an absolute falsehood, and Mr. McElderry denounced the adoption of such tactics.

Judge Murphy, he said, had worked with all the energy and ability she possessed against the introduction of Government control in Alberta, and he then read to the audience her confession that she had been mistaken, and that Government control had succeeded. Confirmation of that fact, Mr. McElderry said, was to be found in the fact that in the last Provincial election in Alberta the question of Government control was not in any way an issue in the campaign.

Of the result in Peterboro or in the province, the speaker said, there was not the slightest doubt. "Victory is ours," he declared. "It is a question only of getting our vote out, and I urge you to help in every possible way so that the verdict on December 1st would be so emphatic that this troublesome question will be settle for twenty years at least."

Mr. McElderry, as an example of what he termed the vision of the Ferguson Government, described the Bowmanville farm for boys, and told how a new chance in life and the opportunity to grow up into law-abiding and successful citizens had been provided for youngsters who had got out of hand.

"Do you think a Government which planned an institution like that wants to debauch the youth of this province?" he asked.

"No! never," came from different parts of the room.

It was announced that Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Public Works, and Mrs. Howard Fallis would address a mass meeting in the Opera House on Wednesday night in the interest of Mr. Bradburn.

IN PETERBORO' CHURCHES

SACRED HEART.

The celebration of the seventeenth anniversary of the opening of the Church of the Sacred Heart on Sunday was featured in the evening by the presence of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who was back again with the parishioners of his last pastorate. He called back fading recollections of the days when the church property was a vacant park lot, the people had long distances to walk on Sunday, and were prevented thereby from assisting at daily Mass.

"I miss a number of those who were here seventeen years ago," said His Lordship. "Some of them have ascended the mysterious ladder of Jacob, and by the graces gained by being members of this church have gone to heaven. In my pastorate there was not one who died within the confines of the parish of whose salvation there was any doubt whatever. All these sweet children in front of me were not here seventeen years ago. I hope that the other parishioners who were here then will live for many years to celebrate other anniversaries. The parish has grown in numbers and in your adherence to God and the church you were loyal to the first priest and I shall never forget it. You have a beautiful tradition here of love and loyalty to holy church. I see those other faces before me now. Their influence will be felt, those good, old heads that were here in the beginning. They left behind that tradition of splendid, high, simple faith. Who will be here 17 years hence? The older men and women will be gone, the children will be grown to maturity.

"The biggest thing in our lives is religion. The greatest thing you did to-day is the service you gave to God. The biggest thing you do to-morrow will not be the money you make, though that is necessary, but the religious life you lead and the good example you give. It is a great comfort and privilege to be here with you."

The singing of the children's choir deeply impressed the congregation. Their progress was clearly apparent and their improvement was especially marked in their precision and clarity and by a little air of confidence that spoke of careful training. And their singing and demeanour were above all devotional. The girls were dressed in white with veils, and most of the boys were surpliced. The pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, said in the morning that eventually the boys of the choir would all wear surplices and soutans and would have places in the sanctuary if the accommodation could be provided.

The evening sermon was preached by Rev. Father Carroll of Toronto on the subject of the Unity of the Catholic Church.

An Attractive Style

Grace and charm are admirably combined in the desirable frock pictured here which is developed from satin with vestee, gathered flounce, and sleeve frills of lace. It would be equally effective if fashioned of georgette with self trimming or contrasting. Any home modiste will find this a very simple style to make, yet maintaining the latest mode. The front is in one piece, as is also the back, and the flounce is shirred to the dress on both sides. The set-in sleeves with attached frills, and the vestee are of special interest. NO. 1400 is for ladies and is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3 yards 39-inch material; 3½ yards all-over lace 27 inches wide. 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book, 10 cents the copy.

LUELLA

(By The McClure Syndicate.)

Luella is not the simple combination of Louise and Ella not yet Lulu and Ella, as many people suppose. It is a distinct history of its own. It appears early in Welsh genealogies where it is spelled Llew.

The first Llew was the king of the Orkneys, who married King Arthur's sister and was the father of Gwalchmai. From this name was formed the masculine Llewelyn of romance. Another Llewelyn came over to Ireland with Richard Strongbow.

History does not record when and where the feminine Luella was formed. It seems merely to have sprung up in England when the nee arose for a feminine counterpart to the popular Llewelyn who rapidly became Lionel under the magic touch of romance and poetry. Luella has had much more vogue in this country than in her native Wales. It is considered rather quaint and old-fashioned nowadays, but it is still in common usage.

The ruby is Luella's talismanic stone. It will keep her strong and healthy and will bring her material wealth. Friday is her lucky day and 6 her lucky number.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Fear of the love of a beloved one will never bring unhappiness to the husband or wife who wears today's talismanic gem, the beryl. Indeed it is believed to re-awaken love and restore tranquility to an unhappy home.

Lovers will find the emerald an invaluable aid in determining the truth of falsity of the vows of a beloved, according to an old legend. The stone belongs to Venus and is sensitive to the emotions. There is a curious belief, however, among the ancients that one who wears an emerald will likely be cold and unresponsive to sentiment. It is today's natal stone.

Light blue is today's color. It is advocated for use at weddings.

The yellow daisy is today's flower. It protects from evil the home which it adorns.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

JOHN STUART MILL AND MRS. TAYLOR

John Stuart Mill was a great philosopher whose works have influenced the thought of the world to a considerable extent, but all his philosophy and knowledge of human nature could not prevent him from taking another man's wife.

Harriet Taylor was the wife of a wholesale druggist, a kindly and generous man, who won her respect and affection, which was as much as she probably could give him, since her marriage was forced on her by her father. When Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Mill met at the beginning of his career, they were powerfully drawn towards each other.

The natural duty of Mrs. Taylor should have been to immediately avoid all further meeting with Mill but she did not feel equal to this task of denial and besides, she detested the thought of leading a hypocritical life. She thereupon confessed to her husband that she loved Mill more than him, and suggested the curious compromise of giving her friendship and companionship to both men in the proportions dictated by her heart.

Taylor's liberalism did not go quite as far as his wife's and he demanded that she give up Mill if she wished to live in her home. To placate her husband and her conscience Mrs. Taylor consented to a six month's vacation in Paris in the hope that the estrangement might prove that her love for Mill was not so deeply founded as she believed.

The experiment in heart healing had some little result but as soon as Mrs. Taylor returned from Paris she found herself as much in love with Mill as ever. Her husband, recognizing the inevitable, silently effaced himself from the triangle, permitting, however, his wife to live with him.

For twenty years this odd and cruel romance continued during which Mill lived in closest intimacy with Mrs. Taylor. At the end of this long period Mr. Taylor died and through this merciful elimination the lovers were enabled to marry.

The love that Mill and Mrs. Taylor bore for each other was of the most profound intensity. In a diary which Mill left there is to be found this statement:

"What a sense of protection is given by the consciousness of being loved and what an additional sense, ever and above this, of being near the one by whom one is and wishes to be loved the best. I have experienced at present with both of these things; for I feel as if no really dangerous illness could actually happen to me while I have her to care for me; and yet I feel as if, by coming away from her, I had parted with a kind of talisman and was more open to the attacks of the enemy than while I was with her. . . ."

The following extract is from a document signed and given to Mrs. Taylor just before their marriage; it is remarkable in that it shows the ultra-modern outlook on marriage and was written so far back as 1851:

"Being about, if I am so happy as to obtain her consent, to enter into the marriage relation with the only woman I have ever known with whom I would have entered into that state . . . I feel it my duty to put on record a formal protest against the existing laws of marriage . . . and a solemn promise never in any case or under any circumstances to use them. And in the event of marriage between Mrs. Taylor and me, I declare it to be my will and intention, and the conditions of the engagement between us, that she retains in all respects whatever the same absolute freedom of action, and freedom of disposal of herself, and of all that does or may at any time belong to her, as if no such marriage had taken place; and I absolutely disclaim and repudiate all pretence of having acquired any rights whatever by virtue of such marriage.

HOROSCOPE

'The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1926.

Uranus, Saturn and Neptune are in benefic aspect today, according to astrology.

It is a day especially favorable to keen intellectual effort and should benefit professional men and women.

There is a sign of great promise of aviation and there is a forecast of sensational improvements in air planes.

Mines today are subject to the best possible direction of the stars and it is well to push agreements while the average mind is unusually susceptible to reason.

Real estate is subject to good influences making for profit in new places.

Under this planetary government the mind should be alert and yet calm, serene, far-visioned.

London astrologers prophesy for the end of the year much anxiety in England regarding secret diplomacy and dissatisfaction on the part of foreign powers.

Again there is a prediction that food will rise in price and that America will send large amounts to far countries.

The stationary position of Uranus and Mars next month may be exceedingly menacing for New York as well as Cape Town and Rio Janeiro.

Hospitality now will be the cause of much generous spending and extraordinary extravagance.

New standards of luxurious living are prophesied and there will be new millionaires to contribute to the growing magnificance of living.

Spiritualism is to gain more followers and a new ghost story may be widely credited.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have to overcome obstacles in the course of the year, but on the whole they will have happiness.

Children born on this day will be sensitive and emotional. Their lives will be successful.

OLD MASTERS

Fair daffodils, we weep to see
You haste away so soon:
As yet the early-rising sun
Has not attain'd his noon.
Stay, stay,
Until the hasting day
Has run
But to the even-song;
And, having pray'd together, we
Will go along with you.

We have short time to stay as you,
We have as short a spring;
As quick a growth to meet decay
As you, or any thing.
We die,
As your hours do, and dry
Away
Like to the summer's rain;
Or as the pearls of morning 's dew
Ne'er to be found again.

—R. Herrick: To Daffodils.

THAT every business can profitably tie up to continuous advertising.

THAT successful business concerns have found advertising their best stand-by.

THAT consumers ask for well-advertised lines because they have found them the best at the price.

THAT continuous advertising of quality guarantees that the lines advertised are of standard quality, the kind that gives the best satisfaction.

THAT a great majority of the people have a habit of buying only those lines that they see advertised, and more people every day are getting that profitable habit.

THAT well advertised lines have proven their popularity by heavy sales increase and have made permanent customers and boosters for their business.

THAT continuous advertising makes a buying appeal to the most discriminating customer.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

Fine china undoubtedly needs fin9 washing, but many women now solve the problem of washing dishes by using only the rather coarser varieties that may be treated with a less delicate touch. There are so many charming sets of dishes in the heavy sort of cottage china, with designs in clear strong colors that will not be washed away as the finer sort of colorings are sure to be when washed with a somewhat heavy hand.

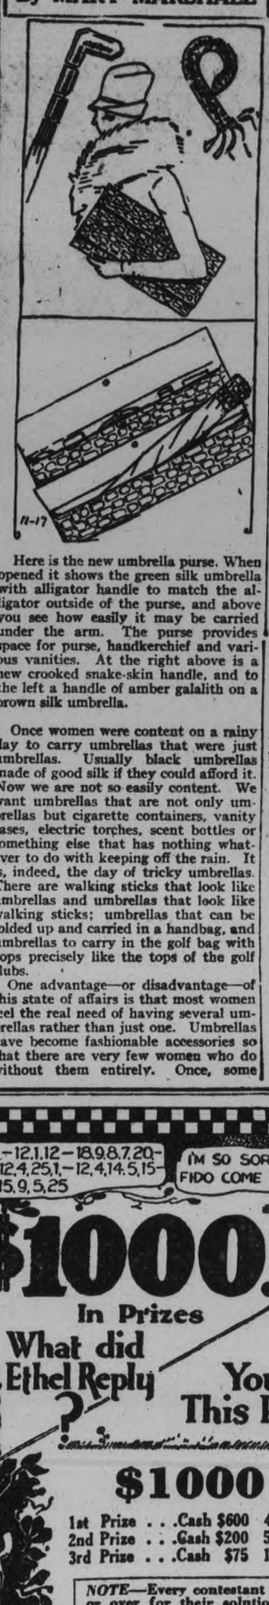
Very fine china trimmed with gold really should not be washed in very hot water and it should be kept out of the dishpan containing strong washing powders or over much soapsuds. It should be washed gently with a soft cloth, gingerly as you might a young baby, and not rinsed in hot water. Old-fashioned women liked—or were supposed to like—to wash their own dainty china, even when they had plenty of servants. Probably it sometimes took as much of the servants' time to fetch the little pan of hot water and wait on the mistress while she washed the dainty tea things as it would have taken to wash it themselves in their own way—and probably it would have been just as clean, too.

An old-fashioned rule was that fine china that had been used only for tea or dainty viands should never be put in the pan with greasy dishes. Dinner plates could not consort with such fine ware. There was good sense in this rule, too, and much time could probably be saved by the busy dish washer if she would invariably keep the rather cleaner dishes away from the dishes in which meats or other greasy things have been served.

Nowadays we seem to think more about having the dishes really clean and sterilized than of having them glisten with much polishing. Scalding water and plenty of it and an abundance of soap suds are about as good a germicide as you could devise. Kitchen drains are kept clean and flies not tolerated in up-to-date kitchens. If you have washed your dishes clean in an abundance of hot water and soap, and then rinsed them again in hot water they can hardly be anything but clean, whether or not you go to work to polish them so that they gleam and glisten. Silver, too, should be thoroughly washed in soapy water and should be scalded. After that, whether you polish the pieces every day or not, they are pretty sure to be wholesome and ready for the next meal.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



Here is the new umbrella purse. When opened it shows the green silk umbrella with alligator handle to match the alligator outside of the purse, and above you see how easily it may be carried under the arm. The purse provides space for purse, handkerchief and various vanities. At the right above is a new crooked snake-skin handle, and to the left a handle of amber galalith on a brown silk umbrella.

Once women were content on a rainy day to carry umbrellas that were just umbrellas. Usually black umbrellas made of good silk if they could afford it. Now we are not so easily content. We want umbrellas that are not only umbrellas but cigarette containers, vanity cases, electric torches, scent bottles or something else that has nothing whatever to do with keeping off the rain. It is, indeed, the day of tricky umbrellas. There are walking sticks that look like umbrellas and umbrellas that look like walking sticks; umbrellas that can be folded up and carried in a handbag, and umbrellas to carry in the golf bag with tops precisely like the tops of the golf clubs.

One advantage—or disadvantage—of this state of affairs is that most women feel the real need of having several umbrellas rather than just one. Umbrellas have become fashionable accessories so that there are very few women who do without them entirely. Once, some women boasted that they did not own such utilitarian contrivances. They never went on foot on rainy days and depended on the doorman with a big umbrella or a protecting awning when they hurried from motor car to restaurant or store.

Since the umbrella is a rainy-day accessory, it must be rather gay—covered with colored silk—red, blue, green or purple, and finished with a clever handle. All sorts of appealing little animal and bird heads are to be found. There are some new umbrellas containing little lockets in which the rather sentimental woman may keep a lock of hair or a small picture.

Umbrellas, with oilskin covers, chosen to match the color of the oil-skin coat with which they are worn, have been shown here and there, and ought to meet with favor among the college girls who affect the brightly hued slicker.

NOTE—Every contestant who gains 100 points or over for their solution of the puzzle will receive an immediate award in addition to any prize they may win.

Contest Closes Jan. 31, 1927.

How to Proceed

You can see that Ethel's stockings are in danger of being damaged by the little dog. Ethel's companion apologizes. What did Ethel reply?

There are 8 words in the reply. Each group of numbers represents a word.

Number the alphabet from A to Z. A is No. 1, B-2, C-3, and so on. The first word is "Quite." It is properly spelt. The first letter of the other words is in its proper place, but the remaining letters are misplaced. Can you solve Ethel's reply?

Rules of Contest

1. Send your answer in on one sheet of paper only. Write your name and full address on the upper right-hand corner of the paper. State whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss. Use one side of paper only.
2. Employes and their relatives or people connected in any way with the LEDON KNITTING MILLS CO., are barred from this contest.
3. A CONTESTANT MAY SUBMIT ONLY ONE ANSWER.
4. The decision of the judges will be final. The judges for this contest are prominent Toronto business men who are not connected with The Ledon Knitting Mills Co., in any way.

A Greater Friendship Contest

Nation-wide praise of the remarkable values of our "LADY LEDON" line of hosiery, lingerie, dresses and other knit goods (Direct from Mill to Wearer) prompts us to offer these large cash prizes for this fascinating contest. The object of this contest is to advertise and introduce our trade name, "LADY LEDON," to the many hundreds of people in Canada who are not yet acquainted with our high-quality merchandise.

This Is Not a Selling Contest

You positively do not have to sell anything in order to win any of the prizes offered for the best solution of this puzzle.

Failure of O.T.A. Also Shown By Enormous Sale of Flasks!

Toronto Star Weekly discloses shocking conditions—

THE necessity for a sane temperance policy, as proposed by Premier Ferguson, is clearly indicated in this full page article from the Toronto "Star Weekly" of Dec. 26, 1925.

That many young people of Ontario have been corrupted under the O.T.A. is frankly admitted by the very newspaper which is now most insistent on its continuance. Ontario is in need of Temperance Legislation which will gain the respect, the endorsement and the support of its youth.

PETES WIN ROUND BY DEFEATING PENETANG IN THE RETURN GAME

Local Crew Were Much Better Team Throughout Whole Play.

SCORE OF 29 TO 1

Overwhelm Penetang by Scoring Twelve in Last Fifteen Minutes.

Going into action fourteen points down as the result of a 21 to 7 lacing at Penetang the week before, the Peterborough Juniors played fine football in the return game here Saturday afternoon, winning the fixture in hollow fashion by 29 points to 1 and the round by 36 to 22.

While the big score scarcely does justice to the determined effort made by the Northerners to hold their lead, the Petes were nevertheless much the better team on the day's play.

They knew more football than their opponents, had a better repertoire of plays, tackled much more effectively in the open field and in Bookhout and Westbrook had a ground-gaining pair much superior to anything Penetang had to offer. The visitors, too, suffered severely from penalties for offside play.

The Peterborough youngsters were on top in every period, leading by 6 to 0 at the end of the first period and 12 to nil at the close of the second. They overhauled the visitors on the round before the third quarter ended and in the last fifteen minutes overwhelmed the Penetang crew by scoring twelve points.

While every Peterborough player turned in a nice card, the individual honors of the day went to Bookhout and Gore. Bookhout did the punting for his team, was a stone-wall defensively, scored three tries, on one of which he ran 80 yards, and his crashing drives at the Penetang line took a lot out of the visitors. Gore's tackling, low, accurate and deadly, was as fine an exhibition in that line as has been seen here in many a moon. The ball carrier was stopped in his tracks when the Petes' flying wing sailed at him. Gore also shone offensively with some nice gains.

Westbrook came into his own in the last quarter with some beautiful runs. Jack LeBarr was always prominent. Quarter back Fraser handled his team smartly, and the Petes' wing line was effective in every position.

Penetang fielded a husky crew and fought with every ounce to stay in the running. Their list of plays was limited, however, and although at times Dube and Parker hit the line for good gains and Fahey ripped through on several occasions, the Peterborough line smothered most of the plunges and Penetang had nothing else to present. In desperation they tried onside kicks frequently in the last period, but had no luck with this form of offensive. Dube and Parker were their outstanding performers with Fahey doing nice work, although he got little protection when called upon to kick, the Peterborough line blocking three punts during the game.

The Petes, by reason of their clean-cut victory which, despite the wintry weather conditions, was witnessed by a good crowd, will move into the next round of the Junior O.R.F.U. series.

The line-up:

Peterborough.—

Flying wings—Gore and LeBarr.
Halves—Bookhout, Westbrook.
Quarter—Fraser.
Snap—Goheen.
Inside wings—Fawcett, Miller.
Middle wings—Ashmore, Yelland.
Outside wings—Henry, Hall.
Subs.—McLeish, Mackness, Robertson, Fleming, Ham, Barnett.

Penetang:—

Flying wing—Tessier.
Halves—Todd, Parker, Dube.
Quarter—Fahey.
Snap—Copeland.
Inside wings.—Kerr, Terrepell.
Middle wings—Decure, P. Thompson.
Outside wings — Gignac, E. Thompson.
Subs.—Devaler, McIntaggart.
Referee—Bobby Armstrong, Toronto.
Umpire—C. S. Brown, Peterboro.

Peterborough got away to a flying start by scoring a touchdown in the first few minutes of play. The Petes kicked off and took the ball from the visitors on downs on Penetang's 30-yard line. A good gain by Gore and a series of successful plunges carried the ball close to the visitors' line and Bookhout crashed over for a touchdown which Lebarr just failed to convert.
